NOTICE.

BIBLIOTHECA INDICA

PUBLISHED BY

THE ASIATIC SOCIETY OF BENGAL.

THE Bibliotheca Indica is a collection of works belonging to or treating of Oriental literatures and contains original text editions as well as translations into English, and also bibliographies, dictionaries, grammars and studies.

The publication was started in 1849, and consists of an Old and a New Series. The New Series was begun in 1860, and is still running.

As a rule the issues in the series consist of fascicles of 96 or 100 pages print, though occasionally numbers are issued of double, triple or larger bulk, and in a few cases even entire works have been published under a single issue number. Several different works are always simultaneously in progress. Each issue bears a consecutive issue number. The Old Series consists of 265 issues; in the New Series, till January 1st, 1926, inclusive, 1484 issues have been published. These 1749 issues represent 240 different works; these works again represent the following literatures:—

Sanskrit, Prakrit.
Rājasthānī, Kāshmīrī, Hindī.
Tibetan.
Arabic, Persian.

Several works published are partly or wholly sold out, others are still incomplete and in progress. A few works, though incomplete, have been discontinued.

Two price lists concerning the Bibliotheca Indica are available and may be had on application. One describes the Sanskritic and the other the Islamic works published in the series. These list are revised annually.

The standard sizes of the Bibliotheca Indica are three:—

Demy (or small) octavo.
Royal (or large) octavo.
Quarto.

The prices of the Bibliotheca Indica as revised in 1923 are based (with some exceptions) on the following scale per unit of 96 or 100 pages in a fascicle as the case may be:—

PREFACE.

This volume completes the description of the Persian Manuscripts in the library of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, and deals with those belonging to the so-called "Curzon Collection."

This collection is the result of an attempt to acquire by purchase such valuable Persian and Arabic MSS. as could still be traced to the possession of small private owners in India. Such MSS. not only remain inaccessible to students and therefore useless to research, but they are also in constant danger of rapid decay or complete disappearance. The idea of making this attempt, aided by financial grants from the Government of India, is due to Sir E. Denison Ross, who at the time of suggesting it, in 1903, was the Philological Secretary to the Society. The Government—no doubt favourably influenced by the then Viceroy, Lord Curzon of Kedleston, who took a warm interest in the scheme and wholeheartedly supported it—sanctioned the necessary grants in the next year (1904).[1]

The Council of the Society, in honour of the memory of Lord Curzon, has resolved to name the collection the "Curzon Collection," in supersession of its previous informal designation as the "Government Collection."

To show likewise its deep appreciation of the far-sighted policy of Sir E. Denison Ross, to whom the creation of the collection is due in equal measure, the Council furthermore resolved to dedicate the present volume to him, in order to perpetuate the memory of his signal service to scholarship.

Since the inception of the scheme till 1910 a large number of MSS. have been purchased. After that year, when Sir E. Denison Ross left India, the details of the undertaking have undergone various modifications. The rapid growth of the collection necessitated limitation in new acquisition, and the available money from 1910 to 1923 has been largely devoted to work in connection with the arrangement and administration of the volumes acquired. From 1910 to 1923 only about 70 volumes were added to the collection. Since 1923 new purchases have been resumed on a larger scale and about 40 new volumes have been acquired annually. Of these latest acquisitions a fair number (10 [2]) belong to those included in the list of rarer works given below.

At present the collection contains 712 manuscript volumes

1 Letter No. 880, dated the 14th June, 1904.
2 Namely Nos. 315, 332, 398, 446, 525, 574, 692, 694, 702, 708.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

of Persian works, which are described in the present Catalogue, and, in addition, about 1,000 volumes of Arabic and Urdu MSS. Since the beginning of the collection two lists of acquisitions have been published.

(1) A list of Arabic and Persian MSS. acquired during 1903–1907 (1106 nos.).

(2) The same, during 1908-1910 (540 nos.).[1]

A group of MSS. belonging to the earlier purchases has remained without a printed list, as have also the latest acquisitions, as their list has not yet been closed.

Attempts have been made before to compile a descriptive catalogue, but without definite results.

The compilation of the present Catalogue was begun on the 1st July, 1924, after the completion of the Catalogue of the older Persian collection of the Society.[2] The working conditions have considerably improved, and this circumstance has enabled the making of a closer study of every manuscript, here described, than was possible in the case of the work on the older collection.

The principles on which this Catalogue is compiled, are generally the same as those of the preceding one, which have been unanimously approved by many leading specialists.[3] A great number of minor improvements have been introduced, however, in the technical details of the work. They will be explained further on.

Although the present Catalogue is quite independent from the preceding one, dealing with the older Persian collection, it seemed advisable, for the sake of economy in space, not to give again a full description of the works which have already been fully dealt with in the previous publication. For these works only references are given to that Catalogue. Students working in this library, will obviously find no inconvenience in this.

The works here described belong chiefly to the Muhammadan literature produced in India. The rarer items—such as constitute precisely that portion in every collection which gives it its individuality—are almost all of Indian origin, and only a few of them have been produced earlier than the last two centuries.

With regard to its copies the collection is of quite modern

1 These numbers do not coincide with the actual number of volumes, especially in the second list. Although many volumes containing several independent works have been given only one number, some others have several numbers, given to each separate item contained. In many others some items are also numbered separately, while others, also independent, have been overlooked or disregarded. Besides, a certain number of MSS. cannot be traced.

origin ; MSS. belonging to the last two centuries constitute almost 90% of it. It is interesting to find that this collection contains a rather large proportion of dated copies, almost half of the total. The earliest MS. is No. 405 (737/1337) ; copies dating from the IX/XVc. are only 5 in number. Those dating from the X/XVIc. number 29, and from the XI/XVIIc. only about 70—a total which is comparatively very small, just as in the case of the older collection of the Asiatic Society of Bengal. All other MSS. belong either to the XII/XVIIIc., or, in still greater numbers, to the XIII/XIXc.

The copies in which the place of transcription is mentioned constitute about 11% of the collection (83 in number). Of these only six early MSS. have come to India from other countries.[1] To these may be added several others amongst the earlier copies, the appearance of which clearly indicates their non-Indian origin.

The collection, as we see, may be justly regarded as a valuable supplement to the earlier acquisitions of the Society. Together with the latter it forms quite a rich library, of some 2,200 vols., representing with a considerable degree of completeness the Persian Muhammadan literature of India from about the IX/XVc., to our days.

In conclusion I express my profound gratitude to the President of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, Sir Rajendra Nath Mookerjee, who supported this undertaking, and to the General Secretary, Mr. Johan van Manen, who not only proposed to the Council the preparation of this Catalogue, but who has also greatly facilitated the work. Moreover, as in the case of the former Catalogue, he has actually participated in it, revising my English both in manuscript and in proof, devoting to this much of his scanty leisure.

[1] These were copied : four at Samarqand—No. 574 (923/1517) ; No. 513 (973/1566) ; No. 11 (beg. XI/XVIIc.) ; No. 436 (1015/1606) ; one in Persia, at Bārfurūsh, in Gīlān (982/1574) (No. 253) ; the sixth is a striking instance of the surprisingly large distances over which MSS. sometimes travel : it was copied in Qazān, on the Volga river, in 1087/1676 (No. 523).

RARE WORKS IN THE COLLECTION.

With a view to uniformity, a review of the present collection is here given on the same lines as in the Catalogue of the older Persian collection of the Society (pp. xv–xxvi). Those books chiefly are here mentioned which may be looked upon as rare—in general, or in the European libraries—and especially those which are for the first time described in the present Catalogue.

I. History.

The works on history in the present collection are not numerous; there are several which may be regarded as rare, though not of special importance.

Ā'īna-i-bakht (comp. ca. 1069/1659) (No. 7).

Tuḥfatu'l-akhyār (comp. 1076/1666) (No. 5), both being brief compendia of general history.

Quite modern, but not common, are two local histories, of Kashmir and of Oude:

Ḥishmat-i-Kashmīr (comp. 1245/1830) (No. 42).

Waqā'i'-i-dilpadhīr (comp. 1253/1837) (No. 46).

Of the works dealing with the history of other countries than India, only one deserves mention as being comparatively rare:

Qandiyya (VI/XIIc.), on the history of Samarqand, chiefly with reference to the shrines and places of worship in that city (No. 349).

More interesting are the works, not specially devoted to history, but containing historical information:

(a) Historical documents:

Inshā-i-Marwārīd (beg. X/XVIc.) (No. 130), a rare collection of original documents belonging to the end of the dynasty of the Persian Timurides of Herat.

Gulshan-i-balāghat (beg. XI/XVIIc.) (No. 131). A collection of interesting letters concerning political matters connected with Persia and India, about 1000/1592.

Munsha'āt-i-Mād'hūrām (comp. 1120/1709) (No. 150), containing documents from the time of Aurangzib.

Gulshan-i-sa'ādat (comp. 1131/1719) (No. 153), documents referring to Indian politics of that period.

Musawwadāt-i-Kewal-Rām (comp. in the middle of the XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 157). Also official correspondence of the same times.

A collection of official letters, etc., referring to the later Safawides (No. 158).

Nāfi'u'l-ṭālibīn (comp. 1213/1799) (No. 135), an interesting historical commentary on the well-known Mukātabāt-i-'Allāmī.

(b) Poetico-historical works. There are only a few works of this class in the present collection. All of them are quite modern :

Kār-nāma (end XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 302), dealing with the history of the war against Aḥmad Abdālī.

Fatḥ-nāma (1199/1785) (No. 303), a history of the Balūchī chieftains in Sind.

Ẓafaru'ẓ-ẓafar (ca. 1857) (No. 317), the story of the Indian Mutiny of 1856.

(c) Other auxiliary sources. Amongst these may be mentioned :

An autobiography of Muḥammad Fayḍbakhsh of Kākorī (ca. 1230/1815), giving information concerning the politics of the time (No. 87).

Shaltāqiyya (XI/XVIIc.) (No. 669). A political pamphlet, dealing with Gilan and Mazandaran.

Tanībhu'l-ghāfilīn (comp. 1233/1818), referring to Indian matters (No. 670).

Biographical works of interest, also of modern origin :

Mi'rāju'l-khiyāl (ca. 1257/1841) (No. 60), dealing with 23 poets of the early XIII/XIXc.

Ḥadā'iqu'sh-shu'arā' (comp. 1262/1846) (No. 702). An interesting universal tadhkira of poets.

Ishārat-i-Bīnish (comp. 1265/1849) (No. 61), giving a collection of 66 biographies of the poets of XIII/XIXc.

Tadhkira-i-sukhan-āfarīnān-i-hindī-zabān (comp. 1191/1777) (No. 62). Biographies of Urdu poets, chiefly of the XII/XVIIIc.

The biographies of saints are also modern, but they are circumstantial and often give interesting references to the general contemporary life.

Ganj-i-Fayyāḍī (ca. 1147/1735) (No. 80).

Ashjāru'l-jamāl (middle XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 81).

Rauḍatu'l-gayūmiyya (ca. 1164/1751) (No. 82).

II. Poetry.

Although poetical works constitute the most numerous class in the collection, those which are rare or remarkable amongst them are comparatively few.

(a) Biographies of poets and anthologies. The biographical works have already been mentioned above, in the section of history (Nos. 60, 61, 62, 702). Amongst anthologies the important ones are Nos. 322, 323, 326, 702, as containing biographical notes on poets besides quotations of their poetry.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

(b) Works on poetics, etc. Only two are comparatively rare, although they are of modern origin :

Shajaratu'l-Amānī (comp. 1206/1792) (No. 181).
Risāla dar qāfiya (comp. XIII/XIXc.) (No. 182).

Poetry of different classes is mostly represented by well-known compositions. Those which may be regarded as rare are chiefly the works of quite modern Indian poets.

(a) Epics ; only a few :

Ganj-i-ma'ānī (comp. 941/1535) (No. 251).
Sikandar-nāma-i-jabalī (comp. 1141/1729) (No. 290).
Baḥr-i-gham (comp. 1250/1835) (No. 313).
Baḥr-i-mawwāj (comp. end XIII/XIXc.) (No. 315).

(b) Romantic poetry. The rare works in this group are still fewer than in the preceding one :

Dastūr-i-himmat (comp. 1096/1685) (No. 275).
Two lengthy Mathnawīs by Mun'im (end XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 308).

As a peculiar development of the Persian literature cultivated in India, it is necessary to note the appearance of various prose versions of the well-known romantic poems of the classical writers. The phenomenon may be partly explained by the decay of Persian learning in India, especially during the last century, causing the original works to become unintelligible to the majority of educated Muhammadans, but also partly by a general decay of intellectual life, a result of the exhaustion of creative power. Three such compositions, in hideously bombastic prose, are described under Nos. 246, 259, 314.

(c) Lyric poetry, as usual, contains a greater number of rare works, mostly the dīwāns of modern Indian poets, whose compositions have not met with appreciation from the public.

First of all mention should be made of some valuable kulliyyāts :

Of 'Ubayd-i-Zākānī (No. 227), a modern, but good copy.
Of Malik Qumī (beg. XI/XVIIc.) (No. 264).
Of Ta'thīr (beg. XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 287).
Of Rūḥī (beg. XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 292).

The dīwāns are by the following poets :

Mu'īn (end IX/XVc.) (No. 240).
Walī Dasht-i-bayāḍī (beg. XI/XVIIc.) (No. 260).
Kirāmī Shāmlū (XI/XVIIc.) (No. 267).
'Inwān (middle XI/XVIIc.) (No. 269).
Wālā (XI/XVIIc.) (Nos. 271 and 272).
Kirāmī Kashmīrī (beg. XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 289).
Ni'mat (XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 294).

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Gharīb (end XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 300).
'Alī Akbar (end XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 301).
'Alī Aṣghar (beg. XIII/XIXc.) (No. 307).
Akhtar (beg. XIII/XIXc.) (No. 310).
Masarrat (beg. XIII/XIXc.) (No. 312).
Mumtāz (middle XIII/XIXc.) (No. 315).
Tafta (end XIII/XIXc.) (No. 316).

III. Theology.

This section is perhaps the most incomplete and casual in the present collection. There are, however, several works which are not common:

Tafsīr-i-Zāhidī (comp. in 519/1125) (Nos. 332 and 333), in two vols., slightly incomplete in the middle.
Ni'mat-i-'uẓmā, a large Shi'ite Tafsīr (comp. 1115/1704) (No. 337).
Mughnī-nāma (comp. 932/1526) (No. 363).
Manhaju'l-fāḍilīn (comp. 937/1531) (No. 396).
(Fiqh-i-madhāhib-i-khamsa) (X/XVIc. ?) (No. 398).
Tuḥfa-i-ithnā 'ashariyya (beg. XIII/XIXc.) (No. 401).

IV. Sufism.

The Sufic literature, mostly Indian, is better represented, and there are many works which may be regarded as rare.

(a) Sufic hagiology:

A biography of Shāh Mīnā (X/XVIc.?) (No. 70).
Riyāḍu'l-awliyā' (comp. end X/XVIc.) (No. 704).
Jawāhir-i-Farīdī (comp. ca. 1033/1623) (No. 72).
Firdausiyya-i-qudsiyya (end XI/XVIIc.) (No. 78).
Ganj-i Fayyāḍī (comp. ca. 1147/1735) (No. 80).
Ashjāru'l-jamāl (comp. ca. 1151/1738) (No. 81).
Rauḍatu'l-qayūmiyya (comp. ca. 1164/1751) (No. 82).
Uṣūlu'l-maqṣūd (comp. ca. 1226/1811) (No. 83).
Manbahāt fī 'ilmi'l-amwāt (comp. 1292/1875) (No. 84).

(b) Orthodox Sufism, and generally works belonging to the earlier Sufic tradition:

Sawāniḥ, by Aḥmad Ghazālī (beg. VI/XIIc.) (Nos. 406, 407).
Fīhi mā fīhi (end VII/XIIIc.) (No. 417).
Ma'danu'l-ma'ānī (end VIII/XIVc.) (No. 425).
Mawāṭin (comp. 856/1452) (No. 431).
Irshādu'l-murīdīn (X/XVIc.) (No. 433).
Manāẓir-i-akhaṣṣu'l-khawāṣṣ (comp. 1050/1640) (No. 439).

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Anwāru't-taḥqīq (comp. ca. XI/XVIIc.) (No. 442).
Kanzu'l-hidāyat (comp. ca. 1080/1670) (No. 445).
Risālatu'l-Mas'ūdī (ca. XI/XVIIc.) (No. 447).
Works of Muḥammad Balgrāmī (end of the XIII/XIXc.) (No. 459).

(c) Sufico-poetical works :

Nāz-u Niyāz (comp. 930/1524) (No. 248).
Tuḥfa-i-Qāsimī (comp. 1012/1604) (No. 261).
Maṯhnawī-i-Walī-rām (comp. ca. 1055/1645) (Nos. 270, 462,27).
Qiṣṣa-i-ḥaqīqat-i-rāy (XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 293).

(d) Sufico-magical works :

Makhzan-i-da'wat (comp. 1037/1628) (No. 437).
(Asnād-i-ashghāl-i-Shaṭṭāriyya) (composed in 1045/1636) (No. 438).
Khulāṣatu'l-awrād (XI/XVIIc.) (No. 446).
Burhānu'dh-dhākirīn (XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 450).

(e) Sufico-controversial works :

Two pamphlets, on prayer to 'Abdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī (XI/XVIIc.) (No. 443).

(f) Popular Sufic works, Nos. 479–482.

V. Folk-lore and allied matters.

(a) Tales, anecdotes, etc. There are only a few tales or collections of anecdotes which seem to be still unknown :

Dilgushā (comp. 1039/1630) (No. 707).
Maẓharu'l-i'jāz (end XI/XVIIc.) (No. 708).
Muẓaffar-nāma (beg. XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 117).
Nigāristān-i-Amīn (comp. 1232/1817) (No. 123).

(b) Works on Magic, etc. The works in this group, os. 641–662, may be regarded interesting. Only five of them have been described in other catalogues (Nos. 641, 642, 643, 651, 661).

VI. Sciences and arts.

(a) Encyclopaedias :

Maṭla'u'l-'ulūm wa maj̱ma'u'l-funūn (comp. 1262/1846) (No. 486).

(b) Ethics, etc.

Taḥqīqāt dar bayān-i-aḥwāl-i-mawjūdāt (ca. X/XVIc.) (No. 493).
Khulāṣatu'l-ḥayāt (end X/XVIc.) (No. 497).
Ḥaqqu'l-yaqīn (end XI/XVIIc.) (No. 499).

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Anīsu'l-wuzarā' (middle XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 501).
Maṭāli'u'l-Hind (comp. 1223/1809) (No. 505).
Kathīru'l-manfa'at (comp. 1232/1817) (No. 506).
Gulzār-i-i'tibār (comp. 1281/1865) (No. 509).
Minhāju'l-mubīn (logic, end VII/XIIIc.) (No. 512).

(c) Lexicography :

Farhang-nāma (beg. VIII/XIVc.) (No. 516), very valuable.
Dastūru'l-afāḍil (comp. 743/1343) (No. 517).
Durr-i-durrī (comp. 1018/1610) (No. 525).
Farhang-i-khānī (comp. 1174/1761) (No. 527).
Muhadhdhibu'l-asmā' (ca. X/XVIc.) (No. 542).

(d) Grammars (Persian) :

Muthmir (middle XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 550).

(e) Astronomy, Mathematics, etc. :

Durratu'l-masāḥāt (comp. 890/1485) (No. 572).
A work on astronomy (comp. 923/1517) (No. 574).
Mu'īniyya (ca. X/XVIc.) (No. 575).
Jāmi'-i-Bahādur Khānī (comp. 1249/1833) (No. 580).

(f) Medicine :

Fawā'idu'l-insān (ca. 1003/1595) (No. 592).
Ṭibb-i-Aurangzībī (end XI/XVIIc.) (No. 600).
Mu'ālijāt-i-Nabawī (beg. XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 604).
Ṭibb-i-manẓūm (ca. XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 607).
(Qarābādīn-i 'Alawī Khān) (middle XII/XVIIIc.) (No. 609).
Tuḥfatu'l-Masīḥā (comp. ca. 1161/1748) (No. 610).

(g) Zoology, etc. :

Bāz-nāma (comp. ca. 570/1176) (No. 616).
Shikār-nāma-i-Īlkhānī (VIII/XIVc.) (No. 617).

(h) Varia. Translations from Sanskrit and Hindī :

Tarjuma-i-Mahābhārata (No. 677).
,, ,, D'harm-shāstar (No. 687).

NOTES ON THE TECHNICAL DETAILS OF THE CATALOGUE.

I. General Remarks.

The principles followed in the compilation of the present Catalogue are on the whole the same as those followed in the catalogue of the older Persian collection of the Society (pp. xxvii–xxxiii).

1. Description. In this collection the volumes containing several works are fewer in number; it was therefore easier to observe the principle to describe every separate work in a separate note. Exceptions have been made in the following cases:—

(a) Volumes containing a collection of works of one author.
(b) Collections of short works, dealing with the same subjects.
(c) If two or more works, which are bound together, possess some kind of internal connection between themselves.
(d) Fragments, short notes, scraps of all descriptions.

2. Transliteration. The system of transliteration remains the same as in the former Catalogue. It represents the words according to their written forms, not according to their actual pronunciation. The vocalisation is given in accordance with the usages of good Persian, as at present spoken in Persia.

In Arabic words the same concession is made to the elementary principles of Arabic phonetics and grammar in names containing the definite article ال. Being of no importance to people who know Arabic, they often mislead those who do not. Therefore, instead of 'Abd al Raḥīm, as is given in different catalogues, the form of 'Abdu'r-Raḥīm is used, or in the Genitive case, with Ibn or Abū, forms like 'Abdi'r-Raḥīm.

The hamza (ء) is marked only in the transliteration of Arabic expressions, given in their original Arabic form, not as loan-words in Persian. Therefore, e.g. the Arabic form is given as Tadhkirat-u'l-awliyā', but the Persian form as Tadhkira-i-awliyā.

Table of transliteration:—

ا a, i, u	ث th
ب b (بھ bh)	ت t
پ p (پھ ph)	ج j (جھ jh)
ت t (ٹھ t'h)	چ ch (چھ chh)

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

ح h	ظ z
خ kh	ع ‘
د d (ده d’h)	غ gh
ذ dh	ف f
ڈ ḍ	ق q
ر r	ک k, g (کھ k’h)
ز z	گ g (گھ g’h)
ژ zh	ل l
س s	م m
ش sh	ن n
ص ṣ	و w, u (ū)
ض ḍ	ہ h
ط ṭ	ی y (ī).

Note 1. The letters o, e, v, x are used only in words of non-Persian and non-Arabic origin (Turkish, Indian, etc.).

Note 2. Diphthongs: ay for ای, and au (or aw) for او.

Note 3. Wherever an accidental combination of consonants may lead to confusion with one of the aspirated letters used to render a simple consonant, the apostrophe (’) is used (e.g. nuz’hat).

Note 4. The dash (-) is used: (a) to join two different words whenever they form one compound word; (b) with the Arabic article ال; (c) with the Persian iḍāfa; (d) with the Persian conjunction و when it is pronounced like u after words ending with a consonant.

II. The System of the Descriptive Notes.

1. Numbers. The serial numbers of the notes do not coincide with the actual numbers of the MSS. on the shelves of the library. A special index (VII) is provided to show the correspondence of these library marks with the numbers given in descriptive notes in the Catalogue.

The library marks given have the following meaning :—

I indicates the MSS. which have been included in the printed list of acquisitions of 1903–1907.

I*a* indicates a group of MSS. belonging to acquisitions of the same years which had never been included in the printed list.

II indicates the MSS. included in the list of acquisitions of 1908–1910.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

III indicates the latest accessions, 1911–1925, a list of which has not yet been published (some 37 MSS. previously acquired which, it was found, had not been registered at all, have been included in this group).

2. Titles. Wherever the real title of a work has not been ascertained, or the work possesses none, a provisional designation is given within brackets. Lengthy titles are given in their abbreviated form in the headings, but mentioned in full in the text of the notes.

3. Dates. (a) All approximate dates given in centuries, whenever they are conjectural, are left without special expressions like 'probably,' 'apparently,' etc., as superfluous.

(b) The dates of the reigns of rulers are given according to S. Lane-Poole, Muhammadan Dynasties (I have used the Russian translation with corrections by Prof. W. Barthold, St. Petersburg, 1899).

(c) In all cases in which the dates in the Muhammadan era are given with their equivalents in the Christian era, the former stand first, and the latter second, and the indications A.H. or A.D. are omitted.

(d) Wherever not only the year of the Muhammadan era is given, but also the day of the month, the latter has been rendered into its equivalent according to Christian era, with the help of F. Wüstenfeld's Vergleichungs-Tabellen der Muhammedanischen und Christlichen Zeitrechnung, Leipzig, 1854.

(e) In the indices, and in repetitions of the same date, when the year in the Hijra era begins about the middle of the Christian year, and therefore corresponds to two years of the Christian era, only the second year is given, e.g. 881/1476–1477, is given in the indices as 881/1477.

4. References to various publications. In the descriptions of the works references are given in a uniform and strictly chronological order, the latest being given first.—

(a) General works on Persian literature.

(b) Catalogues of the Persian MSS. in different libraries, in so far as locally accessible.[1] (The Catalogues of Indian libraries are mentioned separately in order to show immediately what other copies are within the reach of residents of India).

[1] To my great regret the following catalogues were not accessible to me :—

(a) Kahl, A Catalogue of Persian and Turkish MSS. in the Tashkand Public Library, Tashkand, 1898 (in Russian).

(b) B. Dorn, Das Asiatische Museum d. K. Akademie zu St. Petersburg, 1846.

(c) Rehatsek, Catalogue of the Arabic, etc., MSS. in the Mulla Firuz library, Bombay, 1873.

(The latter has now been acquired by the Society, but only when this Catalogue was already in the press).

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

(c) Critical editions, translations, or other publications. As the Society's library is very poor in this respect, the information given here is often based on earlier catalogues and other sources.

(d) Whenever possible, references are given to Oriental editions.

5. Quotations. In this Catalogue the principle is strictly followed that all quotations should be "true copies" of their originals, with preservation of all peculiarities of orthography and mistakes. Only the early MSS., dating from the XV and XVIc., written in Persia and Turkestan, are reliable and neat in their orthography. The copies of Indian origin, especially the more modern ones, show an amazing carelessness, inconsistency in orthography, and ignorance of Persian and Arabic grammar on the part of their scribes. As the collection consists for 90% of these modern Indian copies, it was impossible to note every case of deviation from the standard rules, and therefore only the most striking ones are here marked with a sic.

6. Description of the appearance of MSS. In the present Catalogue all information concerning the copy has been carefully separated from that about the work itself, and is printed in small type. As far as possible a strictly uniform order has been followed in these descriptions:—

(a) The date of the MS., exact or approximate, the name of the scribe, the place of copying, and any other details connected with the transcription which may be found in the colophon, etc. Special notes on paintings, if the MS. contains them.

(b) Number of folios.[1] If the work described in the note does not occupy the whole of the volume, but only a part of it, an asterisk is placed before the number of folios which contain it.

(c) The measurements of the page, and of the place occupied by the text (abbreviated as S), are here given in inches, with a precision to within a quarter of an inch.

(d) Number of lines (ll) on a page, and information as to the jadwals, or border lines. This detail has been added as it is often essential for the identification of a copy.

(e) Quality of paper (pap.) mostly only distinguished as Oriental (Or.), or European (Eur.), unless specially identified.

(f) General type of the handwriting.

(g) The state of preservation of the MS.

(h) Notes on fly leaves, or margins, seals, if found in the MS., or details as to lacunas, damaged folios, etc.

(i) Vignettes, etc., if found in the copy.

[1] As a result of energetic measures taken by the General Secretary, Mr. van Manen, the folios of all MSS. in the collection have at last been numbered.

III. Notes on the Indices.

I. Persons' names. (1) All references are to the serial numbers of the descriptive notes in this Catalogue. Those in heavy type indicate that the person in question is the author, or translator, editor, commentator, etc., of the work described under the number.

(2) In order to make the alphabetical sequence as strict as possible only the essential parts of the names are taken into consideration. All honorific titles, initials in European names, etc., are disregarded, as well as other expressions which do not constitute the principal part of a name, unless there are special reasons for treating them otherwise. The list of these disregarded elements is as follows :—

Abū	Ḥāfiẓ	Sayyid
Abī	Ḥājjī	Shaykh
al-(Arabic definite article in all its modifications).	Ḥakīm	Shāh
	Ibn (b.)	Sulṭān
Amīr	Khwāja	also : Persian iḍāfa (-i-) Arabic case terminations -u, -i.
Āqā	Makhdūm
b. (ibn)	Mawlānā
Bābā	Mīr
	Mīrzā
	Miyān

In this volume great care has been taken to prevent these words from upsetting the alphabetical sequence of the principal names. They are either omitted or transferred behind the essential parts of the names. The kunyas, when they do not constitute the real name of a person, have been included in brackets, or within commas, and disregarded in the alphabetical arrangement.

(3) For reasons of economy of space names, repeated in several entries, are only once printed in full, heavy type, in the first entry and replaced by a hyphen in the following entries. One hyphen corresponds to one name only, except in those composed with 'Abd-, Abū-, and -Allah, -Daula, -Dīn, -Mulk, which are treated as one single word.

(4) The abreviations used in the indices are also given in the general list on pp. ix–xi.

II. Titles of works. (1) References are to the serial numbers in the Catalogue. Those in heavy type refer to the notes in which the copies of the work mentioned are actually described, and show that the work in question is not merely referred to incidentally, in some connection.

(2) Dates, unless otherwise specified, exact or approximate, after the titles of works, indicate the time of composition.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

(3) The expressions which have been disregarded in the alphabetical arrangement of the titles (unless constituting an essential part of the title), are:

AL-(Arabic definite article, in all modifications).
BAYĀN
KITĀB
MUKHTAṢAR
MUNTAKHAB
RISĀLA (-T)
SHARḤ
TARJUMA (-T).

Also the Persian iḍāfa (-I-), or Arabic case terminations -U, -I.

(4) Brackets are used with provisional titles, not actually found in the text of works. They are arranged not under the first word, but under the word expressing their principal subject.

III. Principal subjects. In the present Catalogue the index of subjects has not been restricted to the fragmentary works, or others of which proper titles are not known. The index deals with all works, described in the volume treating of the same topic, chronologically arranged. The subjects under which references are given are only the most salient ones.

Indices IV–X are arranged on the same lines as in the former Catalogue.

I. HISTORY.

1. I. General History.

1. Ṭabaqāt-i-Nāṣirī. طبقات ناصري I 645.

A good, but very incomplete copy of the general history by Abū 'Umar Minhāju'd-Dīn 'Uthmān b. Sirāji'd-Dīn al-Jūzjānī, from the creation of the world to 658/1259–1260. See Bl 246–247, EIO 14–15, EB 16, R 72, Morl 21, Aum 67, etc. Ind. libr. Bk 451. Cf. also Elliot, Hist. of India, II, 259–383. Part of it, relating to the history of India, has been published by W. Nassau Lees, Biblioth. Indica, 1864, and translated by H. G. Raverty, the same series, 1873–1881.

The present copy although clearly written and often giving very interesting and good variants to the readings of N. Lees' edition, is extremely fragmentary, and its leaves have been bound in a confused order. The opening folio is numbered as the '4th,' but, indeed, much more than only three leaves are lost in the beginning. In fact, the text begins with the early Abbaside khalifs, i.e. in the beg. of the IV ṭabaqa (at the end of it there is a lacuna between ff. 9 and 10).

The following ṭabaqas are complete: V (f. 10v), the kings of Persia; VI (f. 27v), the kings of Yaman; VII (f. 34), the Ṭāhirides; VIII (f. 36v), the Ṣaffārides; IX (ff. 38–39, 90, 41, 42, 44, 43v), the Sāmānides; X (ff. 43v, 45–46), the Būyides; XI (ff. 46–52v, 63–64), the Ghaznawides. Ṭabaqa XII (ff. 64–66v, 67–73v), the Saljūqides, is incomplete, and of the XIII (ff. 73v–75), the Sanjariyya kings, or atābegs, there is only a small fragment. Ṭabaqa XIV (on the kings of Sistan, etc.), is entirely lost, together with the greater part of the next, XV (ff. 78, 129–130v), on the Kurdish kings of Syria. Of ṭabaqa XVI (ff. 142–149, 53), on the Khwarizmshahs, there is only the end.

In the second half, as compared with the text of N. Lees' edition, there are in the MS. lacunas corresponding to pp. 55, l. 4 (fr. b.) to 58, l. 11; 70, l. 6 to 79, l. 11; 82, l. 11 to 106, l. 12; 116, l. 14 to 123, l. 10 (it is very peculiar that in the MS. there is no interruption in the text, f. 82v); 169, l. 3 to 171, l. 3 (fr. b.); 230 top to 233, l. 3 (fr. b.); the text in the MS. breaks off on p. 328, l. 3, i.e. in the beg. of XXIII ṭabaqa.

Copied probably in the xi/xvii c.

2. حبيب السير

Ḥabību's-siyar. I 989.

A short fragment of the second vol. of this work (for references see IvASB 34). It contains only the first juz' (ff. 1v–78v), dealing with the twelve Shi'ite Imams and some eschatological theories connected with the twelfth of them: and the beginning of the second juz' (ff. 78v–80v), dealing with the origin of the Omayade Khalifate. The text breaks off on ff. 77v, l. 13 of MS. D 134 (IvASB 36). Beg. as usual (cf. EIO 86 and EB 72):

الحمد لله الذي جعل للنبيين لسان صدق عليا و بعث الخ

At the end (f. 81v) there are a few lines from Suyūṭī's (d. 911/1505) Jam'u'l-jawāmi' (see Brock., II, p. 147, No. 56) with a Persian explanation.

Copied apparently in the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 81; S 9,25×5,5; 7,5×3,75; ll 25, no jadwals. Blue Or. pap. Ind. clear nast. Cond. tol. good, although the MS. is considerably damaged by worms. A few seals on f. 1; only one is legible, and contains the date 1231/1816. A few notes on the margins.

3. لب التواريخ

Lubbu't-tawārīkh. II 344.

Scanty remnants of a copy of this history, which was composed ca. 948/1541–1542 by Yaḥyā b. 'Abdi'l-Laṭīf Qazwīnī (d. 960–962/1553–1555), and was dedicated to the Safawide prince Bahrām-Mīrzā (f. 1v). See Bl 327–335, EIO 101–103, EB 88–95, R 104, Flügel, II, 71, Leiden C., III, 6, Krafft, 87. Ind. libr. Bh 6, Bk 469. Cf. also Elliot, Bibl. Index, 129 sq., Hist. of India, IV, 293–297. There is an old Latin translation, 1783, in A. F. Büsching's Magazin, vol. XVII.

The work is originally divided into four qisms (the index is given on ff. 1v–2), but the copy contains only the beg. of the first qism, dealing with the history of Muḥammad (ff. 2–4v), a fragment (ff. 5–9v) of the second qism (on Persian kings), and two pages (ff. 10–10v) from the third qism (on the Atābegs). Beg. as usual:

4. تاريخ الفى

Ta'rīkh-i-alfī. I 125–126.

A good copy of the general history of the Muhammadan world after the death of Muḥammad, already referred to in IvASB 41. The present transcript contains only the part dealing with the years 1–503 after Muḥammad's death, and divided into two volumes (years 1–170 and 171–503), with continuous folio numbers. Beg. as usual:

آغاز كتاب در بيان امورى كه واقع شده در سال اول رحلت الخ

The copy, apparently written by different scribes, dates probably from the end of the xi/xvii c. or the beg. of xii/xviii c. A fihrist on the fly leaves.

2 vols. Ff. 507 (1–265 and 266–507); S 13 × 8,75; 10,5 × 5,5; ll 30, no jadwals. Different Or. pap. Good Ind. nast., in some places rather calligraphic, about fifteen different hands. Cond. generally good, only ff. 405–453 are decaying.

5. تحفة الاخيار

Tuḥfatu'l-akhyār. III 92.

The first vol. of a general history, comp. at Murādābād in 1076/1666 (f. 1v.) by Muḥammad Ṣafī b. Walī of Qazwīn for Aṣālat Khān, a local official. As in the copy described in R 125, 1080, the present one ends with the story of the Khwarizmshahs. The headings of all chapters, and the names of the rulers are omitted, although space is reserved in every case, probably for writing in red ink. The title, given on f. 1v, is added above the line in a different handwriting. But beneath it there is قصه سلاطين متقدمين, which also seems not genuine, inserted in a different handwriting.

The author gives the usual legends of the ancient prophets, sages, Persian kings, Muḥammad, 12 Imams, and the first four khalifs. The story of the Omayades begins on f. 61; the Abbasides, f. 79v; the Persian local dynasties begin on f. 90; the Ṭāhirides, f. 90; the Ṣaffārides, f. 90v; the Sāmānides, f. 91v; the Ghaznawides, f. 94; the dynasties of Ṭabaristān, f. 97v; the Būyides, f. 100v; the Ismailis, f. 105; the Saljūqides, f. 108; the Atābegs of Mosul, etc., f. 115v; the Ghūrides and early Muslim rulers of India, f. 123; the Khwarizmshahs, f. 126v–130v (incomplete at the end).

At the end (f. 131) there is an incomplete and inaccurate index of the biographies of eminent men, etc., inserted in the narrative. On ff. 132–134v there are notes mostly of historical contents, dealing with the 'first king who has been crowned,' and other similar matters. Some poetical scraps are also found on f. 1. Beg.

ثنا و ستایش حضرت آفریده کاری را که طبقات سموات الخ

Copied in the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 134; S 13 × 9,5; ll 11 × 7,25; ll 29, no jadwals. Greyish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good, especially towards the end where the MS. is slightly injured by moisture. Occasional notes on the margins.

6. مرآة العالم

Mir'ātu'l-'ālam. II 502.

A general history from the creation of the world to 1078/1667, usually ascribed (cf. f. 3) to 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān Bakhtāwar Khān (d. 1096/1685), the head eunuch of Aurangzīb, but in fact compiled by Muḥammad Baqā. See GIPh 214, Bl 350, EIO 124–125, EB 114–116, R 125–127, 890, 1080, Morl 52–56, etc. Ind. libr. Bh 12 (extr.), Bk 477. Cf. also Elliot, Hist. of India, VII, 145–165.

The work is extremely concise, only the history of the Indian Timurides is dealt with in a more detailed manner. It contains also a great deal of biographical material, which is of rather little value on account of the shortness of the notes, mostly extracted from the well known tadhkiras. There are apparently only a few notes on the author's contemporaries. The compilation is divided into seven ārā'ish, each subdivided into several numā'ish, payrā'ish, etc. The present copy, dating from the beginning of the XII/XVIIIc., is in an exceptionally bad state of preservation, and very incomplete. It has been 'carefully' pasted over with 'transparent' cheap paper which now, probably only a few years since this has been done, has made entirely illegible, and useless for students almost the whole of the copy. The folios are badly misplaced. The contents of the work are as follows:—Ārā'ish I (f. 3) Pre-Muhammadan history, prophets, ḥukamā, etc.; II (somewhere about f. 20) Muḥammad and his time; III (about f. 67) Omayades, Abbasides, and their time; IV (?—apparently very little of it remains here) Tīmūr, Safawides, etc.; V (f. 113v) Indian history; VI (f. 153v) Indian Timurides. Very little indeed remains of this section, as well as of the next, the VII ārā'ish (originally dealing with the history of the first ten years of Aurangzīb's reign). Apparently only the end of it is preserved. The afzā'ish (f. 173) is divided into 3 namūds: the first (f. 173) on famous calligraphers; the second (f. 177v) on different 'ajā'ib; and the third (f. 184) on some remarkable buildings. The khātima, which may be complete (f. 186), deals with poets. Beg. abruptly with the muqaddima :

مقدمه در ذکر نخستین چیزي که خلعت خلقت پوشیده الخ

Ff. 204 ; S 11,5 × 7 ; 9,5 × 4,25 ; ll 25, within jadwals. Brownish Or. pap., good Ind. nast. Cond. hopeless. A mediocre vignette. A seal, dated 1211 A.H.

7. آئنهٔ بخت

Ā'ina-i-bakht. III 35.

A brief conspectus of general history and biography to about 1069/1659. The arrangement of the material corresponds very closely to that in the Mir'ātu'l-'ālam. The information given here is very brief, and for many dynasties only lists of rulers appear in the text. The name of the author is not mentioned in this copy. The work is dedicated to Aurangzīb (cf. ff. 2 and 4v), and it is stated in the introduction (f. 3) that the narrative is to come to an end with the story of the four campaigns of that ruler, which decided his supremacy (وقایع چهار معرکه تسخیر چهار دانگ هندوستان). The latest date referred to here probably is 1069/1659 (on f. 93). The title, as given at the top of this note, is rather doubtful. The place in which it appears on f. 3 is injured, and only the following expression can be read :— از پرتو بارقه خرد فیض آر ..... م آینه بخت رو نمود. Under the words Ā'ina-i-bakht there are traces of figures (in red), so that the expression is here probably given as a chronogram. A similar chronogram is given in R 126 for the date of completion of the Mir'ātu'l-'ālam, i.e. 1078/1668 (in the form آئینهٔ بخت ; here, however, it is clearly written آینه بخت and this gives only 1068/1658). The author at the end of the book promises to write a detailed history of Aurangzīb.

All these indications suggest that this work is the same as the history written by Bakhtāwar Khān (see the preceding No.), referred to in R 126 as "an account of the four battles by which Aurangzīb won the throne, entitled Chahār ā'īna." In the original text of the Mir'ātu'l-'ālam (see the preceding No., f. 184) where it is mentioned, this is expressed exactly in the same terms as given above (f. 3 of the present work). There is little doubt therefore that both works are identical. The present one may have really been composed in 1068/1658 (and completed in 1069/1659), as indicated by the chronogram, and probably is the original draft of the Mir'ātu'l-'ālam, which contains additional details, besides the history of 10 years of Aurangzīb's reign. Apparently no other copies of this work have been so far described.

It is divided into forty mu'ā'inas (their fihrist is given on ff. 3–4v): 1 (f. 5) Prophets; 2 (f. 9v) Muḥammad; 3 (f. 17v) the four original khalifs and the 12 Shi'ite Imams; 4 (f. 22) the founders of the four Sunnite schools; eminent Sufis to the X/XVIc.; 5 (f. 33v) ancient kings of Persia; 6 (f. 42) ancient sages; 7 (f. 47) Muhammadan early philosophers; 8 (f. 51) Omayades; 9 (f. 52v) Abbasides; 10 (f. 56) Ṭāhirides; 11 (f. 56v) Ṣaffārides; 12 (f. 57) Sāmānides; 13 (f. 57v) Ghaznawides; 14 (f. 58) Būyides; 15 (f. 58v) Saljūqides; 16 (f. 60) kings of Sistan; 17 (f. 61v) Khwarizmshahs; 18 (f. 63) Atābegs of 'Irāq; 19 (f. 63v) Atābegs of Fārs; 20 (f. 63v) Ismailis; 21 (f. 64v) آل عبد المؤمن; 22 (f. 65) Qarākhatā'īs; 23 (f. 65v) Mongols; 24 (f. 66) ایلکانیه; 25 (f. 66) چوپانیه; 26 (f. 66v) Muẓaffarides; 27 (f. 67) Kurts; 28 (f. 67v) Sarbadārs; 29 (f. 68) مماوک طوائف; 30 (f. 68) Timurides; 31 (f. 69v) Qara-qoyunlu; 32 (f. 69v) Aqqoyunlu; 33 (f. 70) Safawides (to 'Abbās II); 34 (f. 70v) ملوک روم; 35 (f. 71v) the Uzbeg Khāns; 36 (f. 73) Indian rulers; 37 (f. 74v) Indian Timurides; 38 (76v) Aurangzīb; 39 (f. 96) local Indian dynasties; 40 (f. 102v–157) poets (in 12 maqālas). Beg. سپاس نامه که سیر نکاران اصحاب تحقیق الخ

Copied towards the beg. of the xii/xviii c. A note on Bakhtāwar Khān on the fly leaf.

8. مرآت آفتاب نما

Mir'āt-i-āftāb-numā. II 348.

A modern and very condensed compilation on general history, geography and biography of the Eastern half of the Muhammadan world, a sort of encyclopædia, chiefly concerned with India. As a history it deals with the events from the creation of the world to the thirtieth year of Shāh-'Ālam (1173–1221/1759–1806), i.e. 1202/1787. It was composed by the prime minister of the prince mentioned, 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān Shāhnawāz Khān Hāshimī Banbanī Dihlawī (d. 1222/1807), who wrote it between 1216/1801 (the title is a chronogram for this date), and 1218/1803 (expressed by another chronogram at the end, here on f. 540v, عیار المورخین). For details concerning the author's biography see R 131–132 and 1080. The book itself is described in EB 120, R 131–132, Morl 45, etc. Ind. libr. Bk 481, etc. Cf. also Elliot, Hist. of India, VIII, 332–333; JASB, vol. XVIII (old series), p. 233, No. 30.

As a work on history this book has very little value (cf.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Morley, p. 57). The same may be said about both its geographical and biographical parts. The first, because the information, derived from different sources, is mixed up, with no regard to the period to which it properly pertains. The biographical part does not contain any allusions to the prominent men contemporary with the author, but dwells on the celebrities of the past, repeating the statements of the well known tadkhiras.[1]

The work is divided into a short muqaddima (f. 4), and two jalwas:

I Jalwa (ff. 5–428v), chiefly dealing with history and biography, divided into six tajallīs: 1st tajallī (f. 5), on creation, cosmology, mineralogy, etc.; 2nd tajallī (f. 68) ancient prophets; 3rd tajallī (f. 121v) Muḥammad and his time; 4th tajallī (f. 142) Sufis, divines, philosophers, poets, etc.; 5th tajallī (here called the sixth, f. 244) pre-Muhammadan and Muhammadan mediæval dynasties; 6th tajallī (f. 287v) Timurides in Persia and India.

II Jalwa (f. 428v), in 8 tajallīs, dealing with geography and description of 'aja'ib. One tajallī is devoted to each of the seven iqlīms, and the eighth deals with seas and rivers.

The khātima (the heading is omitted in this copy, f. 531) deals with 'wonders' and various anecdotes. Beg. as usual:

Copying completed on the 7th of Ṣafar 1233/ the 17th Dec. 1817, for Nawwāb Nawāzish Khān.

Another copy of the same work, also good, but not as carefully executed as the preceding one. It is approximately of the same age. The muqaddima beg. on f. 2v. I Jalwa: 1 tajallī on f. 3; 2 t. on f. 44v; 3 t. on f 74v; 4 t. on f. 85v; 5 t. on f. 136; 6 t. on f. 159. II Jalwa beg. on 237v. Khātima on f. 297v. In some places rubrics are omitted. Beg. as in the preceding copy. An incomplete and worthless fihrist is given on f. 303–304.

10. تاریخ خلفا و سلاطین

Ta'rīkh-i-khulafā wa salāṭīn. III 72.

A very fragmentary extract from what may have been a work on general history. It deals with the usual legends about the pre-Muhammadan kings of Persia, here beginning abruptly with Dārāb; the early khalifs, f. 12; the Omayades, f. 22v, and the Abbasides, up to Ma'mūn, f. 38v. The text begins and ends abruptly, and there are a very large number of lacunas; probably the whole of the period of Muḥammad himself, and the reign of Abū Bakr are completely lost.

It would be a very complicated task to identify the work to which this fragment belongs, and this would be hardly worth while. The author does not mention his name and vaguely refers to his authorities as ارباب تواریخ, etc. Only once Ṭabarī is mentioned (f. 33). Twice he refers to the 'compiler of the original of this extract' (مؤلف اصل این منتخب, ff. 22v, 24). He obviously means by this the author of the work from which the extract was made. It cannot be a translation from Arabic because a Persian versified list of the Omayade khalifs is ascribed to the same original author. Beg. abruptly:

حکایت، گویند داراب چون بحد روم آمد اسکندر جامه بگردانید الخ

The colophon which is found in the book, is modern, and cannot be older than a dozen years. It is however dated 1109/1697–1698 (here ۱۱۰۹), which probably is entirely fiction. The copy may date from the end of the xi/xvii c.

Ff. 46; S 10×6,5; 5,5×3; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. and cheap modern European paper. (New margins have been pasted to the text.) Good Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good, although in many places considerably damaged by moisture.

Ma'āriju'n-nubuwwat. II 345.

A comparatively old copy of this well known biography of Muḥammad containing only the muqaddima and the first of the four original rukns. For references see IvASB 50.

It is incomplete at the beginning; the first folio is lost.

Transcribed at Samarqand (see the colophon on f. 70v) by Muḥammad Zāhid b. Shāh 'Alī al-Bukhārī, probably about the beginning of the xi/xvii c.

Ff. 192; S 14,5×10; 11×5,5; ll 25, within jadwals. Good Or. pap. Rough nast. of Khorasani type. Cond. tol. good, although paper is decaying along the jadwal lines. Only half of the full page 'inwān (of mediocre quality) in the beg., and a vignette (mediocre) on f. 71v.

12. روضة الاحباب

Rauḍatu'l-aḥbāb. I 466.

The first maqṣad of this well known biography of Muḥammad, see IvASB 53. In the colophon, which seems spurious and is written, together with the last five folios, in a handwriting different from that of the bulk of the volume, it is stated that the composition of this part of the work has been completed about 893/1489 (در حدود سنه ۸۹۳). Beg. as usual:

الحمد لله الذي من على المؤمنين اذ بعث النخ

The greater portion of the MS. was probably copied in the first half of the xii/xviii c., but the beginning and the end are transcribed by a different hand.

A comparatively old copy of Sharafu'd-Dīn 'Alī Yazdī's history of Tīmūr, which was completed in 828/1425, see IvASB 72. There are many seals and notes of former owners, some of them being dated 999 AH. (f. 1v), and later, 1031, 1035 AH., etc. The copy has therefore been probably transcribed in the middle of the X/XVIc. The last folio is lost and has been replaced by a page in a modern handwriting. Beg. as usual:

The same. II 366.

Another copy of the same work, comparatively good and well-written. Beg. as usual, see the preceding copy. Occasional marginal notes and glosses.

Dated the 10th Jum. I 1127/the 14th May 1715.

Ff. 388; S 12 × 9,25; 7,5 × 4,5; ll 20–23, no jadwals. Greyish Or. pap. (originally), margins added, of cheap yellow Eur. pap. Ind. nast., different hands. Cond. tol. good; worm-eaten at the end.

19. مقدمهٔ ظفر نامه

Muqaddima-i-Ẓafar-nāma. III 64.

The introduction to the Ẓafar-nāma, of which copies are rather rare, see IvASB 80. Beg. as usual:

افتتاح تاريخ جهانداري و نامهٔ ظفر و بختياری الخ

A good transcript, completed by Murtaḍā-Qulī Qājār, at Jahānābād, the 4th Rab. I 1067/the 21st Dec. 1656. The text on the last folio, in which there is a hole in the middle, is partly restored by a quite modern hand.

Ff. 125; S 8,5 × 4,75; 7,25 × 3,5; ll 15, within jadwals. Greyish Or. pap., made dirty by being sprinkled with some 'silvery' dye. Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good, pasted with 'transparent' paper.

20. تاريخ عالم آرای عباسي

Ta'rīkh-i-'ālam-ārā-i-'Abbāsī. I 132.

A comparatively good copy of the second vol. of this history of Shāh 'Abbās I, by Iskandar Munshī, see IvASB 89. Both maqṣads (ff. 1v–175v, and 176v–231) begin as usual, the first (f. 1v):

عنوان صحيفه سلطنت و عالم آرای پادشاهان الخ

The second (f. 176v):

بعد از حمد و سپاس خالق آسمان و زمين الخ

The date of the transcription is rather doubtful, because the scribe expressed it very carelessly in the following way:

در روز دويم از ماه هشتم عشر پنجم از ماه اول از الف دويم ،

This may mean anything; but the date 1048/1638 seems probable.

Ff. 231; S 12,25 × 7,25; 9,25 × 5,25; ll 31, within jadwals. Or. pap. Pers. nast. Cond. tol. good. Marginal notes on some folios. A seal on the fly leaf, dated 1099 AH., and another, dated 1104 AH.

21. تاريخ نادري

Ta'rīkh-i-Nādirī. II 359.

The well known history of the last Safawides and of Nādir (1148–1160/1736–1747), by Muḥammad Mahdī b. Muḥammad Naṣīr Astrābādī, see IvASB 94. Beg. as usual:

22. محاربهٔ کابل و قندهار

Muḥāriba-i-Kābul wa Qandahār. I 898.

An account of Afghan politics during the reign of Shāh Shujā', apparently the same as the one described in R 214. Cf. also Bl 516. It similarly ends with the narrative of general G. Pollock's return with his force (Sept. and Oct. 1842). The book, as we learn from an introduction (ff. 1v–2v), has been originally written by Munshī 'Abdu'l-Karīm (cf. here No. 40), in Hindustani. As appears from the latter's preface (f. 3), it was composed by him in 1263/1847. This work has been translated into Persian by 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān Khān b. Ḥājjī Muḥammad Raushan Khān (ff. 2 and 66), and was completed in 1264/1848. Apparently this work has been twice lithographed: Lucknow, 1848, and Cawnpore, 1851. It is based to a great extent on the Akbar-nāma, composed by Qāsim Jān (?—Khān ?), most probably identical with IvASB 889, which was compiled in 1260/1844. Beg. of the translator's preface (f. 1v):

پرچم کشائي الویهٔ تقریر نسایم محمدت الخ

Beg. of the original work (f. 2v):

بعد حمد مالک الملک من تشاء جلت سطوة الخ

Dated the 5th Rajab 1288/ the 20th Sept. 1871, by Mīr Muḥammad (b.) Naurūz 'Alī. A fihrist is added on a fly-leaf.

Ff. 566; S 10 × 6,5; 7 × 3,75; ll 18, no jadwals Bad machine-made Indian paper, thin and brownish. Ind. nast. Cond. good, but the paper is beginning to crumble.

4. History of India.

I. General History of India, Sultans of Dehli, and Indian Timurides.

23. تاريخ فيروز شاهي

Ta'rīkh-i-Fīrūz-shāhī. I 134.

The well known history of the first five years of the reign of Fīrūz-shāh III of Dehli (752–790/1351–1388), as well as an account of his predecessors, beginning with Ghiyāthu'd-Dīn Balban (664–686/1265–1287). The author, Ḍiyā'u'd-Dīn Baranī, to whom some other historical and religious books are ascribed, completed it in 758/1357 (cf. f. 9v). See Bl 557, EIO 211, Br 85, EB 172–174, R 919–920, etc. Ind. libr. Bh 61, Bk 546, etc. Cf. also Elliot, Hist. of India, III, 93–268; Nassau Lees' Materials, 441–446; JASB (old series), vol. 38, pp. 181–220, vol. 39, pp. 1–51, vol. 40, pp. 185–247. It was printed in the Bibl. Indica, 1862. The work is divided into eight books:

I	(f. 10v).	Ghiyāthu'd-Dīn Balban (664/1265).
II	(f. 47).	Mu'izzu'd-Dīn Kayqubād (686/1287).
III	(f. 63).	Jalālu'd-Dīn Fīrūz Khiljī (689/1290).
IV	(f. 86v).	'Alā'u'd-Dīn Khiljī (695/1296).
V	(f. 132v).	Quṭbu'd-Dīn Mubārak-shāh (716/1316).
VI	(f. 148v).	Ghiyāthu'd-Dīn Toghluq-shāh (720/1320).
VII	(f. 159v).	Muḥammad b. Toghluq (725/1325).
VIII	(f. 183v).	Fīrūz-shāh (752–790/1351–1388).

Beg. as usual:

حمد و ثناء مر خدایی را که اخبار و آثار انبیاء الخ

The copy is clearly written and dates probably from the beginning of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 208; S 10,75×7; 7,75×4; ll 21, within jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good. Worm-eaten. 9 bad vignettes, some of them are discoloured.

24. طبقات اكبر شاهي

Ṭabaqāt-i-Akbar-shāhī. II 361.

An incomplete copy of this well known history of India by Niẓāmu'd-Dīn Aḥmad b. Muḥammad Muqīm Harawī (d. 1003/1594), see for references IvASB 115. The present transcript is written by several different copyists, on different papers, not throughout with the same care. The muqaddima is incomplete at the beginning; the first three folios do probably not belong to the work. The text really begins at the place corresponding to p. 6, l. 8 of the printed edition. The first ṭabaqa begins on f. 12; in the

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

II ṭ. the heading is not given (it begins somewhere about f. 200); the III ṭ. on f. 223v; the IV ṭ. on f. 276; the V ṭ. on f. 319. Ṭabaqas VI–VIII have apparently no headings, several folios are probably lost. The IX ṭ. on f. 346. The beginning of the geographical khātima also is not marked, and the greater part of this section is lost. Beg. abruptly:

اما بعد، اکابر و افاضل متفقند که شاعری الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 351; S 11 × 7; 8,75 × 5; ll 21, no jadwals. Different brownish and bluish Or. pap. Ind. nast. and shikasta, different hands. Cond. tol. good.

The same. I 643.

Another copy of the same work, incomplete both at the beginning and the end. It opens with f. 1v, l. 2 (fr. b.) of D 229 (IvASB 115), and ends with the narrative of the events of Akbar's 25th (here called 24th) year (988/1580), corresponding to f. 344, l. 5 (fr. b.) in the same volume.

Copied in the beg. of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 167 (the first is missing); S 11 × 6,25; 8,75 × 4; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. brownish pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good; worm-eaten.

26. اکبر نامه

Akbar-nāma. II 336.

A good copy of the second half of the first volume of the Akbar-nāma, by Abū'l-Faḍl b. Mubārak 'Allāmī (d. 1011/1602) see IvASB 122. It contains only the history of Akbar's accession to the throne and the first 17 years of the reign, and corresponds with the II vol. of the printed edition. Beg. as usual (after the heading: جلوس مقدس الخ):

سلسله انتظام کار کاه آفرینش که مظاهر حقیقت الخ

Transcribed in the xi/xvii c.

Ff. 201; S 13,25 × 8,5; 10 × 5,5; ll 21, within double jadwals. Thick Or. pap. Bold Ind. nast. Cond. good. A good vignette.

27. جهانگیر نامه

Jahāngīr-nāma. II 449.

A modern copy of the original version of Jahāngīr's memoirs, see IvASB 142. Before the usual beginning some laudatory verses are prefixed, and a portrait of Jahāngīr himself, of very mediocre artistic value (f. 2). The verses begin :

بنام پادشاه پادشاهان، بلندي بخش تخت قبله گاهان،

The original text begins on f. 3, in a slightly different way :

از عنایات الهی بتاریخ دهم جمادي الثاني سنه ۱۰۱۴ هزار و چارده هجري صبح روز یکشنبه الخ

The copy was transcribed at Lahore, by Rājārām, surnamed طوطه, towards the middle of the xiii/xix c. (here 1910 of the Sambat era, probably 1853 A.D.)

Ff. 160; S 9,75×6,5.; 7×3,75; ll 13, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Clear Ind. nast. Cond. very good. A bad modern vignette.

28. اقبالنامهٔ جهانگیري

Iqbāl-nāma-i-Jahāngīrī. II 340.

The third vol. of this work, completed in 1029/1620, by Muḥammad Sharīf Mu'tamad Khān (d. 1049/1640), dealing with the history of the reign of Jahāngīr, see IvASB 145. Beg as usual :

شایسته سریر سلطنت و فرمان روائي الخ

The copy apparently dates from the xii/xviii c. Several folios at the beg. and the end of the volume are of more modern origin.

Ff. 127; S 8,5×6,25; 7×3,75; ll about 15 (portions of many pages are written in oblique lines), no jadwals. Brown Or. pap. Bad Indian shikasta, with pretences to 'elegance.' Occasional marginal notes.

29. (تاریخ فتح کانگره)

(Ta'rīkh-i-fatḥ-i-Kāngra). I 625.

Six stylistically different versions of the same account of an expedition against the rebel called Sūrajmal and the capture of the fort of Kāngra, in the year 1027/1618. The style is particularly bombastic and flowery. The author's name is mentioned on ff. 31v and 50, in the colophons as جلالا طباطبا, i.e. Jalālā Ṭabāṭabā'ī. An account of him is given in R 258. The present work was composed shortly after 1044/1634–1635. See also Elliot, Hist. of India, VI, 517–531. The different versions begin on ff. 1v, 19v, 32v, 43v, 50v, 57v. Beg. as in the British Museum copy :

حضرت حکیم علی الاطلاق جل جلاله در ازال الخ

Dated the 11th Dhī'l-Qa'da 1257 /the 25th Dec. 1841.

Ff. 62; S 11×6,5; 7×3,5; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good.

30. پادشاه نامه

Pādshāh-nāma. II 353.

The second vol. of this history of Shāhjahān by 'Abdu'l-Ḥamīd Lāhūrī (d. 1065/1655). In India it is often vulgarly called Bādshāh-nāma, see IvASB 149. The present copy is slightly incomplete at the end. On ff. 390v–400v and 410–414v, a list is given of the officials who occupied posts of different ranks under Shāhjahān (between f. 400 and f. 410 only one folio is missing, but a fihrist is inserted by mistake on ff. 401–409v). The last folio, 415, contains the beginning of an account of the Sufis and divines who flourished during the period. Occasional marginal glosses and notes. Beg as usual :

سپاس والا اساس دادار کارساز و کردکار بی انباز الخ

A modern transcript, dating from the end of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 415 ; S 11,75 × 7,75 ; 9 × 4,75 ; ll 17, no jadwals. White and bluish European paper (water marks A.M. Pollera). Ind. nast. Cond. good.

31. تواريخ عالمكيري

Tawārīkh-i-'Ālamgīrī. II 365.

A history of the first five years of Aurangzīb's reign, the same as IvASB 159, usually ascribed to the authorship of 'Āqil Khān Rāzī (d. 1108/1696). The work is also called Wāqi'āt-i-'Ālamgīrī or Ẓafar-nāma-i-'Ālamgīrī. The present copy is not good, although apparently complete. Beg. as usual :

ابو المظفر محيى الدين اورنگ زيب بهادر الخ

Dated the 21st Dhī'l-ḥijja 1226/the 6th Jan. 1812 (not 1813 as it may also be read), or 1868 of the Sambat era.

Ff. 91 ; S 7,75 × 4,75 ; 6 × 3 ; ll 12, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad Ind. shikasta and nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten. Scrappy notes at the end.

32. خلاصة التواريخ

Khulāṣatu't-tawārīkh. II 342.

General history of India, to the beginning of Aurangzīb's reign, composed in 1107/1695 by Sujān Sing'h Dabīr (see f. 4, bottom), or, as he is usually called in other copies, Sujān Rāy Munshī. See Bl 544–548, EIO 362–364, Br 84, EB 246, Pr 455–456, R 230–231, Morl 69–71, Aum 84, etc. Ind. libr. Bk 540, etc. Cf. also Elliot, Hist. of India, VIII, 5–12 ; Garcin de Tassy, Hist. de la lit. hind., vol. I, p. 31 ; JA, 1854, p. 366 ; JRAS, 1894, pp. 733–768.

The title appears on f. 3, bottom. There is no division into chapters, but the book may be roughly divided into three principal parts: I, geographical, containing descriptions of different provinces of India (beg. on f. 232v--234v which are misplaced, continued on ff. 5v--66); II, tales about pre-Muhammadan rajas (ff. 66-131v); and III, Muhammadan period (ff. 131-415v). The appendix mentioned in EIO 362 is apparently not given in this copy. Beg. as usual:

نقاش نکار خانه کاینات و مصور کار کاه ممکنات الخ

Transcribed in the 28th year of some prince's reign, probably that of Shāh 'Ālam, because its equivalent is given in the Faṣlī era as 1194; therefore the date must be approximately 1200/1786.

Ff. 415; S 11,75×7; 8,75×4; ll 18, within double jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Bad vignette. Ff. 231-234 to be inserted after f. 4.

The same. II 343.

Another copy of the same work, incomplete both at the beginning (corresponding to f. 25, l. 9 of the preceding copy) and at the end (f. 411v of the same copy). The geographical part ends on f. 31v; the Indian legends are given on ff. 31v-79, and the Muhammadan period on ff. 79-302v.

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 302; S 10×6,5; 8×4,5; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good.

34. تاریخ ارادت خان

Ta'rīkh-i-Irādat Khān. II 363.

A history of India for a short period between 1118 and 1125 1706-1713, composed in 1126/1714 by Mubāraku'l-lah, surnamed Wāḍiḥ, with the title Irādat Khān, son of Kifāyat Khān Shikastanawīs. See EIO 389-390, R 938, etc. Ind. libr. Bk 579. Cf. also Elliot, Hist. of India, VII, 534 sq. An old abridged English translation, by J. Scott, was published in 1780. Beg. as usual:

الحمد لمن یقول فی حق کلامه فاتو (sic) بسورة من مثله الخ

The present copy dates apparently from the beg. of the xiii/xix c. It was transcribed by Gurū Hārīlāl.

Ff. 117; S 8,25×4,75; 6,25×3,25; ll 11, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Bad, stumbling Ind. nast. Cond. good.

35. شاهنامهٔ منور کلام

Memoirs concerning the reign of Farrukh-siyar and the first four years of Muḥammad Shāh, the same as described in Bl 604 and R 274. The author's name (f. 1v) is here given as Sīwdās Lak'hnawī. The title, as above, is also given on f. 1v. The work seems to be rather rare. Cf. Elliot, History of India, VIII, 331. It may be valuable for the copies of various official documents quoted in extenso. Beg. as in the British Museum copy :

سپاس بیقیاس ایزد کارساز بی نیاز بیچون الخ

A very bad copy, completed the 2nd Muharram 1209/the 30th July 1794, and written in a very ugly and bad form of Shikasta with only few diacritical dots. The name of the scribe is illegible.

Ff. 100 (there is probably a lacuna after f. 94) : S 7,5 × 4,5 ; 6 × 3 ; ll 13–15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad Ind. shikasta. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten.

(حکایت فتح نادر شاه)

(Ḥikāyat-i-fatḥ-i-Nādir Shāh). II 350.

A criticism of the actions of Muḥammad Shāh and his amīrs at the time of Nādir's invasion (1151/1739), especially of Amīru'l-umarā' Ṣamṣāmu'd-Daula Khān Daurān. The present little work deals with the same events as the Jauhar-i-Ṣamṣām, by Muḥsin b. Ḥanīf, described in R 941, which is a much larger work, composed in florid, laudatory style. It is possible that there is some connection between both, the present work probably being a refutation of the former. There are, however, no direct indications in the text to this effect. The author's name and the title of the work are not given. Cf. Bl 614. It seems that this critical account has been written shortly after the events dealt with. Beg.

Siyaru'l-muta'akhkhirīn. I 504.

The second vol. of this well known history of India by Ghulām Ḥusayn b. Hidāyat 'Alī Khān Ṭabāṭabā'ī, see IvASB 174 and 175. It contains the history of the period 1153–1195/1740–1781. Beg. as usual :

حمد و ثنای پادشاه علی الاطلاق و شکر و سپاس الخ

The copy was completed the 7th Ramadān 1258/the 12th Oct. 1842, by Karīmu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Jājpūrī, surnamed Fākhir.

Ff. 150 ; S 10,25 × 7,25 : 7,25 × 3,5 ; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good, the greater part of the MS. being damaged by white ants in the lower part of pages.

38. عبرت نامه

'Ibrat-nāma. I 652

A portion of the first daftar of this history of Shāh-'Ālam, by Khayru'd-Dīn Muḥammad Allahābādī (d. ca. 1243/1827), see IvASB 177 (in the beginning it is called دفتر سیوم). It deals only with the period of the 11th–19th years of the reign of Shāh-'Ālam and corresponds to ff. 149v–268 of the first vol. of D 247. There are (ff. 175v–180) some additions in this transcript, which apparently are not found in that copy. The first has the heading (f. 175v):

آمدن ایلچی خان از اکبرآباد بلکهنو الخ

The second (f. 178):

از سوانح بندیل کهنڈ فوت شدن راجه بندوپت الخ

The third (f. 179v):

از سوانح ملک نواب امیر الامرا مرزا نجف خان الخ

A fihrist is given on five leaves at the beg. of the vol.; at the end there is a note on the names of the fourteen ma'ṣūms, based on Naṣīru'd-Dīn Ṭūsī, and scrappy notes. Beg.

آغاز دفتر سیوم از شروع سال یازدهم جلوسي ... بتاریخ سیوم ماه جمادی الاولی الخ

A bad and carelessly written copy, dating from the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 182; S 9,5 × 6; 7,75 × 4,5; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad Ind. shikasta and nast. Cond. not good.

39. تاریخ مظفري

Ta'rīkh-i-Muẓaffarī. I 137.

A comparatively good and early copy of this valuable history, to 1225/1810, by Muḥammad 'Alī b. Hidāyati'l-lah Anṣārī, see IvASB 182. It contains, in addition to a fihrist (on 9 folios), a special brief review of the contents (called here مقدمهٔ دویم, ff. 1–7). The text is divided into two vols.: the first (ff. 1v–266v) ends with the events of 1173/1759–1760, and the second (ff. 268v–389v) contains the narrative of Shāh 'Ālam's reign, and breaks off in the second year of Muḥammad Akbar (i.e. 1222/1807). Beg. as usual (f. 8v):

حمدی از حد (و) اعتداد افزون نثار بارگاه شاهنشاهي است الخ

The date of the copy is expressed as follows:—

..... بتاریخ پانزدهم رجب سنه ۷۳ (or ۷۲) جلوس ابو نصر معین الدین محمد اکبر شاه ...

Most probably it must be read the 27th year, i.e. 1247/1831–1832.

Ff. 389 (there is a lacuna after f. 367); S 12 × 6,75; 9 × 4,25; ll 19, no jadwals; Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. and shikasta, different hands. Cond. tol. good.

ملخص التواريخ

Mulakhkhaṣu't-tawārīkh. II 351.

An abbreviation of the Siyaru'l-muta'akhkhirīn, mentioned above, see No. 37. It is apparently a copy from the printed "Moolukhkhus-ool-tuwareekh, being an abridgement of the celebrated historical work called the Seir mootakherin, prepared chiefly by maulavi Abdool Kerim," Calcutta, Education Press, 1827. It is necessary to correct an inaccuracy in R 943 : there was no other abbreviation of the Siyaru'l-muta'akhkhirīn, as mentioned there, and called Zubdatu't-tawārīkh. The latter title appears on the Persian title-page of the same edition, and is mentioned in the brief preface by 'Abdu'l-Karīm, but not in the text and the colophon, where the form Mulakhkhaṣu't-tawārīkh is used. The author, Farzand-'Alī al-Ḥasanī of Monghyr (this may also be read as a patronymic, Farzand-i-'Alī), may be identical with 'Abdu'l-Karīm, and the difference in the title may be explained by a belated desire to change it after the text had already been set up in type.

For references see R 943, etc. Ind. libr. Bk 585, etc. Cf. also Elliot, Hist. of India, VIII, 199. The work is divided into three daftars : I (f. 7), dealing with the history of the Timurides, from Tīmūr to 1152/1739 ; II (f. 55v), history of Bengal and Patna for the second half of the XII/XVIIIc. ; and III (f. 100v), history of India for 1153–1195/1740–1781. The indices to the second and the third daftars, and the preface of 'Abdu'l-Karīm are given on ff. 2–6 (f. 1 is missing). Beg. of the work itself (f. 6) :

II. Local Histories of India.

41.

واقعات کشمیر

Wāqi'āt-i-Kashmīr. II 364.

The well known biographico-historical work on Kashmīr. As the biographical element constitutes its principal contents, it would perhaps be more appropriate to deal with this book in the section on biography, not history, as is usually done. The author, Muḥammad A'ẓam b. Khayri'z-Zamān Khān, composed it between 1148/1735 and 1160/1747. The chronogram for this last date found at the end of the book, has been incorrectly copied and gives only 1135 : ایں بود (instead of the usual افزود) زیب و زینت کشمیر See Bl 629, EIO 513, EB 319, R 300, etc. Ind. libr. Bh 81, Bk 601, etc. Cf. also JASB, vol. XV (old series), pp. 409, 441; JA, vol. I, p. 366, vol. VII, p. 6; Wilson, in Asiatic Researches, vol. XV, pp. 2, 5; B. Dorn, in Bulletin de l'Academie Russe, vol. XIII, p. 352, etc. It has been translated into Hindustani.

The present copy does not contain the preface (in which the authorities of the compiler are mentioned, see R 300), and begins abruptly with a brief account of the native dynasties of Kashmīr before the appearance of the Muhammadan rulers. The beginnings of the two other sections, i.e., the period of the independent local Muhammadan dynasties, and that of the Indian Timurides, are not properly marked in this copy. There are also many lacunas. The khātima, on the 'ajā'ib of Kashmīr begins on f. 157v.

The chief point of the work is the glorification of the Sufic saints of Kashmīr, other celebrities receive less attention. The biographies of the poets, connected with that province, are meagre, and give nothing new : Āshnā ('Ināyat Khān), f. 106v; Dhihnī, f. 92; Fahmī, f. 96; Faṣīḥī, f. 96 : Ghanī, f. 105v; Mīr Ilahī, f. 95; Istighnā, f. 106v; Jūyā, f. 121v; Kalīm, f. 94v; Mihrī, f. 96v; Muḥammad Rafī', f. 107; Nadīmī, f. 95v; Qudsī, f. 92v; Salīm, f. 94; Sāṭi', f. 146; Ṭughrā, f. 93v.

It opens abruptly with the reign of راجه سند.

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c. or in the beg. of the xiii/xix c. Several folios in the beginning and in some places in the middle have been lost.

Ff. 164; S 11,25 × 7,25; 8,5 × 4,5; ll 21, within jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Legible Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Much worm-eaten and badly mutilated by repairs in many places, especially in the beginning and end.

42. حشمت کشمیر

Ḥishmat-i-Kashmīr. III 63.

A history of Kashmīr, with brief notes on Tibet, Badakhshān, the hilly country between the Upper Oxus and Indus, etc. It was dedicated to W. A. Brooke (f. 1v), after whose title, حشمة الدولة, the title of the work was given. The author calls himself 'Abdu'l-Qādir Khān b. Qāḍī'l-quḍāt Wāṣil 'Alī Khān (f. 80v), and gives an account of the circumstances which led him to undertake the present composition (ff. 1–4v), fully dealt with in R 1016. The history has been completed at Benares in 1245/1830. It is divided into four chamans : I (f. 4v) on the history of Kashmīr; II (f. 58v) on Tibet and Qalmaqistān; III (f. 66) on Badakhshān; IV (f. 68v) on the hill tract inhabited by the Afghan tribes; and a khātima (f. 79), a sort of summary of the history of these countries. Beg. as in R 1016:

بعد حمد خالق لطیف الخبیر که جماعه ابنیا الخ

The copy is dated the 25th Rab. II 1286/the 5th August 1869.

Ff. 80; S 10×6,5; 7,25×4,5; ll 13-19, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast., different hands (bad shikasta on some folios). Cond. tol. good.

2. Gwalior.

Gwāliyār-nāma. I 135.

A history of Gwalior, and especially of its capture by the British forces. The author is the well known compiler of the 'Ibrat-nāma (see above, No. 38), Khayru'd-Dīn Muḥammad Allah-ābādī (d. ca. 1243/1827). He completed this work, as stated in the khātima of the copy described under the next number (not given in the present transcript), in Muḥarram 1208/August 1793. The narrative is brought up to 1200/1786. See R 1028. Beg.

سپاس و ثنا صانعي را سزا است که بر فصیل الخ

The present copy has been completed the 1st Shawwāl 1268/the 19th July 1852, by Narāyandās, son of Talūkchand; it is not as good as that next described, but the latter is incomplete.

Ff. 85; S 10,5×6,75; 8×4,75; ll 9-11, no jadwals. Or. pap. Vulgar Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten.

The same. I 845.

Another copy of the same work, slightly incomplete. The introduction (ff. 1-2v) is missing here, and the text opens with آغاز گوالیار نامه الخ. At the same time there is added a خاتمه در سبب تالیف این کتاب (ff. 35v-36v) which is not given in the preceding copy. The text seems to be more correct; there are numerous emendations and alterations, apparently not by the same hand as that of the bulk of the MS. The copy was probably intended to be transcribed in a more elegant form, and on the margins there are 72 remarks مقام تصویر, apparently with a view to spaces for illustrations being reserved in the new MS. The date of copying is not given, but the transcript seems to be considerably older than the preceding one.

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

3. Deccan.

45. (مجموعه)

(Mağ'mū'a). II 335.

Two short notes, pertaining to some events which took place about 1865, in the Deccan, by Ghulām Zaynu'l-'Ābidīn. The present copy is most probably either an autograph, or a transcript from it.

1. (ff. 1v–6). Aḥwāl-i-gharq-i-Machhlī-bandar. A short note on an inundation at Machhlī-bandar (which took place on the 1st Jum. II 1282/ the 22nd Oct. 1865), together with several letters of different people referring to it. Beg.

تمهید سخن به تحمید رب المجید و بنای کلام الخ

2. (ff. 11v–22v; ff. 6v–11 are left blank). An account, in florid, laudatory terms, of the death of Nawwāb Afḍalu'd-Daula Niẓāmu'l-Mulk Āṣaf-jāh, the 13th Dhī Qa'da 1285/ the 25th Febr. 1869, and of the accession to the throne of Nawwāb Mīr Maḥbūb 'Alī Khān Āṣaf-jāh. Beg

4. Oudh.

46. وقائع دلپذیر

Waqā'i'-i-dilpadhīr. I 1095.

A history of the court of Oudh, chiefly narrated in connection with the biography of Pādshāh Begam, wife of Ghāziyyu'd-Dīn Ḥaydar, surnamed Shāh Zamān, the ruler of that province. It was composed in 1253/1837 (f. 2), by order of J. Doeswell Shakespeare, an assistant of the British resident at Lucknow, by 'Abdu'l-Aḥad b. Muḥammad Fā'iq (f. 1v). See R 961, where details of Pādshāh Begam's biography are given. Beg. as in R 961:

ابداری سیوف بارقه السنه کشور کشایان معانی الخ

Dated the 13th Rab. I 1279/ the 8th Sept. 1862, by Gandanla'l.

Ff. 50; S 10,5 × 6,75; 8,5 × 4,75; ll 17–20, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good.

5. Maratthas.

47. خلاصهٔ حالات مرتّها

Khulāṣa-i-ḥālāt-i-Maraṭhā. II 341.

A history of Marattha campaigns, between 1171 and 1199/1757–1785, the same as described in EIO 491, R 328 and translated by A. Fuller in Elliot's Hist. of India, VIII, 257–297. It was composed in 1208/1793–1794, at Benares, by 'Alī Ibrāhīm Khān (f. 1v). Beg. as in EIO 491:

الحمد الله (sic) علی نعمائه و الصواة (sic) علی نبیه و اولیایه ' این وقائع بدائع اثار که عبرت نامه ابو (sic) الابصار است الخ

A bad copy, dating from the xiii/xix c., in vulgar stumbling handwriting, written by the same Gurū Hārīlāl as in No. 34 in this collection.

Ff. 54: S 6,5 × 4,25; 5 × 2,75; ll 13, no jadwals. Blue Europ. pap. (watermarks C.F.A.). Bad, stumbling nast. Cond. good.

تواریخ بنگالا

Tawārīkh-i-Bangālā.

III 30.

History of Bengal for the period of 1107–1169/1695–1756, by Munshī Salīmu'l-lah, composed by order of H. Vansittart who was the Governor of Fort William in 1760–1764. See EIO 478, R 312, 1085, etc. Translated by Francis Gladwin, 'Narrative of the transactions in Bengal,' Calcutta, 1788.

The present MS. is somewhat defective at the beginning. The initial leaf is of entirely modern origin, and on ff. 2–3v there are spaces left blank probably with an intention to fill them in afterwards. Beg. (by a different hand, on modern paper):

حمد نا معدود واجب الا جود (sic) بحریست بی ساحل الخ

Transcribed by Najību'l-lah of مکلکوهه in 1194 of the Bangla era, identified in the subscript as 1787 A.D. The appearance of the MS. permits to think that this may be true.

Ff. 138; S 7 × 4,75; 5,5 × 3,5; ll 11, no jadwals. Grey Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good; slightly worm-eaten.

II. BIOGRAPHY.

1. Poets.

(a) Persian.

49. تذكرة الشعراء

Tadhkiratu'sh-shu'arā'. II 447.

A comparatively old copy of this well known tadhkira of Persian poets, by Daulat Shāh Samarqandī, comp. in 892/1487, see IvASB 218. The transcript is prepared with care, and seems to be complete, but the text within the jadwals has been cut out and pasted on new margins, so that all catchwords have disappeared. It would be impossible to verify the completeness of the volume without a thorough collation with the printed edition. Beg. as usual :

تحميدي كه شاهباز بلند پرواز الخ

Copied apparently early in xi/xvii c.

Ff. 111 ; S 9,75 × 6,5 ; 5,5 × 2,75 ; ll 17, within jadwals. Or. pap. (different in the margins). Good Indo-Khorasani nast. Cond. good. Slightly worm-eaten. Mediocre vignette.

50.

The same. II 494.

Another copy of the same work, dated 1196/1782. It is apparently complete. Beg. as usual, see preceding No. 49.

Ff. 227 ; S 10,25 × 6 ; 8 × 3,5 ; ll 18, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. A fihrist is added on a fly leaf. Scrappy quotations.

51. كلمات الشعراء

Kalimātu'sh-shu'arā'. II 434.

The well known tadhkira of Persian poets of the XI/XVIIc., completed ca. 1108/1697, by Muḥammad Afḍal Sarkhūsh (d. ca. 1127/1715), see IvASB 221. Several marginal notes containing additions and emendations of the text. Beg. as usual :

سخن جانست و ديكر گفتكو جانا ز من بشنو الخ

Dated the 5th Sha'bān 1111 (the 43rd year of Aurangzīb's reign), or the 26th Jan. 1700, i.e., still within the author's life time.

Ff. 70 ; S 6,75 × 4,5 ; 5,75 × 2,5 ; ll 15–16, no jadwals. Or. pap. Legible Ind. nast and shikasta. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten, several folios injured by dampness.

The same. I 832.

Another copy of the same work as the preceding one, slightly incomplete at the end (breaks off at f. 60, l. 4 of No. 51). Beg. as in the preceding copy.

Transcribed in xii/xviii c.

Ff. 95; S 7×4,25; 5,75×3; ll 11, within jadwals. Or. pap. Clear Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten.

53.

The same. II 435.

Another copy of the same work, apparently complete. Beg. as usual, see No. 51, but instead of جانا زمن بشنو there is at the end جانان زمن بشنو.

Written in bad shikasta, in the beg. of the xiii/xix c. (هفتم ماه ساون سنه ۱۲۲۰ عملی), by Pancham La'l, son of Gōpāl-La'l, at Chanīpūr.

Ff. 89; S 8,5×5,75; 6,5×3,75; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. shikasta. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten. Many marginal notes.

The same. I 172.

Another copy of the same work, incomplete at the end. Beg. as usual, see No. 51. Its end corresponds with f. 57, l. 14 of No. 51.

Transcribed apparently in the middle of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 99; S 9,5×6,25; 7×3,75; ll 13, no jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good; slightly worm-eaten. A few marginal notes.

55. تذكرة الاحوال

Tadhkiratu'l-aḥwāl. I 93.

The well known autobiography of Muḥammad 'Alī Ḥazīn (d. 1180/1766), see IvASB 225 (add RsBr 240, 2). It forms an item in a majmū'a. Beg. as usual:

نحمد و نسأله التقى و نعتصم بعروته الوثقى الخ

Transcribed towards the end of xii/xviii c.

* Ff. 68v–118v; S 11×6,5; 8×4,25; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good; worm-eaten and repaired. Marginal notes and sub-headings (in red ink).

56.

The same. II 443.

Another copy, approximately of the same age as the preceding one, apparently complete. Beg. as usual, see No. 55.

Ff. 40; S 9,5×4; 8×2,75; ll 26–29, no jadwals. The lines are diagonal, transversal, etc. Or. pap. Bad Ind. shikasta and nast. Cond. bad. Worm-eaten. Notes on the last leaf. Marginal headings.

57. رياض الشعراء

Riyāḍu'sh-shu'arā'. III 46.

A modern and incomplete copy of the well known tadhkira of 'Alī Qulī Wālih Dāghistānī (d. ca. 1170/1757), see for references IvASB 230. The date of completion is usually taken to be 1161/1748, but the author explicitly states at the end of his book (cf. f. 482v of D 102) that he wrote this last portion of it in 1162/1749. The majority of the biographical notes have, however, been compiled in 1160/1747, which year is referred to in a great many places. The arrangement of the notes is usually called 'alphabetical' in the catalogues. This is, however, not a proper term. As in many others, if not all known 'alphabetical' tadhkiras, the poets are grouped under the sections, corresponding to the first letters of their takhalluṣes. This alphabetical arrangement does not go any further. Within the limits of every letter biographies are arranged in a very confused chronological sequence. In many cases the author, having brought these notes up to a comparatively late date, starts again from the earliest times. This may be due to his additions from some new work dealing with the same subject which he had not yet perused. Sometimes it seems clear that when one series of poets, taken from one of his sources, comes to an end, he starts another one taken from other compositions. There are numerous cases of poets with identical takhalluṣes, and belonging to approximately the same period, but possessing slightly different names. These discrepancies may be due to the variants in different works, and the identity of some of them seemed very probable even to the author himself.

The sources of Wālih are chiefly 'Awfī for the earlier period, and 'Alī Shīr, Taqī Awḥadī, and Naṣrābādī for the later poets. References to Dawlatshāh, Sām Mīrzā, Taqī Kāshī, and a few other works, are much rarer, and it is not always clear whether Wālih has personally consulted them or merely follows some other source, in which they were quoted. He only rarely refers to other books, such as Jāmī's Nafaḥāt, Haft iqlīm, various historical works, etc. In a great many cases, in which the author was unable to collect much information concerning the poets whom he mentions, he gives instead of a biography simply a few lines of rhetorics conveying no facts at all. Especially the dates are not regularly given, nor are even the approximate contemporaries mentioned. At the same time Wālih often adds his own critical remarks and suggestions as to a better reading of this or that verse.

The present MS., as stated above, is incomplete. It contains some lacunas in the beginning, due to damage to folios (the bottom of ff. 1v, 2, 2v, 3, 3v). On f. 3, although there is no interruption in the text, a long passage has been omitted, corresponding to ff. 3, l. 5 to 3v, l. 6 (from the bottom) in the Society's copy D 102 (see IvASB 230). The MS. breaks off (although there is a colophon, in which it is stated that the book is complete), with the passage corresponding to f. 354v, l. 5 (from the bottom) in D 102. Folios 17 and 18 must be placed between ff. 62 and 63. Ff. 421–432v are a repetition of ff. 123–134, inserted probably by mistake.

The list of biographies found in this important tadhkira has never been given so far, although such lists have been compiled for many other similar works. It is, therefore, appropriate to give it here. In order to facilitate references, the biographies are here arranged in strict alphabetical sequence. As the present MS. is incomplete and inaccurate, advantage is taken of a collation with and completion from the excellent and exceptionally accurate copy belonging to the Society's old fund, D 102, which it has not been possible to describe minutely in IvASB 230. Preference is given throughout to the readings of the names in this more correct copy. The references are here given first to the folios of the present MS., and secondly to the folios of D 102. Wherever a biography is omitted in either of them, the reference is replaced by a hyphen on the corresponding side. Dates, exact or approximate, are inserted whenever available.

The present copy begins as usual:
تذكره محفل خاطر اقدس (قدس sic, usually) ماثر صاحبدلان الخ

The colophon contains the date 'the 14th Dhī Qa'da of the 35th year.' Judging from the appearance of the MS., it is very likely that the '35th year' belongs to the reign of 'Ālam Shāh, and therefore is 1208/1794.

Ff. 438; S 12,25 × 8,75; 10,5 × 6; ll 21, within jadwals. Or. thin brownish paper. Ind. nast., occasionally by a different, more careful hand (as on ff. 113–148, 323–346, etc.). Cond. tol. good; slightly worm-eaten; the paper of a few folios in the beginning and at the end is worn out, dirty, and torn. A bad vignette, damaged.

Sarw-i-Āzād.

A tadhkira of the Persian poets who lived in India during the XI and XII/XVII–XVIIIc., with a number of biographies of the poets of Balgrām. It was composed in 1166/1753 by Āzād, whose full name was Ghulām ʿAlī Khān Ḥusaynī Wāsiṭī Balgrāmī (born 1116/1704–1705, d. 1200/1786). See GIPh 215, EIO 683–684, Spr 143. Cf. also Bland, in JRAS 1848, p. 151. The present copy is incomplete at the beginning (probably one folio has been lost). As the tadhkira is rather rare, but useful, and the list of the biographies contained in it has not yet been published, it is inserted here. The original order of the biographical notes in the book is more or less chronological. Here, in the list, they are re-arranged in strict alphabetical order.

1. Mīr ʿAbdu'l-Jalīl Ḥusaynī Balgrāmī, d. 1138/1725–1726 f. 59

Mi'rāju'l-khiyāl. II 439.

A tadhkira of Persian poets, chiefly those who lived in the XII and XIII/XVIII–XIX c. in India. The biographical notes are grouped under the letters of the alphabet beginning the takhalluṣes, but within each letter there is, as usual, no further arrangement. The author, Wazīr 'Alī 'Aẓīmābādī, with the takhallus 'Ibratī (see f. 2v, and his own biography on f. 47v), probably followed no definite principle in his selection of poets. He completed the work, as stated on ff. 2v and 85, in 1257/1841; but several later dates are found in the book, such as 1262/1846 (ff. 79v, 82), 1263/1847 (f. 14), 1264/1848 (f. 4), etc., so that it may have been revised after its completion.

He composed in 1268/1852 another tadhkira, approximately on the same lines, Riyāḍu'l-afkār, see Bh 93 (this copy is written in the same year, by the same hand and on the same make of paper as the present MS.). A collation of both shows that, although there are many notes on the same poets in these two works, the text is not simply repeated, but has been re-written, and therefore the present work cannot be regarded as an earlier version of the Riyāḍu'l-afkār. The author, who writes a bombastic and florid style, gives little new information. His notes are entirely based on the well-known earlier biographical works which he mentions on f. 2v, namely: Nashtar-i-'ishq, Saru-i-Āzād, Yad-i-bayḍā, Ṭabaqātu'sh-shu'arā', Ātashkada-i-Ādhar, Riyāḍu'sh-shu'arā', etc. It would be superfluous to give here a complete list of the biographies in this book, and it suffices to mention only those which deal with the poets who were contemporaries of the author:

1. Akhtar, Muḥammad Ṣādiq of Hūglī (f. 4).
2. Amīr, Ḥaydar b. Sayyid Nūru'l-Ḥasan b. Ghulām 'Alī Āzād Balgrāmī, d. at Murshidābād in 1217/1802–1803) (f. 10v).
3. 'Āshiq, Maharaja Kalyān Sing'h, d. 1207/1792–1793 (f. 45v).
4. Bismil, Ḥasan Khān b. 'Āshiq 'Alī Khān, of Kākūrī, d. at Calcutta in 1263/1847 (f. 13v).
5. Bismil, Mahdī 'Alī b. Akbar 'Alī, of Fatḥpūr (f. 14).
6. Ḍamīr, Hīrālāl, of 'Aẓīmābād (f. 43v).
7. Dhabīḥ, Amān 'Alī b. Ibrāhīm 'Alī Iṣfahānī, of 'Aẓīmābād (f. 26).
8. Dhakā, Aulād 'Alī b. Ghulām Imām, a nephew of Ghulām 'Alī Āzād Balgrāmī, born 1151/1738 (f. 26v).
9. Farhād, Shāh Ulfat Ḥusayn Mūsawī 'Aẓīmābādī (f. 55).
10. Firqatī, Sayyid 'Alī Bakhsh b. Karīm Bakhsh of Dihlī (f. 54v).
11. Ghālib, Asadu'l-lah Khān of Dihlī, lived in Calcutta (f. 51v).
12. Ḥasrat, Muḥammad Sa'īd b. Wā'iẓ 'Alī of 'Aẓīmābād (f. 20v).
13. Ḥasratī, Lālabandā Prashād 'Aẓīmābādī (f. 21).
14. Kaukab, Asadu'l-lah of Jahāngīrnagar (Dacca) (f. 62).
15. Mahdawī, Mahdī 'Alī Khān b. Muḥammad Ḥasan Khān Ṭabātabā'ī, a grandson of the author of the Siyaru'l-muta'akhkhirīn (see above, No. 37) (f. 70).
16. Makīn, Muḥammad Fākhir b. Muḥammad Ashraf, of Dihlī, d. 1200/1786–1787 (f. 68).

II 493.

Ishārat-i-Bīnish.

A tadhkira of 69 poets who flourished at Madrās and the Carnatic about, or shortly before, 1265/1849. Their names are arranged in a more or less alphabetical order under the takhalluṣes. The work has so far, seemingly, not been noticed in other catalogues. It was completed in 1265/1849 (the title is a chronogram for this date, see f. 5) by Bīnish, whose real name was Sayyid Murtaḍā b. Ṣādiq 'Alī ar-Riḍawī al-Ḥusaynī al-Madrāsī (ff. 1v–2). In his own biography (ff. 14–19v) he mentions that his family came from Gulbarga. He was born in 1226/1811, and thus was about 40 years old when he composed this tadhkira. The work is dedicated to the local Nawwāb Muḥammad Ghauth Khān Shahāmat Jang, who also was a poet and used the takhallus A'ẓam (see f. 2v, and his special biography on ff. 5v–8). He was born the 1st Dhī'l-ḥijja 1239/ the 28th July 1824.

The present copy, dating from about the same time as that of its composition, has many alterations, emendations, additions, etc., in the text of almost every note, apparently by the same hand. It is quite possible that the copy is either autograph or has been thoroughly revised by the author himself. Beg.

62. تذكرهٔ سخن آفرينان هندي زبان

Tadhkira-i-sukhan-āfarīnān-i-hindī-zabān. I 168.

A tadhkira of the poets who wrote verses in Dakk'hanī or Urdu. The author calls himself (f. 2) Mīr Ghulām Ḥasan b. Mīr Ghulām Ḥusayn b. Mīr 'Azīzi'l-lah Rātmanā'ī (راتمناي). He completed his work, as he mentions in the khātima, in 1091/1680 (f. 107). This is certainly incorrect, and judging from his special glorifications and the usual wishes for the continuation of his reign, offered to Shāh-'Ālam (1173–1221/1759–1806) (f. 2v), this date must be corrected as 1191/1777. The work has probably not been noticed in other catalogues. The author does not refer to different known tadhkiras dealing with similar matters. His biographical notes are exceedingly meagre. The large number of poets, whom he mentions, are all found in the combined list of different tadhkiras, given in Spr 195–306. I have not been able to discover even a single name which does not appear there. Almost no exact dates are given; the work seems to be generally of little value. In addition, the present copy is very bad, especially with regard to proper names. Those written in red, as headings of separate notes, are often almost illegible. Beg.

63. تذكرة الاولياء

Tadhkiratu'l-awliyā'. I 166.

A slightly incomplete copy of this well known tadhkira of 'Aṭṭār, see for references IvASB 235. The present transcript opens with a biography of Ja'far Ṣādiq (vol. I, p. 9 of R. Nicholson's edition), and ends with a long biography of Abū Sa'īd b. Abī'l-Khayr, which differs slightly from the version given in the same edition (vol. II, p. 337). The sequence of the biographies is also not quite the same in this copy. Beg.

65. نفحات الانس

Nafaḥātu'l-uns. III 73.

A good calligraphic copy of this well known work of Jāmī, see IvASB 248. On the margins are placed the well known glosses by 'Abdu'l-Ghafūr Lārī (see ibid., No. 249). Beg. of the Nafaḥātu'l-uns, as usual:

الحمد لله الذي جعل مرائي قلوب اوليآئه الخ

Beg. of the commentary of Lārī, also as usual:

بسم الله ... سپاس و ستائش خدای را الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

At the end there are the following appendices :

1. (ff. 289v). An extract from the حديقة الفقهاء (see IvASB 1024), on Abū Bakr Faḍl Bukhārī and Burhānu'd-Dīn Mas'ūd Beg.

2. (f. 290). Copies of letters addressed to Jāmī, by Nāṣiru'd-Dīn 'Ubaydu'l-lah (probably identical with the famous Khwāja Aḥrār) and Sa'du'd-Dīn Kāshgharī.

3. (ff. 290v–305). The Takmila of 'Abdu'l-Ghafūr Lārī's commentary on the Nafaḥāt, dealing with the biography of Jāmī himself (it corresponds to ff. 117v–142v of No. 67 in this Cat.). Beg. as usual : تيمناً بذكر الملك الاعلى و حمد الله الخ

4. (f. 305). A short note on Shamsu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Rūjī (d 904/1498–1499).

5. (f. 306). A prayer with explanations. On f. 306v there are a few poetical quotations from 'Imād.

6. (f. 307–308). Risāla az sirr-i-ādāb-i-ṭarīqat. A short note on the usual elementary Sufic rules, ascribed to 'Abdu'l-Khāliq Ghijduwānī, the famous early Turkistānī shaykh (d. 575/1179-1180).

7. (f. 308–308v). Waṣiyyat-nāma-i-Mawlānā Kalān. Another short note on pious behaviour, by Muḥammad b. 'Abdi'l-lah b. Maḥmūd (VIII/XIVc.), with some autobiographical allusions. On f. 309 there is another note of religious contents.

8. (ff. 309v–310). An account of a dream, seen on the 12th Rab. II 908/the 15th Oct. 1502, at Iṣfahān, by Faḍlu'l-lah b. Rūzbihān b. Faḍli'l-lah, a disciple of Zaynu'd-Dīn 'Alī b. Jamāli'd-Dīn Aḥmad Ṣūfī Ardistānī, the leading Murshid of Fārs at that time. The colophon of this note, transcribed by the same scribe as of the bulk of the volume, is dated the 8th Rab. II 1015/the 13th Aug. 1606.

In the beg. of the volume there is a fihrist (on 8 pages); a poem (in Arabic) ascribed to the authorship of 'Alī b. Abī Ṭālib, and an extract from the well-known qaṣīda called الزبور, beg. انا المطلوب فاطلبني تجدني ' الخ

The front side of f. 1 is occupied with a continuation of Lārī's preface to his commentary (the beg. on f. 1v), and a note of the scribe. There is a prayer on f. 310v.

The copy was completed and collated with several 'reliable' MSS. by Zaynu'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Quṭbi'd-Dīn Aḥmad al-Harawī, in 1014/1605–1606.

70. (مناقب شاه مينا)

(Manāqib-i-Shāh Mīnā). III 61.

The life and the teachings of the famous saint of Lucknow, Muḥammad b. Quṭb Chishtī, surnamed Shāh Mīnā (d., at the age of 84, the 23rd Ṣafar 884/ the 16th May 1479, cf. f. 173v). The author does not enable us to learn anything about himself, except his name which he gives just in the beginning (f. 1v), as Muḥyī'd-Dīn b. Ḥusayn Riḍawī Ḥusaynī. There are probably no direct indications as to whether the author was a personal disciple of the saint in question; the book has been written after the saint's death. It seems, however, that there are no allusions to the events, or literary works belonging to a later period, and it is therefore quite likely that the book has been compiled not long after Shāh Mīnā's demise. Apparently no other copy of this composition has been described in other catalogues, but the work itself has been lithographed, Hardoi, 1900.

The present copy is badly damaged in the beginning, and apparently a number of folios have been lost. It is, therefore, impossible to determine on what plan the book has been originally designed. Judging from the headings actually found in the text, it was divided into a considerable number of faṣls. Only two of them (or perhaps the headings of larger sections than faṣls) are given in the beginning, i.e. ذكر اقوال و اعمال قطب العالم شيخ شاه مينا (f. 5), and تولد و بدايت حال (f. 7). Also the khātima is marked on f. 182v (it is incomplete in this copy).

The sequence of subjects is as follows: short and mostly anecdotical information concerning the birth and the early period of the shaykh. Then begins (probably after a lacuna), abruptly, a lengthy account, occupying by far the greater portion of the book, of the discourses and instructive utterances of the saint, dealing, as usual, with a great variety of subjects. Towards the end there are again a limited number of biographical anecdotes concerning the later period of the saint's life, the circumstances of his death, some information concerning his spiritual guide, Shaykh Sārang (f. 177v sq.), and an earlier saint of Lucknow, Qawwāmu'd-Dīn 'Abbāsī (f. 175v), very often referred to in the book under the title of ra'īs-i-darwīshān (he died about the time of Mīnā's birth, i.e. ca. 800/1398, cf. f. 2v). A considerable portion of the discourses of the saint, especially in the earlier part of the book, are devoted to comments on a Sufic work in Arabic, the Makkiyya, ascribed to the authorship of Quṭbu'd-Dīn Dimishqī (cf. ff. 5v, 90v, etc.). Apparently this work is not known, because it is not mentioned in C. Brockelmann's book. A commentary on it belongs to the authorship of Qawwāmu'd-Dīn, mentioned above; it is also very often referred to. Another composition, of the same author, Mi'yāru't-taṣawwuf, is mentioned several times. Of earlier works there are mentioned Khazāna-i-Jalālī (cf. IvASB 1210), Fawā'idu'l-fu'ād (cf. IvASB 239), some early Chishtī works, the well-known Mirṣādu'l-'ibād, works of 'Abdu'l-lah Anṣārī, and a few others. The spiritual pedigree of the saint, who belonged to the Chishtī and Suhrawardī affiliations, is given in detail on ff. 89v and in the khātima, f. 182v. He was probably by no means a very learned man, was a Shi'ite, and never had a large following.

Beg. of the treatise :

71. سیر العارفین

Siyaru'l-'ārifīn. I 503.

The well-known work giving biographies of the shaykhs of the Chishtī Sufic order in India, comp. some time about 937/1530 (the date of the accession to the throne of Humāyūn, to whom it is dedicated, cf. f. 4v). The author, Ḥāmid b. Faḍli'l-lah, surn. Darwīsh-i-Jamālī, himself a famous Chishtī saint, probably died in 942/1535–1536, and has nothing to do with Jamālī, the poet, the author of several poetical works, see IvASB 648, who lived about 50 years earlier. See EIO 637–639, Pr 556, R 354, etc. The work has been lithographed a long time ago in Dihlī. It is divided into 14 principal biographies : 1. (f. 4v) Mu'īnu'd-Dīn Chishtī ; 2. (f. 15v) Badru'd-Dīn Maḥmūd Khujandī ; 3. (f. 17v) Bahā'u'd-Dīn Zakariyā Multānī ; 4. (f. 44v) Quṭbu'd-Dīn Bakhtyār Kākī ; 5. (f. 59) Farīdu'd-Dīn Mas'ūd Ganj-i-Shakar ; 6. (f. 88) Ṣadru'd-Dīn 'Ārif ; 7. (f. 101) Niẓāmu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Badā'ūnī ; 8. (f. 131v) Ruknu'd-Dīn Abū'l-Fatḥ ; 9. (f. 138v) Ḥamīdu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Nāgūrī ; 10. (f. 143v) Najību'd-Dīn Mutawakkil ; 11. 72. جواهر فريدي

Jawāhir-i-Farīdī. I 277.

Biographies of the principal Chishtī saints, with special regard to the genealogy of the famous Farīdu'd-Dīn Mas'ūd Ajūd'hanī, surnamed Ganj-i-Shakar (d. ca. 664/1266). The saint in question, as stated on f. 2v, left a numerous progeny (so that he even received the surname of Ādam-i-Thānī, the second Adam). The complex genealogical relations of his descendants soon became so obscure that they have given an opportunity to numerous impostors to claim privileges to which they were not entitled. The compiler, therefore, decided to write this book in order to shed necessary light on these matters, and added some biographical information concerning different shaykhs which he found in the well-known Chishtī hagiologies.

He gives his own name (f. 2v) as 'Alī Aṣghar b. Mawdūd b. Muḥammad Chishtī Handālawī Fatḥpūrī. As he explicitly states on f. 3, the work has been completed on the 3rd Rab. I 1033/ the 25th Dec. 1623. But it has probably been subsequently revised and supplemented, because 1036/1626–1627 (f. 146) and 1038/1628–1629 (f. 289) are referred to as current years at the time of composition, and at the end of the book, f. 307v, an event is referred to which took place the 4th Muḥarram 1057/ the 9th Febr. 1647.

The work is divided into 5 bābs :

I (f. 5v) در بیان نسب و حلیه و حسب ازواج مطهرات و اولاد و ولادت و وفات حضرت رسالت پناه صلعم و ذکر خلفای راشدین و بعضی از تابعین رضی الله تعالی عنهم اجمعین

This bāb is divided into 6 faṣls, dealing with biographies of Muḥammad, his first four successors, some Shi'ite Imams, and the founders of the four orthodox schools.

II (f. 117) در بیان نسب (و بعضی) از احوال حضرت قطب الاقطاب خواجه معین الدین حسن سنجری قدس سرہ الخ

It is divided into 12 faṣls, and deals with the biographies of Mu'īnu'd-Dīn, Quṭbu'd-Dīn Bakhtyār, and especially Farīdu'd-Dīn Ganj-i-Shakar and his offspring, male and female.

III (f. 276) در بیان نسب و حسب و ازواج و اولاد و تاریخ وفات حضرت مخدوم شیخ زین العابدین چشتي هندالوی قدس سرہ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

It is divided into 6 faṣls, and deals with the genealogy of Zaynu'l-'Ābidīn, a descendant in the fourth generation of Shakarganj, who settled at Handālī, near Fatḥpūr. The date of his death is not given, but he was a contemporary of Sikandar Lodī (894–923/1488–1517), as may be inferred from an anecdote on f. 278v, and, therefore, he cannot have died later than the beg. of the X/XVIc. The greater part of this bāb is occupied with accounts of his different descendants.

IV (f. 287v) در عرس حضرت رسالت پناه صلعم و بعضی پیغمبران و خلفای راشدین الخ

It is divided into 5 faṣls. A list of the days of every month on which anniversaries of the deaths of different saints are to be celebrated. Only in a few of them the years are also mentioned. Details are also added concerning affiliations to which the author's father belonged.

V (f. 299v) در بیان اولاد حضرت شیخ سعد حاجي ابن شیخ کوره ابن شیخ شعیب که جد عم حضرت کنجشکر میشود الخ

An account of Shaykh Sa'd, a relation of Ganj-i-Shakar, his descendants and different saints who are buried at Pākpatan. It is divided into three faṣls.

Another copy of this work is described in Bh 87. It has been lithographed in India, 1301. Beg.

The well-known account of the biographies: of Mīr Muḥammad, surnamed Miyān Jīw or Miyān Mīr (d. 1045/1635-1636), a Qādirī darwīsh, spiritual guide of the author of the work, prince Dārā Shikūh (d. 1069/1658); also of some of his relations, and disciples. It was completed in 1052/1642–1643. See R 357–358, etc. The work, although comparatively rare in MSS. in the West, is common in India, and has been several times lithographed in the original Persian, or in Hindustani translations.

74. مؤنس الارواح

Mu'nisu'l-arwāḥ. I 1028.

Biographies of the Chishtī shaykhs, from the legendary beginning of the affiliation to the famous Chirāgh-i-Dihlī, who d. 757/1356 (f. 65v). It was completed by its authoress (cf. f. 4v), Jahānārā-Begum, daughter of Shāhjahān (d. 1092/1681), the 27th Ramaḍān 1049/the 21st January 1640 (f. 66). The work contains nothing new, and is a brief repetition of the statements from the well-known Chishtī hagiologies and the Safīnatu'l-awliyā' by Dārā Shikūh. See EB 372, R 357, etc. It has been repeatedly lithographed in India, in the original Persian and in Hindustani translations. Beg. as usual:

The well-known biography of 'Abdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī, see IvASB 268. As the time of composition of the work still remains doubtful, I may add here that the most probable date must be the later half of the XI/XVIIc. In addition to a reference to the Takmīlu'l-īmān, by 'Abdu'l-Ḥaqq Dihlawī (f. 3, l. 3), there are also several other references to the saints of the XI/XVII/c., such as on f. 56, to Aḥmad Fārūqī Sarhindī (d. ca. 1035/1625). 78. فردوسیهٔ قدسیه

Firdausiyya-i-qudsiyya. II 339.

A voluminous hagiology of the main line of the Chishtī affiliation from its legendary origin to Naṣīru'd-Dīn Chirāgh-i-Dihlī (d. 757/1356); also biographies of the shaykhs belonging to its local branch, of Barnāwa and Rāprī.[1] The title of the work, given on f. 2, may also be Chishtiyya-i-bihishtiyya :

این رساله است مسمی باسم فردوسیه یعنی نام این نسخه چشتیه بهشتیه الخ

The author's name and the date of composition are not given in their customary places. The compiler is called in the colophon 'Alā'u'd-Dīn Muḥammad Chishtī Barnāwī. Apparently he makes no allusions to himself in his work. The latest dates referred to in the book are : 1069/1658–1659 (f. 296), 1071/1660–1661 (f. 115), and 1076/1665–1666 (f. 336v). Most probably it is exactly this particular work which is mentioned in the list of the sources of the Sawāṭi'u'l-anwār (which was completed in 1142/1729), see EIO 654 (col. 327). It is there called by its second title, the Kitāb-i-Chishtiyya-i-bihishtiyya.

Probably, therefore, it has been composed towards the end of the XI/XVIIc. It is divided into a muqaddima, 28 dhikrs, a khātima (f. 328), and a waṣlu'l-khātima (f. 342v).

The dhikrs 1–21 (ff. 4v–40v) are short notes on the early saints of the Chishtī affiliation, beg. with Muḥammad himself, and ending with Naṣīru'd-Dīn Chirāgh Dihlawī (d. 757/1356). The next six dhikrs are of a much more detailed nature, and the last one, occupying more than half of the volume, contains much information. They are usually divided in several madhkūrs (or faṣls). These biographies are as follows :

22 (f. 40v). Badru'd-Dīn b. Sharafi'd-Dīn Anṣārī, d. the 25th Shawwāl 788/the 19th Nov. 1386.

23 (f. 56). Naṣīru'd-Dīn Buzurg, d. the 11th Dhī'l-ḥijja 855/the 4th Jan. 1452.

27 (f. 124). Farīdu'd-Dīn b. Bāyazīd b. Pīr Būd'han, d. the 5th Jum. I 987/the 30th June 1579.

28 [1] (f. 147). Bahā'u'd-Dīn b. 'Alā'i'd-Dīn, the grandson of the preceding shaykh. He died the 17th Rab. II 1038/the 14th Dec. 1628 (f. 287v). It is a very lengthy biography, and deals with: the Shaykh's youth, education etc. (f. 147v); his austerities, etc. (f. 150); his association with other Sufis (f. 156); his miracles (f. 183v); his calls on the Sultān, etc. (f. 214); his attitude towards the samā', etc. (f. 230v); his compositions (f. 255v); his virtues; the circumstances of his death (f. 279); his relatives and descendants (f. 289).

The khātima (f. 328), deals with some additional information concerning various descendants of the shaykhs mentioned above.

The Waṣlu'l-khātima (f. 342) deals with eulogies and glorifications of the Chishtī affiliation.

(Majmū'a). I 79.

A collection of spiritual pedigrees of Sufic shaykhs of Kashmir, biographical anecdotes concerning some of them, and a few fragments of Sufic contents. The copy, written from the beginning to the end in the same peculiar hand, dates probably from the middle of the XIII/XIXc. It contains:

1. (f. 1v). Khaṭṭ-i-irshād-i-Mīr Muḥammad Hamadānī. A fragment, only one page, of the 'spiritual certificate,' usually given by a murshid to his disciple on completion of his mystical education. The present one, in Arabic, is supposed to be a copy of the document of this kind given by Muḥammad Hamadānī (d. 834/1430–1431, see f. 96v), son of the celebrated Sayyid 'Alī Hamadānī (d. 781–786/1379–1384), to a no less illustrious disciple, Nūru'd-Dīn Rīshī Kashmīrī (d. 835/1431–1432, see f. 97v). Beg.

الحمد لله الذي وفقنا و سایر العباد باتباع طریق الهدی الخ

2. (ff. 2–4). Fragments and scrappy notes of religious contents. The largest of them (ff. 2–2v) contains the end of some legend concerning Adam, etc.

3. (ff. 4v–105v). (Ansāb-i-mashā'ikh-i-Kashmīr.) A collection of genealogical tables and the 'chains' of spiritual succession from Adam to Jesus (f. 9), Muḥammad (f. 16v), ʻAlī (f. 17), his descendants, various early Sufis, and the famous mediæval saints, especially those who flourished in Kashmīr. Sometimes dates of deaths and other details are given, but unfortunately they become very scarce with the shaykhs of more modern periods. The latest dates apparently are 1101/1690 (f. 92v), and 1128/1716 (f. 46v). The compiler does not mention his name. Judging from the general character of the work, it may have been a portion of a darwish risāla, or a memorandum of the information which a Sufi must know by heart. Beg.

80. كنج فياضي

Ganj-i-Fayyāḍī. III 28.

A biography and a long account of the letters and instructive discourses of an Indian Sufic saint, Abū'l-Fayyāḍ Ghulām Rashīd Arshad (b.) Muḥammad Rashīd Muṣṭafā ʻUthmānī Jaunpūrī. He was born the 8th Rab. I 1096/the 12th Febr. 1685 (f. 2v), and was still alive in 1147/1735, in which year the present book was compiled. The author, Ghulām Sharafi'd-Dīn b. Imāmi'd-Dīn b. Karīmi'd-Dīn, a grandson of Hidāyatu'l-lah Qādirī Rashīdī Arshadī Fayyāḍī Minyarī (or Minbarī ?), was a disciple of the saint in question. He attended the latter's discourses for the period from the 11th Muḥarram to the 12th Ramaḍān 1147/the 13th June 1734—the 5th Febr. 1735, and carefully summarised his instruction in special notes written every day. In addition, he has collected the saint's epistles dealing with general Sufic matters, which he also edited in this work (ff. 20–70). The book is divided into five bābs:

۱ (f. 2v) در ذکر ولادت و نسب حضرت پیر دستگیر (in 2 faṣls)

The bulk of the work (ff. 70–303v), summarising the saint's teachings, deals with very different subjects connected with Sufism, without any arrangement or order. At the end there are some glorifications of the saint, in verse. Beg.

81. اشجار الجمال

Ashjāru'l-jamāl. III 2.

An account of some local families of Sufis, residing at Kol (كول, now Aligarh), to which are added: a long series of legends of prophets, lives of Muḥammad, his successors and early Muhammadan saints (ff. 10–98), a brief discussion of the traditional (and purely fictitious) division of Sufis into four khānwādas with subdivisions of each into twelve salsalas (ff. 98–110); and biographies of saints belonging to the different Indian Sufic affiliations: Qādirīs (f. 110); Naqshbandīs (f. 140); Chishtīs (f. 150); Firdausīs (f. 168v); Suhrawardīs (f. 180); and a spurious salsala of Abū Sa'īd b. Abī'l-Khayr (d. 440/1048–1049, f. 198v), to which the author attaches most different saints, and especially a highly spurious one, called 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān Shamsu'l-'Ārifīn (f. 207). He is supposed to be something like a reincarnation of Abū Sa'īd, born at the moment of the latter's death, etc.,—the same story as the one told about Aḥmad-i-Jām. This saint is represented as the author's ancestor, and many references are given to prove his much doubted historical reality. The biographies of the author's ancestors who lived at Kol (of which a brief account is given on ff. 259–260v), whatever may be their authenticity, probably constitute the only new information in the book. All other materials are taken from a large number of well-known works, enumerated on ff. 8–9v. Some of them are theological treatises, the others histories; and lastly Sufic and hagiological works. Amongst the latter the Mir'ātu'l-awliyā', by Muḥammad 'Ālam Samarqandī, Aḥwālu'l-aṣfiyā', Manāqibu'l-awliyā', Shajaratu'l-wāṣilīn, and Shamsu'l-mafākhir seem to be uncommon.

The author gives his own name in the beginning of the book

as Muḥammad b. Yār Muḥammad b. Kamman Kūlawī. According to his autobiography, given on ff. 247v–249, he was born on the 2nd Dhī'l-Ḥijja 1098/the 9th Oct. 1687. In the beginning of the work the year 1147/1734–1735 (f. 5) is given as the date of compilation (ترقیم). But towards the end of the book the year 1151/1738 is very frequently mentioned as still current at the time of composition (ff. 247, 256v, 258, etc.). On f. 267 this year is given as the date of completion :

هزار و صد و پنجه و یک بسال (sic)' ز هجرت که تالیف شد بر کمال'

The title is given on f. 8, but on the margins there is added :

و بخاطرم اخبار الجمال کزید' الخ

There is, therefore, a possibility that the work is sometimes called Akhbāru'l-jamāl. Beg.

الحمد لله ... اما بعد فقال ... (محمد بن) یار محمد بن راجي الخ

The copy, which is defective at the end, and badly damaged in its greater part, dates from the end of the xii/xviii c., or the beg. of xiii/xix c. Numerous notes on the margins, by a different hand.

Rauḍatu'l-qayūmiyya.

روضة القيومية

III 57.

A very detailed compilation on the lives and miracles of the Sufic shaykh Aḥmad Fārūqī Sarhindī, and his three immediate successors, all belonging to the Indian branch of the Naqshbandī affiliation. The author, Abū'l-Fayḍ Kamālu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Iḥsān b. Ḥasan Aḥmad (d. 1149/1736) b. Muḥammad Hādī b. Muḥammad 'Abdi'l-lah b. Aḥmad Mujaddid-i-alf-i-thānī Sarhindī, was a descendant of the saint in the fourth generation. He gives only a very scanty autobiography (ff. 241v–242), but a great many references to himself are scattered throughout the book, and it appears that he was a khalīfa of the saint in Oudh or Bengal. As he writes on ff. 2v–3 and 241v–242, he began compiling the present work before 1152/1739. But events compelled him to interrupt the work till about 1154/1741. He has apparently not given the date of completion in the text. Although in the concluding lines of the work (f. 402) he mentions Muḥammad Shāh (who died in 1161/1748) as still reigning at the time of composition (سلطان اینوقت است خلد الله ملکه و سلطانه), some later dates are incidentally found in the narrative, such as 1164/1751 on f. 241v, etc.

His book is divided into four rukns, subdivided into numerous sections; these four rukns are construed more or less on the same plan.

I rukn (f. 4v). The life of the first qayūm, Aḥmad b. Rafī'i' d-Dīn Fārūqī Sarhindī, surnamed Mujaddid-i-alf-i-thānī, i.e., 'the renewer (of Muhammadanism) in the second millennium,' born the 14 Shawwāl 971/the 26th May 1564, d. the 28th or 29th Ṣafar 1034/ the 10th or 11th Dec. 1624 (f. 112 v). It is difficult to understand what really were the grounds for these extravagant claims for his passing as something like a reincarnation of Muḥammad, or at least being his equivalent for the beginning of the second millennium of the Muhammadan era. Considerable prominence is given to the supernatural element in all these biographies. Prophecies concerning the shaykh are ascribed to Muḥammad himself, and Sufis, such as Aḥmad-i-Jām, with a dozen others; to astrologers, and even jinns (ff. 15v sq.). Lengthy stories are given about his miracles (ff. 93 sq.), etc. The events of the Shaykh's biography are narrated year by year, which is indeed a great improvement as compared with the usual practice of hagiologists to heap together anecdotes pertaining to different periods of their subject's life. At the end, after dwelling on the saint's 'properties' (khāṣṣiyāt, ff. 105–107), his last will and final admonitions (ff. 107–110v), the story of his life comes to an end with details concerning his last illness (f. 110v), his death, and burial (f. 113). After this a detailed account is given of his numerous offspring (ff. 114v sq.), disciples and khalīfas (ff. 130v sq.), and a brief note is added on some eminent men of different classes who came into contact with the Shaykh. The full heading of this rukn is as follows:

آغاز داستان رکن اول این کتاب روضة القیومیت (sic) در بیان احوال قیوم اول این امت که عبارت است از مجدد الف ثاني حضرت شیخ احمد سرهندی رضی الله تعالی عنه، ذکر بیان بشارات یعني خبر دادن حضرت خاتم الرسل علیه الصلوات و السلام و اولیاء امت بوجود مسعود حضرت مجدد الف ثاني الخ

II rukn (f. 145v). The life of the second qayūm, 'Urwatu'l-wuthqā, the son of the preceding one, born on the 11th Shawwāl 1007/the 7th May 1599, d. on the 9th Rab. I 1079/the 17th Aug. 1668. The plan of his biography is entirely similar to that of the preceding one. His miracles are dealt with on ff. 213 sq.; his pious example on f. 217; his descendants, disciples, etc., on ff. 226 sq. Beg.

III rukn (f. 258). The life of the third qayūm, Muḥammad Naqshband Ḥujjatu'l-lah, the son of the preceding one, born on the 10th Ram. 1034/the 16th June 1625, d. on the 29th Muḥarram 1114/the 25th June 1702. His biography, narrated year by year, miracles (f. 298), pious example (f. 300), descendants, disciples, halīfas, etc. (f. 302v). Beg.

IV rukn (f. 306v). The life of the fourth qayūm, Muḥammad Zubayr, born on the 5th Dhī'l-Qa'da 1093/the 5th Nov. 1682, d. on the 4th Dhī'l-Qa'da 1152/the 2nd Febr. 1740. As in the former biographies, after the description of his life are given his miracles (ff. 377), pious example (f. 381v), the circumstances of his death (f. 387v), his descendants, disciples, khalīfas, eminent men who had some connection with the saint, etc. (ff. 255v—end). آغاز داستان رکن چهارم این کتاب القیومیت (sic) در بیان احوال قیوم رابع حضرت سلطان الاولیا خلیفة الله خواجه محمد زبیر رضی الله تعالی عنه، واقعات بشارات که دلالت میکند بوجود مسعود آنحضرت الخ

The compiler gives an enormous number (probably more than two thousand) of short biographical notes of different persons, either descendants or disciples of these four saints. Almost all of them are, probably, of only very limited interest for a special study of modern Indian Sufism. It would therefore not be justified to use the space required for such a purpose in this Catalogue, which does not deal specially with Sufism, to give a complete list of them.

Of much more general interest are many interesting hints and sidelights on Indian history, scatterred throughout the book. The saints, whose biographies are dealt with here, were always in touch with the ruling circles of Dihlī and mixed in the high politics of their times. Some special interest attaches probably to a detailed account of Nādir's invasion, of which the author was an eye-witness (ff. 362–375).

The authorities on which his earlier biographies are based, are given by the author on ff. 3–3v :

Ḥaḍratu'l-quds, by Badru'd-Dīn, a khalīfa of the first saint, Aḥmad Sarhindī, with whose biography it deals.

Zubdatu'l-maqāmāt wa barakātu'l-Aḥmadiyya, by Hāshim Kishmī (Kashmīrī ?), another khalīfa of the same.

Kawākib-i-durriyya, by Muḥammad Hādī, the grandfather of the author.

Ḥujjatu'l-Aḥmadiyya (?), by the same, a concise work.

Tajdīdiyya, also by the same.

Najmu'l-hudā, also by the same.

Tarwījiyya, also by the same (a dogmatic work, dealing also with biographies of different shaykhs).

Ma'ṣūmiyya, Ṭabaqāt-i-Ma'ṣūmī, Maqāmāt-i-Ma'ṣūmī, Yāqūt-i-aḥmar, also apparently by the author's grandfather.

Ta'rīkh, by Shaykh Muḥammad Shāfī, a grandson of the second qayūm (probably containing, as the next work, only notes on the biography of the saint).

Ta'rīkh, by Mīr Safar Aḥmad, also a grandson of the same second qayūm.

Laṭā'if-i-madaniyya, by 'Abdu'l-Aḥad.

Maqāmāt-i-Naqshbandī, by the son of the third qayūm, Abū'l-'Alī.

Manāqibu'l-ḥaḍarāt, by Muḥammad Amīn, a khalīfa of Ādam Banūrī.

Besides these works specially dealing with the saints of this family, references to them have been found by the author in the well-known historical and hagiological compilations such as :

Mir'ātu'l-'ālam, Mir'āt-i-jahān-namā, Karāmātu'l-awliyā', Safīnatu'l-awliyā', Sakīnatu'l-awliyā', etc. Beg. of the treatise :

83. اصول المقصود

Uṣūlu'l-maqṣūd. I 56.

A history of the Qalandarī affiliation, connected with the Chishtī order, with special regard to its local representatives in the Jaunpūr district, and generally in Oudh. The author, Turāb 'Alī b. M. Kāẓim Qalandarī 'Alawī, mentions that he composed this work following the custom observed in the Chishtī affiliation, to write down the lives of their spiritual ancestors. Probably the more immediate purpose was simply giving prominence to the author's own saintly pedigree. The compilation was begun in 1225/1810 (f. 1v), but apparently not completed till a year later, because 1226/1811 is several times referred to (cf. ff. 238v, 239v, etc.).

The work sheds no light on the origin and the history of the Qalandars and the flourishing period of their movement in India, where it acquired great importance. The author's more or less authentic information begins only with the X/XVIc., when Qalandarīs had finally degenerated, lost their importance, and when their different branches had become amalgamated with other Sufic orders which still flourished at that time, especially the Qādirīs and Chishtīs. For the whole of the earlier period (of at least VI–IX/XII–XVc.) of Qalandarism the compiler gives only fantastical stories of 'Abdu'l-'Azīz Makkī, who lived no less than a little over 600 years, and of Khiḍr Rūmī, who possessed a no less enviable longevity. These legends, which may be exceedingly interesting for a student of folklore, are, unfortunately, considerably spoilt by the attempts of the author to give them a rationalistic and verisimilic form.

The work is divided into 12 aṣls each containing a detailed biography of the saints of the main line, and giving information concerning their disciples, descendants, etc.

The latter was the father of the author, and this is why his biography is very detailed and contains a great number of additional notes on his different relations, disciples, some of his teachings, etc. All of these saints possessed apparently only very limited local importance, and it would be of no great use to give here a complete list of them. Beg. of the treatise :

84. منبهات فی علم الاموات

Manbahāt fī 'ilmi'l-amwāt. II 441.

A collection of biographies of various well known Indian Sufic saints (chiefly those belonging to the Chishtī affiliation), and of a few poets, princes and noblemen. Only very few notes are original, the others are extracts from earlier compilations. The author, who calls himself (f. 10v, top) Ghulām Naqī b. Muḥammad Fatḥ 'Alī Balgrāmī Chishtī Ṣābirī, was born on the 17th Ram. 1231/the 11th Aug. 1816 (f. 111v). He gives (f. 10v) the chronogram for the date of compilation of his work منبهات في علم الاموات هادی احمد حاج, i.e. 1292/1875. But later on he states that the work has been completed, in the Jāmi'-masjid madrasa, at Ḥaydarābād, the 4th Dhī'l-Qa'da 1298/the 28th Sept. 1881 (f. 110). The latest date, however, referred to at the end of the book (f. 111v) is the 10th Rab. I 1299/the 30th Jan. 1882. Concerning himself, except a short biographical note on f. 111v, the author mentions only his visits to this or that shrine, or meetings with various persons involved in the narrative.

The biographical notes are poor in detail. There appears to be no system whatever in their arrangement, only an approximately chronological sequence is observed to some degree. The dates of births and deaths are given, also the length of the lives, places of burial, sometimes a few anecdotes and references to the sources from which the information has been derived. Some of the authorities are referred to as having already been lithographed. Their number is considerable, and it is strange that the compiler has so little benefited from their perusal. It is not impossible, however, that many references are only second hand, or entered to swell the list.

The great majority of works referred to here are the well known theological, Sufic and hagiological treatises. The lesser known ones are: Taysīru'l-ma'sūr fī tarjumat sharḥi's-ṣudūr (f. 19), by Muḥammad Irtiḍā Khān Gūpāmawī, of Madras (end XIII/XIXc.). A portion of this book has been lith. in Madras, 1281/1865.

Mawāhibu's-Sa'diyya (f. 20), by Ghulām Naṣīri'd-Dīn Sa'dī Balgrāmī, also a modern compilation.

Anīsu'l-wā'iẓīn (f. 23v), by Abū Bakr Qurayshī Sind'hī (lith. Bombay, 1886).

Sarmāya-i-masākīn (f. 36v), by Muḥammad Manṣūr 'Alī b. Muḥammad 'Alī (completed 1287/1870, also lith.).

Maẓhar-i-Jalālī (f. 40v), apparently a biography of Jalālu'd-Dīn Bukhārī.

Siyar-i-shuyūkh-i-Muḥammadiyya (ff. 23, 49, frequently), apparently the same as the A'rās-i-shuyūkh-i-Muḥammadiyya, on f. 42.

Ḥirzu'l-'īshiqīn (f. 55), by Ḥabību'l-lah Bījāpūrī, with the takhallus Ḥāmid, d. 1041/1631.

Gulzār-i-aṣfiyā (ff. 72, 82, etc.), by Ghulām Ḥusayn Khān, surnamed Khān-Zamān Khān, also a modern work.

Misbāḥu'n-nasab-i-'aliyya-i-Shāh Yāsīn Qalandar (f. 81v), also apparently XIII/XIXc.

The author frequently refers to his own earlier work, the Khazāna.

The copy may be contemporary with the author himself, but although there is a note on f. 9, stating that the MS. is an autograph, there are no direct indications in it to this effect. On ff. 1–8v there is a list of the biographies given in the work, and of notes on different subjects. A few marginal notes are found on several folios. Beg. (f. 9v):

85. اخبار برمکیان

Akhbār-i-Barmakiyān. I 127.

The story of the family of the Barmakides, who have been exterminated by Hārūn, the Abbaside khalif (170–193/786–809), and his successors. It is based on historical and traditional information, and has a didactic tendency, glorifying the virtue of generosity. The author of this version, the well-known historian Ḍiyā'u'd-Dīn Baranī (flourished in India about the middle of the VIII/XIVc.), translated it from Arabic (f. 4), and dedicated to Fīrūz Shāh of Dihlī (752–790/1351–1388). There were probably several different works from which portions have been translated. The author of one of them was Abū'l-Qāsim Ṭā'ifī (f. 4v), who is also called Muḥammad (f. 13), or Muḥammad Aḥmad (f. 15), or even Abū'l-Ḥasan (f. 36v). Many authorities are quoted as rāwīs, and it is not always clear whether Baranī refers to them directly or translates the text of the Arabic original. In the end, however (f. 142v), he calls the author of the work in question, Muḥammad 'Ubaydu'l-lah b. Muḥammad al-Abarī. For references see EIO 569, EB 308, R 333, etc. Cf. also Elliot, Hist. of India, III, 93, VI, 484; C. Schefer, Chrestomathie Persane, II, p. 6 sq. Lith. Bombay, 1889. Cf. also Bl I 633 where another version of the biographies of the Barmakides is described.

In the colophon the work is called Ta'rīkh-i-Barmakī. Beg as usual:

(Tadhkira-i-khūshnawīsān). II 430.

A brief tadhkira of the eminent early calligraphers and famous scribes of later periods with special reference to those of them who flourished under the Indian Timurides. The author does not mention the exact title of his work, the date of its completion, nor his own name in the usual places. His information is very poor, and he gives few facts and dates. Instead of these, pages of florid poetical quotations are given. From an incidental reference on f. 40 it appears that the name of the author was Ghulām Muḥammad, surnamed Haft-Qalamī, probably with a takhallus Rāqim. The latest dates which he mentions, in connection with the biographies of his contemporaries, are 1227/1812 (cf. f. 50), and 1228/1813 (cf. ff. 43v, 49v), and the work may have been completed shortly afterwards. For a biography of the author see R 532, where another copy of the same work is described. It has been published, 1910, in the Bibliotheca Indica, by M. Hidāyat Ḥusayn, with an index. The copy is bad and defective, with lacunas after ff. 16, 27, and several places left blank. Beg.

An autobiography of Muḥammad Fayḍbakhsh b. Ghulām Sarwar Kākūrī, together with numerous biographical notes on his relations, friends, etc., who belonged to different zamīndār families of Lucknow, Fayḍābād and other districts, now forming parts of the United Provinces. There are also many references to the political life of India, contemporary with the author. For details of his biography see R 309 (where his history of Fayḍābād is described); also cf. Elliot, Hist. of India, VIII, 175 and JASB, vol. 23 (old series), p. 248. There is no exact title given in the text, nor the date of composition. The latest dates are 1229/1814 (cf. f. 32), and 1230/1815 (cf. f. 70); the last one is called the current year at the time of compilation. There is no proper arrangement in the work, and it appears to be a long series of notes which have not undergone final classification.

The present copy contains a great many marginal notes in the same handwriting as that of the original text, and may have been subject to a special revision. There are, however, no direct allusions as to its possibly being an autograph. Beg.

III. GEOGRAPHY, COSMOGRAPHY, TRAVELS, ETC.

88. عجائب المخلوقات و غرائب الموجودات

'Ajā'ibu'l-makhlūqāt wa gharā'ibu'l-mawjūdāt. III 71.

A translation of the famous cosmographical work of Zakariyā b. Muḥammad b. Maḥmūd al-Kamūnī al-Qazwīnī (f. 1v), who died in 682/1283. The translator does not mention his own name or the date of his rendering the original work into Persian. It is apparently the same version as that described in EIO 712, 713, RsBr 279, Br 126, EB 397, 398, Pr 367, R 462, Fl II 506–508, Dorn C. 258, etc. Lith. Tehran, 1848 and Lucknow, 1866. The original text was edited by F. Wüstenfeld, 1848, and translated into German by H. Ethé, 1868 (only one vol.). This work, being exceedingly important, is referred to by many authors, but such references usually are made to the original Arabic text, and will therefore be useless when dealing with the Persian translation.

As in other copies, referred to above, there is no mention of the fact that the work is a translation. But the language is strongly mixed with Arabic expressions. The dedication mentioned in R 462 is not found here.

Only a few of the numerous drawings and tables, which are usually found in copies of this work, have been executed, although space has been reserved for them throughout the volume. Beg. العظمة (here الظمة) لک و الکبریاء لجلالک اللهم یا قایم الذات (here اللذات) و مفیض (here مفض) الخیرات الخ

89. نزهة القلوب

Nuz'hatu'l-qulūb. I 1043.

The well-known cosmography of Ḥamdu'l-lah b. Abī Bakr b. Ḥamd Mustawfī Qazwīnī (f. 2v), who died ca. 750/1349. The work was composed in 740/1339, because this year is sometimes mentioned by the author as being current at the time of composition (cf. f. 25). For details concerning the work and its compiler, see Bl 657–663, Br 121, 122, RS 136–137, EB 406–412, R 418, 811, Fl II 514,515, Aum 64; Ind. libr. Bh 98,99, Bk 633, etc. Cf. also S. de Sacy, Mémoires sur diverses antiquités de la Perse, 1793, pp.

234,235; B. Dorn, Auszüge aus den Muhammedanischen Schriftstellern, pp. 81–87 (texts). It has been lithographed, Bombay, 1894; the geographical part of it was translated by G. Le Strange, 2 vols, 1915,1919 (in the Gibb Mem. Ser.); cf. also Mesopotamia and Persia under the Mongols in the fourteenth century A.D., by G. Le Strange, RAS Monographs, 1903.

The work is divided into a muqaddima, a fātiḥa (f. 5v), a dībācha (f. 37v), three maqālas (ff. 41,87), and a khātima. The present copy contains only about half of the whole work, as far as the middle of the second maqāla. Beg.

Akhbār-i-ḥasīna dar akhbār-i-Madīna. I 17.

The same Persian version of Samhūdī's well-known work on the places of worship at Medina as described in IvASB 281, where references to other catalogues and details concerning the treatise are given. The text of the present copy is slightly different in the beginning. Apparently only the first leaf has been altered, because, from f. 2 the text coincides precisely with that of D 23. The eight bābs, into which the work is divided, begin: I on f. 4; II on f 25; III on f. 46; IV on f. 64v; V on f. 118v; VI on f. 144; VII on f. 152; VIII on f. 157v. There are a few lacunas at the end, but the work seems to be complete. Beg.

91. (تحفة عین الحیاة)

(Tuḥfat 'ayni'l-ḥayāt). I 653.

A short work on cosmography and general geography, the same as the one described in EB 421. In the present copy (which is defective), the name of the author, the title of the work, and the date of composition are not found. The dedication to Sulṭān Maḥmūd Khān, referred to in EB 421, is also missing here. The general style of the work, and the character of the information which the author gives concerning India, renders absolutely untenable H. Ethé's suggestion that this treatise should have been written in Qandahār ca. 1130/1718. The author seems to have had very little knowledge of India; he narrates only fairy tales, and even his orthography is sometimes peculiar (he writes دلّي for دهلي on ff. 42v, 65, etc.). This seems to be impossible for an inhabitant of Qandahar in the beg. of the XVIIIc. It may be safely taken that the author was an inhabitant of the N.-W. of Persia, and in fact he shows a much better knowledge of those provinces.

The date of composition may be traced to some extent, although it is not mentioned explicitly. The year 968/1560–1561 (f. 6v) is referred to in connection with a discussion of eras. It is not improbable, judging from the context, that it was exactly the date of compilation. There are almost no other allusions; references to the authorities are rare, and the works referred to are of an early origin: Ṣiwaru'l-aqālīm (f. 58), the well-known treatise of the VIII/XIVc.; Tuḥfatu'l-gharā'ib (f. 34v), which may be, as far as the contents and chronology are concerned, identical with the work, described in R 871 (composed before 813/1410). There are many dates, all belonging to the early periods, usually given in connection with biographical details of princes or celebrities like Ghazālī, etc.

The work is divided into a muqaddima, on general astronomical principles, and three (actually four) maqālas. It is peculiar that there are two chapters with the heading مقالهٔ دویم, just like in the Bodleian copy. The muqaddima begins on f. 2v; the heading of the first maqāla coincides with a lacuna; the second maqāla (f. 7), divided into 10 faṣls, has the heading:

در معرفت هیئات افلاک (sic) و کواکب بطریق اجمال ،

The third (here the second) maqāla is divided into seven iqlīms (f. 24):

در معرفت زمین و اقسام او باقالیم ،

The fourth (here the third) maqāla, is divided into two qisms (f. 58v):

در تعداد بلاد و ولایات و جبال و بحار و انهار و بحیراتي که در ربع مسکونست ،

This last chapter contains an account of cities in every iqlīm, countries (f. 62), seas (f. 67v), small seas or bays (f. 68v), rivers (f. 70), and hills (f. 72v). Beg. as in EB 421:

شکر و سپاس و حمد بیقیاس مر صانعی را که نقاش قدرت او الخ

The copy apparently dates from the end of the x/xvi c., but many portions of it are restored in a modern handwriting, as ff. 1–3, 12–18, 20–21, 69–71, 74, 75.

Ff. 75; S 8×5,5; 5×3,25; ll 14, double jadwals in the older parts, no jadwals in the modern portions. Or. pap. Good old Herati and modern Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good, but the old parts are rather dirty. Several astronomical drawings and paintings on ff. 8, 9, 9v, 10, 10v, 11v, 19v, 24v.

تاریخ چین

I 129.

Ta'rīkh-i-Chīn.

A historico-geographical description of China, being a translation from the work of a Christian missionary, here called امکیبوس or ریکیبوس, by Muḥammad Zamān, surnamed Farangī Khān. The said missionary, as stated in the introduction, travelled to China in 970/1563, and after a long sojourn in that country wrote an interesting book, which had become famous in Europe. The author of the Persian paraphrase saw it in the library of a Christian missionary at Jahānābād, whom he calls یورنو.

With the assistance of Mr. Johan van Manen and Rev. H. Hosten, S.J., these details, which look obscure, have been explained.

The book in question is De Christiana Expedicione Apud Sinas (probably ed. of 1615; there were, however, several other editions, in different European languages, which appeared about the same time), by Matteo Ricci (born 1552, d. at Pekin, 1610). He started on his journey in reality in 1578, not in 1563 (probably an approximate date). The present Persian version contains an almost literal rendering into Persian of chapters II–X of the first book.

The identity of the translator is established by Rev H. Hosten in his article in the Catholic Herald of India, 1924, pp. 737–738. He was a convert to Christianity, also called Paulo Zaman, mentioned in Storia do Mogor, II, 17. He studied in Rome, where he was sent by Shāh 'Abbās I to prepare himself for polemics with Christian missionaries; but having become himself converted, he retired to India, under Shāhjahān, and lived in Kashmir during a part of the reign of Aurangzīb. He was also a good painter (cf. V. A. Smith, Hist. of Fine Art in India and Ceylon, pp. 466, 467, referred to by Rev. H. Hosten).

The name بورنو is simply a slightly corrupt form of بوزيو = Buzeo, or Henry Busi, S.J., a Dutchman of Nymegen, whose real name was Uwens. He came to Agra in 1648, was attached to the court of Dārā Shikūh, and died at Dehli on the 6th April 1667. He was a very learned missionary.

The work must therefore have been compiled about the middle, or towards the end of the XI/XVIIc.

The translation follows the original text rather closely. The II chapter of Ricci's work was split up by the translator into two separate sections, but the other eight are preserved as they are in the original, and together form ten fasls :

1 (f. 3v) در تحقيق اسم چين و اشتقاق آن ،

2 (f. 4v) در بيان وسعت و بزرگي چين و وضع آن ،

These two correspond to Libr. I, cap. II, De nomine, situ, et magnitudine Regni Sinarum (pp. 3–9).

3 (f. 6v) در ذكر انچه حاصل مي شود در ممالک چين ،

(c. III, Quarumrerum sit ferax Sinensis ager, pp. 9–18).

4 (f. 11) در بيان صنايع جزئيه اهل چين ،

5 (f. 13) در بيان صنايع كليه اهل چين و علوم و مراتب ايشان ،

A short treatise on different wonderful phenomena ('ajā'ib wa gharā'ib), which have been observed in India in the XI/XVIIc., during the reigns of Jahāngīr, Shāhjahān, and the beginning of that of Aurangzīb. The author does not mention his own name. Many anecdotes contain the date of the year to which the narrative refers, the latest being 1080/1669 (ff. 333 and 333v), and 1085/1674 (the 18th of Aurangzīb's reign, p. 336v). It seems, from the epithets accompanying Aurangzīb's name, that the work has still been compiled in his reign. Beg.

95. بهجة العالم

Bahjatu'l-'ālam. I 118.

A compilation on general geography by Mahārat Khān Iṣfahānī, who composed it ca. 1130/1718, see EIO 729 and R 992. In the colophon it is called the first volume, but from the preface of the author it appears that the second volume, with the title Rauḍatu'l-afrāḥ, had still to be compiled and was to be an independent composition dealing with the same matters. This volume is divided into a description of every separate iqlīm, the I on f. 2; II on f. 6; III on f. 13; IV on f. 39v; V on f. 65v; VI on f. 70v; VII on f. 76v; also details concerning: Turkey (f. 80), India (f. 90v), famous islands (f. 108v), mountains

(f. 113v), rivers (f. 117v), brooks (f. 119v) ; and a description of the Maghrib (f. 120).

All information is taken from different early, mostly well known works (such as Qazwīnī's 'Ajā'ibu'l-makhlūqāt, Hasht-bihisht, Āīn-i-Akbarī, and a book called Anīsu'l-'ārifīn). The author gives very few observations of his own, and his ideas about the countries outside Persia and Muhammadan India, are very vague and out of date. Beg.

96. شگرف نامهٔ ولایت

Shigarf-nāma-i-wilāyat. III 34.

A description of a journey from India to England in 1180–1183/1766–1769, by I'tiṣāmu'd-Dīn b. Tāji'd-Dīn of Pājnūr (f. 2, پا جنور as clearly written here, or as in the Britsh Museum copy, Tājpūr). The work is described in detail in EB 1854 and R 383, where information concerning the author's biography and the contents of his book are given. It is only necessary to add that both the British Museum and the Bodleian copies give the date of composition as 1199/A.H. (i.e. 1785 A.D.). The present copy clearly gives the date as 1199 of the Bangla era, i.e. 1206/1791–1792. This may, however, be a mistake of the copyist.

The present copy is slightly incomplete at the end. Beg. differently from the two copies mentioned above :

A supplement to the modern cosmographical work, Ḥadīqatu' l-aqālīm, which was compiled in 1202/1788, by Qāḍī Murtaḍā Ḥusayn, surnamed Allahyār 'Uthmānī Balgrāmī, at the request of a British official, Capt. Jonathan Scott (for references see IvASB 286). The present work, as stated in the introduction, has been composed at the request of the same Capt. J. Scott, with his substantial assistance, if not entirely under his guidance. The author of the supplement is not explicitly mentioned, but it seems highly probable that he was the same Allahyār. On f. 3 he is called, apparently in a quotation from a letter of J. Scott, یار وفادار, and on f. 3v: دوست یکرنگ و رفیق بی بدل. The reason why he has not mentioned his name was most probably the fear of accusations of heresy on account of the exposition of the system of Copernicus (cf. f. 3v).

The work is entirely based on English sources (see f. 2), extracts from which were probably made under the direction of J. Scott. It deals with the system of Copernicus, with general information concerning the globe, the description of the countries of Europe, America, and with the history of England (f. 35v). Beg. الحمد لله و المنت که بمساعدت توفیق فرق لم یزلی الخ

98. تحفة العالم

Tuḥfatu'l-'ālam. II 356

An incomplete copy of the well known description of a journey from Persia to India and Europe, together with some information concerning different Persian provinces, especially that of Shūshtar. The author, 'Abdu'l Laṭīf b. Abī Ṭālib b. Nūri'd-Dīn Ḥusaynī Mūsawī Shūstarī, died (as stated in RS 84) in the Deccan in 1220/1805 or 1221/1806. There is a special appendix (incomplete in this copy, beg. on f. 310v), called Dhaylu't-tuḥfa, which has been written in 1219/1804. The contents of the book have been described in detail in R 383–384. It would perhaps be useful for literary research to draw attention to a few biographies of some poets and theological writers, contemporary with the author. His information concerning them may be reliable. They are (in the alphabetical order of their names):

101. مناقب انبیا

Manāqib-i-anbiyā. II 346.

A short collection of legends about pre-Muhammadan prophets, with brief notes on Muḥammad and his first successors, at the end. The author calls himself Muḥammad Ṣādiq, but gives no information whatever as to the date of composition or the title of the work. The latter is given, apparently in the same handwriting as that of the whole of the book, in the upper corner of f. 1; as far as can be deciphered there it is called the first part of the book (الجزء الاول). The work must have been completed before the 21st Shawwāl 1038/the 13th June 1629, when it was transcribed at Agra. Beg.

Ff. 25; S 7,5 × 4,25; 5,5 × 2; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Good Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good; in some places worm-eaten. A seal, dated 1036 AH., is found on f. 1.

102. (تاریخ انبیا)

(Ta'rīkh-i-anbiyā). II 337.

A brief work on legends about the ante-Muhammadan prophets (ff. 1–13v), a very brief summary of the chronology of the legendary Persian kings and Sasanides (ff. 13v–22v), and a very condensed note on Muḥammad, his successors and posterity. The author does not mention his own name. It is possible that the present work may be an extract from a larger one. The chief attention of the compiler is devoted to the establishment of the chronology, especially of mythical personages like Adam, Noah, etc. He refers to a considerable number of authorities. The work cannot have been compiled before the second half of the X/XVIc., because the Rauḍatu's-ṣafā is often referred to (cf. ff. 2v, 7v, 8, 18), and the year 935/1528–1529 is mentioned on f. 2. Most probably it was written sometime towards the end of the X/XVIc. or in the beg. of the XI/XVIIc. Beg.

بعد از حمد الهي و نعت حضرت رسالت پناهي نموده ميشود الخ

Transcribed about the end of the xi/xvii c.

Ff. 23 (several lacunas); S 8 × 4,75; 6,5 × 3, 5; ll 23, within jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Several seals, all illegible.

103. مرآة مسعودی

Mir'āt-i-Mas'ūdī. I 136.

The life of the legendary Muhammadan saint of India, Mas'ūd Sālār Ghāzī, whose death is usually placed in 424/1033. The author calls himself (f. 7) 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān Chishtī and is apparently the same writer as the compiler of several well known Sufic hagiological works, who flourished in India in the second half of the XI/XVIIc. See R 1029, cf. Elliot, Hist. of India, II, pp. 513–549. This work is different from the version referred to in IvASB 322 and R 1015 (the last one has been transcribed from the Society's copy). Beg. as in R 1029:

الحمد لله رب العالمين عالم الغيب و الشهادت الخ

Dated the 16th Rab. II 1233/ the 23rd Feb. 1818.

Ff. 50; S 8,5×5,5; 6,5×3,5; different number of diagonal, transverse, etc., lines. No jadwals. Different Or. pap. Ind. nast. and shikasta, different hands. Cond. fairly good. Notes on the fly-leaves.

2. Anecdotes and fairy tales.

104. جامع الحكايات و لوامع الروايات

Jāmi'u'l-ḥikāyāt wa lawāmi'u'r-riwāyāt. II 392.

The well known early collection of historical and didactic anecdotes by Nūru'd-Dīn Muḥammad 'Awfī, completed shortly after 625/1228 (referred to in the beg. of the book, ff. 2, 2v), and dedicated to the Mamlūk ruler of India, Shamsu'd-Dīn Īltutmish (607–633/1210–1236). Its title often appears in the form of Jawāmi'u'l-ḥikāyāt, etc.; even in the present copy it is so given in several places, cf. f. 220v, etc. For details about the contents and the biography of the author see Br. Lit. Hist. II, 477–479, GIPh 332, EIO 600-604, RsBr 59, RS 391–392 (the headings of the chapters are given), EB 324–331, R 749 sq. (especially for the biography of the author), Fl I 410, Aum 56–57, etc. Cf. also Elliot, Hist. of India, II, 155–203; Mélanges Asiatiques, vol. III, p. 728; C. Huart, Documents persans sur l'Afrique, Recueil de Mémoires Orientaux, 1905 (extracts). More notes on the author's biography are given in E. Browne's prefaces to his edition (both parts) of the Lubābu'l-albāb, 1903, 1906.

In the present copy, unfortunately, of the four parts (qisms) into which the work is divided, the third is entirely left out:

I (f. 4) قسم اول ..... در معرفت آفریدگار،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

II (f. 220v) قسم دوم ..... در بیان اخلاق حمیده و سر مرضیه ‘

IV (f. 308v) قسم چهارم ..... در بیان احوالهاء عجائب بحار و بلاد و حیوانات ‘

Each qism is divided into 25 bābs (for their headings and the contents see R 749–750 and RS 391). Beg.

ثنا و حمد مبدعی را که بدایع ضایع (i.e. صنائع) وجود یا (i.e. تا) نهایت ارواح عدم هر چند (i.e. چه) هست در حد پادشاهی است الخ

Transcribed in the beg. of the xi/xvii c.

Ff. 372; S 13,75×8,25; 8×4,5; ll 29, within double jadwals. The old margins have been cut off and replaced by new ones. Or. pap. Legible Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good; worm-eaten in many places in the beg. Three good vignettes (ff. 1v, 220v, 308v).

105. طوطی نامه

Ṭūṭī-nāma. II 401.

The well known 52 tales of a parrot, composed ca. 730/1330 by Diyā'u'd-Dīn Nakhshabī, who died towards the middle of the VIII/XIVc. For the contents of the work, biography of the author, references to the extensive literature dealing with the subject of these tales, and other copies see GIPh 258, 324–326, 335, EIO 743–751, 2851, Br 308–309, EB 444–448, Pr 985, R 753 sq., Aum 53–54, Leyden C. I 355–356, etc. Ind. libr. Bh 440–441. Cf. also ZDMG, vol. 21, pp. 505 sq.; Göttinger Gelehrte Anzeigen, 1858, p. 529, etc. An old translation into English was published in 1792 by M. Gerrans. Beg. as usual:

مناجات بحضرت رازق النعمات في عشّة الخ

Dated 1900 of the Samwat era, i.e. 1843.

Ff. 320; S 8,75×5,25; 6×2,75; ll 13, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Modern Ind. nast. Cond. good. A bad vignette and 23 very mediocre illustrations in gaudy colours, on ff. 7v, 28, 43v, 49v, 57, 80, 87, 105v, 118, 121v, 135v, 145, 150v, 157, 177, 197v, 209, 219, 230, 243, 283, 287, 316. A few interlinear glosses in the beginning.

106. عیار دانش

‘Iyār-i-dānish. II 391.

The well known version of the book of Kalīla and Dimna, based on Naṣru'l-lah's translation, compiled by Abū'l-Faḍl b.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Mubārak 'Allāmī (d. 1011/1602), see IvASB 292, where references to other catalogues are given (add RsBr 182). Beg. as usual :

سپاس ازل و ابد خداوندی را که کران تا کران از آشکار و نهان الخ

Dated 1904, apparently of the Samwat era, i.e. ca. 1847.

Ff. 444; S 11 × 6; 7 × 3,25; ll 14, within double jadwals. Or. coloured paper. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A good vignette and mediocre paintings on ff. 7, 29, 37v, 48v, 54, 71v, 78, 101v, 121, 135v, 179, 185, 205, 238, 262, 284v, 306v, 315v, 325, 416. The style and the handwriting is the same as of Nos. 105 and 108.

بهار دانش

Bihār-i-dānish. II 388.

A collection of fairy tales, combined with the story of Jahāndār Sulṭān and Bahrawar Bānū, comp. in 1061/1651 by 'Ināyatu'llah Kanbū (d. 1082/1671), the same as described in IvASB 302, where references to other catalogues are given. Add RsBr 60 and 183. Beg. as usual :

فاتحهٔ کتاب مستطاب آفرینش و پیرایهٔ صحیفهٔ دانش الخ

A fairly good copy transcribed by Ghulām Mahdī 'b. Ḥaydar 'Alī b. Shaykh Muḥammad Mashhadī, and dated the 25th Shawwāl 1168/the 4th Aug. 1755.

Ff. 256; S 9,25 × 5,25; 7 × 3; ll 15, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. good nast. Cond. not quite good; dirty and worm-eaten. Many marginal and interlinear glosses. Notes on the fly-leaves at the end.

The same. II 387.

Another copy of the same work, dating from the middle of the XIII/XIXc. (its handwriting and general style closely resemble that of Nos. 105 and 106). Beg. as usual, see the preceding No. 107.

Ff. 448; S 9,25 × 5, 75; 6 × 3,25; ll 13, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Modern Ind. nast. Cond. good. Bad vignettes on ff. 1v, 6v. Bad and gaudy paintings on ff. 10, 18v, 98, 99v, 102v, 109v, 144, 156, 188, 246, 256, 272, 297, 328v, 353, 367, 393, 410, 420v, 431v. Some folios are left blank.

قصهٔ کامروپ

Qiṣṣa-i-Kāmrūp. II 397.

The story of Kāmrūp and Kāmlatā, in prose and verse, apparently the same as referred to in GIPh 251, EIO 821–822, Pr 995, R 763, etc. The authorship in this particular copy is ascribed to Himmat Khān, whom Rieu (R 697) identifies with Mīr 'Īsā b. Islām Khān Badakhshī, an official under Aurangzīb, who died in 1092/1681. Here his name is mentioned in the opening line, before the usual beginning :

قصه کامروپ و رانی کام لتا تصنیف همت خان بهادر ، and in the colophon :

تمام شد قصه کامروپ و رانی کام لتا از تصنیف همت خان بهادر ،

In the copy described under the next number, which entirely coincides with the present one, this is not explicitly stated. The beginning is the same as the opening line given in the other copies, referred to above, but the last 4 folios (ff. 68–71), are written in verse. The text in both copies seems to be quite correct as to sequence, but the versified portion cannot be treated as an incidental appendix. The tale has been translated into English by W. Franklin, 1793. Beg., after the line quoted above, as usual :

قصه پردازان غرایب آثار و داستان طرازان سوانح روزگار الخ

Transcribed at Lahore in 1826 of the 'Samwat' era, or ca. 1769 A.D., by Dīwīsahāy Dankāl دیویسهای دنکال.

Ff. 71 ; S 7,75 × 3,75 ; 7 × 2,75 ; ll 21, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Stray quotations on the last folio.

The same. II 399.

Another copy of the same work, dated "the 27th Shawwāl of the 23rd year," apparently the end of the XII/XVIIIc., by Gharībdās, son of Dībīdās. No indication as to the author's name, but the text agrees fairly well with that of the preceding copy. Beg. as in No. 109 (only instead of آثار there is اعصار).

Ff. 64; S 9,5 × 6,25 ; 7 × 3 ; ll 17, within jadwals. Coloured Or. pap. (new margins of cheap Europ. pap. are added to the text). Ind. nast. Cond. rather bad ; damaged by dampness and worms.

111. روز نامچهٔ تسخیر قلعهٔ گلکنده

Rūznāmcha-i-taskhīr-i-qal'a-i-Golkonda. I 93.

The well known satirical story of the siege of Golkonda, in 1097/1686, by Ni'mat Khān 'Ālī, usually called Waqā'i'-i-Ḥaydarābād, see IvASB 826 (4). At the end there is (on f. 395) a letter, and another (f. 395v) with the heading Ruq'a-i-Ni'mat Khān 'Ālī ; also several notes (ff. 395v–396v) of different contents, mostly religious. Beg. as usual :

دمی که مدرس کشاف صبح در صفه صدق و صفا نشسته الخ

Transcribed towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

*Ff. 365–396v. For measurements, etc., see No. 94.

112.

The same. II 279.

Another copy of the same work, here called in the colophon Waqā'i'-i-Ni'mat Khān. Numerous marginal and interlinear glosses and notes. Beg. as in the preceding copy No. 111.

Dated the 20th Rab. II of the 16th year of Muḥammad Akbar's reign, i.e. 1236/ the 25th Jan. 1821, by Aḥmad Ḥusayn.

*Ff. 119v–150; S 12,25×6,5; 9×4; ll 19, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good, but the paper is decaying. The seal of the scribe.

113. کشایش نامه

Gushāyish-nāma. II 393.

A collection of stories and anecdotes concerning different cases of rescue from a critical situation, by Rājkarn (f. 2v). It was compiled in 1101/1689–1690, as expressed by a chronogram in the introduction (f. 6v). See GIPh 330, EIO 825, R 767. It is divided into seven gushāyish. Beg. as usual:

قربان آن قادر بیچون که فضای افلاک را با این همه نقوش الخ

Transcribed, at کلیاک, a village in the province of Ḥaydarābād, the 22nd Jum. I 1175/ the 19th Dec. 1761, by 'Ināyat 'Alī Khān.

Ff. 88; S 9×5; 7,5×3,5; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten. Stray notes on the fly-leaf.

114. قصهٔ حاتم طی

Qiṣṣa-i-Ḥātim-i-Ṭayy. III 80.

The well-known collection of anecdotes about the Arab hero Ḥātim-i-Ṭā'ī, or as written in this copy, Ḥātim-i-Ṭayy. This version differs very little from that described in IvASB 308, where references to other catalogues are given. The copy is slightly incomplete at the end. Beg. as usual:

سپاس بیقیاس مر پروردگاری را جل شانه و هزاران نعمت بران محمد مصطفی الخ

Transcribed in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

*Ff. 1–215v; S 8,75×6; 6,5×3,75; ll 12, no jadwals. Or. pap. Careless Ind. shikasta-nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten.

115. افسانهٔ سیف الملوک و بدیع الجمال

Afsāna-i-Sayfu'l-mulūk wa Badī'u'l-jamāl. I 70.

A version of the story of prince Sayfu'l-mulūk and princess Badī'u'l-jamāl closely following the one described in IvASB 318 (2), where references to other catalogues are given. As in almost every other copy, the wording of the text in this transcript does not coincide with that in the version referred to above, although there is apparently no discrepancy in the sequence of the ideas. Beg.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

راویان اخبار و حکیمان روزگار و زیرکان با وقار و ناقلان اثار چنین آورده اند
که در سلطنت سلطان محمود غزنوی قصه آورده اند الخ

Transcribed towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 29; S 10×5,5; 7,75×3,75; ll 17, within jadwals. Or. pap. Clear Ind. nast. (all the same as in Nos. 116, 121, 122, which probably are disjoined parts of one volume). Cond. not good; worm-eaten and injured by moisture. A few marginal glosses.

116. افسانهٔ مهر و ماه

Afsāna-i-Mihr-u Māh. I 72.

The story of the loves of prince Mihr and princess Māh, the same as already described in IvASB 310, where references to other catalogues are given. There are minor discrepancies in the wording, usual in the texts of fairy tales in different MSS. Beg.

راویان اخبار و ناقلان اثار چنین روایت کنند که در دیار مشرق پادشاهی

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 60; S 10×5,5; 7,75×3,75; ll 17, within jadwals. Or. pap. Good Ind. nast. (all the same as in Nos. 115, 121, 122). Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten, injured by dampness. Occasional glosses.

117. مظفر نامه

Muẓaffar-nāma. II 183.

A collection of didactic stories, some autobiographical matters and historical notes, by Gul-Muḥammad b. 'Ināyati'l-lah of Chūnda in Patyāla.[1] The author, as may be inferred from some allusions (cf. f. 141v, where he reflects on the period when he was living in freedom), may have been imprisoned, or exiled, and the present work was perhaps only a device to reach the ears of the sulṭān, who, judging from the compiler's eulogies, was at that time the son and successor of Aurangzīb, Shāh 'Ālam I (1119-1124/1707-1712). The greater part of the book (ff. 7-137v) contains anecdotes and stories tending to illustrate some special moral virtues. Then, of a sudden, the author proceeds to give some information about himself, his childhood (f. 137v), etc., chiefly dwelling on his poverty (فقیری) and destitution (نامرادی); all these complaints, etc., are addressed to himself. At the end, ff. 164–175v, he gives a short review of the troubled state of politics of India which preceded the reign of Aurangzīb and followed his death, when his sons fought each other.

[1] Here not well legible, or by mistake written as تیاله.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The book is of little value, because it has little substance, but is inflated by florid rhetorics which entirely obscure even the few original thoughts conceived by the author. There is apparently not a single date in the book. The title, as given above, has been altered (on f. 2v, and in the colophon), by different hands, and is also added on the margins. In a note on the fly-leaf it appears in the form of Muḍṭarr-nāma, which better suits a book of complaints like the present work. Beg.

ستایش و نیایش مر عتبه کبریای احدیت جل جلاله و عم نواله الخ

Copied some time in the xii/xviii c. There are many alterations, additions, etc., on the margins, but their handwriting is not always the same, and also different from that of the text.

Ff. 175; S 8,25×6; 6,25×3; ll 23, within jadwals. Brown Or. pap. Ind. nast., different hands. Cond. tolerably good.

118. قصهٔ هیر و رانجها

Qiṣṣa-i-Hīr-u Rānjhā. II 396.

A love story, originally composed in Hindī, about Hīr and Rānjhā (cf. IvASB 918), written in super-florid and ultra-bombastic style, with numerous versified passages. The date of completion is given as 1157/1744, expressed by the chronogram قصهٔ عاشقی تمام (f. 84). There is also another chronogram : عشق رانجها و هیر صادق بود which gives 1158/1745 (ibid). The name of the author is apparently not given in the copy, but the work seems to be the same as the one described in R 770, which has been composed in the same year and gives the same chronogram. If so, the author's name must be Mansārām Munshī. Beg. (differently from R 770) :

انتخاب کتاب دانش و عنوان دیوان بینش ستایش الخ

Copying of this transcript was completed, at Multān, in the same year, viz. the 26th Shawwāl 1157/the 2nd Dec. 1744, for one Lāla Ṣāḥib.

119. ملاحت مقال

Malāḥat-i-maqāl. I 982.

A collection of anecdotes, witty sayings, etc., of historical and mixed contents, by Dalpat Rāy, or Dalpat Sing'h, who completed it (cf. the colophon) in 1177/1763–1764. For details concerning the contents and the author's biography see R 1005–1006. Beg.

ملاحت مقال از مدح ممدوحیست که الخ

Copied in Shāhjahānābād, 1235/1819–1820, the 15th year of Akbar II, by Kishchand.

Ff. 87; S 8×6; 6×3,75; ll 14, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad Ind. shikasta. Cond. not good, dirty and worm-eaten.

120. قصهٔ ملکه شاهي

Qiṣṣa-i-Malika Shāhī. II 398.

A collection of a hundred difficult questions, dealing with the most different matters, chiefly Muhammadan theology. They were put by a daughter of Kayqubād, the king of Rūm, called Malika Shāhī, to her competing bridegrooms, amongst whom one, called 'Abdu'l-'Alīm, finally succeeded in answering all these puzzles. This familiar motive of folklore is probably taken from some real popular tale and may deserve attention. Beg.

حمد بیحد و ثناء بیعد مر پادشاهي را که کیتی پدید آورد الخ

Transcribed in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 17; S 7,5×4,5; 5,75×2,75; ll 13, within jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Good Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good.

121. افسانهٔ تولد شدن راجا بیر بکرماجیت

Afsāna-i-tawallud shudan-i-rājā Bīr Bikramājīt. I 69.

Two stories, apparently belonging to one of the numerous versions of tales about Vikram, with which are connected the well known tales of Baytal pachisī and Sing'hasan battisī. The first story gives details of the miraculous birth of Bikramājīt, begotten on princess Padmāwatī by a Gandharva.

The second, here called Afsāna-i-Baytāl (f. 5v), seems to be a continuation of the preceding one, and deals with the adventures of an ascetic, Baytāl, and his dealings with Vikram. Both tales are apparently not a translation of some Hindu work on the subject, because there are great many poetical passages, Persian and Arabic, many references to the heroes of Shāhnāma, and many ideas which are purely Muhammadan. Unfortunately the author does not mention his own name, and does not even give his takhallus in any of the poetical passages. The tale described under the next No. 122, in which prince Vikramāditya also plays a part, may have originally been connected with this story.

Beg. of the first story (f. 1v) :

راویان اخبار و ناقلان اثار در ولادت راجا بکرماجیت چنین آورده

Beg. of the second story (f. 5v) :

راویان اخبار و ناقلان اثار و واقفان اسما و عالمان سرکدشت عجایب

Transcribed towards the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 19; S 10×5,5; 7,75×3,75; ll 17, within jadwals. Or. pap. Clear Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Glosses on the margins.

122. افسانهٔ مانیني منوهر و رتناوتي

Afsāna-i-Mānīnī Manūhar wa Ratnāwatī. I 71.

A story of various adventures of prince Vikram. It is most probably a portion of the same original cycle to which the preceding tales (No. 121) belong. The style is practically the same as that of the latter, but there are fewer poetical passages. Beg.

راویان اخبار و ناقلان اثار چنین اورده اند که شبی رای بکرماجیت

Ff. 19. For the date and description see above, No. 121. Condition fairly good.

123. نگارستان امین

Nigāristān-i-Amīn. II 324.

A collection of stories from Indian life, written in a bombastic and inflated style, completed by Amīn in 1232/1817, as stated in the concluding lines (f. 282). The author mentions his own name only as Amīn (f. 282), and does not give any information about himself. He rarely deals with historical matters (cf. 94v sq., where Aurangzīb is often referred to). His full name may have been Khwāja Muḥammad Amīn Khān, whose friend the scribe claims to have been, as in the colophon :

Copying completed, by this Lāla Bharwan Sing'h, at a place called Pīl Kāmūn Rājā (راجا کامون پیل), the 4th Dhī'l-Qa'da 1233/ the 5th Sept. 1818.

Ff. 282 ; S 9 × 5 ; 6,75 × 3,5 ; ll 12, sometimes written transversely or obliquely, no jadwals. Or. pap. Very bad Ind. shikasta and nast. Cond. almost good. Scrappy notes and quotations on the fly-leaves. Seals on f. 2.

(مجموعة)

(Majmū'a). I 93.

Extracts, chiefly giving instructive moral stories, from different well known works. There are :

1. (ff. 342v–343v). A brief extract from the 34th bāb of the Akhlāq-i-Muḥsinī (here written اخلاق المحسنين), on some principles of physiognomy. Cf. IvASB 1386 (corresponds to ff. 95–97 of E 8).

2. (ff. 343v–348v). Several didactic anecdotes. There are no indications as to the work from which they are extracted.

3. (ff. 348v–355). Extracts from the Al-faraj ba'da'sh-shidda, cf. IvASB 296 (Persian version).

4. (ff. 355v–356). A few lines from the Raudatu's-ṣafā and the Ḥabību's-siyar (see IvASB 10 and 34). Follows (in a different and more modern handwriting) a brief version of the apocryphal waṣāyā, last will of Muḥammad, addressed to 'Alī.

Ff. 342v–356 (356v is blank). For the date, measurements, etc., see No. 94.

V. EPISTOLARY MODELS, OFFICIAL LETTERS, SPECIMENS OF ORNATE PROSE, RHETORIC AND LOGOGRIPHS.

1. Epistolary models and official letters.

125. رسائل الاعجاز

Rasā'ilu'l-i'jāz. Ia 86.

The third, fourth, and fifth risālas from the well known work of Amīr Khusraw Dihlawī (d. 725/1325) on the theory of composition, stylistics and poetics. It is often also called I'jāz-i-Khusrawī, etc. For references see IvASB 334.

The third risāla, beg. (f. 1):

الرسالة الثالث (sic) في اللطايف من المصنوعات، تشتمل على خطين

It deals chiefly with alliteration, word-play, rhyme, etc.

The fourth risāla, beg. (f. 36v):

الرسالة الرابع (sic) في البدايع من المعنوي (sic) تشتمل علي خمسة خطوط، الخ

It deals with various stylistic matters and gives many letters as illustrations of the rules.

The fifth risāla, beg. (f. 112v):

الرسالة الخامسة في السوابق من المنشئات، تشتمل على ستة خطوط

On different forms of letters, etc.

Copied in 1221/1806–1807, the 48th year of Shāh 'Ālam's reign. Ff. 110v–112 blank.

Ff. 171; S 10,25×6,5; 7,5×3,5; ll 14–21, no jadwals. Or. pap. Good Ind. nast., apparently by different scribes. Cond. rather bad in some places; badly injured by worms. Many notes and glosses, marginal and interlinear.

126. عنوان نامهٔ خیالات

'Inwān-nāma-i-khiyālāt. III 33.

A short collection of epistolary specimens, chiefly dealing with Sufic matters, by the same Amīr Khusraw. It is also called

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Inshā-i-Amīr Khusraw. See EIO 1221. The present copy contains a sort of preface, which is apparently not found in the India Office copy, beg.

عنوان نامه خیالات از مسنوی (sic) صاحب کمالات صوزی و معنوزی

امیر خسرو دهلوی الخ (sic)

And a little further on there begins the initial passage from the Duvalrānī Khiḍr Khān:

سر نامه بنام آنخداوند، که دلها را بخوبان داد پیوند،

The beginning of the inshā itself, as given in the India Office copy, appears on f. 2v, top:

عجیب و غریب نامه که خود قاصد شده اظهار حال عاشق الخ

Copying completed at K'hudapah (کهدپه), the 10 Dhī'l-Qa'da 1155/the 6th Jan. 1743.

Ff. 37; S 9,5×5; 8×3,75; ll 16, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. shikasta. Cond. good. A few glosses on the margins.

127.

شرح شبستان نکات

Sharḥ-i-Shabistān-i-nukāt. II 526.

A commentary on the well known Shabistān-i-nukāt wa gulistān-i-lughāt, comp. in 843/1439–1440 by Yaḥyā Sībak Fattāḥī, or Khumārī, or Asrārī, of Nīshāpūr (d. 852/1448), see IvASB 339. In the present copy the whole of the introduction is lost, and the text opens with the initial words of the main text:

م حمد خدائي را که چشمهٔ میم حمدش دریای است در حد کمال کرم،

ش کمال کرم حرف میم است الخ

Without collation it is impossible to ascertain whether this commentary is identical with the one described in EIO 2040. The latter is composed by Muḥammad Bahrām b. Ākhūnd Mullā-Zāda, also called Mullā-Zāda-i-Mullā Ghiyāthu'd-Dīn, whose chronology is not clear.

Of the eight bābs into which the original work is divided, the first beg. on f. 20; II on f. 35v; III on f. 44; IV on f. 52; V on f. 60v; VI on f. 76; VII on f. 88; VIII on f. 113v.

The text of the Shabistān is complete in this copy, but towards the end (ff. 120v-124v) the commentary has not been added, although space is reserved for it.

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or the beg. of the xiii/xix c. No colophon.

Ff. 124; S 10×6,5; 6,5×3,5; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Marginal notes and glosses in the beg. Note of purchase at Baghdad, undated, and a seal.

128. رياض الانشاء

Riyāḍu'l-inshā'. II 326.

A modern copy of the beginning of the well known collection of epistolary specimens by 'Imādu'd-Dīn Maḥmūd b. Muḥammad Gīlānī, surnamed Khwāja-i-Jahān, or Maḥmūd-i-Gāwān (d. 886/1481). See for references to other catalogues, etc., IvASB 343. This volume contains only a small part of the work corresponding to ff. 1v–70v, l. 2, of the MS. F 30 (IvASB 343). Beg. as usual :

يا من توحد ببدايع الابداع و الانشاء الخ

Transcribed towards the end of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 77; S 8×5; 5,75×3; ll 13, no jadwals. Thin Europ. pap. Ind. modern nast. Cond. good. Scrappy notes and poetical quotations in Hindustani on the fly-leaves in the beg. and end.

129. (منتخب انشای جامي)

(Muntakhab-i-Inshā-i-Jāmī). I 462.

A number of ruq'as taken from the well known collection of epistolary models by Jāmī, see IvASB 612(28). The selections are not in the same order as in the original. Beg.

Transcribed in the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 10 (bayāḍ); S 4,5×7; 3,5×5,5; ll 10, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good; slightly worm-eaten. Notes on f. 10v.

130. انشای مروارید

Inshā-i-Marwārīd. Ia 15.

Epistolary specimens, collected by 'Abdu'l-lah b. Muḥammad al-Marwārīd, or, to give him his full name, Shihābu'd-Dīn 'Abdu'l-lah b. Muḥammad Kirmānī, surn. Marwārīd, with the takhallus Bayānī. He was an official in the reign of the Timuride prince of Herat, Abū'l-Ghāzī Ḥusayn (872–912/1469–1506), under the famous wazīr Mīr 'Alī Shīr. After the death of the latter (the 12th Jum. II 906/ the 3rd Jan. 1501), he was appointed his successor, but after the death of Sulṭān Ḥusayn, he retired and he died in 922/1516 (see R 1094, where his other works are mentioned). Although there are frequent references to Marwārīd's inshā in different works on stylistics, and even many quotations from it, the work itself seems to be rare, and probably the only other known copy is EB 1360 (where the title is given as Sharaf-nāma). The great majority of the specimens collected here are original documents, chiefly written by the author on behalf of the government. Therefore they contain many valuable materials for the history of that period. A complete list of the more important entries is given here:

1. (f. 2v). To Amīrak Qāsim Ṣadr, appointed a ṣadr.
2. (f. 5v). To Abū Naṣr of Mayhana, appointed a shaykhu'l-islām.
3. (f. 7). To Sayyid Abū Ṭayib Baqlānī (?), appointed a ṣadr.
4. (f. 8v). To Niẓāmu'l-Mulk, appointed an amīr.
5. (f. 12). A passport for the ḥajj, to Aḥmad Tawakkul Birlās, an official.
6. (f. 13v). To Sayyid Ikhtiyāru'd-Dīn Ḥasan, appointed a qāḍī of Herat.
7. (f. 17v). To Shamsu'd-Dīn Muḥammad (b.) Sayyid Yūsuf, an official.
8. (f. 20v). To Niẓāmu'd-Dīn Mīrjān, a scribe.
9. (f. 22). To one Ḥāfiẓ 'Alī, a divine.
10. (f. 23v). To Afḍalu'd-Dīn Muḥammad, appointed governor of Shāfilān.
11. (f. 25v). To Mu'izzu'd-Dīn Ḥusayn.
12. (f. 28). To Sulṭān 'Alī Muḥtasib, appointed to his office, at Herat, dated the 3rd Ṣafar 890/ the 19th Febr. 1485.
13. (f. 30). To Ṣadru'd-Dīn Ibrāhīm, appointed a professor in the Badī'iyya madrasa.
14. (f. 32). To Ghiyāthu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Dihdār Tarkhān.
15. (f. 33). To Shamsu'd-Dīn 'Alī Munshī, conferring tarkhānship.
16. (f. 35). To 'Amīdu'l-Mulk, appointed a 'guardian of the seal' (داروغکی تمغا)
17. (f. 35v). To one Zāhidī, appointed a muḥtasib.
18. (f. 38). To Sayyid Ghiyāthu'd-Dīn Muḥammad, putting him in charge of the waqfs.
19. (f. 40). To Kamālu'd-Dīn Bābā Maḥmūd, on the same subject.
20. (f. 41v). To Niẓāmu'd-Dīn 'Abdu'l-Qādir, appointed a naqīb.
21. (f. 44v). To Shujā'u'd-Dīn Muḥammad Burundaq Birlās, appointed an amīr of falconry.
22. (f. 46), 23 (f. 48), 24 (f. 50). To different minor officials.
25. (f. 52). To Ahlī, the poet, leave for the purpose of ḥajj.
26. (f. 53). To Sayfī, the poet, on the same subject.
27. (f. 54), 28 (f. 55v), 29 (f. 59), 30 (f. 59v), 31 (f. 62), 32 (f. 64), 33 (f. 64v), 34 (f. 66), 35 (f. 68v), 36 (f. 69), 37 (f. 70), 38 (f. 73v), 39 (f. 76), all to different minor officials, divines, etc.
40. (f. 77). To Sulṭān Iskandar Mīrzā, leave granted.

41. (f. 79), 42 (f. 80), 43 (f. 81v), 44 (f. 83v), 45 (f. 84v), 46 (f. 87), 47 (f. 88v), 48 (f. 89v), 49 (f. 90v), different appointments of officials, divines, etc.

50. (f. 92). A manifesto to the officials of Samarqand, apparently from Sulṭān Ḥusayn-i-Bayqarā (872–912/1468–1506). He mentions Sulṭān Aḥmad (873–899/1469–1494) and Maḥmūd (899–900/1494), calling both his 'brothers,' as already dead (ff. 92v, 93), and refers to his sons Badī'u'z-Zamān Bahādur (d. 921/1515), Muẓaffar Ḥusayn Gūrgān and Ḥaydar Muḥammad (f. 93v).

51. (f. 94). To Shaykh Najmu'd-Dīn, an official.

52. (f. 94v). A letter of recommendation to Ghiyāthu'd-Dīn غياث, who may be the Khiljī prince of Mālwa (who reigned 880–906/1475–1500), for one Sayyid Nūru'd-Dīn Muḥammad Ḥusaynī, proceeding to India.

53. (f. 96). A letter to Sulṭān Aḥmad (cf. above, 50).

54. (f. 97). To Rustam Beg, the Āq-Qoyūnlū prince (897–902/1491–1496).

55. (f. 99). To Ya'qūb Āq-Qoyūnlū (884–896/1479–1490), concerning the appointment of Mīr 'Alī Shīr as governor of Astrābād.

56. (f. 101). To Shāh Isma'īl I, the Safawide (907–930/1502–1524), concerning politics in Astrābād.

57. (f. 103v). To Rustam Beg (cf. No. 54).

58. (f. 104v). To Ya'qūb Beg (cf. No. 55).

59. (f. 105v). A letter of 'Alī Shīr to Shīrwān Shāh Farrukh-Yasār (867–906/1462–1500).

60. (f. 107). To Nūr 'Alī Beg, a governor, concerning politics in Central Persia.

61. (f. 108v). To Rustam Beg (cf. No. 54).

62. (f. 110v). To Farrukh-Yasār (cf. No. 59).

63. (f. 111v). To Bāyazīd II of Turkey (886–918/1481–1512), from 'Shaykhu'l-islām' (whose name is not mentioned).

64. (f. 114). To Quṭbu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Lāhijī, a divine.

65. (f. 115). To Jāmī, thanks for his Bihāristān (completed in 892/1487).

66. (f. 116) and 67 (f. 117), also to Jāmī.

68. (f. 117v). To Jalālu'd-Dīn Abū Sa'īd Pūrānī, a Sufi.

69. (f. 118). To 'Shaykh Najm' in 'Irāq (cf. No. 51).

On f. 120 there is apparently the beginning of a new section, although there is no heading (space, however, has been reserved for it). It deals with short ruq'as of different contents, mostly private letters of the author, of Mīr 'Alī Shīr, and also those written on behalf of Sulṭān Ḥusayn.

70. (f. 128). A letter to Khwāja 'Ubaydu'l-lah, i.e. apparently the famous Naqshbandī Shaykh, Khwāja Aḥrār.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

71. (f. 129). To Mīr ʿAlī Shīr.

Ff. 129v–135v. Several private letters (amongst them one, on f. 134, to a poet Zamānī), apparently from the author himself.

Ff. 135v–170v. Specimens of ornate prose, dealing with praises to summer (f. 135v), winter (f. 137v), autumn (f. 138v); letters of condolence (f. 140 sq.), and ruqʿas of different contents. On ff. 170v–176 there is a fatḥnāma dated 892/1487. On ff. 176–188 some more specimens of ornate prose are given.

There is apparently no division into chapters. Beg.

ای کرده بکلک صنع ترکیب بشر؛ ز انشای تو نقش بسته اجسام و صور؛ الخ ... انشای حمدی که مترسلان صحائف ابداع املا نمایند الخ

The copy is apparently slightly incomplete at the end. Its bulk is an old MS. dating from the end of the x/xvi c., written in excellent old handwriting, somewhere in Herat or Turkestan. There were, however, lacunas (ff. 59–93, 150–171, 186–188), which, according to a note on f. 1, have been filled in from another copy by one برجلعل, a Hindu scribe, in very bad shikasta. This was done in 1267/1851.

Ff. 188; S 6,5×4,5; 4,5×2,5; ll 12, within blue and gold jadwals. Or. pap. Excellent Herati nast. (in the old portion) and bad careless Ind. shikasta (in the modern portions). Cond. deplorably bad. Badly damaged by moisture and worms. The paper in the modern portion is decayed in several places. Incidental glosses and notes on the margins.

131. گلشن بلاغت

Gulshan-i-balāghat. II 312.

An interesting small collection of letters, apparently the same as EIO 288, written by ʿAbdu'l-Wahhāb b. Muḥammad Maʿmūrī al-Ḥusaynī, with the takhallus ʿAnā'ī (f. 2). He was apparently an official in Persia; about 1000/1592 he started for India. The years 992/1584 (f. 35), 1000/1592 (f. 44), and 1001/1593 (f. 48v) are mentioned in connection with his journey, as also places like Abarqūh (f. 23). Shīrāz (f. 16), Yazd (f. 26v), Farāh, etc. He mentions that he stayed in India as the guest of Abū'l-Faḍl ʿAllāmī (f. 47); one of his letters is written to Iʿtimādu'd-Daula (d. 1031/1622), on f. 35v; Shāh ʿAbbās (the 1st, 995–1037/1587–1628) is spoken of (f. 35) in terms implying that he was alive at that time; on f. 73 Sulṭān Salīm (afterwards emperor Jahāngīr) is referred to. Chronologically he may be identical with ʿAbdu'l-Wahhāb Maʿmūrī, often referred to in the rare epistolographic work of ʿAbdu'l-Laṭīf ʿAbbāsī, cf. IvASB 364 (unfortunately his full name is not given in that work).

The majority of his letters are addressed to his two brothers, Khalīlu'l-lah and especially ʿAbdu'r-Razzāq; the latter was a bakhshī in Gujrāt. The author tells them many things, connected with the politics of his time, which may be very interesting for a historian. Amongst the epistles addressed to other people there are also several, which may have been written by the author on behalf of his superiors, like a report to Mīrzā Luṭfī, a wazīr of Shāh Muḥammad Khudābanda (985–995/1578–1587) about the suppression of the rebellious qalandars at Fahliyān (North of Shīrāz, on the borders of Khuzistān), etc.

Unfortunately in a great number of letters the headings, written in red ink, have faded under the influence of dampness, and there is no mention of the addressee in the text. Beg.

A complete set of all three daftars of the well known collection of letters of Abū'l-Faḍl b. Mubārak 'Allāmī (d. 1011/1602), see IvASB 352. This copy contains :

The first daftar (letters written on behalf of Akbar), beg. as usual :

كونا كون نيايش مر داورى را كه وجود بشر را الخ

The second daftar (letters of Abū'l-Faḍl himself). The beginning of this section is not marked by any special heading, and there is no interruption in the text (f. 53v) :

بحضرت شاهنشاهي ، عرضه داشت كمترين بندها الخ

The third daftar (specimens of ornate prose in the form of prefaces and epilogues to different works). Again no special heading. Beginning (on f. 150v) as usual :

(شرح مکاتبات علامي)

(Sharḥ-i-Mukātabāt-i-'Allāmī). II 504.

A brief commentary on Abū'l-Faḍl's epistolographic work, containing : (1) explanations of some selected letters (f. 1) ; (2) an alphabetical list of some rare words, mostly Arabic, explained in Persian (f. 5v) ; (3) a Persian translation, with explanations of the Arabic passages found in the work, with the heading (f. 9v) :

قسم دوم در تشریح نثر و اشعار عربیه معلقه

(There is apparently no other heading in the MS., and it is not clear what portion constitutes the first qism). The author's name is found twice : on f. 5v, in a passage which seems to be a preface to the second section, and at the end of it, f. 9v. He calls himself Muḥammad Sa'īd Kambū. At the end, in the colophon, against the concluding words on the margin, there is written by the same hand by which the bulk of the text was copied : سنه ۱۰۹۸ هجري ; it probably stands for 1098/1687, and may be the date of completion. Besides, the Safawide Shāh Ṣafī (1037–1052/1628–1642) is referred to on f. 4v. In the old collections of the A.S.B. there is another commentary on the same Mukātabāt, with the title Basātīnu'l-lughāt, compiled by Muḥammad Sa'd (B 11, f. 11v, cf. IvASB 355), which is a different work. A Muḥammad Sa'd, or as in other copies, Muḥammad Sa'īd (see IvASB 541, Bh 313 and cf. Spr 551) has composed in 1097/1686 a commentary on the Gulistān. It seems probable that all three names refer to one author, and the present commentary may be an earlier version of the Basātīn. Beg.

بعد از شرح و بیان حمد و سپاس ایزد منان و تعداد تذکار الخ

The copy is dated the 4th Ṣafar 1104[1]/the 15th Oct. 1692, and is in a very bad state of preservation.

II 352.

A very interesting historical and philological commentary on the first two daftars of Abū'l-Faḍl 'Allāmī's Mukātabāt, by Muḥammad Ḥafīz of Jāland'har (Jullundur). He started his work at Jaunpūr in 1184/1770–1771 (ff. 3,169), under the auspices of his spiritual guide Miyān Sayyid Rūḥ Jīw (cf. f. 2), but completed it in 1213/1798–1799 (f. 169v), long after the latter's death, which took place the 20th Ṣafar 1202/the 1st Dec. 1787 (this date is given as in the chronograms يافت روحي وفات, etc.; as given in words it is only 1200, but then the day of the week, Saturday, is incorrect).

The work has been based on many standard historical books (cf. f. 2v), such as Ā'īn-i-Akbarī, Jahāngīr-nāma, 'Ālamgīr-nāma, etc. It is divided into three qisms:

The first qism (f. 3) deals with the pedigree of Akbar, from Adam, and gives in detail the history of Humayun, ending with 963/1556. The heading is:

قسم اول در تعداد القاب ابائی و اجداد کرامی حضرت شاهنشهی (و شمه از کیفیت و کمیت ایشان)،

The second qism (f. 44v), is devoted to a detailed comment of the first daftar, also giving general notes on the ranks of the officials, and an account of the different rulers of Akbar's time. The heading:

قسم ثانی در معانی لغات و شرح بعضی رموزات و اشارات نامه و فرامین حضرت شاهنشاهی که بپادشاهان والا اقتدار و بشهزاده های عالی تبار و به خوانین نامدار ارسال و صدور یافته از دفتر اول نسخه ابو الفضل مغفور مرحوم مرقوم نموده شد،

The third qism (f. 111) deals similarly with the second daftar, but gives a more philological than historical commentary. At the end (ff. 167v–169) are given the dates of the deaths of various princes, and a very succinct note on the principal provinces of India. The heading:

قسم سیوم در شرح دفتر دوم که شیخ الفضل (sic) از طرف خود بجناب حضرت شاهنشاهی و شهزادهای از عرائض و خطوطات که به برادران و امرایان وغیره نوشته،

Beg. of the introduction :

بعد از ادای الوف حمد و ثنای بحضرت خداوندی الخ

Dated 1854 of the Sambat era, i.e. 1797–1798, or 1213 AH. As this is the year of completion of the work itself, the copy may be an autograph.

Ff. 169 ; S 10,5 × 6,5 ; 8,5 × 4,5 ; ll 18, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Coarse Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good. Incidental marginal glosses. Note on the fly-leaf.

136. مفتاح الموصلات

Miftāḥu'l-muwaṣṣilāt. II 515.

A brief vocabulary explaining the more uncommon, chiefly Arabic expressions in the Mukātabāt-i-'Allāmī, arranged in alphabetical order. The author calls himself 'Abdu'l-Mannān (b.) Shaykh Burhān Sīkrīwāl (سیکری وال). No indications as to the date of composition. The title as above gives a numerical equivalent of 1127, and if it is a chronogram, the book may have been compiled in 1127/1715. At the end the work is called Farhang-i-Abū'l-Faḍl. It seems to be quite different from RS 169 II and IV. The list begins with انفس جهانیان. Beg.

ستایش و نیایش و منتهای بی منتای (sic) مرقادری را سزاد که الخ

Copied apparently about the middle of the xii/xviii c.

* Ff. 1–17 ; S 9,5 × 6 ; 7,5 × 4 ; ll 14–16, within jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Many notes and glosses on the margins.

137. رقعات ابو الفضل

Ruq'āt-i-Abū'l-Faḍl. III 18.

A small collection of Abū'l-Faḍl's private letters, compiled by Nūr Muḥammad (f. 1). See EIO 287, cf. R 396. Ind. libr. Bh 270. Beg. as usual :

بعد از انشای حمد و ثنای حضرت خدواندی الخ

Transcribed in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

* Ff. 1–26v ; S 9 × 5,25 ; 6,5 × 3,75 ; ll 14, no jadwals. Or. pap. Modern Ind. shikasta-nast. Cond. fairly good.

138. منشئات محمد اصفهاني

Munsha'āt-i-Muḥammad Iṣfahānī. II 316.

Epistolary models for official and private correspondence, arranged according to the rank of the persons by whom and to whom the letters are written. In the colophon the author is called Ghiyāthu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Iṣfahānī. There are apparently no real original letters in the collection ; in all of them the names of the correspondents and the dates are omitted. On ff. 7–9 a Fatḥ-nama-i-Baghdād is given, addressed to Herat. The names of Abū'l-Ghālib Sulṭān Muḥammad Mīrzā and of one Muḥammad Khān may be fictitious. On ff. 13–15 there is a document about the appointment of a governor (whose name is not given) to the provinces of Astrābād, Sārī, Kabūdjāma, etc. The document is dated (f. 15) Rajab 971/Febr. 1564. It seems impossible to determine whether the date is reliable, or imaginary. On ff. 22v, 25, there appears the date 10, which may stand for 1000 AH., or perhaps for 10 . . . , indicating that the letter is to be dated 'one thousand and so much.' The copy itself is dated 1063/1653, and it seems therefore probable that the work was written in Persia in the beg. of the XI/XVIIc.

There is no proper doxology. The preface occupies only a few lines, and it may be that the present copy has been transcribed from a defective MS. Beg.

..... بذکر من جری بامرہ القلم' ..... جون محرر این وثیقه و مسطر این ذمیقه الخ

The text begins a few lines below, with کتابت از ملوک بسلاطین.

Transcribed by one Muḥammad Sa'īd, son of Yūsuf Ṣiddīqī, at a place, the name of which is illegible, in the time of Nawwāb Muḥammad Ḥayāt, and dated the 26th Sha'bān 1063/the 22nd July 1653 (an incantation is added: هر که دعوی کند دعوی او باطل کردد, apparently to prevent misappropriation of this copy).

Ff. 59; S 9×5,5, 7×3,75; ll 15, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Dirty, worm-eaten, damaged by moisture. Interlinear glosses on many folios. Notes on the first and the last leaves, also seals dated 1173 AH.

بیت الشرف معانی

Baytu'sh-sharaf-i-ma'ānī. II 277.

Models of compositions in ornate prose and epistolary style, by Naṣīrā, or, quoting his full name, Muḥammad Naṣīr al-Imāmī al-Hamadānī, who d. in 1030/1621 (see RS 318 II), cf. ff. 5v, 13, 25v, etc. Isolated letters by this author, or extracts from his compositions, are often found in different anthologies, but copies of this work are apparently rare. It is divided into two bābs and a khātima (cf. f. 5, top). The first of them contains the dībāchas in flowery prose with many versified passages, mu'ammās, etc. Apparently only two of them contain dates: 1014/1605–1606 (f. 27) and 1015/1606 (f. 24). Shāh 'Abbās (I, 995–1037/1587–1628) is referred to on ff. 14, 27, etc. There are apparently no official documents. The second bāb is devoted to private letters (ruq'āt), f. 34. The khātima is not distinguished by a special heading. Numerous comments and glosses on the margins. Beg.

مبدعی که سبعه معلقات هفت آسمان الخ

The copy is dated the 14th Jum. II 1259/the 12th July 1843, transcribed by Muḥammad Ḥamīdu'l-lah, at Dādarī (the seal of the scribe, dated 1255 AH. is found on f. 34).

ارشاد الطالبین

Irshādu'ṭ-ṭālibīn. II 321.

A bad, incomplete copy of this well known work on epistolography, usually called Inshā-i-Harkaran, comp. ca. 1040/1631 by Harkaran, son of Mat'huradās Kanbū Multānī, see IvASB 363. One folio in the beginning is apparently lost, and the book opens in the middle of the preface. Of the seven bābs into which it is divided, the 1st beg. on f. 1; 2nd on f. 4; 3rd on f. 7v; 4th on f. 11; 5th on f. 18; 6th on f. 27v; the heading of the seventh bāb does not appear, although the final leaves probably belong to it. Apparently there is a large lacuna coinciding with almost the whole of the 6th and 7th bābs.

Dated the 8th Ramaḍān 1232/ the 22nd July 1817.

Ff. 29; S 10 × 6,5; 8,25 × 4,25; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. bad. Worm-eaten and repaired. Interlinear glosses.

142. تحفهٔ سلطانیه

Tuḥfa-i-sulṭāniyya. II 284.

A collection of models of official, legal and business documents, the same as IvASB 411. The name of the author is here given as Ḥasan b. Gul Muḥammad. There are no headings in each of the three bābs into which the work is divided (cf. f. 3); first are given specimens of correspondence between princes (f. 3); the next section gives a collection of firmāns addressed to different people (f. 21). The last section در مکاتبات شرعیه begins apparently on f. 34v. As in other copies, all proper names are replaced with فلان and all dates with کذا, so that there is no key to the real date of the composition, but the work may belong to the XI/XVIIc., because the Paris copy (Bl 1063) is dated 1044/1634. Beg.

143. (رساله در انشا و غیره)

(Risāla dar inshā wa ghayruhu). II 325.

A treatise of encyclopædic contents, with special attention paid to poetics, versification, questions of style, and calligraphy. The author, who does not mention his own name, composed it for the instruction of his own son (whose name is given on f. 3 as Kamālu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Qāsim). In some of his verses the author uses the takhallus Fāḍil, cf. f. 34v. Almost all questions pertaining to elementary education are dealt with to some extent. The work has been completed, as explicitly stated on f. 66, the 6th Sha'bān 1069/the 29th April 1659, in the pargana of Bāwal (پرگنه باول, somewhere near Sūrat). The same date, 1069/1659, is referred to on ff. 46 and 65v in expressions implying that it was the current year at the time of composition. Numerous quotations are given on ff. 33v–52v from different poets, old and modern, the latest probably being Ṣā'ib (ff. 33v, 36v). Amongst others the rarer ones are (f. 34v) Ibrāhīm Ad'ham; (f. 36v) Bū Turāb, Sa'd-i-Gul, Nādirī, Naqī and Raḍī (or Riḍā) Kamānī; (f. 38v) Shahīdī, etc.

This work occupies ff. 1-68v in the volume. Beg.

املا چه عبارتي ز خط آرائي است ،
انشا چه كنايتي زخوش كويائي است ،

On ff. 69–78 there is a collection of epistolary specimens from different authors, with the heading:

رقعات متفرقه من كلام ملا عبد العزيز مرحوم ،

Besides the letters, of 'Abdu'l-'Azīz referred to here, others are given from Naṣīrā (see No. 140), on ff. 76–77v; Jalālā (f. 77v); Bāqir 'Alawī (f. 78) and Kamālu d-Dīn Ḥusaynī (f 78). It is not clear, whether this collection has any internal connection with the preceding work. Beg.

مسند جاه و جلال بوجود فائض الجود الخ

Transcribed in the beg. of the xii/xviii c., both parts apparently by the same hand. Many marginal notes. At the beginning there is a note on ḥashw, and there are also a few stray poetical quotations.

Ff. 78; S 8,5×5; 6,5×3; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good, although worm-eaten and repaired in many places.

بهار سخن

Bihār-i-sukhan. III 49.

A large collection of epistolographic models and specimens of flowery ornate prose, compiled by Muḥammad Ṣāliḥ Kanbū Lāhūrī, and completed in 1074/1663–1664 (cf. f. 73). The latest dates found in the text are 1072/1662 (ff. 272, 278) and 1073/1663 (f. 272v). The flowery preface is by Abū'l-Barakāt Munīr (cf. IvASB 366). See EIO 2090–2092, R 398. The collection contains a great many official letters of Shāhjahān's time, and a few from the beginning of the reign of Aurangzīb. It is divided into four chamans, but only the heading of the first chaman is found on f. 71v. The headings of other three, as in the British Museum copies are not distinctly marked. Beg. as usual:

ايزد سخن افرين را سپاس كه چراغ گفتار الخ

The copy is dated the 7th Rajab 1223/the 29th Aug. 1808, transcribed from an autograph copy by one Nagchand (?) Rāy.

جامع القوانين

II 323.

Jāmi'u'l-qawānīn.

An incomplete and very bad copy of the well known collection of epistolary forms, by Khalīfa Shāh Muḥammad Qanaujī, completed in 1085/1674. For references see IvASB 375. The work is divided into four faṣls, of which the third is sub-divided into two qisms. Here the first faṣl begins on f. 4v ; the II on f. 35 ; the III on f. 52v ; apparenty the end of this one and the beg. of the fourth faṣl are omitted, and the khātima is given on f. 65. Beg. as usual :

ستایش و نیایش مر احدیرا که کاتب فصاحت بیان خرد الخ

Transcribed in the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 67 ; S 6,75×4,5 ; 5,75×3 ; ll 12, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Vulgar Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Numerous glosses, marginal and interlinear. Stray notes on the fly-leaves.

147.

II 322.

The same.

An incomplete copy of the same work (ff. 45–80). Its beginning coincides with f. 3v, l. 8 of the preceding transcript, but the end, although all subdivisions are duly found here, seems to be rather different. Most probably there are many lacunas which can be only ascertained by a thorough collation with a good copy. The first faṣl begins on f. 45 ; II on f. 61 ; III (which is suspiciously short here), on f. 72 ; IV on f. 74v ; the khātima on f. 79. It is dated the 2nd Dhī'l-Ḥijja 1234/the 22nd Sept. 1819.

In the same volume ff. 1–44v are occupied by a fragment of another work on epistolography, apparently of bigger size than the preceding one. There are no dates in it. nor is the name of the compiler given. The period to which the letters belong, seems to be approximately the middle of the XII/XVIIIc., because many names of different nawwabs of that time, etc., are found in the addresses of the epistles. The only section, of which the heading is preserved, is found on f. 5v :

فصل چهارم ، رقعات از جانب خود بخدمت بزرگان قدردان الخ

In fact it is an extract from the Gulshan-i-sa'ādat (see No. 153), and forms a continuation of the copy described here under No. 154. There are many lacunas, as after f. 8. The handwriting and general appearance of this section of the MS. are the same as those of the preceding.

Ff. 80 ; S 9×7 ; 7×4,5 ; ll 15, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Coarse Ind. nast. Cond. bad ; damaged by dampness and worms (especially ff. 39–44). Many glosess, marginal and interlinear.

رقعات عالمگيري

Ruq'āt-i-'Ālamgīrī.

I 463.

A collection of letters of Aurangzīb to his sons Shāh 'Ālam, Muḥammad A'ẓam, and others. Amongst the different collections known under the same title the nearest, as regards the contents, are probably those described in EB 252 and R 801, although the beginnings do not coincide. This very bad and quite worthless copy contains no preamble; there are no headings to the different letters, and generally, no division whatever, so that the text is continuous. At the end there are a few anecdotes.

Beg. abruptly:

فرزند عالي جاه سعادت توام شاه عالم بهادر حفظ الله تعالى الخ

Dated the 14th Muḥarram of 'the 18th year,' i.e. of Shāh 'Ālam, or 1191/ the 22nd Feb. 1777, corresponding to 1833 of the 'Samwat' era.

Ff. 17; S 8,25 × 5,25; 7,25 × 4; ll 16, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad, careless, and vulgar Ind. shikasta. Cond. tol. good. Occasional marginal notes.

The well known allegorical story, in ornate prose and verse, by Ni'mat Khān 'Ālī, with the full name of Nūru'd-Dīn Muḥammad (d. 1121–1122/1709–1710), cf. above No. 111. For references to other catalogues see IvASB 826(3). Beg. as usual:

Munsha'āt-i-Mād'hūrām.

I 1003.

A fragment of an epistolographic work, containing models of official correspondence belonging to the end of Aurangzīb's time, and some private letters of the author. It was compiled in 1120/1708–1709, as expressed by the chronogram on f. 2v زهى منشيات مادهو رام, by one Mād'hūrām, an employee of Luṭfu'l-lah Khān (who was the son of Sa'du'l-lah Khān), and afterwards of Kokiltāsh Khān. Cf. EB 1412. The book is divided into two faṣls: the first, dealing with official letters and documents (عرائض و احكام

151. شش جهت

Shish jihat. I 624.

A tale composed in highly bombastic ornate prose, written in such a way that the words at the beginning and end of the lines and three columns in the middle of the text, written in red, if read continually, form another five short stories. The author of this verbal jugglery, Rūp Narāyan, gives the date of the completion of his composition as 1121/1709–1710, in two chronograms, وسط خاتمه (in the introduction), and at the end in the verse مطبوع ششجهت شد بی پای شک و ریب'. He may be, from the point of view of chronology, identical with a Hindu of the same name, who in 1129/1717 composed the Makhzanu'l-'irfān, see R 62. The tale has been lith. in Dihlī, 1855. The date of this scroll is given twice as the 27th Jum. I 1070 AH., but this date is improbable, firstly, because the tale has evidently been composed after it, secondly, because the appearance of the MS. does not allow us to accept this date, and thirdly, because at the top there are seals, dated 1161/1748, placed in such a way as to suggest their being those of the owner for whom the copy was made. Therefore 1170 AH. should be read, i.e. the 17th Febr. 1757. Beg.

153. گلشن سعادت

Gulshan-i-sa'ādat. II 313.

A collection of official letters, serving as epistolary models, compiled in 1131/1719 (f. 4), at Arkāt (f. 4v), by Muḥammad Amīn (f. 4). As the latter explains (ff. 4–5), he joined in that year the service of Dak'hnī Rām, who was, as stated in R 1067, a local chieftain under Niẓāmu'l-Mulk Āṣaf-Jāh (d. 1161/1758). This coincides well with the biographical details concerning the author of the Majma'u'l-inshā' (comp. in 1146/1734, for references see IvASB 390), Muḥammad Amīn, surnamed Banī-Isrā'il, with whom the present Muḥammad Amīn is probably identical. The present work may therefore be an earlier version of the Majma'u'l-inshā'. It is divided into four faṣls:

۲ رقایم رای عالم آرای باحبا و اصدقا، (f. 9)

۳ مفاوضات خان‌سراپا فضل و احسان فضل الله خان باعزهٔ دربار و بزرگان روزگار، (f. 28v)

۴ وقعات از جانب خود بجانب بزرگان قدردان و دوستان مهربان، (f. 59)

The letters are addressed to many noblemen and officials who played prominent parts in the history of the Deccan of that time. Many of them are written on behalf, or addressed to, Sa'ādat Khān, governor of the Carnatic (d. 1145/1732–1733), to Niẓāmu'l-Mulk (see above), as on ff. 5v, 17, 32, 33, etc.; Mubāriz Khān (d. 1158/1745) (ff. 8, 8v, 12v, 33v, etc.); Ghālib Khān (ff. 6v, 11, 12, 13, 13v, etc.); Faḍlu'l-lah Khān (ff. 15v, 25, etc.), Qizilbāsh Khān (ff. 16v, 18–23, 40–50, etc.); Sulṭān 'Alī Khān (f. 26v); Muḥtasham Khān (f. 50), and many others. One (f. 31v) is addressed to Amīru'l-umarā' Ḥusayn 'Alī Khān, who is here called the wazīr of Muḥammad Shāh. As this official held this post only in 1131–1132/1719–1720, and was assassinated the 6th Dhī'l-ḥijja 1132/the 9th Oct. 1720 (see Elliot, Hist. of India, VII, 503), the statement of the author that he composed this work in 1131/1719 is corroborated. II 311.

A treatise on stylistics, rhetoric, poetics, prosody, epistolography, etc., by Ranjhūr Dās, son of Ranjīt (here رنجیب) Rāy of Jaunpūr (f. 1v). He began his compilation in 1145/1732 (f. 1v), and completed it in the next year, 1146/1733–1734 (cf. f. 125v), for which date he gives the chronogram رنگین نسخه نامی This work is described in detail, with a full list of all the 8 daqīqas and their faṣls, into which it is divided, in EIO 2120–2121, 2945, see also EB 1403 and Pr 1013. Of these five copies only the last one mentioned is complete, as is the present one. In this copy the muqaddima, on forms of composition in general, begins on f. 3v. I daqīqa (on the letters of the alphabet, etc.), in 3 faṣls, on f. 5. II daq. (on words, grammar, etc.), in 10 faṣls, on f. 8v. III daq. (on prose and verse), in 2 faṣls, on f. 33. IV daq. (on the defectiveness of various expressions), in 2 faṣls, on f. 47v. V daq. (on the beauty of various expressions), in 2 faṣls, on f. 49v. II 389.

A collection of specimens of florid and bombastic style, dealing with no subject in particular. In the beginning there are many passages eulogising the Safawides. Later on there are as many eulogies of various Indian noblemen and officials of the XII/XVIIIc. The author, who had an exceedingly high opinion of his work (cf. f. 46), does not give his name, and mentions only his takhallus (passim) Mukhliṣ. We learn also that his work has been written in or about 1144/1731–1732 (cf. ff. 18-18v, where two chronograms for this date are given : بی بها مرقع از تصویر and زهی مرقع تصویرها). There were several poets with this takhallus, but the most famous of them, Mukhliṣ Kāshī (d. ca. 1150/1737) never came to India. More probably the work belongs to the authorship of Anand Rāy Mukhliṣ of Dihlī, d. 1164/1751. The latter was an official under Nawwāb I'timādu'd-Daula Qamaru'd-Dīn Khān, and there are long eulogies of him on ff. 11v-12. As stated in EIO 1707, Anand Rāy has composed a "collection of letters, edited in 1149/1736-1737." This may refer to the present work. Unfortunately neither Spr 159 and 262, nor the Riyāḍu'sh-shu'arā' (D 102, f. 434), nor the Sarw-i-Āzād (No. 58 above, f. 32). nor the Makhzanu'l-gharā'ib, (EB 395 No. 2683) give its title, or fuller details for proper identification. In the Hamīsha bihār, Spr 129. a Mukhliṣ, whose name was Qāsim Khān, is mentioned, but there are no particulars about him. In the colophon the work is attributed (apparently by a latter hand) to the authorship of Ni'mat Khān 'Ālī, which is nonsense. Beg.

Musawwadāt-i-Kewāl-Rām.

A collection of epistolary models, giving numerous specimens of correspondence between different Indian noblemen of the end of the XII/XVIIIc., as well as a number of business documents. The latest dates found in them are 1154, 1155 (ff. 77v, 80), and 1156 (f. 46) of the Faṣlī era. The great majority, however, are dated by the 'year of the reign,' but the name of the ruler is omitted. The introduction, and generally about 15 initial folios are badly damaged and partly torn off, so that there is no indication as to the exact name of the author, the title, and the date of composition. The title as given above appears in the colophon (f. 158). From the chronological point of view this

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Kewāl Rām may be identical with the author of the Tadhkiratu'l-umarā', Kewāl-Rām, son of Rag'hu Nāth Dās (cf. IvASB 216, and for the biography cf. R 339). It is difficult to say if this identity is real. At the end there are a few additional letters (ff. 158v–160). A note is added on f. 160v.

Of the initial line of the treatise only a few words can be read :

... زمان سعادت اقتران که با ...

There may be a large lacuna after this, and the first letter found in this copy (which, indeed, may not be the first in fact), appears on f. 2, top :

در مبارکباد تولد شاه زاده ، حبذا فرخنده ایام میمنت (?) فرجام النخ

Dated (f. 158) Calcutta, the 27th Muharram 1207/ the 14th Sept. 1792. The name of the copyist is given in the concluding lines of one of the additional letters on f. 160, apparently written by the same hand, as Bābū Sadar Shīw Lāl.

A collection of official and private letters and documents apparently gathered from various works on inshā, such as the Munsha'āt-i-Wahīd (f. 248v), and others by Ṣā'ib (f. 296), Mīrzā Ḥasan (f. 297, of the same period), etc. They all deal only with Persian matters, and the great majority of them belong to the time of Shāh Ṣafī (1037–1052/1628–1642, cf. ff. 268v, 288v, etc.), and 'Abbās II (1052–1077/1642–1667), cf. ff. 276v, etc. On f. 276v there is an official letter from 'Abbās II (dealing with some religious matters, very florid). The name of the compiler and the date of composition are not given, but the collection cannot have been compiled before Ramaḍān 1137/May-June 1725, which date is found on f. 243v. Beg.

(Majmū'a-i-munsha'āt). III 26.

A collection of extracts from different works on epistolography. The compiler does not mention his own name, but almost all the dated entries belong to the end of the reign of Muḥammad Shāh (1131–1161/1719–1748). The transcript itself, as stated in several colophons, was prepared at Calcutta in 1207/1792-1793. The contents are as follows :

2. (ff. 186–248v). A long series of letters, private and official, written by different scribes on behalf of their masters. Some of them are known as the authors of epistolographic treatises: Manarlāl (ff. 186 sq.); Mād'hūrām (ff. 188v sq., 236 sq., 245 sq.); Narsing'h (ff. 199v sq., 202v sq., 211 sq.); Muḥammad 'Alī (ff. 200 sq.); Shaykh Aḥmad (ff. 200v sq.); I'timād Khān (f. 202); Fāḍil Khān (f. 203); Faḍā'il Khān (ff. 203); Adwīrāj (ff. 204 sq., 274 sq.); Darjīmal (ff. 216 sq., 237 sq., 244 sq.); Sīwārāmdās (ff. 227v sq.), and others. All of them were writing in the second half of the XII/XVIIIc.

3. (ff. 249–256v). Tadhkira-i-aḥwāl-i-Sayyid Muḥammad Khān. Some details concerning the career of an official, Sayyid Muḥammad Khān; especially the events of the years 1160 and 1161/1747 and 1748 are discussed at length. The name of the author is not mentioned. Beg.

Fānūs-i-khiyāl. II 279.

A treatise on stylistics, rhetorics, poetical figures, word-plays, etc., to serve as a theory of composition. The author calls himself only ابو العجز ارشد اشرف متخاص بخيال, perhaps for Arshadu'd-Dīn b. Ashraf, with the takhallus Khiyāl. He mentions also his son Aḥmad Mukhtār (f. 1v). The work was begun in 1187/1773–1774 (see ff. 7–8, where many chronograms for this date are given); but it was completed only in 1190/1776, as stated in the concluding lines, f. 114, where the chronogram چراغ بيدود is given. The work is written in a very bombastic style. It is divided into five tamthāls, each subdivided into five ṭarīz. At the end there is a khātima (f. 84), with the heading :

خاتمه در بيان حروف معجم يعني حروف تهجي و تبدل هر حرفي ازينها با حرفي ديکر

After this there are a hundred chronograms for the date of the completion which appears here as 1188/1774–1775, with the heading (f. 112v) :

Beg. of the work :

On ff. 115–115v there are a few notes, and poetical quotations from different poets : Ṣā'ib, Arshad, Muḥammadī, Bīdār, Niẓām Khān Mu'jiz.

On ff. 116–117v, there is a versified exposition of the elementary rules of Persian grammar, called in the colophon Intikhāb-i-Risāla-i-'Abdu'l-Wāsi' Hānsawī. The latter, who wrote towards the end of the XII/XVIIIc., is chiefly known as the author of the Qawā'id-i-lughāt-i-Furs, see IvASB 1477, which, however, is written in prose. Beg.

(مجموعهٔ منشئات)

(Majmū'a-i-munsha'āt).

Ia 211.

A collection of epistolary models and specimens of ornate prose. Although it is arranged into bābs and faṣls, the general appearance is that of an album. It seems very probable that the compiler planned a work on inshā, and collected specimens under appropriate rubrics, but that something prevented him from bringing his work to a completion. He should therefore be identical with the copyist, who was transcribing these extracts. But in fact there are at least three different handwritings, the bulk of the volume having apparently been written by one Ūtamchand of Gujrāt, who wrote at Lucknow in 1192/1778 (cf. the colophon on f. 153v). Some portions of this majmū'a have been written as late as 1202/1788, cf. f. 74v. The other scribe's name is illegible (f. 136v), and a third (f. 178v) was Lāl Shīwjī, who wrote in 1191/1777.

The majority of extracts are borrowed from the Bihār-i-sukhan (see above No. 144), the well known work on inshā by Muḥammad Ṣāliḥ Kanbū, who completed it in 1070/1660 (cf. ff. 10, 78, 89, 91, 98v, 139, 166, 172, etc.). Also many quotations from the Akbar-nāma by Abū'l-Faḍl. On f. 154v there is an extract from the Gharību'l-inshā', comp. in 1157/1744 by Krishan Sing'h, with the takhallus Nishāṭ (cf. R 795) ; another work by the same author, the Bihār-i-khiyāl, is here apparently given complete (ff. 145–153v). The album is apparently divided into 7 bābs, each subdivided into several faṣls but the copy is exceedingly fragmentary, the folios have been mixed up, and, as many pages are left blank and there are no catchwords on them, the proper sequence of the leaves is often doubtful.

Fol. 1–4 may originally have been fly-leaves. They contain several extracts in ornate prose, and in verse (f. 3).

I bāb (f. 5), on the munājāt, chiefly extracts from the works of Abū'l-Faḍl.

II bāb (f. 10), dealing with congratulations (در مبارکباد و تهنیت ها), divided into 11 faṣls, according to the occasions on which felicitation is to be offered.

III bāb (f. 63), on letters of condolence, etc. (در عیادت وغیره), in three faṣls, containing letters sent on the occasion of deaths, etc. Ff. 72–74v, apparently belonging to this section, contain, a versified story of the sati of Ṭanūbī's (?) wife. The name of the author is not given. In the colophon it is called Qiṣṣa-i-Ṭanūbī wa satī shudan-i-zan-i-ū. Beg.

خداوندا دلی ده شعله سانم ، که از شورش فتد آتش بجانم

IV bāb (f. 75), on miscellaneous letters, in 6 faṣls.

V bāb (f. 128), in five faṣls. The subject is not stated, and in fact it contains only the Jangnāma-i-A'ẓam Shāh wa Bahādur Shāh (the events of 1118–1119/1706–1708), apparently complete. Beg.

زین دیباچه سخن نیایش الخ

VI bāb (f. 137), in four faṣls. Here only half a page.

VII bāb (f. 138), in two faṣls, dealing with official documents, laudatory descriptions of various cities, and generally compositions in bombastic ornate prose. On ff. 145–153v is given the Bihār-i-khiyāl (see above in this note). It is so written that the initial and final words, in red ink, form an independent story. Beg.

On f. 154v-155 there is an extract from the Gharību'l-inshā' (see above in this note), also on the same kind of verbal jugglery. On ff. 156–165 there are specimens of similar tricks, in verses, or in tablets, etc.

The fifth faṣl which appears on f. 166, deals with descriptions of Kashmīr, Shāhjahānābād (f. 172), Kābul, Lahore, etc. (f. 179), and minor items in the same strain. Some headings may be lost, and originally this faṣl may have formed a larger section. On ff. 215–215v there is a petition (arḍadāsht) from Sīwājī to Aurangzīb.

Ff. 216–232 are filled partly with specimens of word-play, but chiefly with accounts and business letters.

Ff. 232; S 12,25×9; 9,5×6; different number of ordinary, diagonal, transversal, etc., lines. No jadwals. Or. pap. Mostly bad Ind. shikasta. Cond. tol. good. Marginal notes on some folios.

163. (تصحیف در تجنیس)

(Taṣḥīf dar tajnīs). Ia 26.

A few specimens of highly artificial compositions chiefly based on alliterations and word-plays, in praise of Nawwāb Sa'ādat 'Alī Khān Mubāriz Jang, a ruler of Oudh (1212–1229/1797–1814), by one Maḥmūd 'Alī (f. 2v). They were collected, and a special commentary on them has been written, by one Khiyālī, who gives no key as to his identity. At the end a long versified eulogy on the same Nawwāb is added, perhaps by the same Khiyālī (the takhallus of the author is not given in the poem). On f. 1v there are three lines in the middle of the page which may be a sort of a 'table of contents'; it is stated there that the book is divided into two sanads, the first called Taṣḥīf-i-sharīf, and the second—Ṣaḥīfatu't-taṣḥīf. Beg. of the first sanad (f. 2):

احمد مرسل احمد، در زمان پیشین حکم حاکم هندوستان الخ

The beginning of the first waṣf (f. 3):

جهانبان جهانیان ملک ملک هستي هستي الخ

At the end of this section there is an extract from Amīr Khusraw (f. 8), and from a certain Lāla Amritlāl.

The second sanad begins with (f. 8v):

خیالي پیش ازین نثرهای متجانسه از تصنیف جناب مولوي محمود علیصاحب اجتماع کردی و دیباچه را بر روی کتاب آوردی الخ

The beginning of the poem in praise of Sa'ādat 'Alī Khān (f. 19):

وزیر الممالک سلاطین پنـــاه، سلیمان بشوکت سکندر بجاه،

Copied about the middle of the xiii/xix c. Seals, dated 1266/1850 are found at the beg. of each section.

Khulāṣatu'l-inshā'. Ia 54.

A collection of epistolary models, by Lachmī Rām of Dihlī, composed in 1225/1810 (cf. f. 2v). The letters, apparently almost exclusively private epistles of the author, addressed to his relatives, friends, etc., are heaped together without any system or order. This work has nothing to do with the treatises bearing the same

Lam'a-i-ṣādiqa. II 280.

A collection of epistolary models, completed the 14th Sha'bān 1246/the 28th Jan. 1831 (cf. f. 109v), by Fakhru'd-Dīn Ḥusayn (cf. f. 3v). It is dedicated to prince Muḥammad Shāhrukh Bahādur (cf. f. 5v, and passim). The work contains letters from and to the most different people (one is even addressed to a son of Colonel Gardener, f. 53v); some epistles may be useful for historians. The author mentions another work of his, the Riyāḍ-i-ṣādiq (f. 4). There is apparently no system in the arrangement of the letters. Beg.

(مجموعهٔ انشا)

(Majmū'a-i-inshā). II 315.

A collection of three works, written in bombastic ornate prose, all connected the one with the other.

1. (f. 1v). Bihār-i-'aẓīm. An imitation of Ẓuhūrī's well known Gulzār-i-Ibrāhīm (see No. 139,2), composed in 1250/1834–1835 (see f. 14, where several chronograms are given), by Shā'iq Alī Khān (f. 2v), or simply Shā'iq (cf. f. 14), apparently a nobleman, but untraceable in all tadhkiras as a writer (he cannot be identified with Shā'iq mentioned in Spr 569). Beg.

عظمت سخن حمد عظیمیکه مناصب علو مرتبتی الخ

2. (f. 14v). Bihār-i-a'ẓam. Another similar work on the same subjects as the preceding one, and even almost with the same arrangement. It has been completed in 1258/1842 (cf. f. 23, where several chronograms for this year are given), by Ghulām 'Abdu'l-Qādir with the takhallus Shams (f. 15), or with his full name (cf. f. 28v), Ghulām 'Abdu'l-Qādir Shamsu'd-Daula Bahādur

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

I'tiḍād Jang; in a note on f. 1 he is called the son of Nawwāb 'Aẓīmu'd-Daula. The latter may be identical with Nawwāb 'Aẓīmu'd-Daula Wālā Jāh, of the Carnatic, who d. 1231/1816. The work begins with:

بنام آنکه اسم اعظم او، بصد شان جلوه پرداز است هر سو، الخ

3. (f. 23v). Inshā-i-Shamsī. A collection of private epistles, by the same author as of the preceding work. It is incomplete at the end, and the date of composition is not given. The letters do not contain any dates or names. On ff. 26v–28 there is a eulogy of نواب عظیم جاه (his real name is not given), and on ff. 28–28v a similar glorification of Shā'iq 'Alī Khān, the author of the first entry in this volume, to whom the author acknowledges his indebtedness in literary achievements (f. 28, ll. 12–15). The title as above is given in the heading at the beginning (f. 23v), but is apparently not mentioned in the text. Beg.

167. انشای صبیان

Inshā-i-ṣibyān. II 320.

An incomplete copy of a treatise on epistolary models, the same as the one described in IvASB 404. The present copy also does not reveal the name of the compiler or an exact date of composition. It is stated in the introduction that it is divided into three daftars, twelve bābs in each. But the present copy contains only the first 12 bābs (the last is incomplete).

1. (f. 3), letters concerning different domestic occasions.
2. (f. 7v), concerning sweets and fruits.
3. (f. 13), on different subjects.
4. (f. ?), on the use of word-plays in letters (the beginning is not properly marked).
5. (f. 23v), love letters (shauqiyya).
6. (f. 30v), congratulations.
7. (f. 36), letters of condolence.
8. (f. 38v), on titles and addresses.
9. (f. 41v), letters to seniors.
10. (f. 42v), letters to equals.
11. (f. 44), letters to juniors.
12. (f. 45), petitions, etc. (apparently incomplete at the end).

168. هفت تصویر

Haft taṣwīr. I 1105.

A short composition in highly bombastic ornate prose, dealing with descriptions of the beauty and perfection of the human body. The author's name appears in the end as Maṣḥafī; in the colophon he is called Maliku'sh-shu'arā' Miyān Maṣḥafī. There are no indications as to the date of composition, nor any reference to any person known from other sources. One Muḥammad Tawfīq Kashmīrī is referred to on f. 17, but he cannot be identified. Beg.

169. مفتاح القوافي

Miftāḥu'l-qawāfī. II 528.

A very condensed abstract of chapters 1, 2, 4, 5 of the second qism of the Al-Mu'jam fī ma'āyīr ash'āri'l-'Ajam, by Shams-i-Qays (cf. f. 6v), which is a detailed old work on prosody, comp. shortly after 628/1231, see RS 190 (it has been published in 1909 as the Xth vol. of the Gibb Memorial series). A collation with the printed text (pp. 173–297) shows that although the contents are the same, the original text is briefly summarised, and all examples are omitted. In the colophon (f. 11v) the author of this brief version is called Muḥammad Riḍā Shīrāzī, son of Ḥājjī Sirāju'd-Dīn Nīshāpūrī. There are no indications as to the date of compilation. The pamphlet is divided into: the muqaddima (f. 6v), in a few lines summarising the contents of the first bāb of the Mu'jam (II qism). The first bāb (f. 6v) در حروف قافیه (=the first half of the second bāb of the Mu'jam); II bāb (f. 8v) در اقسام روی (corresponding to the end of the second bāb of the Mu'jam);

170. انيس العاشقين

Anīsu'l-'āshiqīn. I 90.

The well-known collection of poetical figures describing the beauties of different parts of the human body, by Ḥasan b. Muḥammad ash-Sharaf, surnamed Sharaf ar-Rāmī, see IvASB 337. It is more often called Anīsu'l-'ushshāq, but the title as above is here given on f. 5. The present copy contains a dedication (f. 2v) to Sulṭān Shaykh Uways (757–776/1356–1374), which is rarely found in other transcripts. Beg. as usual:

حمد و ثنای مبدعی را علت كامه (read كامنه) كه در مبدء فطرت الخ

Several fly-leaves at the beginning and the margins of the first 7 folios are occupied with poetical quotations. On ff. 52v–53 there is a short note with the heading صفتهای زن خوبرو چهل صفت است, dealing with the physical perfections of an attractive woman.

172. (مجموعه در عروض)

(Majmū'a dar 'arūḍ). II 370.

Two well-known treatises on prosody, in a modern transcript:

1. (f. 1v). Risāla dar qāfiya. Jāmī's well-known treatise, the same as No. 171; beg. as in that copy.

2. (f. 6v). 'Arūḍ-i-Sayfī. A treatise on prosody, by Sayfī Bukhārī, surnamed 'Arūḍī (d. ca. 909/1503–1504). It was composed in 896/1490–1491. The title is often given in a different form. In the colophon of this copy it is styled Ar-risālatu's-sayfiyya (f. 50); other titles are 'Arūḍ-i-qāfiya or Mīzānu'l-ash'ār. See Br. Lit. Hist., III, 458, GIPh 344, EIO 2046–2048, RS 191, Pr 116, 131, 142, 187, R 525. Edited and translated by H. Blochmann, 1867 (text only) and 1872 (text with a translation); lith. Cawnpore 1855, Calcutta 1865; cf. also G. S. A. Ranking, The Elements of Arabic and Persian Prosody, Bombay, 1885. This copy is quite modern, but the only complete one in the collection. Beg. as usual:

173. رساله در قافيه

Risāla dar qāfiya. II 378.

A short treatise on rhyme, by (Burhānu'd-Dīn) 'Aṭā'u'l-lah b. Maḥmūd Ḥusaynī, d. ca. 929/1523. As stated in the preface, it is an extract from the larger work of this author, the Takmīlu's-ṣanā'at, which has been written before 906/1501, because it was dedicated to Mīr 'Alī Shīr, who died in that year. The work is divided into 9 short chapters, here called ḥarf. For a detailed description, in which the original headings are given, see EIO 2052–2054 and RS 191 III. Beg. as usual:

سپاس بيقياس صانعي را كه تاسيس بدايع مصنوعات الخ

The ḥarfs begin: I on f. 2; II on f. 2v; III on f. 5; IV on f. 6; V on f. 7v; VI on f. 8v; VII on f. 9; VIII on f. 10v; IX on f. 11. At the end, ff. 12–16v a series of examples are given to illustrate different rules, discussed in the treatise; numerous marginal notes.

Transcribed towards the end of the xii/xviii c., by one Qādir-bakhsh.

178. الرسالة الوافية في علم العروض و القافية

Ar-risālatu'l-wāfiya fī 'ilmi'l-'arūḍ wa'l-qāfiya. II 528.

A portion of the treatise on prosody and rhyme, by Shamsu'd-Dīn 'Abbāsī with the takhallus Faqīr, or Maftūn (d. ca. 1181/1767), completed in 1161/1748. Its text is given complete in the Riyāḍu'sh-shu'arā' of 'Alī-Qulī Wālih Dāghistānī (see IvASB 230). The present copy contains only less than half of the treatise, corresponding to ff. 348v–350v, l. 6, of the MS. in the Society's collection, D 102. Beg. as in that copy:

بعد تقدیم حمد مبدعی که بیت دنیا و آخرت الخ

Transcribed probably in the same year, 1255/1839, as the other entries in this majmū'a (see Nos. 169, 175). The last folio is written by a different hand.

* Ff. 1–5; for measurements, etc., see above, No. 169.

179. (مجموعه در عروض)

(Majmū'a dar 'arūḍ). I 441.

A collection of five treatises on prosody, almost all fragmentary:

1. (f. 1). 'Arūḍ-i-Sayfī (see above No. 172,2). An incomplete copy, beginning with the first faṣl, without an introduction. The text in the beginning sometimes deviates from the usual one, but at the end coincides fairly well. Beg. (corresponding to f. 6v, l. 15 in No. 172,2):

بدانکه شعر در لغت دانستن است و باصطلاح سخنی موزون الخ

2. (f. 21v). Risāla-i-ṭālibī dar 'ilm-i-'arūḍ wa qawāfī (cf. f. 22v). A treatise on prosody and poetics, in two bābs, by Abū Ṭālib Khān b. Muḥammad Beg Khān Iṣfahānī Tabrīzī (d. 1220 or

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

1221/1805–1807). For his biography see R 378–379. The exact date of completion of the treatise is not given. Beg.

3. (f. 40v). 'Arūḍ-i-Sayfī. Another copy of Sayfī's work on prosody, incomplete at the end. See above, 1. Beg. as usual:

الحمد لله الذي جعل العروض میزان الاشعار الخ

4. (f. 64). (Risāla dar 'arūḍ). A fragment of a larger work of which the title is not mentioned here. It is only the 6th bāb, dealing with prosody, beg.

باب ششم در استفتاح عروض ، اسم هاى بحور الخ

The work must be of a quite modern origin, because Bīdil (d. ca. 1133/1720), and even Wālih (d. ca. 1170/1757) are often referred to (cf. ff. 69, 69v, 71v, etc.).

5. (f. 72v). Risāla dar fann-i-shi'r guftan. A paraphrase of Sayfī's treatise on prosody, slavishly following its original. It is ascribed to the authorship of one Fayḍī; no details as to his real name are given, so that it is difficult to say if he is identical with the poet Faydī of Akbar's time (d. 1004/1595). It seems to be a fake of much later origin. Beg.

الحمد لله ... اما چنین کوید احقر العباد فیضی که این رساله ایست در فن شعر کفتن که آنرا علم عروض کویند الخ

Only the first item is dated (f. 19), the 1st Dhī'l-Qa'da 1245/the 24th Apr. 1830, by Muḥammad Murtaḍā Riḍawī. All other items, although apparently dating from about the same time, are written by different scribes. Most probably they were bound together quite accidentally. On ff. 20–20v there are scrappy quotations, illustrating different metres.

Ff. 90; S 9,5 × 6; and approximately 6,5 × 4. The number of lines is different, 18, 14, 13, 15. The last item was originally written on leaves of a larger size, now folded. Or. pap. Different Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good. Worm-eaten, pasted over. Marginal notes and glosses, especially towards the end.

(مجموعه در عروض)

I 443*a*.

(Majmū'a dar 'arūḍ).

A collection of short treatises on prosody and poetics, by different authors (the poetical works in the same volume will be described in the section dealing with poetry).

1. (f. 1v). (Risāla dar sharḥ-i-ba'ḍī ash'ār). A collection of notes on isolated verses from the dīwān of Ḥākim, or, to give him his full name, 'Abdu'l-Ḥakīm Lāhūrī (d. ca 1200/1786, cf. R 1086), and of a few other poets, by Sirāj 'Alī Khān Ārzū (d. 1169/1756). The compiler of this collection calls himself Wārasta, and is probably identical with Siyālkūtī Mal Wārasta, a poet of the end of XII/XVIIIc. (cf. R 1089). He states in the opening lines that he saw the notes in question written on the margins of a copy of the dīwān of Ḥākim. They inspired him with so much enthusiasm that he decided to collect them in a separate book. It was completed the 27th Muḥarram 1193/the 14th Febr. 1779, at Farrukhābād (f. 6). The copy may be an autograph. Beg.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

2. (f. 6v). (Mu'ammayāt). Two long logogriphic poems, one in the form of a mathnawī, on the names of God, and the second in the form of a qaṣīda, on different names. In the first the takhallus of the author seems to be Sayfī. Beg. of the first poem (f. 6v):

پارهائي دل نمود از ذره بیش، بیدلي شب درمیان آه خویش، الخ

Beg. of the second poem (f. 8):

صبح بیند مطلع حسن تو در بر آفتاب،
مطلع حسني که دارد صد شرف بر آفتاب،

Numerous glosses. The first poem was transcribed in 1193/1779, at Farrukhābād, in the Dīwānkhāna of Mīr Raushan 'Alī.

3. (f. 9v). Khāfiyatu'l-mathal. A brief versified paraphrase of Sayfī's work on prosody (cf. Nos. 172,2 and 179,1,3), compiled in 1107/1695–1696 (f. 9v, chronogram فیض ریز), by Muḥammad b. Muḥammad Sa'īd Anṣārī Dihlawī, for the purpose of facilitating its memorising. The title is given on f. 10, top. Beg. of the preface:

نظم محامدی که سخن سنجان صورت و معني موزون الخ

Beg. of the versified exposition (f. 10, top):

لله الحمد در صباح و مسا، بر عطائي تواتر نعما، الخ

In the versified colophon (f. 15v) it is dated the 22nd Jum. II 1192/the 18th July 1778.

4. (f. 16v). Riyāḍu's-ṣanā'i'-i-Quṭb Shāhī. A treatise on prosody and poetics, by Ulfatī b. Ḥusaynī Sāwajī, as he calls himself. He is referred to in the Safīna-i-Khūshgū (cf. RS 111, where his name is given in exactly the same form). He compiled it in 1048/1638-1639 (cf. f. 30), and dedicated it to 'Abdu'l-lah

Shajaratu'l-Amānī.

A treatise on stylistics, rhetoric and Persian grammar, by Muḥammad Ḥusayn with the takhallus Qatīl (d. 1230/1815, cf. Mi'rāju'l-khiyāl, No. 60 in this cat.; or 1233/1818, cf. R 65). As stated in R 795, where another copy of the same work is described, it has been completed in 1206/1791–1792 (this date is apparently not found in the present transcript). It was written at the desire of Sayyid Amān 'Alī (f. 38), after whom its title has been given. Originally the work is divided into 6 far', which are subdivided into unequal numbers of thamaras. In the present copy, which is very bad and seems to be incomplete, all headings are omitted. Beg.

رساله در قافیه

II 382.

Risāla dar qāfiya.

A short treatise on rhyme, apparently very closely following the corresponding chapters of Sayfī's work. The date of composition is not given. The author calls himself Muḥammad Fā'iq (f. 1). He may be identical with the author of the popular work on epistolography, the Dastūru'l-inshā' (often lith. in India: Cawnpore, 1852, 1871, 1887; Lucknow, 1863; Bombay, 1866, etc.), Muḥammad Fā'iq b. Ghulām Ḥusayn, probably a modern writer (see E. Edwards' Catalogue of printed books in the British Museum, p. 461). The treatise is divided into a short muqaddima, and seven unnumbered faṣls. 183. چهار گلزار

Chahār gulzār. II 310.

A treatise on stylistics, prosody, poetics, some details of Persian grammar, etc., the same as that from which the third and fourth gulzārs have been mentioned in IvASB 1483. The name of the author is here given in the form of Nithārī (f. 1v). According to E. Edwards' Catalogue of Pers. printed books in the British Museum, p. 594, he was called Nithār 'Alī b. A'ẓam 'Alī Bukhārī Barīlawī. A corroboration of this may be found just in the beg. where he alludes to his name as اضعف بندگان باری نثاری چنین ... ... گوید. The date of composition is not given; the title appears on f. 2v, top. The treatise is divided into four gulzārs, subdivided into numerous guls: I (f. 2v), in five guls, on Persian grammar; II (it is here called چهارم, f. 43v), in two guls, on ornaments of style (ṣanā'i'); III (f 61), in two guls, on forms of prose and poetry; IV (f. 83), in three guls, on tropes and rhyme. At the end there is found (f. 87) a خاتمه طبع, transcribed from the Calcutta printed edition of 1240/1825. The work seems to be of very modern origin, and has probably been completed not long before it was printed. It was re-edited several times after this: Bombay, 1844, Lahore, 1864, Cawnpore, 1879, and was apparently used as a school book. Beg.

184. شرح معمای حسینی

Sharḥ-i-mu'ammā-i-Ḥusaynī. II 524.

A detailed commentary on the famous treatise on logogriphs, of Ḥusayn b. Muḥammad Ḥusaynī Nīshāpūrī (d. 904/1499), cf. IvASB 346. The commentator calls himself Muḥammad b. 'Alī al-Yūndākī or an-Nūndākī (f. 1v, not quite clearly written, perhaps Nawandākī, as marked on the fly-leaf). The work is dedicated to 'Abdu'l-'Azīz Bahādur Khān (f. 2v), who apparently was the first Bukhārā prince of the Shaybanide dynasty, in 947–957/1540–1549. There was another 'Abdu'l-'Azīz, a Janide, also at Bukhārā (1055–1091/1645–1680). It is most probable, that the first one is meant because in his title the usual expression السلطان بن السلطان و الخاقان بن الخاقان is omitted and he is called only (f. 2, bottom) السلطان الاعظم و الخاقان المعظم. In case the second 'Abdu'l-'Azīz should be meant this would be rather strange.

The exact date of completion is not given. Beg.

Partly edited by Biberstein Kazimirski, 1876, and the whole text, with a translation, by the same, 1886. Lith. Tehran, 1297/1880, and apparently at least once more, in Persia. The dīwān contains chiefly qaṣīdas, not arranged in alphabetical order, in praise of different princes; at the end there are a number of so-called musammaṭāt, here styled musaddasāt. Beg. of qaṣīdas, as usual:

Dīwān-i-Aḥmad-i-Jāmī.

دیوان احمد جامي

II 209.

Poems, ascribed to the authorship of the early Sufic saint, Abū Naṣr Aḥmad b. Abī'l-Ḥasan of Nāmiq in the district of Jām, who used the takhalluṣes Aḥmad or Aḥmadī (d. 536/1141–1142). For references see IvASB 436. The present dīwān is different from the one there described ; the poems are here arranged alphabetically, unlike in the other copy, and the contents of both versions seem to differ very considerably. The mathnawī poems, contained in the unarranged version, are not found here. On the whole the modern, anyhow ' post-Ḥāfiẓian ' form and style of these ghazals renders the authenticity of both dīwāns very suspect, and there can be little doubt that even if some poems really belong to Aḥmad-i-Jām, there is also a considerable foreign element, probably due to attempts at emendation on the part of admiring Indian editors, etc., of the last three centuries. The unarranged version is most probably more authentic.

Except for one mukhammas at the end (of spurious origin), there are only ghazals. Beg.

Sharḥ-i-Ḥadīqa.

A revised edition, with a commentary, of Sanā'ī's (d. 525–576/1131–1181) famous Ḥadīqatu'l-ḥaqīqat, by 'Abdu'l-Laṭīf b. 'Abdi'l-lah al-'Abbāsī (d. 1048–1049/1638–1640), the same work as the one of which the second part is described in IvASB 445. The present copy is slightly incomplete at the beg. and end, and only the text of the Ḥadīqa is supplied at the beginning by a modern hand. The opening lines of the Society's copy (IvASB 445) correspond to f. 155v, l. 15 of the present one, and the latter ends (in its original text) on f. 243, l. 6 of the Society's transcript. The bābs begin: 2nd on f. 60v; 3rd on f. 126v; 4th on f. 141; 5th on f. 145v; 6th on f. 155v; 7th on f. 183v; 8th on f. 191v; 9th on f. 195; 10th on f. 216v; 11th on f. 230v. The modern beginning is merely that of the Ḥadīqa itself: ای درون پرور و برون آرای ' الخ; beg. of the older text (f. 2):

... و مراد از اصبعين صفات جمال و جلال است الخ

Copied apparently in the end of the xi/xvii c., or beg. of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 304 (the older text occupies ff. 2–293v); S 10 × 6,25; 7 × 3,75; ll 19 (verses in three columns), within jadwals. Brown Or. pap. (new margins, Eur. pap.). Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Marginal notes and additions.

202. قواعد علیشیر

Qawā'id-i-'Alī Shīr. II 527.

A commentary on Niẓāmī's Iskandar-nāmā, by Muḥyī'd-Dīn b. Niẓām, composed in 956/1549 (f. 3v), and dedicated to one Miyān 'Alī Shīr (f. 3v). See R 859 (the title is there given as فوائد علیشیری), and Spr 522. Beg.

سپاس بیقیاس مر دانای کونین را که الخ

Dated the 10th Rab. II 1082/the 16th Aug. 1671, copied by Naṣīru'd-Dīn.

Ff. 137; S 8,5 × 5,75; 6,5 × 3,25; ll 19, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten and repaired. Marginal notes. A few medical prescriptions and quotations on the fly-leaves at the end.

203. شرح مخزن الاسرار

Sharḥ-i-Makhzanu'l-asrār. I 599.

A commentary on Niẓāmī's poem, Makhzanu'l-asrār, different from IvASB 469. The present copy contains no introduction, and opens with the first verse of the poem :

هست کلید در گنج حکیم ' ... مراد از گنج حکیم کتاب حمید است الخ

The name of the author is given at the end of the colophon as Qāḍī Ibrāhīm Ṭhaṭa'ī (مصنف الشرح قاضي ابراهيم تهتّئي). The date of composition is not mentioned, but, as there are references to the commentary by Muḥammad Balkhī (cf. f. 81v), which was composed in the end of the XI/XVIIc. (cf. EIO 998), the present work must have been compiled sometime at the end of the XI/XVIIc., or beg. of the XII/XVIIIc.

Copied in the xii/xviii c., by Kamāl(u'd-Dīn ?) Muḥtāj, son of 'Abdu'l-Wāḥid Qurayshī Akbarābādī, at Akbarābād.

Ff. 85; S 9 × 4,75; 7 × 3,75; ll 27, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten. Marginal notes.

204. کلیات عطار

Kulliyyāt-i-'Aṭṭār. II 513.

An incomplete kulliyyāt of the mystic mathnawī poems of Farīdu'd-Dīn Abū Ḥāmid Muḥammad b. Abī Bakr Ibrāhīm Nīshāpūrī, with the takhallus 'Aṭṭār (d. 618-627/1221–1230), see IvASB 477. It is divided into two volumes : probably there were originally one or two volumes more, containing the other poems of 'Aṭṭār.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The first volume contains:

1. (f. 1v). Mukhtār-nāma, sometimes called Rubā'iyyāt. It is a collection of quatrains on different mystical subjects, arranged under fifty bābs, see EIO 1032, 12, RS 236, I, EB 622, 623, R 576–577, etc. It contains a prose preface, in which 'Aṭṭār refers to his other works (cf. R 577), beg.

حمد و سپاس بیقیاس خداوندی را که اشراق الوهیت الخ

Beg. of the verses (f. 2v):

ای پاکی تو منزه از هر پاکی، قدوسی تو مقدس از ادراکی،

The poem is incomplete at the end.

2. (f. 58v). Jawāhiru'dh-dhāt, the same as IvASB 477, 13. Beg. as usual:

بنام آنکه نور جسم و جانست، خدای آشکارا و نهـــانست،

3. (f. 171v). Muṣībat-nāma, the same as IvASB 477,8. Beg. as usual:

حمد پاک از جان پاک آن پاک را، کو خلافت داد مشتی خاک را،

4. (f. 254v). Ilahī-nāma, the same as IvASB 477,3. Here it begins in a different way:

الهی نامه را آغاز کردم، بنامت نامهٔ را باز کردم،

The second vol. contains:

5. (f. 1v). Asrār-nāma, the same as IvASB 477,6. Beg. as in IvASB 478,2:

بنام آنکه جانرا نور دین داد، خرد را در خدادانی یقین داد،

6. (f. 34v). Maẓharu'l-'ajā'ib, see EIO 1031,18, EB 622,5, Pr 154, R 579, Spr 353, etc. Beg. as usual:

آفرین جان آفرین بر جان جان، ز انکه هست او آشکارا و نهان،

7. (f. 106v). Lisānu'l-ghayb, a rare mathnawī, see EIO 1031, 16, 1033,11, EB 622,4, 623,6, 624,13, 625,20, 626,2, etc. Beg.

اسم توحید ابتدای نام اوست، مرغ روح جملکی در دام اوست،

8. (f. 164v). Ushtur-nāma, see IvASB 485. Beg. as usual:

ابتدا بر نام حی لا یزال، صانع اشیا و ابداع جلال،

9. (f. 249v). Bīsar-nāma, see IvASB 477,12. Beg.

من بغیر تو نه بینم در جهان، قـــادرا پـــروردکارا جاودان،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

10. (f. 252v). Miftāḥu'l-futūḥ, see EIO 1031,11, 1032,9, 1033,4; RS 235,6; EB 622,19, 623,10, 624,7, 627,3. Beg.

پناه من بحی کو نمیرد، بآهي عذر صد عصیان پذیرد،

The authorship of this poem, ascribed to 'Aṭṭār seems to be very suspicious, because the date of completion is given (f. 268v) as the 15 Dhī'l-ḥijja 688/the 30th Dec. 1289:

بسال ششصد و هشتاد و دو چار، شهور سال را بر آخر کار،
ز ذو الحجه گذشته بد ده و پنج، که مدفون کردم اندر دفتر این گنج،

11. (f. 269v). Haft wādī, see IvASB 477,4. Beg. as usual:

حمد پاک از جان پاک ان پاک را، کو خلافت داد مشتي خاک را،

12. (f. 278v). Waṣlat-nāma (incomplete at the end), see IvASB 477,9. Beg. as usual:

ابتدا اول بنام کردکار، خالق هفت و شش و پنج و چهار،

13. (f. 290v). Pand-nāma, see IvASB 477,10. Beg. as usual:

حمد بیحد مر خدای پاک را، آنکه ایمان داد مشتي خاک را،

14. (f. 299v). Kanzu'l-ḥaqā'iq, see IvASB 477,15. Beg.

بنام آنکه جانرا نور دین داد، خرد را در خدا داني یقین داد،

15. (f. 314v). Khiyāṭ-nāma, see IvASB 486. Beg.

بنام آنکه هستي زو نشان یافت، نفوس ناطقه زو نور جان یافت،

16. (f. 325v). Kanzu'l-asrār, see EIO 1031,8; EB 623,20, 624,10, etc. It seems also to be spurious, because, as in all other known copies, the date of composition is given (f. 345) as 699/1299–1300:

رساند نفع این بر خاص و عام این، که در ششصد نود نه شد تمام این،

Beg. of the poem as usual:

سپاس حمد بر خلاق عالم، که از خاکي پدید آورد آدم،

Copied about the middle of the xi/xvii c. (on f. 253v of the first vol. there is the date: Thursday, the 13th Rajab 699. This is indeed a ridiculous forgery: the appearance of the MS. renders this date incredible, and the 13th Rajab in 699 AH. was Monday, not Thursday).

2 vols. Ff. 312 and 345; S 13,5 × 8,25; 8 × 4,75; ll 24, within jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. still fairly good, but paper is decaying. At the beginning of each of the poems there are mediocre vignettes, some in good order, and some damaged or faded. Several seals, the majority dated 1169 AH.

منطق الطير

II 250.

Manṭiqu't-ṭayr.

The well-known poem of ʿAṭṭār, see IvASB 477,7, beg. as usual:

آفریـــن جان آفریـــن پاک را، آنکه جان بخشید مشت خاک را،

Scrappy quotations and notes on the fly-leaves, at the beg. and end.

Dated Thursday, the 25th Ram. 1114/the 12th Febr. 1703. The equivalent of this date, 'the 3rd year of the reign' makes it rather suspicious, and, as the 25th Ram. 1114, was Monday, not Thursday, it must be definitely wrong. Place of copying Peshawar, scribe Muḥammad Jaʿfar.

Ff. 185; S 7,75×4,25; 5,25×2,25; ll 15, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. A seal of Shāh ʿĀlam, dated 1119 AH, on f. 1. Bad vignette. Marginal notes.

وصلت نامه

III 52.

Waṣlat-nāma.

A Sufic mathnawī poem, dealing chiefly with the legend of Ḥallāj, by the same Farīdu'd-Dīn ʿAṭṭār (cf. here No. 204), see IvASB 477 (9), where references to other catalogues are given. Apparently exactly this particular copy is described in Spr 370. It is peculiar to find that in the colophon the poem is attributed to the authorship of Shaykhu'sh-shuyūkh Shaykh Bahlūl. Accordingly, there are many places in which his takhallus is mentioned (ff. 2v, 49v, 51v). This is certainly a most impudent forgery. A collation shows that the text is the same, except for some lacunas, chiefly coinciding with places in which ʿAṭṭār mentions his takhallus. The beginning of the poem is not its real beginning, but a fictitious stopgap, and corresponds to f. 390v in IvASB 477, or approximately the 48th bayt of it:

عاشقـــا این دم در آ در سر جـــان،
تـــا بیـــابي ســـر عشـــق لا مـــکان،

The concluding bayt of the introduction is here omitted. It is in the original (f. 391):

گفت وصلت نامه را عطار پیر، ختم کردان یا الهي دستگیر،

In the penultimate verse درد پهلویش همه حاصل شود is changed into درد بهلولش مکر حاصل شود. It gives a good idea of the artfulness of the "Shaykhu'sh-shuyūkh." The text of the Waṣlat-nāma comes to the end on f. 47, but some more poetry is given, probably also stolen from some other of ʿAṭṭār's works, or partly extemporised by the plagiarist himself. The acme of his impudence is reached on f. 49v, where he says:

آنچنانم گفت عطـــار امین ، در کتاب منطـــق از نور یقین ،
سایه در خورشید کم گردد مدام ، خود همه خورشید گردد و السلام ،
قطره اندر بحـــر دریا اوفتد ، در در خورشیـــد والا اوفتد ،
گفتهٔ عطار خود ار مغـز بود ، لیک اندر صد لباس لغز بود ،
گفتهٔ بهلـــول از جانان بود ، هرچه گوید آیت برهان بود ،
گفتهٔ بهلـــول را توحیـــد دان ، دایما در ترک و در تجرید دان ،

It is difficult to identify the plagiarist. There was a poet with the name Bahlūl in the X/XVIc. (cf. IvASB 673).

Dated Ramaḍān 1066/June-July 1656 (?), copied by Muḥammad Fāḍil.

Ff. 52; S 7,75×4,5; 5,25×2,25; ll 15, within jadwals. Blue Or. pap. Good Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. In some places worm-eaten and 'repaired.' A bad vignette, probably of a modern origin.

207. مثنوی مولوی

Mathnawī-i-Mawlawī. II 256.

The famous mystical Mathnawī of Jalālu'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Muḥammad Bahā'i'd-Dīn b. Ḥusayn Balkhī, afterwards Rūmī (d. 672/1273). For references, etc., see IvASB 490. The present copy contains all six daftars, as usual, beg. with the prose introduction:

هذا کتاب المثنوي المعنوي و هو اصول اصول اصول الدین الخ

Beg. of the poem (f. 2):

بشنو از نی چون حکایت میکند ، از جداییها شکایت می کند ،

For the beginnings of other daftars see IvASB 490. The only difference is that the fifth daftar here also contains a prose preamble, beg. (192v):

و عنده مفاتیح القلوب و صلی الله ... این مجلد پنجم است الخ

The second daftar beg. on f. 48v; III on f. 91v; IV on f. 147; V on f. 192v; VI on f. 245v.

A good copy, collated with the MS. from which it was transcribed, by Mu'izzu'l-Mulk 'Alī Akbar, in 1026/1617 (cf. ff. 48, 91, 146v, 192, 245), and probably completed shortly before that time. The date of copying in the colophon is mutilated by a more modern hand, and changed into 989/1581. The scribe gives his name as Maḥramī (?) b. Shāh Muḥammad Bukhārī.

Ff. 303; S 9,75×6,5; 6,5×4; ll 24, within jadwals, four columns. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Good vignettes at the beg. of every daftar; some of them have fallen out. Numerous marginal notes in the beg. Notes on f. 303v.

جواهر الاسرار و زواهر الانوار

Jawāhiru'l-asrār wa zawāhiru'l-anwār. II 523.

An early commentary on Rūmī's Mathnawī, by Ḥusayn b. Ḥasan (f. 4), or Kamālu'd-Dīn Ḥusayn b. Ḥasan Khwārizmī (d. 840–845/1436–1442), see IvASB 505. The present copy contains only the commentary on the first daftar. It is incomplete at the beginning, but not much has been lost. At the end (ff. 330v–332) there is a qaṣīda; its authorship is ascribed in the colophon to Kāshifī (!).

Dated the 1 Rab. I 1163/the 8th Febr. 1750, copied by Dūst Muḥammad b. La'l Muḥammad b. Aḥmad Balgrāmī. A very bad copy.

Ff. 332; S 7,25 × 4,75; 6,25 × 3,5; ll 16, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. very bad. Worm-eaten and 'repaired.'

209.

The same. I 597.

Another copy of the same commentary. It is a few years older than the preceding one, but very incomplete, as there are many lacunas. Beg. as usual:

حمد بیحد و غایت و ثنای بیعد و نهایت حضرت پادشاهي را الخ

At the end there is (ff. 211v–212) an incomplete copy of Jāmī's well-known commentary on the first bayt of the Mathnawī, also called Nay-nāma (see IvASB 493, 612,12), beg.

عشق جز نائي و ما جز ني نيم ' الخ

Dated the 21st Jum. I 1158/the 21st June 1745, copied by Khalīfa Naṣru'l-lah.

* Ff. 125v–212; S 10,5 × 7,5; 8,5 × 5,5; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. rather bad. Worm-eaten, injured by moisture, and repaired. Almost all folios are misplaced, and many have been lost.

شرح مثنوی

Sharḥ-i-Mathnawī. I 596.

A commentary on Rūmī's Mathnawī, by Shāh Mīr Muḥammad Nūru'l-lah Aḥrārī, who wrote towards the end of the XI/XVIIc. See IvASB 510. The first daftar beg. on f. 1v, the second on f. 43v; III on f. 74v; IV on f. 106v; V on f. 129v; VI on f. 153. Beg. as usual:

الحمد لله العلى الاعلى الوهاب الذي انزل على عبده الخ

A modern copy, dating from the beg. of the xiii/xix c., on bad greenish paper which is decayed and begins to crumble to pieces.

Ff. 181; S 12 × 8; 9 × 4,5; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good; in the beginning the paper of several folios has crumbled away.

شرح مثنوی

Sharḥ-i-Mathnawī. I 597.

A commentary on Rūmī's Mathnawī by one Shukru'l-lah (f. 1v), composed in the time of Aurangzīb at the request of 'Āqil-Khān Rāzī (here called 'Ālamgīrī), who d. 1108/1696. It is difficult to say whether this Shukru'l-lah is identical with the father of 'Āqil-Khān, Shukru'l-lah Khān Khwāfī, who died in the same year 1108/1696–1697. The expressions in which 'Āqil-Khān is referred to, do not explicitly mention such a relation. There are references to other commentaries on the Mathnawī, such as those of Jāmī, of Ḥusayn Khwārizmī (see above, Nos. 208–209), who is said to have composed a commentary only on the first three daftars; and of 'Abdu'l-Laṭīf (ff. 2–2v). The sections dealing with the different daftars begin: I on f. 1v; II on f. 41v; III on f. 54; IV on f. 66v; V on f. 76v; VI on f. 89v. Beg.

Ījāz Mafātīḥi'l-i'jāz. II 177.

An incomplete copy of an abbreviation of the well-known commentary on the Gulshan-i-rāz of Maḥmūd Shabistarī (see IvASB 553), by Muḥammad b. Yaḥyā b. 'Alī Lāhijī Nūrbakhshī (d. ca. 912/1506–1507), see IvASB 555. In the introduction the abbreviator calls himself Muḥammad b. Maḥmūd, surn. Dihdār. He had another surname, Fānī, and is the well-known Sufic writer, who died in 1016/1607–1608, cf. R 816, 1094, Fl III 455, etc. As he states in his introduction, he did not alter the original diction of the Mafātīḥ, so that this work cannot be regarded as an original composition. Beg.

خمسهٔ خسرو دهلوی

Khamsa-i-Khusraw Dihlawī. I 836.

An incomplete copy of the well-known Khamsa of the mathnawī poems imitating the works of Niẓāmī, by Yamīnu'd-Dīn Abū'l-Ḥasan Amīr Khusraw b. Lājīn Dihlawī (d. 725/1325); for references see IvASB 558. The present copy is very fragmentary, and contains only four poems:

1. (f. 1v). Maṭla'u'l-anwār, beg. as usual:

بسم الله الرحمن الرحیم، خطبه قدس است بملک قدیم،

2. (f. 28v). Majnūn-u Laylā, beg. as usual:

ای داده بدل خزینه راز، عقل از تو شده خزینه پرواز،

3. (f. 71v). Āyīna-i-Sikandarī, incomplete at the end; beg. as usual:

4. (f. 104v). Hasht bihisht, beg. as usual:

ای کشایندهٔ خزانهٔ جود، نقش پیوند کار گاه وجود،

One of the colophons (f. 70v) is dated the 27th Rab. I 1018/the 30th June 1609 (the date of the month seems to be incorrect, because this day was not Friday as given here). This date may be accepted as approximately true. The name of the scribe is given on f. 173 as Fatḥ Muḥammad b. Ḥāfiz Ya'qūb.

Ff. 173 (many lacunas, leaves badly misplaced); S 8,25 × 4,75; 7,25 × 3,5; ll 15 and a marginal column. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. On some folios space has been reserved for illustrations, but none of them have been executed. A seal, dated 1276 AH., is found on many folios.

Qiṣṣa-i-Bahrāmgūr.

A prose version of the same Hasht bihisht (see IvASB 558,5 and here No. 218,4). It was prepared by one Sayyid Ghulām Shāh for Charles Byron, probably in the beg. of the XIXc. The copy seems to be incomplete at the end. Beg.

شرح قران السعدین

Ia 177.

Sharḥ-i-Qirānu's-sa'dayn.

A commentary on Khusraw's poem, Qirānu's-sa'dayn, see IvASB 563, by Nūr-Muḥammad, surn. Nūru'l-Ḥaqq, the son of the famous theologian, 'Abdu'l-Ḥaqq Dihlawī (d. 1052/1642), see Spr 471. It was composed in 1014/1605–1606, as expressed in a chronogram in the introduction, f. 92v: 'چشم عیب از میان بردارند میشود شرح قران السعدین', i.e. 1084 minus 70. The additional title Nūru'l-'ayn is apparently not given in this copy. There is no preface written by a different author, as mentioned in Spr 471, and the work begins:

خطبه کبریاء جلال مر پادشاهي را که الخ

Dated the 14th Dhī'l-Qa'da 1207/the 23rd June 1793.

* Ff. 89v–168v; S 8,5×5,5; 6,25×3,25; ll 19, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten.

Sharḥ-i-Qirānu's-sa'dayn.

Another commentary on the same poem, Qirānu's-sa'dayn (cf. No. 220). In the colophons of both, this and the next described copies the authorship is attributed to Khayru'l-lah Muhandis of Dihlī. This copy is claimed to be a transcript of his autograph, dated 1135/1722–1723 (rather suspicious). If this date were true he must have flourished in the middle of the XII/XVIIIc. It is the same work as that described in IvASB 566 (that copy is very incomplete at the end). Beg. as usual:

شکر کویم که بتوفیق خداوند جهان، الخ ... التوفیق جعل الاسباب الخ

Dated the 22nd Dhī'l-Qa'da 1207/the 1st July 1793. An incantation against misappropriation of or damage to the book at the end.

Ff. 90; S 8,5 × 5,5; 6 × 3,25; ll 19, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. shikasta and nast. Cond. rather bad. Worm-eaten, repaired. Ff. 49–53v are left blank. In a note at the bottom of f. 90 (by a different hand), it is stated that there was a lacuna in the original copy, and that for the commentary of the corresponding place in the poem one has to refer to Nūru'l-Ḥaqq's work (cf. No. 220).

The same. I 573*a*.

Another copy of the same work, newer, but better written than the preceding one. Beg. as in No. 221. It is peculiar, that there is here also a lacuna in the middle of the book, and ff. 53–54v are left blank.

Dated the 22nd Dhī'l-Qa'da 1248/the 12th Apr. 1833. Also a similar incantation against destruction of or damage to the MS.

Ff. 98; S 11,5 × 6,75; 8,25 × 4; ll 19, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good, except in the beginning. A few seals.

The well-known Sufic mathnawī poem of Ruknu'd-Dīn Ḥusayn b. 'Ālim b. Abī'l-Ḥasan al-Ḥusaynī Ghūrī, also called Mīr Fakhru's-Sādāt Ḥusaynī (d. after 729/1329), see IvASB 557. The date of completion is here given as 729/1329. The work is divided into eight maqālas, but the headings are not marked here. Beg. as usual:

Jām-i-Jam and Dah-nāma.

Two Sufico-didactic mathnawī poems of Ruknu'd-Dīn Auḥadī Iṣfahānī, orginally from Marāgha (d. 738/1337–1338). This excellent copy, which is one of the oldest, if not the oldest known, contains on the margins:

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

1. (ff. 1v–174). Jām-i-Jam, see IvASB 574. The date of composition is given as 732/1331–1332 (f. 172v : هفتصد رفته بود و سی و دو سال). Beg. as usual :

قل هو الله الامـــري قد قال ، من له الحمد دايماً متـــوال ،

2. (ff. 175–195). Dah-nāma, a short mathnawī poem, interspersed with ghazals, etc., consisting of ten didactic love letters. See RS 258 III. It was completed the 20th Rajab 720/the 26th Aug. 1320 (cf. f. 194v) :

شب شنبه که بود آغاز هفته ، رجب را بیست روز از ماه رفته ،
بسال ذال و کاف از سال هجرت ، بپایان بردم این از حال فکرت ،

The British Museum copy gives ذال و واو=706/1306–1307, but both seem to be unreliable, because in both cases the day of the week is wrong (Tuesday or Wednesday, not Friday).

Beg. as in RS 258 III :

بنام آنکه ما را نام بخشید ، زبانرا در فصاحت کام بخشید ،

The first poem contains a colophon dated the 20th Shawwāl 877/ the 20th March 1473 (f. 174). The second is transcribed by the same hand, about the same time (در تاریخ مذکور).

Ff. 1v–195 (in margine) ; S 8×4,5 ; 6×3 ; about 25 lines, one inch long, within jadwals. Old Or. pap. Excellent calligraphic Khorasani nast., often vocalised. Cond. fairly good ; worm-eaten. A mediocre vignette, probably of comparatively modern origin.

225. جام جم

Jām-i-Jam. II 253.

Another copy of the same Jām-i-Jam, slightly incomplete towards the end. It breaks off on f. 139v, l. 12 of the preceding copy, and the last folio contains only the concluding bayt. Beg. as in the preceding copy.

Copied apparently towards the end of the x/xvi c., or beg. of the xi/xvii c.

Ff. 214 ; S 6,5×4 ; 4,5×2,25 ; ll 11, within jadwals. Or. pap. Indo-Khorasani nast. Cond. not quite good. Injured by moisture and worms, repaired. A good, but faded vignette. At the end a seal, dated 1045 AH.

Dīwān-i-Badr-i-Chāchī. II 220.

Poems of Badru'd-Dīn (or Fakhru'd-Dīn) Muḥammad of Chāch, who used the takhalluṣes Badr, or Chāchī ; he was a panegyrist of Muḥammad b. Toghluq of Dihlī, and died ca. 746/1345–1346,

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

see IvASB 575. The present copy contains chiefly qaṣīdas, with a few ghazals and qiṭ'as at the end. It is peculiar that almost all qaṣīdas are numbered (up to the 86th), and numeration is by the vigesimal system: بیست و یازدهم (f. 23v) for 31; or دو چل ششم (f. 53v) for 86. In this transcript there are numerous marginal and interlinear glosses, all through. Beg. as usual.

حمد آن سلطان عالم را که عالم پرور است،
انس او در راه ایمان انس و جان را رهبر است،

Dated the 12th Ṣafar 1120 (the third year of Bahādur Shāh's reign), or the 3rd May 1708, at Shāhjahānābād, by چهترمن ولد سوبهاچند.

Ff. 69; S 8,5 × 5; 6,5 × 3,25; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten and repaired. A few notes and seals on f. 1.

227. كليات عبيد زاكاني

Kulliyyāt-i-'Ubayd-i-Zākānī. III 55.

A collection of the poetical and satirical works of Najmu'd-Dīn (or Niẓāmu'd-Dīn) 'Ubaydu'l-lah Zākānī, who uses the takhallus of 'Ubayd or 'Ubaydī (d. ca. 772/1370–1371). For his biography and generally his works see Br. Lit. Hist. III, 230–257, GIPh 267, Horn 137–138, Pizzi I 108–109, RsBr, p. 155, RS 264, EB 797–800, Pr 28, 49, R 809, Fl I 548–551, Fleischer, Lpzg, 537. Ind. libr. IvASB 1379, Spr 527. Selected works have been printed in Constantinople, 1886, 1888. Some of his Hazliyyāt have been translated in J. Scott's Tales, Anecdotes, and Letters, Shrewsbury, 1800. The popular poem, Mūsh-u gurba, ascribed to the authorship of 'Ubaydī (it is not included in the present collection), has been lithographed many times in Persia.

The kulliyyāt opens with a short preface, originally being an introduction to only his dīwān, collected, as stated here, in 751/1350 (در تاریخ الف و نون و ذال, f. 2), but a fihrist of the contents of the volume has been added (f. 2v). Beg.

الحمد لله رب العالمين خالق الخلائق اجمعين الخ

1. (f. 2v). Qaṣīdas, not alphabetically arranged, beginning as in Fl I 548 (the poem given as the initial one in RS 264 is found here on f. 18v):

انی ز افتاب صنع تو یکذره کائنات، فیض تو عقل را مدد و روح را حیات،

2. (f. 36v). Ghazals, also not alphabetically arranged (the poem, given as the first one in RS 264 is found here on f. 48). Beg. خدایا تو ما را صفائی بده، بما بینوایان نوائی بده،

3. (f. 63v). Rubā'īs, also not alphabetically arranged. Beg. (as in RS 264):

ای در سر هر کس ز تو سودای دگر، در راه تو هر طایفه را رای دگر،

4. (f. 69). Tarjī'bands, qiṭ'as, etc. In the colophon this section is called Risāla-i-taḍmīnāt, beg. (as in RS 264):

وقت آن شد که کار در یابیم، در شتابست عمر بشتابیم،

5. (f. 83). 'Ishqiyya, an erotic poem, comp. in 751/1350–1351, beg. (as in RS 264, II and Fl I 549):

خدایا تا ازین فیروزه ایوان، فروزد ماه و مهر و تیر و کیوان،

6. (f. 108). Nawādiru'l-amthāl, a treatise on proverbs and maxims, in Arabic. The title is not written here, although space has been reserved for its insertion. It is the same as RS 264 III and Fl I 549 (4). Beg. as usual:

الحمد لله المنزه عن الانداد و الامثال الخ

7. (f. 124). Dah faṣl (sometimes also called Ta'rīfāt), a satirical book on definitions, the same as RS 264 IV and Pr 28. Beg.

شکر و ثنا حضرت خالق جل ذکره که نوع انسانرا الخ

8. (f. 127v). Akhlāqu'l-ashrāf, a satirical treatise on ethics, see IvASB 1379. Beg. as usual:

شکر نا محصور و حمد نا محدود حضرت واجب الوجود را الخ

9. (f. 145v). Dilgushā, a collection of obscene anecdotes, the same as RS 264 VI, Fl I 549 (5), Fleischer, Leipzig C., No. 306. Beg.

الحمد لله علی نعمه و نواله و منه و افضاله الخ

10. (f. 171). Risāla-i-rīsh, a treatise on the beard, the same as RS 264 VII, Fl I 550 (6). Beg.

شکر و ثنا پادشاهی را که بدست مشاطه قدرت الخ

11. (f. 178v). Ṣad pand, items of practical advice, in a very cynical strain, the same as EB 800. Beg.

شکر و سپاس خالقی را که کثرت مخلوقات بر وحدانیت الخ

12. (f. 183v). Fāl-nāma-i-manthūr. A parody on an astrological treatise, dealing with predictions based on observations of the constellations of the Zodiac. It is divided into 12 bābs, according to the 12 recognised signs. Beg.

این فال نیکو مآل از مصنفات اجل حکماست الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

13. (f. 193v). Fāl-nāma-i-murghān wa ṭuyūr wa wuḥūsh wa ghayruhu. A divination table, of 6×6=36 squares, in which are written the names of various birds and animals. One who performs the augury puts his finger, at random, on one of the squares, and has to inquire for its prediction in a special quatrain, of which 36 are given, all of them of a thoroughly indecent nature. Beg.

طریقه این فال آنست که یکی از صور این طیور و وحوش الخ

A good copy, calligraphically written. The majority of the colophons (ff. 36, 63, 68v, 82v, 127) contain dates belonging to the month Jumada II 1278, corresp. to Dec. 1861. The final colophon, however, is dated the 2nd Rajab 1270. There is no difference in the paper or handwriting, and it has therefore most probably to be read the 2nd Rajab 1278/the 3rd Jan. 1862.

Ff. 197; S 8,5×5; 5,5×2,75; ll 15, within double jadwals. Good Europ. paper. Good modern Ind. nast. Cond. good. A large vignette on ff. 1v, of inferior quality, and smaller vignettes in the beginning of all the entries, except the 13th.

(اشعار سلمان ساوجي)

I 712.

(Ash'ār-i-Salmān-i-Sāwajī).

Two poems of Salmān Sāwajī, i.e. Jamālu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Salmān b. 'Alā'i'd-Dīn Muḥammad of Sāwa, d. 778 or 779/1376–1378; for references see IvASB 584. The works in question are:

1. (f. 1v). Qaṣīda-i-maṣnū', the same as described in EIO 1241, in praise of wazīr Ghiyāthu'd-Dīn Muḥammad (d. 736/1336), a minister to Abū Sa'īd, the Mongol (716–736/1316–1335). It contains a prose preface, beg.

بعد از حمد و سپاس بی قیاس مر احدی را الخ

Beg. of the qaṣīda itself (f. 2):

صفای صفوت رویت بریخت اب بهار،
هوای جنت کویت ببخت[1] مشک تتار،

The poem is incomplete at the end (f. 10v).

2. (f. 11). Firāq-nāma, a long mathnawī poem, comp. in 761/1360, at the request of Shaykh Uways Jalā'ir (757–776/1356–1374, to whom it is dedicated, ff. 12–13v), about the loves of Malik and Maḥbūb; see EIO 1243,2, RS 265 VI, R 625 II, etc. The beginning is lost, probably a page or so, and the poem opens with (f. 11):

مبندار کین بی سبب میکند، خداوند خود را طلب میکند،

[1] Sic. In EIO 1241 correctly ببیخت.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The first next complete section, در مناجات, begins (f. 11) :

الهي الهي خطا كرده ايم ، تو بر ما مگير انچه ما كرده ايم ،

A good old copy, dating apparently from the x/xvi c.; judging from the remnants of the old folio numbers it may have formed a portion of a kulliyyāt.

Ff. 39 (lacuna between ff. 10 and 11); S 8×5; 6,5×3; ll 17, within jadwals. Or. pap. Very good Khorasani nast. Cond. tol. good. Injured by moisture. A good, but faded vignette.

مرج البحرين

Marju'l-baḥrayn. I 549.

A commentary on the ghazals and a few qiṭ'as in the dīwān of Ḥāfiẓ, the same as noticed in EIO 1269 and Spr 416, l. 20. Two copies of it are mentioned in Bk 160, 161, where the date of composition is wrongly given. The present copy contains a lengthy and verbose preface, from which all the particulars as to the author, which cannot be ascertained from the transcripts mentioned above, may be gathered. He calls himself (f. 8, 8v, etc.) Sayfu'd-Dīn Abū'l-Ḥasan (b.) 'Abdi'r-Raḥmān of Lahore (f. 8v), and his takhallus Khatmī appears in many versified passages (cf. ff. 7v, 8, 8v, 9, 9v, 10, etc.). Cf. No. 323, f. 70. It is no wonder that his name is not mentioned in any tadhkira: his verses and chronograms are exceptionally bad. The commentary (its title appears on ff. 8, 9v, 211), has been completed in 1026/1617 (f. 211, cf. EIO 1269). But it appears that the author has revised his work afterwards, adding the florid preface, in which there is a dedication to Shāhjahān, in 1041/1631–1632 (see f. 10v). He refers also to some other people with whom he was connected, chiefly the Sufis of the Shaṭṭārī and Qādirī orders, such as his spiritual guide and relative, Miyān Sa'du'l-lah, d. 999/1590–1591 (f. 6v); Kamālu'd-Dīn Surāmī (d. the 22nd Rajab 1006/the 28th Febr. 1598, f. 9); his father, who died in 1031/1622 (f. 7v), etc.

The initial lines are damaged in this copy (there is something like ... ذوالذون سجده ...). On f. 12v there is probably the original beginning:

آغاز کتاب بنام رب الارباب، بسم الله النخ، ابتدا میکنم سلوک عرفان النخ

The first ghazal begins a few lines further on:

غزل اول از مقالات خواجه بی بدل، الا یا ایها النخ، دانا (و) آگاه باش
ای رعنا که الا حرف تنبیه است و یا حرف ندا النخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., at Qaṣūr (near Lahore), by 'Abdu'l-lah Khwīshagī.

Ff. 211; S 9,5 × 6,25; 7,5 × 4,5; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten and repaired. A few emendations on the margins.

(Mukhammasāt-i-ghazalhā-i-Ḥāfiẓ). I 196.

A series of mukhammases, based on the ghazals of Ḥāfiẓ, the same as described in Spr 415. The author uses the takhallus 'Alī, and is called 'Alī Shīrāzī in the colophon, but there are no indications as to his date. He cannot have flourished later than the beginning of the XII/XVIIIc., as this copy dates from that time. There is no prose preface as mentioned in Spr 415. Beg.

Dated the 25th Jum. II 1135 (the fifth year of Muḥammad Shāh's reign), i.e. the 2nd Apr. 1723, copied by 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān, a pedlar, at Peshawar.

Dīwān-i-Maghribī.

II 225.

Poems of Muḥammad Shīrīn, of Nāin, who used the takhallus Maghribī. He died at Tabrīz in 809/1406–1407, see IvASB 599, where references to other catalogues are given. It is of interest to note that a contemporary author, who wrote about 825/1422 in India, places Maghribī's death in 789/1387 (see the Laṭā'if-i-Ashrafī, IvASB 1214, f. 598v). The present copy is probably slightly incomplete at the end, and contains:

1. (f. 1v). Ghazals, alphabetically arranged, beg. as usual:

خورشید رخت چو کشت پیدا، ذرات در کون شد ہویدا،

2. (f. 72v). Tarjī'bands, beg.

آفتاب وجود کرد اشراق، نور او سر بسر کرفت افاق،

3. (f. 87v). Rubā'īs, beg. as usual:

ای کشتہ عیان ز روی تو جان جہان، پیدا شدہ از نام خوشت نام جہان،

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c. A few emendations on the margins.

dīwān). For his prose works see IvASB 1239-1240, etc. This copy contains :

1. (f. 9). A series of short mathnawīs, ghazals, quatrains, etc., as in RS 279 and R 634, collected without any order ; the beginning, some 8 folios, has been lost, and first comes a mathnawī which begins with :

کرز خود غائب شدی میکو که هو، کل شي هالـــک الا وجهـــه،

2. (f. 30v). Ghazals, in alphabetical order, beg. (as in RS 279 and R 634) :

جام کیتي نماست سید ما، جان و جانان ماست سید ما،

Their series is not complete, probably a few only wanting.

3. (f. 343). Another series of qiṭ'as, short mathnawīs, qaṣīdas (including the famous one, with prophecies, f. 347), tarjī'bands (many of which are nowadays widely known in Persia), etc. There are apparently many lacunas, in the beginning of this section, and at the end. Spiritual pedigree of the author (f. 358v), his family pedigree, ascending to Imām Isma'īl and to 'Alī (f. 373v), etc.

4. (f. 375v). A series, in alphabetical order, of dūbaytīs, as they are called in RS 279, i.e. quatrains in non-rubā'ī metres. The first is damaged ; that which is given as the initial one in RS 279 is here the third :

سر محبوب خود مکن پیدا، الخ

The series is incomplete, and constitutes probably only a small part of the whole, as it breaks off with the letter ت.

A good copy, probably dating from the xi/xvii c.

دیوان ریاضي

Dīwān-i-Riyāḍī. II 235.

A slightly incomplete copy of the dīwān of Riyāḍī Samarqandī (d. 884/1479-1480), see IvASB 610. It contains, as usual, almost exclusively ghazals, with only a few quatrains. The beginning, probably only one leaf, is lost, and the MS. opens with :

این همه نقشی که در عالم بصنع پاک تست،

تا کشد در قید حیرت عقل را از مشک تر،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The poem which is usually placed first, and beginning with : ای پری از رخ بر افکن طرهٔ طرار را ، الخ, is found on f. 3. The poems are arranged alphabetically.

Copied apparently in the beg. of the xi/xvii c. The date, given at the end, the 26th Rab. II 1265, is purely imaginary, and is written by a modern hand.

Ff. 45; S 7×4; 4,5×1,75; ll about 12, diagonally and transversely written, within jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Calligraphic Indo-Khorasani nast. Cond. rather bad. Worm-eaten, repaired. Seals, almost all erased.

دیوان اول جامي

II 244.

Dīwān-i-awwal-i-Jāmī.

The first dīwān of Jāmī, or Nūru'd-Dīn ʿAbdu'r-Raḥmān b. Niẓāmi'd-Dīn Aḥmad Kharjirdī Jāmī (d. the 18th Muḥarram 898/the 9th Nov. 1492), the same as IvASB 612, 24, 25. It was composed in 884/1479–1480, and has a title Fātiḥatu'sh-shabāb. The prose preface is incomplete at the beg. (probably one page has been lost), and it begins with : ... الشعر مزمار من مزامیر ابلیس ، داخل شده است الخ (corresponding to Ros p. 228, l. 13).

The usual collection of qaṣīdas, short mathnawīs, tarjīʿbands, etc., begins on f. 4v, as usual :

زان پیش کز مداد دهم خامه را مدد ،
خواهم مدد ز فضل تو ای مفضل احد ،

On f. 49 (old foliation 51) begins a series of ghazals arranged alphabetically, each section having at the top a fine frontispiece. Beg. as usual :

یا من بدا جمالک في کل ما بدا ، بادا هزار جان مقدس ترا فدا ،

They end on f. 299 (old foliation) ; at the end a musammaṭ is added.

On. f. 300 (old 302) begin the qiṭʿas :

دلا منشین درین ویرانه چون جغد ، سوی مرغان قدسي آشیان پر ،

Rubāʿīs, beg. on f. 305 (old 307) :

سبحانک لا علم لنا الا ما ، علمت و الهمت لنا العاما ،

Copied apparently towards the end of the x/xvi c. The colophon runs as follows :

کلیات جامي نهایت تحفه بخط ولایت طلاکار شیخ معصوم ولد شیخ احمد سرهندي
را غلام قادر خان افغان پادشاه کابل نذر داد ، سنه ۱۰۳۶

This may mean that the MS. already existed in 1036/1626–1627.

Ff. 317 (here 319); S 10×6,25; 6,25×3; ll 15, within jadwals. Old Or. pap. Excellent nast., of Khorasani type. Cond. not good, the inner part of the folios is injured by moisture. A fine vignette on f. 4v, and several fine smaller frontispieces at the beg. of every letter in the section of ghazals. Some of them are faded. Seals and notes at the end.

تحفة الاحرار

Tuḥfatu'l-aḥrār. II 272.

The well-known Sufic mathnawī poem of Jāmī, comp. in 886/1481, see IvASB 612, 19; to the references given there add: BrRs 46 (p. 38), 50, 170, 251. The present copy contains a prose introduction, different from the usual one (cf. IvASB 612, 19). It opens with:

حامدا لمن جعل جنان كل عارف مخزن اسرار الخ

On. f. 2v there are the usual introductory lines:

در فتح باب سخن به بسمله كه الخ

Beg. of the poem itself (f. 2v), as usual:

بسم الله الرحمن الرحيـــم، هست صلای سرخوان كريم،

Copied in the beg. of the xi/xvii c. (The last two folios are of a more modern origin). Numerous marginal and interlinear notes on the first three folios, but very few further on in the book.

Ff. 65; S 7,5×4,25; 5×2; ll 15, within jadwals. Brown Or. pap. (margins are different). Ind. nast. Cond. fairly bad. Worm-eaten, repaired. A bad modern vignette. A seal of Akbar, dated 1013 AH., on f. 1.

شرح يوسف زليخا

Sharḥ-i-Yūsuf-Zulaykhā. II 521.

A commentary on the famous poem of Jāmī (cf. IvASB 612, 21). As stated in the preface (f. 2), these comments were originally written as marginal explanations to the text, by Muḥammad Sājid b. Fayḍ Muḥammad Qādirī Jhanjānawī, who completed them the 14th Dhī'l-ḥijja 1157/the 18th Jan. 1745. One Muḥammad Shāh of Rāmpūr afterwards decided to edit these notes in the form of a separate book, for the instruction of intending students. The work is also called Sharḥ-i-'ajīb, and contains a detailed commentary on the whole of the poem (which begins on f. 2). Lith. Calcutta, 1862, 1866, Cawnpore, 1877, 1882. Beg. of the preface:

زهی قادر مطلق بيچون كه از قدرتش صفحه روی مبارک الخ

Dated the 8th Jum. II 1259/the 6th July 1843.

Ff. 239; S 11,25×6,5; 9×4; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Slightly worm-eaten. Occasional marginal notes and glosses.

239. شرح رباعيات

Sharḥ-i-rubā'iyyāt. II 192.

The well-known commentary by Jāmī on some of his own rubā'īs, see IvASB 612, 14 (to the references given there add BrRs p. 40). Beg. as usual: حمداً لاله هو بالحمد حقيق النخ

Dated the 19th Dhī'l-Qa'da 1298/the 13th Oct. 1881, at Ḥaydarābād, copied by Muḥammad 'Uthmān Khān b. Muḥammad Sulaymān Khān.

Ff. 20; S 9×5,5; 8×4,5; ll 23, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A few marginal glosses.

240. ديوان معين

Dīwān-i-Mu'īn. I 399.

Religious poems of Mu'īn, Mu'īnī, or Mu'īn Miskīn, as he calls himself. As usual, and as one would expect, there are notes on the first folios to the effect that this is the dīwān of the famous Chishtī saint, Mu'īnu'd-Dīn (d. ca. 632/1235), to whom all poems containing the takhalluṣ Mu'īn are invariably attributed (just as all those with the takhalluṣ Muḥyī, or Qādir, etc., to 'Abdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī). The style of the poems does not allow us to attribute to them such an early origin. Unfortunately there are no dates and no references to historical names or events whatever in these ghazals. The only biographical detail concerning the author which I have found is on f. 15v, where he calls himself a native (or a resident) of Herat: 'مسکین معینی در هری زان نعل دیکر کون زند'. All poems are written in a religious and Sufic spirit; the author seems to have been a great admirer of the legend of Ḥallāj, and the expression انا الحق appears on almost every page. There are however no names of Sufic saints. Of a dozen Mu'īns and Mu'īnīs, mentioned in the Riyāḍu'sh-shu'arā' none appears to be identical with the present one. The most probable identity which may be suggested is that with the well-known religious writer Mu'īnu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Amīn al-Farāhī al-Harawī (d. 907/1501-1502), who used exactly this takhalluṣ, Mu'īn Miskīn (for his other works cf. IvASB 50, 323-325, 1071-1072, etc.). The poems are all exclusively ghazals; they are not arranged in alphabetical order. Beg.

'حمدی که همچو بحر کرم بیکران بود'
'حمدی که شکر نعمت هر دو جهان بود'

An old copy, apparently dating from the end of the x/xvi c.

Ff. 65; S 9×5,75; 5,5×3,25; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Good nast. of Khorasani type. Cond. not good. The lower part is damaged by moisture. Worm-eaten. A good, but faded vignette. Notes on f. 1, also a seal of Shāyasta Khān.

قصیدهٔ مصنوع

Qaṣīda-i-maṣnū'.

II 265.

An ornate qaṣīda, in which different words, parts of words, or letters, written in red ink, etc., may be separately read so as to form additional sentences or verses. It is dedicated to Abū'l-Ghāzī Shāh Sulṭān Ḥusayn b. Manṣūr b. Bayqarā (872–911/1468–1506), the Timuride of Herat (see f. 1, and the initial letters of each verse in the poem). The author's takhalluṣ is apparently Rafīq (f. 8v): ' رفیق حال تو حق باد تا بدور قیام '. He may be identical with Majnūn b. Maḥmūd (or Muḥammad) Rafīqī, also known as Mullā 'Alī Kātib, the famous calligrapher (d. ca. 945/1539), cf. IvASB 1623. Here the heading is (f. 1): Qaṣīda-i-maṣnū'-i-Mawlānā Ḥāfiẓ 'Alī Kātib, but this seems to have been written by a different hand, not that by which the bulk of the text has been transcribed. There is no prose introduction, and the poem ends abruptly.

The author first gives five qiṭ'as which apparently do not form part of the poem. Each of them has a versified heading (written in red ink). Beg. of the first one is:

' حاکم روی زمین بحر سخا کان کرم ' در دریای مروت منبع حلم و وقار '

The poem itself begins on f. 2v.

' حریم حرمت کوی تو جنت احرار ' شمیم نکهت موی تو راحت دل زار '

There are explanatory marginal notes facing the passages which require them. The continuous text of the passages imbedded in the poem, written in red ink, is given in the form of additional, differently rhyming bayts, also in red ink.

The copy may date from the beg. of the x/xvi c.

Ff. 14; S 9 × 5,5; 6,5 × 3,5; ll 15, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Good nast. of Khorasani type. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten and damaged by moisture. Some lines have become illegible. Notes on the first and last folios; also, on the last page, a versified passage, illustrating different metres.

242.

دیوان فغاني

Dīwān-i-Fighānī.

I 398.

An incomplete copy of the dīwān of Bābā Fighānī Shīrāzī, who originally used the takhalluṣ Sakkākī (d. 922 or 925/1516–1519). For references see IvASB 645 (add BrRs p. 50). The beginning is lost in this copy, and the first complete poem, a ghazal, opens with (f. 10):

' بسوی من نظر مهر نیست ماه مرا ' هنوز بین که غرور است کج کلاه مرا '

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The ghazals are arranged alphabetically. On f. 140v there is a short mathnawī poem, beg.

در دل من کر دمي آن ماه منزل ميکند، الخ

Qiṭ'as, quatrains, a few tarjī'bands, etc., beg. on f. 142:

فغاني في المثل در عالم خاک، اکر نانرا نمي يابي و کر آب،

Qaṣīdas, on f. 150v (the series is incomplete at the end). Beg.

خطی که یک رقمش آب روی نه چمنست،
نشان خاتم سلطان دین ابوالحســـن است،

In the beginning (ff. 1v–8v) there are 22 ghazals of Khusraw, probably extracted from different dīwāns of Amīr Khusraw (cf. above, No. 218). Beg.

ای مونس سینهائي (sic) غمناک، ای کم شده در تو وهم و ادراک،

Copied at Murshidābād, by Sayyid Muḥibb Ḥusayn, a Sayyid of Bārha. The date is Wednesday, 25th Jum. I 12.(1212 ?). In that year the 25th Jum. I was indeed a Wednesday, and therefore it may be the 15th Nov. 1797. The equivalent in the years of julūs has not been inserted, although originally it was intended to write it. These particulars are given in the colophon on f. 148v.

Ff. 171; S 7,75 × 5,25; 6,5 × 3,75; ll 17, no jadwals. Thin Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Ff. 149–150 are left blank.

243. دیوان آصفي

Dīwān-i-Āṣafī. II 214.

Poems of Āṣafī, son of Muqīmu'd-Dīn Ni'matu'l-lah Quhistānī, d. at Herat ca. 923/1517, see IvASB 647 (to the references given there add BrRs 55, p. 50). The dīwān consists of ghazals, with only a few qiṭ'as and rubā'īs at the end. Beg. as usual:

ساز آباد خدایـا دل ویراني را، یا مده مهربتان هیچ مسلماني را،

Beg. of the rubā'īs (f. 80):

ای آنکه چو مطلع رخت مطلع نیست،
بی ذکر تو هیچ مجلس و مجمع نیست،

A good calligraphic copy, dating from the x/xvi c. The first and the last folios are of more modern origin. A few marginal notes.

Ff. 82; S 6,25 × 4,5; 4,75 × 3; ll 14, within jadwals. Or. greyish pap. Excellent nast. of Herati type. Cond. tol. good; slightly injured by moisture. Notes on f. 1.

244. تیمور نامه

Tīmūr-nāma. II 271.

The well-known poem of 'Abdu'l-lah Jāmī, with the takhallus Hātifī (d. 927/1520–1521), see IvASB 649. It describes, in laudatory style, the exploits of Tīmūr. Beg. as usual:

بنام خدایی که فکر خرد ' نیارد که با کنه او پی برد '

Transcribed by Muḥammad Riḍā b. Niẓāmi'd-Dīn Muḥammad Samarqandī, apparently towards the end of the xi/xvii c.

Ff. 71; S 11,25 × 7,25; 5,5 × 2,75; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Good Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. The paper of some folios is decaying. Double full page vignette, mediocre. A seal on f. 1, dated 1253 AH.

245. لیلی و مجنون

Laylā wa Majnūn. II 249.

Another poem by the same Hātifī, dealing with the stereotype subject of the romance of Majnūn and Laylā. See, in addition to the references given in IvASB 649, also EIO 1398–1409, Br 278 II, 279, RS 295 III, 296, EB 996–1005, Pr 888–893, R 652 sq., Fl I 581–582, Leyden C. II, 121, Gotha C. 107, etc. Ind. libr. Bk 222, Spr 421. Lith. Lucknow, 1862; edited by Sir W. Jones, Calcutta, 1788. Beg. as usual:

این نامه که خامه کرد بنیاد ' توقیع قبـــول روزیش باد '

Dated 1943, probably of the Samwat era, i.e. 1886.

Ff. 91; S 9,5 × 6,5; 6 × 3,75; ll 11, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good, except at the end, where the MS. is injured by worms. Bad vignette.

246. معراج العشاق

Mi'rāju'l-'ushshāq. II 394.

A prose version of the contents of the same Laylā wa Majnūn of Hātifī. The author of this prose rendering calls himself (f. 2) 'Ibratī 'Aẓīmābādī; he is apparently identical with the compiler of the Mi'rāju'l-khiyāl, a tadhkira of modern Indian poets (No. 60; cf. also No. 314), whose original name was Wazīr 'Alī. He died after 1268/1852. The present work has been compiled, as stated on f. 2v, in 1251/1835–1836. Beg.

دیباچه پیرایی صحیفه دلکشایی سخن بنام پاک ایزد یکتایی الخ

Dated the 3rd Jum. II 1281/the 3rd Nov. 1864.

* Ff. 1v–17; S 11,5 × 7,5; 9,25 × 4,5; ll 10, no jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good.

247. دیوان آهي

Dīwān-i-Āhī. II 208.

Poems of Āhī, of Turkish extraction, who was an official in the service of Gharīb Mīrzā, a Timuride of the end of the IX/XVc. He died in 927/1521. See Br. Lit. Hist. III, 459, GIPh 335; EB 995, R 736, Fl I 578, Gotha C. 74, etc. Ind. libr. Spr 327. It contains only ghazals, arranged alphabetically, with some 11 quatrains at the end. Beg. of ghazals:

ای صد خجالت از گل روئتو لاله را، ماند غزال چشم تو چشم غزاله را،

Beg. of quatrains (f. 31):

تا کی طلبـــد زمانه فرسودن من، در محنت و غم دم نیاسودن من،

Dated the 1st Muḥarram 1222/the 11th March 1807, with a silly colophon:

تمام شد نسخهٔ دیوان آهي تصنیف شاه عباس والي ایران،

Ff. 32; S 8,5×5,5; 6,25×3,5; ll 16, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good. Seals at the beg. and end.

248. ناز و نیاز

Nāz-u niyāz. II 514.

An allegorical didactic story, in mathnawī verse, the same as the one described in Spr 382 (apparently Sprenger refers to exactly this particular copy which may at some time have belonged to the Society's library). The name of the author is not mentioned in the text. Only, on the last folio, on the margin, opposite the concluding lines of the poem, there are written in red ink the three words محمد صالح خواجم, which Sprenger took for the name of the author. The poem has been completed in Shawwāl of 930/Aug. 1524 (cf. f. 56), and is dedicated to 'Ubaydu'l-lah Khān, probably the Shaybanide prince who later on ruled in 940–946/1533–1539, see f. 4v. A poem with the same title, and also without the author's name, has been lith. in Persia, 1888, but I cannot at present ascertain whether both are the same. Beg.

ای وجود تو اصل هر اشیا، کشته اشیا ز صنع تو پیدا،

Dated Ṣafar 1069/Nov. 1658, copied by Muḥammad Baqā.

Ff. 57; S 7,5×4; 5,5×2,25; ll 15, within jadwals. Grey Or. pap. Good. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. A faded vignette.

فتوح الحرمين

Futūḥu'l-ḥaramayn. II 510.

The well-known versified description of the Muhammadan holy places at Mekka and Medina, comp. in 911/1505–1506, and ascribed to Muḥyī Lārī (d. 933/1526–1527), see IvASB 654, where references to other catalogues are given. Beg. as usual :

ای همه کس را بدرت التجا، کعبهٔ جانرا ز تو نور ضیا،

Copied probably in the beg. of the xi/xvii c., a fine transcript. As usual, there are drawings and plans ; in this copy they are drawn without any skill (ff. 6v, 17, 19, 19v, 20, 21v, 23, 23v, 24v, 27v, 29, 34, 37, 38v, 39v, 40v, 41, 42).

Ff. 42 ; S 9,25×5,25 ; 6,5×3,5 ; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Very good Persian nast. Cond. tol. good. A few glosses on the margins.

دیوان هلالي

Dīwān-i-Hilālī. I 402.

Poems of Badru'd-Dīn Hilālī Astrābādī (d. 936–939/1529–1533), see IvASB 657. The present copy contains apparently an extract from the original dīwān, because it is much shorter than in other MSS. There are chiefly ghazals, alphabetically arranged, with a few qiṭ'as and rubā'īs at the end. Beg.

ز آب چشم من کل شد براه عشق منزلها،
ندانم تا چه کلها بشکفد آخر ازین کلها،

Beg. of. qiṭ'as (f. 43) :

محمـــد عربـــي آب روی هر دو سرای،
کسی که خاک درش نیست خاک بر سر او،

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 46 ; S 6,75×4,75 ; 4×3 ; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. and Europ. pap. Turkish (?) nast. Cond. fairly good, only in a few places worm-eaten.

كنج معاني

Ganj-i-ma'ānī. II 512.

A mathnawī poem eulogising the victories of a prince of Gujrāt, Bahādur Shāh (932–943/1526–1537), to whom the poem is dedicated (f. 9v). The author, who calls himself Muṭī'ī (cf. ff. 3, 24, etc.), is apparently a very little known local poet ; he seems to have nothing to do with another Muṭī'ī, or Alif Abdāl Balkhī, his contemporary in Persia, who died in 931/1525 ; there is probably no information about him in any of the known tadhkiras. Several dates are mentioned in the text (936/1529–1530, on f. 6; 937/1530-1531, on f. 15), and the date of completion is given on f. 30 as 941/1534–1535 (كوهر سخن). The title given in the vignette (f. 1v) runs as follows: اسم كتاب كنج المعاني (sic) حضرة صاحب قراني, but it is given in a correct form in the colophon (f. 30). The poem begins with a quatrain:

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

در وادی عشق جان و تن فرسودم ، وین راه خطر ناک بسی نمودم (؟) ،

(the last word is not well legible). The poem itself begins:

ای بدیدار کن لیل و نهار ، در هوای تو دل و جان فکار ،

The copy is not dated, but it is quite probable that it may belong to the same time, i.e. the middle of the x/xvi c., judging from its style and paper.

Ff. 30; S 7,25×4,75; 5×2,75; ll 11, within jadwals. Or. pap. Old Indo-Khorasani nast. Cond. bad. Worm-eaten, repaired. Fine vignette. Seal at the end, erased.

252. سحر حلال

Sihr-i-ḥalāl. II 509.

The well-known artificial mathnawī, which can be read in two different metres, by Ahlī Shīrāzī (d. 942/1535–1536), see IvASB 663,3. It has been lith. in Persia. Beg. of the prose preface, as usual:

حمد نا محدود و شکر نا معدود سزاوار صانعیست الخ

Beg. of the poem itself (f. 107), also as usual:

ای همه عالم بر تو بی شکوه ، رفعت خاک در تو بیش کوه ،

Copied in the xii/xviii c.

*Ff. 105v–124v; S 6,5×3,5; 4,75×2; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten, repaired. Notes on f. 105.

253. خمسهٔ قاسمي

Khams-i-Qāsimaī. III 42.

An excellent old copy of the five mathnawī poems by Qāsimī Gunābādī, or Muḥammad Qāsim al-Ḥusaynī, of Gunābād (or, in its Arabicised form, Janābidh), who died some time about 979/1571–1572. See GIPh 246, Horn, 192; EIO 1437–1438, EB 513–517, R 660-661, Fl I 602–603, Dorn C. 387–388, etc. Ind. libr. Spr 534–535 (apparently exactly the present copy is referred to). Cf. also Mohl, Le livre des Rois, vol. I, p. lxxvii; Dorn, Das Asiatische Museum, p. 375; Notices et Extraits, IV, 297. There are:

4. (f. 127v). Shīrīn-u Khusraw, comp. in 950/1543-1544. Beg. (as in Spr 535):

الهي قاسمي را کن نظرباز ' بروی کارخانش کن نظرباز '

5. (f. 165). Shāhnāma (comp. in 940/1533–1534), otherwise styled Shahnāma, or Isma'īl-nāma, or Shahinshāh-nāma, or Shāh-nāma-i-Isma'īl, containing a history of Shāh Isma'īl Ṣafawī (907–930/1502–1524). This copy does not contain the second daftar, dealing with the reign of Ṭahmāsp (cf. R 361, Dorn C. 388). The beginning is lost, and the poem opens with:

نماینده هر صورت از پیش و پس ' بود پرتو ذات بیچون و بس '

A very good, calligraphically written copy, dated 982/1574 (the earliest date is the 15th Muḥ. / the 7th May, and the latest probably the end of Ramaḍān 982/the beg. of Jan. 1575, on f. 126v), transcribed at Bārfurūsh (sic في بلدة بارفروشده, f. 126v), by Muḥammad b. Rūḥi'l-lah aṭ-Ṭabīb of Gīlān.

Ff. 211: S 12,75 × 8,5; 8,75 × 5; ll 21 (in four columns), within jadwals. Good Or. pap. Excellent nast. of Khurasani type. Cond. very good. On ff. 1v, 32v, 85v, 127v there are excellent frontispieces, still well preserved.

دیوان ثنائي

I 387.

Poems of Ḥusayn Mashhadī, who used the takhalluṣ Thanā'ī (d. ca. 996/1588), see IvASB 680 (to the references given there add BrRs 249). There are, as usual, qaṣīdas, ghazals, qiṭ'as, etc.

Qaṣīdas (f. 1v), beg. as usual:

در روش حسن و ناز هست بسی خوشنما '
غمزه بطرز ستم عشوه برنگ جفا '

Ghazals (f. 47), alphabetically arranged, beg. as usual:

Rubā'īs (f. 63v), beg. as usual :

فریاد که غرق دیده خون کرد مرا ، دل از ره عشق و دین برون کرد مرا ،

Dated the 25th Rab. II 1099/the 28th Febr. 1688, copied by Jamāl Muḥammad, son of Shāh Muḥammad of Niẓāmpūr.

Ff. 71 ; S 10×6,25 ; 7×3 ; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. and Europ. pap. (new margins). Good Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten and repaired. Marginal notes and glosses, especially at the beginning. A fragment on the fly-leaf at the beg. A seal.

255. شرح دیوان ثنائي

Sharḥ-i-Dīwān-i-Thanā'ī. I 574.

A commentary on Thanā'ī's dīwān, described in the preceding note, by 'Iwaḍ Rāy, with the takhallus Masarrat, an author of the beginning of the XIII/XIXc., cf. further on, No. 312. In his preface he mentions that he did compose a commentary on the opening distich of that dīwān and displayed it in an assembly of noblemen, who were much pleased with it. This encouraged him to start on his present work. Amongst the members of that assembly is mentioned Nawwāb Ghāziyyu'd-Dīn Ḥaydar Khān, who was a sulṭān of Oude in 1229–1243/1814–1827, when he changed his name to Shāh Zamān ; it seems therefore very probable that the book has been completed not long before 1229/1814. Beg.

از شرح معانی تو خاموش سخن ، الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c. The date 1208 (?) AH., given in the colophon by a different hand and in different ink seems to be unreliable.

Ff. 173 ; S 10,25×6,75 ; 8×4,25 ; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. and shikasta. Cond. fairly good. Slightly worm-eaten. A few marginal notes.

256. شرح دیوان عرفي

Sharḥ-i-Dīwān-i-'Urfī. II 515.

A commentary on the poems of Muḥammad b. Zayni'd-Dīn 'Alī b. Jamāli'd-Dīn Shīrāzī, with the takhallus 'Urfī (d. 999/1591). Very unfortunately there are no indications as to the name of the author or the date of composition. In addition, the preface is omitted, and the work opens directly with the first bayt of the initial qaṣīda :

ای متاع درد در بازار جان انداخته الخ ، متاع درد در بازار و کوهر سود الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

It is therefore impossible to decide whether or not it is identical with one of the commentaries described in other catalogues.

Copied in the xii/xviii c. After the colophon there are further glossess and explanations in the same style as that of the work itself.

*Ff. 18–64; S 9,5 × 6; 8,25 × 3,25; ll 20, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten and injured by moisture; marginal notes and glosses on several folios.

257.

نل و دمن

Nal-u Daman. III 18.

The well-known mathnawī poem, dealing with some episodes from Hindu lore, by Abū'l-Fayḍ b. Mubārak Nāgūrī, with the takhallus Fayḍī, or Fayyāḍī (d. 1004/1595). It has been completed in 1003/1594–1595, see IvASB 696. Beg. as usual:

A prose version of Fayḍī's Nal-u Daman, compiled in 1247/1831–1832 by 'Ibratī 'Aẓīmābādī, the same as the author of the Mi'rāju'l-khiyāl, see above, No. 60, and the Mi'rāju'l-'ushshāq, No. 246. The work begins and ends with praises to his teacher, Ulfatī Shāhjahānābādī, or Dihlawī (d. the 28th Ṣafar 1254/the 23rd May 1838, see No. 60: 20 of the list). It is written in bombastic and florid ornate prose, intermixed with many poetical quotations. Beg.

I 401.

Dīwān-i-Walī.

Poems of Walī of Dasht-i-bayāḍ, in Qāin (d. 1012/1603–1604). A portion of it has already been described and references have been given in IvASB 697. This copy (which seems to be old and very good), is slightly incomplete towards the end, where there are may lacunas, partly restored by a modern hand. The copy contains:

1. (f. 1). Qaṣīdas, beg. as in EIO 1482:

ای دل و جان درد و غمت را وطن ، هر دو فدای تو چه جان و چه تن ،

2. (f. 62). Qiṭ'as, etc., beg.

The bulk of the MS. may date from the beg. of the xi/xvii c.

Ff. 147; S 8 × 4,5; 6,75 × 2,75; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. (and Europ.) pap. calligraphic Khorasani-Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Marginal notes and glosses.

261. تحفهٔ قاسمی

II 252.

Tuḥfa-i-Qāsimī.

A lengthy Sufic mathnawī poem, narrating the miracles of Mīr Dād, an early Afghan saint, probably of the VII/XIIIc. (as he is said to be referred to in the Fawā'idu'l-fu'ād, IvASB 239), see ff. 19, 19v, 20, 20v, etc., and of other saints of more recent origin. The author, who gives only his takhallus as Ḥusaynī, was an Afghan from Peshawar (this place is often mentioned in the text). He was born, as stated on f. 10, in 977/1569–1570, as in 984/1576–1577, being then seven years of age, he lost his father; he mentions that he wrote the present poem at the age of 35 (approximately, indeed), i.e. in 1012/1603–1604. On f. 12v,

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

where the title of the work is given, he mentions that he started its composition in 1009/1600–1601 :

چو میکردم این داستانرا نگار، سنه بود کامل نه و یک هزار،

The poem is dedicated to Qāsim ibn Qadam, a local Qādirī Pīr (cf. f. 8), whose disciple the author was. The takhallus Ḥusaynī the author derived from Sayyid Ḥusayn, a descendant of ʿAbdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī, whose shrine was worshipped at that place (see ibid.). The stories are of the usual type, and there are apparently almost no allusions to any historical events. The language is simple and not polished at all. Beg.

خدایا توئي کارساز همه، بدرگاه پاکت نیاز همه،

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 48 ; S 10,5 × 6,75 ; 7 × 3,75 ; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. (new margins, Europ. pap.). Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good.

Dīwān-i-Naẓīrī. II 231.

Poems of Muḥammad Ḥusayn Nīshāpūrī with the takhallus Naẓīrī (d. in India, ca. 1021/1612–1613), see IvASB 705 (to the references, given there, add BrRs 54, p. 47). The present copy, like the following one, does not contain the qaṣīdas, but only ghazals, in alphabetical order, and a few quatrains. Beg. as usual :

اذا ما شئت من (sic) تحیی حیوة جلوة المحیا،

برسوایي بر اور سر بمستـــوري برون نـه پا،

Rubāʿīs (f. 158), beg.

263.

The same. II 230.

Another copy of the same dīwān, also without qaṣīdas. Beg. of ghazals is the same as in the preceding transcript. Fol. 193v is left blank. A series of quatrains, which seems to be incomplete, begins with :

شب مست زخانقه برونم بردند، تا دیـر مغان واژکونم . بردند،

Copied probably towards the end of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 197; S 11,5 × 7; 9 × 4,5; ll 15, no jadwals. Eur. pap. Modern Ind. nast. Cond. good.

كليات ملك قمى

II 245.

Kulliyyāt-i-Malik Qumī.

A complete collection of the poetical works of Malik Qumī (d. 1024-1025/1615-1616), see IvASB 715, where only his dīwān is described. This kulliyyāt seems to be very rare, and apparently does not exist in other libraries. It contains:

1. (f. 1v). Rubā'īs, alphabetically arranged. There are several series of them, the first one is the largest, and has no special heading. Beg.

از مغز سمن بادهٔ ... سل (؟) بكشا، آسان حل شد عقدهٔ مشكل بكشا،

On f. 16 begins another series, with the heading:

در تعريف آتشبازي شب برآت الخ

On f. 17v begins: در تعريف حكيم جم نشين كه اجزاى حكمت فراهم آورده الخ

On f. 18v: تعريف ابنه در صفت نورس طوبى سرشت كه چشمهٔ سر بستهٔ زندكيست الخ

On f. 19v: طرح ثالث عمارت پايه سر سنجي سراى كم مايه الخ

On f. 21v: سلسلهٔ رباعيست مرصع بلعل و مرواريد هر مصرعي الخ

On f. 25: پيرايه سازي اساس مربع در نغمه انكيزى چار تار مرصع،

2. (f. 28). Dībācha-i-Gulzār-i-Ibrāhīm. It is the same as the one included in the kulliyyāt of Ẓuhūrī (d. 1025/1616), described in EIO 1500,1. It seems to be undoubtedly from Malik's pen (cf. f. 30, his takhallus: ملك شد تاجدار ملك معنى، at the end of the work), and there is nothing improbable that Malik might have written it for Ẓuhūrī, who was his relative. Beg.

اى نورس كلزار براهيم از تو، الخ، سلطان لم يزل كه پيكر آتشي الخ

As all the well-known works of Ẓuhūrī it is dedicated to 'Ādilshāh Ibrāhīm (987–1035/1579–1626).

3. (f. 30v). Manba'u'l-anhār. A Sufico-didactic mathnawī poem in imitation of Niẓāmī's Makhzanu'l-asrār (cf. f. 38v), see Spr 482. It is divided into 17 nahrs, with many other subdivisions. The date of composition is not given, but the poem is dedicated (f. 69) to Shāh Ḥusayn Niẓām Shāh. As it is known that Malik came to India about 987/1579, it is difficult to think that the prince in question is identical with Ḥusayn b. Burhān

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

(961–972/1553–1565); more likely Malik refers here to Mīrān Ḥusayn b. Murtaḍā (996–997/1588–1589). Beg.

بسم الله الرحمن الرحيم، اهدنا الصراط المستقيم،

4. (f. 77v). Dar tawḥīd-i-Ḥaḍrat-i-Bārī. A Sufico-didactic mathnawī poem in imitation of Sanā'ī's Ḥadīqa, dedicated to 'Ādil-Shāh Ibrāhīm (cf. f. 89). It seems to be the same as the one described in Spr 482, l. 8. Beg.

ای طرب ساز غم نگارنده، هم نگاري و هم نگارنده،

5. (f. 99). Ṣanam-u Brahman. A love story, apparently the same as the one described in EIO 1499, 1, where the title is not given. It seems to have been left unfinished. Beg.

بنام انکه در دلها وطن ساخت، صنم را قبله کاه برهمن ساخت،

6. (f. 111). Qaṣīdas, beginning with a poem in praise of 'Alī:

چو پشهٔ غضبت بر عدو کشـد پرو پی،
کند به نیش برون خون فاسد از رگ وی،

7. (f. 137v). Muqaṭṭa'āt, beg.

شود چو رستم طبعم برخش فکر سوار،
حسود کسیت که کردد بکرد میدانش،

8. (f. 150v). (Dībācha-i-Nawras). An introduction, in ornate prose, without a heading, dedicated to the same Ibrāhīm 'Ādil-Shāh. It seems probable that this is a composition on the same lines as the introduction to the Gulzār-i-Ibrāhīm (see above, 2). Beg.

بسم الله الرحمن الرحيم، نورس بستان کلام قدیم، الخ، پیش رس نهال تازهٔ بیان الخ

9. (f. 153). A series of tarjī'bands and tarkībbands. First those are given which are of a religious strain, and then the others in praise of various princes. An imitation of the famous tarjī'band of Sa'dī is given on f. 170v; praises to Ibrāhīm 'Ādil-Shāh (ff. 183, 187v); to 'Abbās I (Ṣafawī), on f. 185, etc. At the end there is a tarjī'band called Sāqī-nāma (f. 189). There is no general heading of the section. Beg.

ای حمد تو منبر مقالات، وی ذکر تو سلم مقامات،

265. رامایِن

Rāmāyan. I 408.

An abbreviated versified translation of the Ramayana, here called Ḥadīth-i-Rām-u Sītā (f. 11v). The author is Sa'du'l-lah Kayrānawī Panīpatī with the takhallus Masīḥ, or Masīḥā. The work is dedicated to Jahāngīr (f. 8v), and contains praises to a Sufic shaykh, Muḥammad Bāqī (or Abū'l-Baqā'). See EIO 1967–1969, EB 1315; cf. R 1078. The introductory glorifications, etc., are very long, and the tale itself begins on f. 15. Beg. as usual:

خداوندا ز جام عشق کن مست، که از مستی فشانم بر جهان دست،

Dated the 22nd Jum. I 1152 (the 22nd year of Muḥammad Shāh's reign), or the 27th Aug. 1739, copied by (illegible) son of Multānīmal, son of Kanjīt Rāy of Shāhjahānābād (Dihlī).

II 440.

The well-known collection of versified dates and chronograms to commemorate the dates of the deaths of various saints, and especially of Sufic shaykhs. The author gives his full name as Abū 'Abdi'l-lah Muḥammad Fāḍil b. Sayyid Aḥmad b. S. Ḥasan al-Ḥusaynī at-Tirmīdhī al-Akbarābādī, surnamed Maẓharu'l-ḥaqq (he d. ca. 1101/1689–1690), see IvASB 759. There is little information concerning the author's contemporaries ; mostly the celebrities of the remote past are dealt with. The work has been begun in 1060/1650, but not completed till after 1066/1655–1656. At the beginning there is a prose preface, opening with :

برترین کلامي که عارفان معارف سخن سازي الخ

Beg. of the poem itself (f. 5) :

این سخن چند که من گفته ام ' کوهـر ناسفتـــه نگر سفته ام '

Dīwān-i-Walī-rām.

Poems of Walī, or Walī-rām, or Banwālī-dās, a writer of prince Dārā Shikūh (for explanations why the author, a Hindu, has adopted such an extravagant takhallus, see f. 194v). The exact date of his death is apparently not known, but it must have taken place some time after 1073/1662–1663, in which year he completed the Gulzār-i-ḥāl (see RsBr 195, EIO 1995, R 1043, etc.). A portion of his Mathnawī, an imitation of the great Mathnawī of Rūmī, has been described in Spr 589.

The volume contains :

1. (f. 1v). Ghazals, alphabetically arranged, beg.

کنجي که بود مخفي اکنون شد آشکارا،
زین کنج کده پر کن این مژده کو کدارا،

2. (f. 57v). Couplets, in various metres in Sufic strain, beg.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

4. (f. 123). Mathnawī, an imitation of Rūmī's famous book, similarly divided, or intended to be divided into six parts (here called wazn). In this copy, however, only three of them appear (the last one is incomplete). There are praises to the famous Sufi, Mullā Shāh (d. 1072/1661–1662), on f. 125v. The date of composition is given in the first wazn (f. 129v) as 1055/1645 :

مظهری تاریخ این کلذار (sic) حال ، یک هزار و پنج با پنجاه سال ،

Curiously, the date of composition of the third wazn is 1054/1644 (f. 237) :

با هزارش چهار و پنجه سال ، آخری شهر دلکش شوال ،

The title appears on f. 123 as :

سخن سنجي میزان طبع حقیقت وضع ولي الولایت العرفان (sic) والایقان
در سنجیدکي وزن اول از جمله شش وزن مثنوی الخ

(a) Beg. of the first wazn (f. 123) :

قادرا از من منی بستان و بس ، کن عنایت ذره عرفان و بس ،

(b) Beg. of the second wazn (f. 172v) :

شریعت چیست در طور مظاهر ، ادب آموز عقـــل اهل ظاهر ،

It is the fifth bayt of this part that is quoted as the beginning of the whole Mathnawī in Spr 589, where apparently a defective copy is described (cf. also further on, No. 462,27) :

از ان علم شریعت شد معلـم ، شود ترتیب ظاهر تا مسلـــم ،

(c) Beg. of the third wazn (f. 220v) :

ما نه آن کسیـم آن تو ئیـــم ، بي نشاني تو ما نشان تو ئیم ،

(This part is incomplete at the end.)

The copy is transcribed all through by the same hand, and the colophon on f. 56 (the only one that is found in the volume), is dated the 6th Dhī'l-ḥijja of the 15th year of Muḥammad Shāh, i.e. 1145/the 20th May 1733.

Ff. 238 (ff. 56v–57, 111v–113, 122–122v, 172, 220 are left blank); S 8,25 × 4,5; 6,5 × 2,75; ll 17, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good, but rather bad in the beginning. Marginal notes and emendations on the initial folios.

271. ساقي نامهٔ والا

Sāqī-nāma-i-Wālā. II 268.

A mathnawī poem, of the type of Sāqī-nāma. In the heading its authorship is attributed to Nawwāb Islām Khān Bahādur, with the takhallus Wālā. The latter name is actually found on f. 14. This nobleman, whose real name was Ḍiyā'u'd-Dīn, was a governor of Kashmīr and afterwards of Agra; he died in 1074/1663–1664, as expressed in a chronogram by Ṭāhir ʿAyshī, مرد اسلام خان والا جاه (cf. No. 326, f. 500). Beg.

بنام کزو باده مستـــي کرفت ، ز شوقش عدم رنک هستي کرفت ،

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 16; S 10,5×7; 7,5×3,5; ll 14, no jadwals. Or. and Eur. (margins) pap. Ind. nast.-shikasta. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten.

272. رزمیه

Razmiyya. II 267.

Another poem, similar to the preceding one, by the same Wālā (judging from the heading). It seems to be incomplete at the end and the takhallus of the author is apparently not found here. Beg.

بده ساقي ان باده خوشکوار ، که غم شکر آراست از هر کنار ،

Copied apparently towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 8; the appearance, etc., are exactly the same as in the preceding MS. It most probably formed one volume, together with No. 271, which was divided afterwards.

273. دیوان مفید

Dīwān-i-Mufīd. II 508.

Poems of Mufīd, or Muḥammad Mufīd b. Najmi'd-Dīn Maḥmūd Bāfqī Yazdī (d. in 1085/1674, or 1090–1091/1679–1680), see IvASB 790. The present copy is more modern than the one there described, but better written; there is apparently some slight difference in the arrangement of the poems. It contains:

1. (f. 1v). Ghazals, alphabetically arranged, beg.

ای خون کرفته‌لب (از) لعلت پیاله ها ، منسوخ در قلم و خطـــت رساله ها ،

2. (f. 91). A few qiṭʿas, some of them containing chronograms, beg.

ز جوش فکر بود نو بهار بلبل ما ، سواد معني رنکین بود شب کل ما ،

3. (f. 93). Rubāʿīs, beg.

تا کشته سخنوري درین عرصه منم ، از طرز و ادای تازه خود چمنم ،

Copied about the beginning of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 102; S 8,5×5,25; 6,5×3,25; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Good Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Slightly worm-eaten.

274. دیوان صایب

Dīwān-i-Ṣāyib. II 236.

An incomplete copy of the dīwān of Ṣāyib, whose real name was Muḥammad ʿAlī Iṣfahānī (d. 1088/1677–1678), see IvASB 783. It contains only ghazals, alphabetically arranged; their series breaks off with the letter nūn. In the beginning an ' unalphabetical ' introductory poem is given, as in IvASB 785, beg.

یا رب از عرفان مرا پیمانه سرشار ده ' چشم بینا جان آگاه و دل مسرور ده '

The first alphabetical ghazal (here the second, f. 2), beg. as usual:

اکر نه مد بسم الله بودی تاج عنوانها ' الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 290; S 10,5×6,5; 8×4; ll 15, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A few emendations on the margins and a few notes on the fly-leaves.

275. دستور همت

Dastūr-i-himmat. II 207.

The love story of Kāmrūp and Kāmlatā, in mathnawī verse, the same as the work described in R 697. The title appears on f. 150v. The poem has been completed in 1096/1685, for which year the author gives two chronograms on f. 150v. The first is erroneously written as ' دلخواه (read نقش) نقد خشمش بشد تاریخ ; but the second is correct: ' بهمت خان موافق شد حسابش . A dedication to Aurangzīb is found on f. 8 sq. The name of the author whom Rieu calls Muḥammad Murād, is apparently not found in this copy. For a prose version of the same story, which seems to be more common, see above, No. 109. The beginning is here different from that of the British Museum copy:

الهي تا درین بزم سجارم ' چو شمع از آتش دل در کذارم '

Dated in the colophon, added by a different hand, 1941 of the Samwat era, or 1884, copied by Najmu'd-Dīn.

Ff. 151; S 10,5×6,25; 7,5×3,25; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. An exceptionally bad vignette.

276. دیوان فطرت

Dīwān-i-Fiṭrat. I 397.

Poems of Muʿizzu'd-Dīn Muḥammad, who used two takhalluṣes: Fiṭrat and Mūsawī (d. 1106/1694–1695), see IvASB

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

806. The collection contains ghazals, quatrains, etc., in one alphabetical series. Beg.

بخط جام منحصر کردم آخر پارسای را،

ز تار موج مي شیرازه بستم خیر و تقویرا،

The poem given as the first in IvASB 806 is found here on f. 3v, and that in IvASB 807, on f. 2. The copy seems to be slightly incomplete at the end.

Copied about the middle of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 46; S 7,25×4; 6×3,25; ll 10, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad Ind. nast. Cond. fairly bad. Worm-eaten and injured by repairs.

277. مهر و ماه

Mihr-u māh. II 257.

A love story of Manūhar and Mad'humālat, comp. in 1065/1655 (cf. f. 59v) by Rāzī, or Mīr 'Askarī 'Āqil Khān, or, to give him his full name, 'Alī 'Askarī b. Muḥammad Taqī b. Muḥammad Qāsim Khwāfī (d. 1108/1696–1697), an official under Aurangzīb, cf. IvASB 159, 811, 812, 1278, 1279. Concerning this particular mathnawī poem see EIO 1634,2, 1636, 1637, R 699. Ind. libr. Spr 544. Cf. also above, No. 116 and IvASB 310, where a prose version of the same tale is described. The beginning in this copy is slightly different. At the top there is a bayt:

نورس بستان کلام قدیم، بسم الله الرحمن الرحیم، which is apparently taken from Malik Qumī (see above No. 264, 8). The poem itself opens with:

دلم را با زبان افتاده کاري، که بر دوش خرد بنهاده باري،

Dated the 27th December 1827 (or 1884 of the Samwat era), copied by Baynī Prashād . . . (soiled), at Bhawānī, in the reign of (Muḥammad) Akbar.

Ff. 59; S 6,5×4,25; 5×2,5; ll 11, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad Ind. shikasta. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten and injured by moisture. On some pages space is left blank for the intended pictures, which have not been executed (ff. 4,8, etc.).

278. دیوان علي

Dīwān-i-'Alī. II 212.

A brief dīwān of Nāṣir 'Alī Sarhindī (d. 1108/1697), the same as the one described in IvASB 817. Poems belonging to different classes are here mixed together in one alphabetical series; there is apparently a large lacuna after f. 33. Beg. as usual.

محبت جادهٔ دارد نهان در خلوت دلها'
چو تار سبحه کم کردیده این ره زیر منزلها'

Dated 1162/1749.

Ff. 38; S 7,25 × 5; 6 × 3,25; ll 15, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly bad. A seal in the beg., dated 1256/1840.

کلیات تاثیر

Kulliyyā-ti-Ta'thīr.

II 238.

A collection of poetical works (not complete, however) of Muḥammad Muḥsin Iṣfahānī, with the takhallus Ta'thīr, an official under Shāh Sulaymān (1077–1105/1667–1694) and Shāh Ḥusayn (1105–1135/1694–1722), for some time a governor of Yazd. He died in the beginning of the Afghan invasion, 1135/1722, or shortly before it. The chronograms given in the works in this volume range up to 1120/1708. See Riyāḍu'sh-shu'arā' (IvASB 230), f. 112v ; the anthol. No. 326 in this catalogue, f. 214 ; the Tadhkiratu'l-mu'āṣirīn, Spr 138 ; Khulāṣatu'l-afkār, EB 391, No. 58 ; Makhzanu'l-gharā'ib, EB 395, No. 439, etc. A copy of this dīwān, which appears to be rare, is described in Spr 577 ; the mathnawī poems are described in EB 1175, where the name of the poet is not given.

The present copy is rather bad, worm-eaten, and partly written without diacritical dots. It contains :

1. (f. 1v). Qaṣīdas and tarjī'bands, in praise of the Prophet, Imams, Shāh Sulaymān (ff. 35, 36, 37) ; on the return to Iṣfahān of Muḥammad Khān from Astrābād (f. 37v), and on the promotion of Waḥīdu'z-Zamānī to the wazirat (f. 39). Beg.

ای ثنایت انس و جان را از بیان انداخته،
حیرت ذات تو ..... در زبان انداخته،

2. (f. 40v). Muqaṭṭa'āt wa tawārīkh dar manqabat. Chronograms on different happenings.

3. (f. 46v). Mathnawiyyāt, exactly the same as described in EB 1175, where this author has not been identified.

(a) Minhāju'l-mi'rāj, of religious contents, in praise of Muḥammad, etc. ; beg.

ستایش همان حد فرزانه ایست، که از سبحه اش نه فلک دانه ایست،

(b) (f. 57). Da'watu'l-'āshiqīn, in the metre of Niẓāmī's Shīrīn-u Khusraw, containing a sarāpā, descriptions of wine, etc.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

(c) (f. 63v). Gulzār-i-sa'ādat, laudatory descriptions of some gardens, etc., at Iṣfahān, in the time of Shāh Ḥusayn, beg.

به سر دارد همای خامه دولت ' ز وصف گلشـــن باغ سعادت '

(d) (f. 71v). Thamaratu'l-ḥijāb, in the metre of Niẓāmī's Haft paykar, on similar matters. Beg.

شبي از همدمان ايماني ' محفلي كرم بود روحاني '

(e) (f. 75v). Ḥusn-i-ittifāq, containing a laudatory description of Quhistān, beg.

نعتست و فرشته بلبل او ' نه تفته ز آتش گل او '

(f) (f. 83). Maymanat-nāma, a laudatory poem, in the metre of the Shāhnāma, containing praises to different persons. Beg.

بنام خداوند فرد قديم ' كه بنمود ما را ره مستقيم '

4. (f. 89v). Ghazals, alphabetically arranged, beg. as in Spr 577 :

اى در كف حمد تو سر رشتهٔ عنوانها ' دارند سر افرازي از نام تو ديوانها '

5. (f. 288). Mutafarriqāt, mostly fards, alphabetically arranged.

6. (f. 300). Rubā'iyyāt, unarranged (the poem which is given as the initial one in EB 1175, is found here on f. 302v). Beg.

يا رب منم از تو ..... از تو ' باشد همه آب و رنگ كارم از تو '

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 303 ; S 10,25 × 5,5 ; 7,75 × 3,5 ; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. (new margins). Varying bad Ind. nast. and shikasta, in some places without dots. Cond. very bad, except in the middle. Badly injured by worms and repairs, so that many words, or lines have become illegible.

288. دیوان قاسم دیوانه

Dīwān-i-Qāsim Dīwāna. II 509.

Poems of Muḥammad Qāsim Mashhadī, with the takhallus Qāsim, or Qāsim Dīwāna (d. ca. 1136/1723–1724), see IvASB 845. The present copy is incomplete both at the beginning and at the end, and contains ghazals and other kinds of poems alphabetically arranged in one series. The beginning corresponds to f. 2, top, of IvASB 845 (Nb 109), i.e. the penultimate verse of the ghazal which usually stands first in the dīwān. The beg. of the next complete poem (it is the third in the Society's copy) :

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

از بسکه برون ریخت غبار از نفس ما، شد رخنه دیوار شکاف قفس ما،

There are a few fards at the end.

On ff. 102–103v there is a short fragment of a theosophico-religious treatise on امانت الله, beg.

حمد واحدی را که منزه است الخ

Copied probably about the middle of the xii/xviii c.

289.

دیوان کرامی کشمیری

II 223.

Dīwān-i-Kirāmī Kashmīrī.

A fragment of the dīwān of Mīrzā Kirāmī, son of 'Abdu'l-Ghanī Beg Qabūl, of Kashmīr (d. 1155/1742, as stated in EIO 1625, or 1156/1743–1744, as given in the Sarw-i-Āzād, No. 58, f. 42v). Almost all specimens of his verse, given in the Riyāḍu'sh-shu'arā' (IvASB 230), f. 390v, may be traced in this fragment, which contains only the initial pages of the original collection, namely a part of the letter alif, and 'crumbs' of ب and ت. Cf. about the author the Makhzanu'l-gharā'ib (EB 395, No. 2198), R 714, Spr 128. He is quite different from the poet, whose dīwān is described in IvASB 804. Beg.

زندگی بخش است ما ز دیدهٔ گریان ما،
چشم تر چون شمع باشد چشمهٔ حیوان ما،

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 9; S 8,25×5; 7×3,5; ll 20, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad Ind. nast. and shikasta. Cond. not good.

290.

سکندر نامهٔ جبلی

II 269.

Sikandar-nāma-i-jabalī.

A short didactic mathnawī poem, dealing with legends of Alexander's campaign in the hills (f. 10v, سخنهای نادر ز سیرش بکوه). The date of completion is given on f. 26 as the 4th Dhī'l-ḥijja 1141/the 1st July 1729, in the time of Muḥammad Shāh. The author states that he has composed the poem on his return from Mekka at the request of one Sayyid 'Alī. He does not clearly mention his own name. Most probably his takhalluṣ is Sukhan cf. f. 11 بده ساقي آنمي بدور سخن, and the end, f. 27v, لقا بخش ما جامع اين سخن '. There were many poets with this takhallus, the most probable one amongst them is perhaps Mīr 'Abdu's-Ṣamad of Agra, who died ca. 1140/1728 (this date may be slightly inaccurate, as is usual in the tadhkiras), cf. Spr 150, 156, etc. That the author must have been of a fairly advanced age when he wrote his poem may be concluded not only from the fact that he had performed the pilgrimage, but also because he calls himself (f. 10v) a khalīfa of the Qādirī order; under ordinary circumstances both statements would better fit an old man. Beg.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

الهي دلم از كرم شاد كن ' غم خود دة غير آزاد كن '

Copied by Nūr Aḥmad, apparently towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 27; S 7,75 × 4,75; 5,5 × 3; ll 14, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good.

291.

هير و رانجهن

Hīr-u Rānjhan. II 251.

The tale of Hīr and Rānjhā (or Rānjhan), based on a Panjābī love story, cf. above No. 118. It is the same poem as described in IvASB 918 (where it was included into the series of works of uncertain date, as it could not be identified on account of its being incomplete at the beg.). Both are identical with Spr 317. The author is Shāh Faqru'l-lah Lāhūrī, with the takhallus Āfarīn (d. 1154/1741, at Lahore). In this copy his authorship is mentioned in the colophon. The poem has been composed ca. 1143/1730-1731, as mentioned by Āzād in his Khazāna-i-'āmira, cf. EIO 1724. The beginning of IvASB 918 (Na 120) corresponds to f. 3, l. 3, of this copy. Beg. كليات روحي

Kulliyyāt-i-Rūḥī. II 247.

Poetical works, in a religious strain, of Mīr Sayyid Muḥammad Ja'far Rūḥī, or Ja'far Rūḥī, as he is usually called. He was a native of Ranbhīrpūr, in Oudh, belonged to the Sufic order of the Indian Ni'matu'l-lahīs, lived at Lucknow, and died the 1st Ramaḍān 1154/the 10th Nov. 1741 (see Riyāḍu'sh-shu'arā', D 102, f. 208; Sarw-i-Āzād, No. 58, f. 46; Spr 156, EB 395, No. 888, etc.; his full name and the date of the death are also given here, on f. 158v). I have not been able to trace any reference to other copies of this kulliyyāt, which seems to be very rare. It contains:

1. (f. 1v). The preface, in ornate prose and verse, beg.

تا برنگ غنچه دل حرفي زند آهنگ اوست، الخ

2. (f. 3). Qaṣīdas, of religious content; the first of them, called Ism-i-A'ẓam, was composed in 1112/1700–1701 (its title is a chronogram). Beg.

یا رب ز درد کیست بدل نشتر افتاب، یکقطره خون بود بسر خنجر افتاب،

3. (f. 7). Ghazals, alphabetically arranged; they have been composed before 1114/1702–1703, in which year the dīwān has been arranged, as appears from an introductory verse with the chronogram دیوان غزلها. Beg.

نکه دارد چراغ حسن معني خلوت جانها،
که باشد ریشهٔ نور سیه در چشم مژگانها،

4. (f. 100). Rubā'iyyāt; from a chronogram on f. 125v it appears that they have been collected in 1142/1729–1730 (سلم غیب). Beg.

ای جلوه که تو پاک از کرد نکاه، چشم جبرئل (sic) نقش هائی در راه

5. (f. 125v). Tarjī'band, beg.

بحر لاهوت چون بجوش آمد، قطره زد موج و در خروش آمد،

6. (f. 129). The 'expanded' (mustazād) ghazals, quatrains, etc., beg.

صد موج ازان قلزم دیدار بر آید - خوش قطره زنان شد، الخ

7. (f. 133). Parwāna-i-tajallī. A mystico-religious composition, in bombastic ornate prose and verse, beg.

سخن از کرمي عشق است هوس میسوزد الخ

8. (f. 135v). Several qaṣīdas with chronograms: on the death of a Sufi, Shāh Lad'hā (1143/1730–1731); on the ascension of Bahādur Shah (1119/1707), etc.

9. (f. 137v). A short mathnawī in Sufic strain, beg.

comp. in 1152/1739 (chronogram on f. 151v: کشف و تحقیق کنه از آدم). Beg.

الله لا اله الا هو الحی القیوم الخ ... اما بعد، بدانید ای محققان الخ

11. (f. 152). Khuṭba-i-bayāḍ. An introduction to an anthology, in bombastic ornate prose, beg.

دلم تمام زبان وصف حسن جانان است، الخ

12. (f. 156). Ḥikāyat. A mathnawī poem in didactic strain, beg.

شنیدم روزی از آتش خروشی، چو شمع از اشک حیران خرقه پوشی،

At the end (f. 159) there are some further poetical quotations from the same poet.

Transcribed, according to the colophon on f. 155v, the 29th Jum. I 1153/the 22nd Aug. 1740, at Lucknow, by one Ghulām ʿAlī, for Mīrzā ʿAbdu'l-lah. The final folios (156–158) are dated the 1st Ram. 1154/the 10th Nov. 1741.

293. قصهٔ حقیقت رای

Qiṣṣa-i-ḥaqīqat-i-rāy. II 266.

A long mathnawī poem in moralising strain by Raghbat Siyālkūṭī. He was apparently a pupil, or at least an associate of Āfarīn (see No. 291), whom he eulogises in terms implying that he was still alive at the time of composition (ff. 8–8v). The poem contains also praises (f. 4v) to Muḥammad Shāh (1131–1161/1719–1748). He cannot be identical with Mīr Abū'l-Maʿālī Raghbat, mentioned in Spr 279, and seems to have been a Hindu, as Mohammedan religious terminology is almost entirely absent in his work. Beg.

سر نامه بنام دلنوازیست، کزو هر بینوا را برگ و سازیست،

Poems, in a religious strain, with pronounced Shiʿite tendencies, by one Niʿmat. There are no chronograms in them, and no definite allusions as to any historical events. It is only possible to deduce that the author wrote apparently in the XII/XVIIIc., because in some of his poems (ff. 2, 2v), he refers to Ṣāyib (d. 1088/1677–1678, see above No. 274); on the other hand the present copy of his dīwān dates probably from not later than the beg. of the XIII/XIXc. There were several poets with the same takhallus during the XII/XVIIIc. who might be identified with the present one: one is referred to in the Hamīsha bahār (Spr 129), Ni'matu'l-lah Khān, a son of the paymaster of troops under Aurangzīb; another is mentioned in the tadhkira of Ḥayrat (Spr 159), Ni'matu'l-lah Khān b. Rūḥi'l-lah Khān, an official under Farrukh Siyar and Muḥammad Shāh (he may be perhaps identical with the preceding one); a modern poet, Mīr Ni'mat 'Alī of Dihlī (of the beg. of XIII/XIXc.) is mentioned in Spr 172; two more Ni'mats, who also wrote Hindustani verses, are referred to in Spr 273, especially the second, Muḥammad Ḥafīẓ, a pupil of Minnat who wrote chiefly in Persian.

The dīwān contains almost exclusively ghazals, which are alphabetically arranged. There are only two quatrains at the end. Beg.

295. دیوان آرزو

Dīwān-i-Ārzū. I 383.

Poems of Sirāju'd-Dīn 'Alī Khān Ārzū (d. 1169/1756), who is chiefly known by his lexicographical works. He composed an enormous amount of poetry, mostly in imitation of other poets, and the present collection forms only an insignificant part of the whole. It consists of ghazals, alphabetically arranged, with half a dozen rubā'īs at the end. This dīwān seems to be identical with Spr 337 (No. 108), which is said to have been composed in imitation of the poems of Athar (see above, No. 280). Beg. as in Spr 338:

چه پروری بغذای سمین تن خود را، ندادهٔ است کسی زور دشمن خود را،

Dated the 20th Ṣafar 1200/the 23rd Dec. 1785, by Mīr Muḥammad 'Alī.

Dīwān-i-Ḥazīn. II 243.

Poems of Muḥammad ʿAlī b. Abī Ṭālib az-Zāhidī al-Jīlānī, with the takhalluṣ Ḥazīn (d. 1180/1766), see IvASB 861, 862; cf. also above, Nos. 55, 56. The present copy contains:

1. (f. 1v). The usual prose preface, beg.

افتتاح نامہ نام آوران کیہان خدیو سخن الخ

2. (f. 5). Qaṣīdas, beg. (as in IvASB 862, 8 and EB 1184, 1):

299. صفیر دل

Ṣafīr-i-dil. II 520.

A mathnawī poem, comp. in 1173/1759–1760, by the same Ḥazīn. It is the same work as the one described in IvASB 862, 2, opening, as usual, with a prose preface (f. 1v) :

Beg. of the poem itself (f. 2) :

ثناهای شایسته دلدار را ، سپاس فراوان ز ما یار را ،

300. دیوان غریب

Dīwān-i-Gharīb. II 222.

Poems of Gharīb, Gharībā, Gharībī or Gharībān, as he variously calls himself in different places. In a poem in praise of Shāh ʿĀlam he mentions the year 1183/1769–1770 (f. 61v), and in the last quatrain (f. 162v) he gives the date of completion of his dīwān also as 1183/1769–1770 (1283 minus 100) :

سال تاریخ ز هاتف چو نمودیم سوال ، بی صد کفت بکویند که دیوان غریب ،

I have not been able to trace him in tadhkiras ; most probably this particular Gharīb is referred to in Spr 229 ; if so, he was Naṣīru'd-Dīn Aḥmad of Kashmīr, living at Dihlī, who has written a voluminous Persian dīwān. The MS. contains :

1. (f. 1v). Ghazals, in alphabetical order, beg.

به بسم الله ده حسن قبول از من بدیوانرا ، ز رحم (damaged)...

2. (f. 141v). Tarjīʿband, an imitation of the famous poem, beginning with ما مقیمان کوی دلداریم ، Cf. concerning it IvASB 909, Spr 590, Mehren 43, add also No. 323 in this Cat., f. 120, where it is ascribed to one ʿAlā'u'd-Dīn (b.) ʿAlā'i'l-Mulk, who settled in Oudh, apparently in the X or XI/XVI–XVIIc. Beg.

ما غریبان کوچه یاریم ، در نظر غیر او نمیداریم ،

More tarjīʿbands are found on ff. 149v, 152 : a mukhammas on f. 153.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

3. (f. 153v). Rubā'īs, chiefly in praise of God, the Prophet, Imams, and Sufic saints. Beg.

کوئیم ثنا از تن هر موی خدارا ' تا کس نکند فهم ازین صوت و صدارا '

4. (f. 163). Qaṣīdas, also of religious contents, chiefly praises of the Prophet, the early khalifs, Imams, and founders of the Sufic orders. Beg.

ای حمد تو ورد بر زبان ها ' وی ذکر تو مونسی بجان ها '

Dated the 20th Jum. II 1184/the 11th Oct. 1770. The scribe's name is illegible. There are many additions and emendations on the margins, which may belong to the author himself.

301. دیوان علي اکبر

Dīwān-i-'Alī Akbar. II 511.

Poems, in Sufic strain, by 'Alī Akbar Wahbī (?), apparently a follower of the Chishtī affiliation, who wrote close to the end of the XII/XVIIIc., because at the end (ff. 15v–16) there are several chronograms for the year 1198/1784. The dīwān contains comparatively few ghazals, not arranged in alphabetical order, also a few qiṭ'as, rubā'īs, etc. Some further ghazals are added on ff. 13–16v, by a different hand. Beg. of ghazals (f. 1v) :

خاک عریاني ما خلعت سلطاني (ما)'
کنج ویراني ما ملک سلیماني ما '

Beg. of rubā'īs (f. 9v) :

برخي کویند حقی ز خلق است بیرون ' (sic)
قومي کویند او بخلق است درون '

Beg. of qiṭ'as (f. 15) :

302. کار نامه

Kār-nāma. II 516.

A long mathnawī poem dealing with the narrative of the war against Aḥmad Shāh Abdālī which terminated in 1162/1749. The author, Muḥammad Bakhsh, with the takhallus Āshūb (cf. f. 39), who took personally part in the campaign, refers to the present work in the preface to his history of Muḥammad Shāh's reign, which he composed in 1196/1782 (cf. R 944-945, EIO 422, Elliot, Hist. of India, VIII, 233). It must, therefore, have been completed some time between these two dates. It is written in bombastic style; there are many autobiographical allusions. Before the ordinary beginning there is a quatrain (written in red ink):

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

نظمي كه پر از شور تفنگ و توپ است،
در گوش عدو صداء آن دلكوب است،
از روی بديهه اين بيان واقع،
موسوم بكار نامهٔ آشوب است،

The poem itself begins:

بس از حمد خلاق ارض و سما، هم از بعد نعت نبي الورا،

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

303. فتح نامه

Fatḥ-nāma. II 349.

A versified laudatory history of the local Balūchī chieftains at Ḥaydarābād in Sind, so-called Talpurs, or 'Abbāsī Amīrs, especially of Fatḥ-'Alī Khān (d. 1801). The author calls himself (f. 13) Muḥammad 'Aẓīmu'd-Dīn Ḥusaynī Shīrāzī Tatawī, and gives the date of composition as 1199/1785 (f. 15 خجی فتحنامه), not 1191/1777, as in R 1041 where another copy is described. The present copy is incomplete, and the date of transcription is not found in it. The work is divided into the usual introductory doxology, praises of Fatḥ-'Alī Khān (f. 7), his brother Ghulām 'Alī (d. 1811), etc., and five majlises (all that the present copy contains):

۱ (f. 16) در بيان فضائل اخلاق حميده،
۲ (f. 22v) در ذكر طبقهٔ عباسيان و ميربهرام شهيد عليه الغفران،
۳ (f. 33v) در بيان حالات ميربجار شهيد عليه الرحمت،
۴ (f. 59v) در بيان حالات ميرعبد الله الشهيد عليه الرحمة،

These majlises are subdivided into numbers of smaller subsections, mostly called dāstān. Beg. of the poem :

Poems of the well-known historian and biographer, Ghulām ʿAlī Balgrāmī, with the takhalluṣ Āzād (d. 1200/1786), cf. above Nos. 58, 59. For his poems see EIO 1722 ; Ind. libr. Bk 423, Spr 364. The dīwān contains almost exclusively ghazals, alphabetically arranged, and only a few rubāʿīs and qiṭʿas with chronograms at the end. Beg. of ghazals :

بر آر از مد بسم الله تیغ خوشمقالی را ' مسخر کن سواد اعظم نازک خیالی را '

307. دیوان اصغر

Dīwān-i-Aṣghar. II 216.

Poems of Aṣghar, who also uses another takhallus, Amjad 'Alī, an Indian Muhammadan (cf. f. 50v). He flourished apparently towards the end of the XII/XVIIIc. and in the beginning of the XIII/XIXc. Ṣā'ib is often referred to (cf. ff. 18, 37, 52, etc). At the end two chronograms are given for 1192/1778 (f. 62v مقبول حق ضیاء الدین), and 1195/1781 (ibid., هامی شد روشن شهید). Three Aṣghars are mentioned in Pr 630 (Nos. 241–243), but none of them seems to be identical with the present one. It is interesting to note that on ff. 1–4v, on the margins, many poems in Hindustani are given, with the same takhalluṣes, so that it appears that the author was an Urdu poet as well.

The present copy contains:

1. (f. 1v). Ghazals, alphabetically arranged, beg.

خدایا نشهٔ عرفان کرامت کن دماغم را ' بموج باده بیرنگ دریا کن ایاغم را '

2. (f. 59v). Rubā'īs, not alphabetically arranged, beg.

308. (مثنویات منعم)

(Mathnawiyyāt-i-Mun'im). II 261.

Lengthy mathnawī poems by Mun'im, dedicated to Shāh 'Ālam (1173–1221/1759–1806), cf. ff. 75, 79v, 148, etc. and also to his successor Muḥammad Akbar, 1221–1253/1806–1837. There are no indications as to the real name of the author, nor exact dates of the composition of the poems. Chronologically it might be possible to identify this Mun'im with Sayyid Nūru'l-ḥaqq, a qāḍī of Bareilly and a very prolific mathnawī writer, who used this takhallus, mentioned in Spr 171 and 263. On f. 1 there is, however, a note, in a different handwriting, to the effect that the author is Mohan La'l, cf. Spr 263. Which of these two Mun'ims is the author, cannot be decided without more details concerning their works. The poems are written in exceedingly bombastic style and contain nothing beyond the stereotyped verbiage on the subject of 'ishq. The volume contains:

1. (f. 1v). Bihār-i-'ishq (cf. f. 71), a lengthy poem, beg. with a versified heading:

چیست وحدت بخود خدا دیدن، باعث زندگی فنا دیدن،

Beg. of the poem itself:

بنام آنکه دل دیوانهٔ اوست، محبت راه خلوت خانهٔ اوست،

2. (f. 73v; 72 is blank). A lengthy mathnawī poem on precisely the same subject as that of the preceding one. Apparently it contains no mention of its title. The opening bayt (in red ink):

ایخراب کردش بیم تو چرخ حشری (sic?)،
خندهٔ جام صبوحت افتاب خاوری،

Beg. of the poem:

ای صبح قیامت جنون خیز، پرکاله آتش درون خیز،

3. (ff. 73v–110, in margine). Another similarly title-less mathnawī, in precisely the same style. Beg.

دیوان اختر

Dīwān-i-Akhtar. II 210.

A defective copy of the dīwān of Akhtar, who gives no particulars concerning himself, nor any chronograms. Twice he refers to Qatīl (ff. 6 and 36), most probably the poet and inshā writer (cf. R 64, Spr 277, and above, No. 60, 18), who died in 1233/1818; he also mentions Wāqif (f. 46v), who died in 1200/1786. There can therefore be no doubt that he flourished in the beg. of the XIII/XIXc. He may be identical with Akhtar, whose name was Akbar ʿAlī Sarhindī, and who is said to have been more than 30 years of age in 1209/1794–1795 (see Spr 200). There are only ghazals in this volume, in alphabetical order; towards the end there are many lacunas, much space is left blank. Beg.

دیوان سروری

Dīwān-i-Surūrī. I 393.

Poems of Surūrī, whose real name was Ghulām Murtaḍā, and who was still living at Lucknow in 1211/1796–1797, see Pr 948–950, Spr 573. The present copy slightly differs in its arrangement from the two mentioned above, and does not contain the mathnawīs and some other items mentioned in Pr 949. There are:

1. (f. 1v). Ghazals, alphabetically arranged, with special headings at the beginning of every letter. Beg. as usual:

خدایا درد عشق ده دل و جان سروری را ،

بحسن خویش بکشا چشم حیران سروری را ،

2. (f. 220). Rubāʿīs, not alphabetically arranged, beg.

صد شکر بدرگاه خداوند کریم ، رحمت کن بندگان بالطاف جسیم ،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

3. (f. 224v). Qaṣīdas; their collection is called Chilchirāgh or 'candelabra,' as stated in an introductory quatrain, in which the date of completion is given as 1204/1789–1790:

قصائدم که مسمی بچلچراغ آمد، بخلق بوی معانیش در دماغ آمد،
فراغ یافت چو کلکم ز کار تحریرش، سروش گفت که تاریخش از چراغ آمد،

Beg. of qaṣīdas, as usual:

ای نام تو ورد در دهانها، عاجز ز ثنـــای تو زبانها،

4. (f. 236). Mukhammasāt, also with a quatrain as a heading. The first, a very lengthy one, is an adaptation of a qaṣīda by Mu'izz Mūsawī Fiṭrat (d. 1106/1694–1695, cf. IvASB 806). Beg.

دارم مدام چون حرس افغان بی شمار، مانند بلبلی ز چمن دور در بهار،

The second, in praise of Fāṭima, the wife of 'Alī, based on a qaṣīda by Ṭughrā (d. ca. 1078/1667, cf. IvASB 371). Beg. (f. 246):

شبی از آتش غم با دل و جان مضطر، دمبدم جای سرشک از مژه میریخت کمر،

It seems as if this dīwān is not complete.

A very good, carefully written copy, dating from the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

312. (تصنیفات مسرت)

(Taṣnīfāt-i-Masarrat). II 518.

Commentaries of Masarrat on different poems, his own and those of other writers. The author, 'Iwaḍ Rāy (عوض رای) with the takhalluṣ Masarrat was living in the beg. of the XIII/XIXc. He mentions on f. 27 the year 1212/1797–1748 as the date of composition of a poem in praise of Shāh 'Ālam (1173–1221/1759–1806); another of his works eulogises Nawwāb Sa'ādat-'Alī Khān of Oudh (1212–1229/1797–1814), cf. f. 16. It is difficult to state if he may be identical with Shankar Masarrat, mentioned in Spr 255. The present volume contains three of his works:

1. (f. 1v). A commentary on the opening distich of the dīwān of Ḥusayn Thanā'ī Mashhadī, cf. above, No. 255 (ff. 2v–6). The text of the commentary is slightly different. Beg.

2. (f. 10). Nathr-i-dilgushā. A eulogy, in ornate prose, on Sa'ādat-'Alī Khān at the occasion of his building a palace, called Qaṣr-i-dilgushā. Beg.

حمد و ثنای شهنشاه هر دو جهان فرمانروای زمین و زمان الخ

3. (f. 27). (Sharḥ-i-qaṣīda-i-Badī'). A commentary on the author's own qaṣīda in praise of Shāh 'Ālam, which he composed, as he states in the introduction, in 1212/1741–1798. The qaṣīda itself begins (f. 27v):

Baḥr-i-ġham. II 338.

The story of the martyrdom of Imām Ḥusayn and his associates. It is dedicated to Muḥammad Ghawth Khān, a local chieftain in Southern India (f. 1v). The author, apparently a Madrāsī (cf. f. 3), does not mention his own name (at least I have not been able to discover it though having looked through all the appropriate places in the poem). The title is a chronogram for the date of the completion, i.e. 1250/1834–1835 (ff. 3v and 23v, the same passage). Beg.

(اشعار ممتاز)

(Ash'ār-i-Mumtāz). III 76.

Poems of Mumtāz, a modern author, who died after 1267/1850–1851. This may be deduced from the fact that the numerous chronograms, which he gives on ff. 12–30, range from the beg. of the XIII/XIXc., up to the year mentioned. Three poets of the name of Mumtāz are mentioned in Spr 262–263; Faḍl-'Alī, Iḥsānu'l-lah, and Nūr Aḥmad of Dihlī. The last one of these had died long before Sprenger was writing. The first of the three was a pupil of Sawdā who is said (Spr 285) to have died in 1195/1781. It is difficult to believe therefore that he should have continued to write poetry up to 1267/1850–1851, at an age of at least 80. The second Mumtāz, Iḥsānu'l-lah, remains, in the absence of more detailed information, the most probable author; but, there is no guarantee that the present Mumtāz has anything to do with either of the three.

The present copy is incomplete at the end; there are many lacunas and several folios are apparently misplaced. There are:

1. (f. 1). Naẓmu'n-nuthūr (? half erased). A collection of versified grammatical rules, dealing with Arabic verbs. Beg.

الحمد لله که خیالی این لآلی متلالی متفرقات را که الخ

2. (f. 7v). Sharḥu'sh-shukūk-i-safīr-i-Īrān. A long ghazal, in which alternate bayts represent the dialogue between Safīr and the author. The former, meaning 'the ambassador', may be a takhallus of a poet.

3. (f. 9). Mu'ammāyāt, on various names, dates, etc. At the end there are many lacunas. Ff. 31 and 32 belong probably to the next item, and are misplaced.

4. (f. 33). Baḥr-i-mawwāj, a lengthy mathnawī poem, dealing with the history of the ancient prophets, of Muḥammad, his companions, etc., see Spr 504. It is incomplete at the end. Very unfortunately, the section on the circumstances of the composition, on f. 34v, is interrupted by a lacuna just in the beginning, and there is, therefore, no chance to ascertain the exact date of composition. Beg.

316. دیوان تفته

Dīwān-i-Tafta. III 16.

Poems of a very modern author, who uses the takhallus Tafta. Apparently the same dīwān has been printed at Lahore in 1857; the original name of the compiler is given in it as Harī Gōpāl. In the present copy the chronograms, given at the end (ff. 375v–379), range up to 1273/1856–1857, so that it seems quite probable that the lithographed and the present dīwāns are the same. This copy contains:

1. (f. 1). A prose preface, in florid style, dated 1265/1849, with the heading:

تقریظ اول دیوان تفته از دبیر الملک نجم الدوله میرزا محمد اسد الله خان بهادر نظام جنک غالب تخلص مد ظله العالی ،

Beg.

هان ای غالب تیره روز الخ

2. (f. 3). Ghazals, alphabetically arranged, beg.

آبی دگر افزود کسی نوک سنان را ، اقبال بلندست شهادت طلبان را ،

3. (f. 368v). Qiṭ'as, and short mathnawī poems, almost all containing chronograms, as mentioned above, ranging up to 1273/1856, beg.

بمکنتی که تو نازی دو روزه نبود بیش ، کرا بماند و کرا ماند ای فدای تو من ،

4. (f. 379). Rubā'īs, alphabetically arranged, beg.

دادم بظهوری و نظیری جان را ، دیدم همگی قصاید و دیوان را ،

All over the margins there are numerous emendations, additional poems by the same Tafta, and quotations from a great number of different poets, especially from Jalāl Asīr. Some more poems from him and from Tafta are added on ff. 412–423. All these marginal and sometimes interlinear additions seem to be written by a different hand.

317. ظفر الظفر

Ẓafaru'ẓ-ẓafar. II 367.

A mathnawī poem in bombastic style, narrating the story of the Indian Mutiny of 1856. The composition was begun the 9th May 1857 (f. 9), by one Farāsū (فراسو), who may be identical with Frāsū, mentioned as an Urdu poet in Spr 227. The latter was a Frenchman, Captain François Akden (?). It is difficult to determine whether the two are the same. The poem consists chiefly of eulogies, and opens with praises to Jesus Christ (f. 2), Her Majesty the late Queen Victoria (f. 9v); but by far the greater space is occupied with eulogies of different local collectors, commissioners, etc. Beg.

318. مثنوی شرف الدین اولیا

Mathnawī-i-Sharafu'd-Dīn Awliyā. II 260.

A religious poem, praising Muḥammad, the early khalifs, etc. It is apparently an imitation of the well known mathnawī, ascribed to Bū 'Alī Qalandar, a Sufic saint, who is supposed to have been living in the beg. of the VIII/XIVc., cf. R 668, Spr 565, etc. There is apparently no mention of the author's name. On f. 18 in the verse: ده شرف از شرف دیدارم مرا الخ the first شرف is written in red ink, as is often practised with the takhalluṣes. But there are no indications that this word is really a takhallus, and this seems very unlikely. Probably the title, as above, is entirely based on a wrong assumption; it is written, in red ink, at the beginning of the poem. There is almost nothing in it to lead to a conclusion as to the date of composition. The praises to 'Abdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī, and the verse 'وز طفیل صدر عالمگیر ما (f. 18), may perhaps suggest that it was composed under Aurangzīb, in the end of the XI or beg. XII/XVII–XVIIIc. Beg.

319. تیغ و قلم

Tīgh-u qalam. II 270.

An allegorical mathnawī poem, with a didactic tendency, by Mas'ūd. There is no date of composition, no allusions whatever to historical events. It is dedicated to one Shāhzāda Yūsuf Bahādur Khān (f. 6), but there is no key as to his identity. It appears from the text that the author, probably a clerk in the employment of that prince, had for some reason been punished and exiled. So he complains about poverty and humiliation, and the whole of the poem is intended as an apology. Amongst a dozen or more Mas'ūds mentioned in different tadhkiras none can be reliably identified with the present author. Beg.

320. غزلیات نویدی

Ghazaliyyāt-i-Nawīdī. II 234.

28 ghazals by one Nawīdī. There were more than a dozen poets who used the same takhallus, mentioned in different tadhkiras. The collection is the same as the one described in Spr 526 and Bh 473 II. It consists of a series of ghazals written in such a way as to avoid the use of some particular letter. The enigmas, mentioned by Sprenger, or the preface and a mathnawī in praise of Humāyūn (probably taken from some other Nawīdī), referred to in Bh 473, are not found here. The poems have been repeatedly lithographed in India, at least five times (the latest Lucknow, 1893, 1899). On the whole, A. Sprenger seems to be right in regarding this versification as a product of some modern verse-maker. Beg.

in which he was living. Anyhow he seems to be a modern poet. Two Shamses are mentioned in Spr 287, but it is impossible to identify the present author with either of them. The poems consist chiefly of praises to Muḥammad, in the form of ghazals, alphabetically arranged, both in the Persian and Hindustani parts. The copy contains :

322. Anthologies. همیشه بهار

Hamīsha bihār. III 41.

A large systematical anthology of Persian poets, compiled by Abū'l-Qāsim b. Ḥaydar Abū 'Alī Kāsāna'ī (? not clear), see f. 2, l. 5, and, secondly, on the margins, top. He prepared it (as stated on f. 2v), as a present to Shāh Sulaymān Ṣafawī (1077–1105/1667–1694). There are two prefaces, slightly differing the one from the other. One is written in the ordinary place on the pages, and the other on the margins. The quotations given here are usually very short. A large number of poets, ancient and more modern, are mentioned here, but no dates are given with reference to them. First are given extracts from princely poets, nobles and amirs ; the common poets are combined in groups according to the province which was their birthplace. At the end there are a number of quotations of female authors. There is no order whatever in the arrangement of authors belonging to the same class. Occasionally blank spaces are left on the pages, and it seems as if the anthology had still to be supplemented by further additions.

1. (f. 3v). Princes, firstly the Safawides, beginning with Shāh Isma'īl, and ending with 'Abbās I ; follow : the Timurides, Shaybanides ; other dynasties, ancient and modern.

2. (f. 7v, in marg.). Wazirs, also beginning with those who served the Ṣafawī Shāhs.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

3. (f. 10). Qizilbāsh nobles, who were high officials under the Safawides: the Shāmlū, Baḥarlū, Ustājlū, Dhū'l-Qadar, Afshārs, Qājārs, Bayāts, Taklū, Turkmāns; on ff. 24–33v there are specimens of the poetry of high officials, who, apparently, did not belong to the clans, mentioned just above.

4. (f. 34). Poets of Iṣfahān, and generally of 'Irāq. Specially dealt with: Shifā'ī (f. 34), Qāḍī Nūr Iṣfahānī (f. 35v), Ḍamīrī Iṣfahānī (f. 36v), Taqiyyu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Ḥiznī Iṣfahānī (f. 37), Rūzbihān Ṣabrī Iṣfahānī (f. 37v), Jalāl Asīr (f. 39), Ḥasan Wāhib Iṣfahānī (f. 40), etc.

5. (f. 53v). Poets of Kāshān (there is no proper heading to this section). Specially dealt with: Ruknā Masīḥ (f. 53v), Muḥtasham (f. 56v), Kalīm (f. 57v), Muḥammad Qāsim Kāshī, or Mashhadī (f. 62), Muḥammad Hāshim Sanjar (f. 64v), Muḥammad Ma'ṣūm, his brother (f. 66v), Abū Turāb (f. 69v), etc.

6. (f. 79v). Poets of Qum. Specially: Niẓāmī (who is supposed to have come from this place) (f. 79v); Muḥammad Sa'īd Ḥakīm Qumī (f. 79v), Ruknā, son of Rushdī Qumī (f. 81), Sadīd, the son of the preceding (f. 81v), Malik Qumī (f. 83), Darkī (f. 83v), Wālihī (f. 85), Shahīdī (f. 87v), etc.

7. (f. 95v). Poets of Sāwa (here ساوج بلدة!). Salmān Sāwajī (f. 95v), etc.

8. (f. 97v). Poets of Qazwīn. Ṭāhir Waḥīd (f. 97v), Sālik (f. 99), Riḍā Masrūr (f. 101), etc.

9. (f. 106v). Poets of Ray. Muḥammad Qulī Salīm (f. 106v), Shāpūr Ṭihrānī (f. 109), Ḥusayn Nawras Damāwandī (f. 111), Ṣaydī (f. 112), etc.

10. (f. 116v). Poets of Hamadān, etc. 'Irāqī (f. 116v), etc.

11. (f. 124v). Poets of Jurbādaqān (Gulpāyagān), Kamara, etc. Faḍlī (f. 124v), 'Alī Naqī Kamaraī (f. 125v), Bāqir Naṭanzī (f. 129), etc.

12. (f. 130v). Poets of Ardistān. Fatḥī (f. 130v), etc.

13. (f. 132v). Poets of Khalkhāl, Ṭārim, etc.

14. (f. 133). Poets of Yazd. Waḥshī (f. 133), Ḥasan 'Alī (f. 136), etc.

15. (f. 141). Poets of Bāfq.

16. (f. 142). Poets of Kirmān.

17. (f. 144). Poets of Shūshtar, Bahbahān, Lār, Mesopotamia. Faraju'l-lah Shūshtarī (f. 144), 'Abdu'l-lah Ḥālī of Karbalā (f. 147v), etc.

18. (f. 149). Poets of India. Amīr Khusraw (f. 149), Fayḍī (f. 152v), Ḥasan Dihlawī (f. 153), Ghanī Kashmīrī (f. 155), etc.

19. (f. 166v). Poets of Khorasan. Another section (طبقهٔ دیگر) (f. 170v). The quotations are short, except in the case of Abū'l-Qāsim Findiriskī (f. 174), Muḥammad Ḥusayn Naẓīrī Nīshāpūrī (f. 176v), Naw'ī Khabūshānī (f. 180), Muḥammad Jān Qudsī (f.

(Majmū'a-i-ash'ār). III 37.

An anthology of poets of the X and XI/XVI and XVII centuries, alphabetically arranged under the takhalluṣes. There are also short biographical notes of the authors. These, however, cease on f. 133, from where only the names of the authors are given, without any details. On f. 161v even the names of the poets cease to be given, and the places reserved for them are left blank. Sometimes, as on f. 44v, or on f. 190, although there are some details concerning the authors, their names are not given. The collection has no title, the name of the compiler is not mentioned. Here follow the names, alphabetically arranged, of the poets from whom the quotations are given (figures refer to folio numbers in this copy):

سبعه سیاره

Sab'a sayyāra. III 24.

A portion of a huge anthology, compiled by 'Alī Riḍā Khān (?) (the name is partly destroyed, f. 2v), who collected it some time about the middle of the XII/XVIIIc. As he states in the preface, the whole work had to comprise seven sections (maṭla's), the I containing ghazals; II qaṣīdas; III tarkībbands; IV quatrains; V miscellaneous poetical compositions; VI mathnawī poems; VII specimens of ornate prose, and extracts from various historical works to describe the history of India up to 1136/1724 (the sixth year of Muḥammad Shāh's reign). Of all these sections the present MS. contains only the first, and even this is incomplete at the end. It consists of a huge series of ghazals from the most different authors (chiefly of the XI–XII/XVII–XVIIIc.). The arrangement is that which is usually given in the dīwāns, i.e. that poems are heaped together without any order under the last letter of the rhyming verses. The series breaks off just in the beg. of the letter wāw. There is a brief preface, beg:

سبحان الله رنگین خیالی متخیله چه نیرنگ است الخ

Copied in the xii/xviii c. Some pages are left blank.

Ff. 471; S 11,5×6,25; 9×4,75; no jadwals. Four columns of diagonally written lines, about 1,5 inches long. Thick Or. pap. Clear Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Some notes on f. 1, and two seals. One of them is dated 1193/1779.

محک کمال

Miḥakk-i-kamāl. II 456.

A large album of poetical quotations, chiefly from modern authors, without any apparent arrangement. The dībācha (ff. 1v–4) is written by Muḥammad Muḥsin (f. 2v), and dedicated (cf. f. 3) to Khudāyār Khān Bahādur Thābit Jang 'Abbāsī, with his original name Nūr-Muḥammad. He was a local chief of Qandahār, and was captured by Nādir Shāh in 1152/1739 (cf. Elliot, Hist. of India, vol. VIII, pp. 97–98).

Copied for Mīr Karam 'Alī Khān Tālpur, at Ḥaydarābād in Sind, dated the 28th Shawwāl 1231/the 21st Sept. 1816, written by Muḥammad Ṣāliḥ b. 'Abdi'l-lah.

Ff. 281; S 11×7; 7,5×4; three columns of diagonally written lines, different in number. Double jadwals and gilt partitions. Greyish Or. pap. Ind. shikasta-nast. Cond. fairly good. A seal and scrappy notes on the fly-leaves.

سفینة الشعراء

Safīnatu'sh-shu'arā'. II 445.

An incomplete copy of a large and valuable anthology of Persian poets, ancient and modern, containing useful notices on the authors whose poems are quoted. It would deserve to be classed as a tadhkira but for the compiler's explicit indications in the preface (f. 1v) to the effect that his chief object in writing this book was the selection of the finest quotations from each poet rather than an attempt at an historical study of Persian literature. The compiler does not mention his own name in the extant portion of his work, but, from incidental allusions, it appears that he was an associate of Anandrām Mukhliṣ (d. 1164/1751), an official under Muḥammad Shāh (for his biography see R 997). He is referred to on ff. 91v, 123v, 254. The author refers to himself also on ff. 1v, 232, 240, 316, 328 without mentioning his relation to Anandrām. On f. 348 he gives the date 1140/1727–1728 as the year in which he saw a poet, Sakhī, at Lahore. The anthology cannot have been finished before 1170/1756–1757, because this year is referred to as current at the time of writing, on f. 264v. There are also dates 1160/1747 (f. 29), 1152/1739 (f. 61v), 1151/1738 (f. 219), etc. The impression which this compilation makes is that of an unfinished tadhkira, still in a state of preparation. Many poets are mentioned twice, or even in three places, apparently having been entered from the different biographical works which the compiler utilised. Of some poets, especially those who flourished in India in the XII/XVIIIc., he gives long extracts; others, especially the ancient ones, are dealt with less extensively. His principal sources are the tadhkiras of Taqī Awḥadī and of Naṣr-ābādī, to whom he refers very often; but he apparently also perused others which are not mentioned in the extant portion.

The anthology must originally have been a volume larger than Wālih Dāghistānī's Riyāḍu'sh-shu'arā', and must have contained notes on some 2000 poets. The extant portion, dealing with some 700 authors, contains about one third of the original. The biographies are arranged in a loose alphabetical order, and only the letters, ا, ب, ت, ث, ج, ح, خ, د, ر, س, ش, ص, ض, ط, ف, ق, are more or less complete. The sections which usually are the largest, namely those of ع and م, are here almost entirely lost, as also ظ, a large portion of ذ, ز, almost the whole of ک, ل, ن, ر, ه, ی. The leaves are in great disorder; they have been pasted to new margins very carelessly, and there are no catchwords on many of them, so that the sequence is often doubtful. Many folios in the beginning (especially ff. 31–37), are damaged, and have become illegible at the top. On some others (55,296–304v, 314v, 319v, 389, 409v, 410v, 411v, 412v, 413v, 414v, 416v, 417, 420v, 421v, 429v, 431, 450, 482, 495v) the names of the poets are not written, although space is reserved for this purpose.

In order to facilitate references to this anthology, the entries are given here in their proper alphabetical order:

Beg. abruptly :

این تذکره سفینة الشعرا ..... مولف این نسخه طبع رسا و خاطر معاني پسند الخ

Copied probably towards the end of the xii/xviii c. The MS. may be contemporary with the author of the work.

Ff. 503 ; S. 10 × 6,5 ; 6 × 2,75 ; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Very bad Ind. shikasta, often dotless. Cond. very bad, folios are mixed. Marginal notes and emendations on some leaves.

327. (مجموعهٔ اشعار)

(Majmū'a-i-ash'ār). II 458.

An album of poetical quotations. The poets are arranged in alphabetical order, under the takhalluṣes, and after many names some biographical details are added, occasionally containing interesting information. The series, however, is not complete, as the names are only those which begin with ک - ص and a few with م. The length of the extracts and of the biographical notes differs, from a few lines to several pages. Poetry of all periods is represented, up to the first half of the XII/XVIIIc. There is no introduction, nor a final colophon ; the name of the compiler is not mentioned.

Copied, on coloured paper, apparently towards the end of the xii/xviii c. On f. 132 a colophon is dated the 8th Sha'bān 1185/the 16th Nov. 1771, at Rāmnagar.

Ff. 211 ; S 3,75 × 7 ; varying number of lines and of columns. Coloured Or. pap. Bad Ind. shikasta, often very minute and dotless. Cond. not quite good. Paintings (flowers) on some folios.

328. (مجموعهٔ اشعار)

(Majmū'a-i-ash'ār). II 517.

A large collection of quotations from different poets (chiefly those of the XI and XII/XVII–XVIIIc.). They are arranged under subjects, and the latter, in their turn, follow each other in alphabetical order. Almost all of them deal with descriptions of ideal beauty, different forms of love, etc. The quotations are usually isolated bayts ; longer extracts appear very rarely. No preface or colophon.

The copy, dating probably from the end of the xii/xviii c., lacks the initial and concluding folios.

Ff. 207 ; S 9 × 5,5 ; 8 × 4 ; no jadwals. Three columns of diagonally written lines, about 1,5 inches long. Greyish Or. pap. Ind. shikasta. Cond. not quite good.

329. (مجموعهٔ اشعار)

(Majmū'a-i-ash'ār). I 748.

A short anthology of qaṣīdas, mathnawīs, a few ghazals and quatrains, in Persian and Hindustani, by different authors. The majority of them belong to the Indian poets of the end of the XII/XVIIIc., and many contain praises of Nawwāb Āṣafu'd-Dawla of Oudh (1188–1212/1774–1797); some even give chronograms for the date 1192/1778 (cf. ff. 25, 39v). The MS. is very defective, a great many folios have been lost. Of those poets whose names appear here, the following may be mentioned: Sanā'ī (an incomplete qaṣīda in praise of Sinjar) (f. 1v); Ṣafā'ī Qumī, i.e., Ṣafiyyu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Khān Qumī, cf. EB 395 No. 1412 (ff. 6v, 9v, 14v, 15, etc.); Salāmu'l-lah Khān Salīm, a poet of Āṣafu'd-Dawla, cf. Spr 284 (f. 24v, etc.); Aḥsan (in Hindustani), apparently the same as the one referred to in Spr 199 (f. 29, etc.), and some others.

Many poems have no beginning, or end, or are damaged in the middle, so the booklet cannot be of any practical use whatever.

Copied apparently towards the beginning of the xiii/xix c. (perhaps about 1192/1778, which is mentioned at the end of the volume).

Ff. 39; S 9,75×6,25; 6,5×3; different number of diagonal lines, two columns, within jadwals. Brown Or. pap., new margins (Eur. pap.). Ind. nast. Cond. bad. Paper is decayed. Several seals on f. 1.

330. (مجموعهٔ اشعار)

(Majmū'a-i-ash'ār). II 457.

An album of poetical quotations from different authors, mostly modern, arranged alphabetically, under the takhalluṣes. The quotations are usually very short, almost exclusively isolated bayts. Many little-known poets are referred to, but without any biographical or other details.

Copied probably towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 301; S 9,75×5,75; 8×4; three columns of diagonally written lines, about 1,5 inches long. No jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Bad Ind. shikasta. Cond. fairly good.

VII. MUHAMMADAN THEOLOGY.

A. Coranic Studies.

1. Commentaries on and Translations of the Coran.

331. فتح الرحمن بترجمة القرآن

Fatḥu'r-Raḥmān bi-tarjumati'l-Qur'ān. III 83.

The text of the Coran with a literal Persian translation by Aḥmad b. 'Abdi'r-Raḥīm al-'Umarī ad-Dihlawī, surnamed Waliyyu'l-lah (d. 1176/1762--1763), cf. f. 2v. He completed it in the beg. of Ramaḍān 1151/the end of Dec. 1738 (f. 2). It is apparently the same translation as the one described in EIO 2677. Lith. in Dehli, 1866. Beg. of the introduction :

حمد نا محدود خدایرا تبارک و تعالی که الخ

Beg. of the translation (f. 6) :

بنام خدا بخشایندهٔ مهربان ، ستایش خدایراست الخ

Dated the 10th Rab. II 1178/the 7th Oct. 1764, copied by 'Iṣmatu'l-lah b. Ḥāfiẓ Luṭfi'l-lah.

Ff. 444 ; S. 10,5 × 5,5 ; 8,5 × 3,5 ; ll 22, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Numerous marginal and interlinear notes and glosses. Notes at the beginning and end, of religious contents.

332. تفسیر قرآن

Tafsīr-i-Qur'ān. III 91.

A commentary on the Coran, sūras 1–16, completed the 9th Shawwāl 519/the 8th Nov. 1125, at Bukhārā, by Abū Naṣr b. (sic) Aḥmad b. al-Ḥusayn b. Aḥmad b. Sulaymān Darwājakī (or Wardājakī) :

قال الشيخ الامام (illegible) ... الملة و الدين الزاهد الاستاذ فخر الملة تاج المفسرين ابو نصر بن احمد بن الحسين بن احمد بن سليمان درواجكي في تفسير كلام الله تعالى و املي بالبخارا (illegible)...التاسع من شوال سنه تسع عشر و خمسماية ،

In the colophon it is called Tafsīr-i-Zāhidī ; the sentence is rather suspect :

تمت تفسير القرآن بنصف الاول من تفسير الزاهدى

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The last two words are added under the jadwal line, apparently by a different hand, and this circumstance as well as the repetition of the word tafsīr in the same sentence do not allow us to place much reliance on this statement. Neither Sam'ānī, nor Ḥājjī Khalīfa mention this name. The nisba Darwājakī is suspicious (Sam'ānī gives دروازقي).

The work described further on, No. 333, is also called Tafsīr-i-Zāhidī, but unfortunately it begins with the 19th sūra, so that a collation is impossible. The style of the two works does not differ very much ; but although in No. 333 a sentence is often to be met with : قال الشيخ الامام الزاهد رحمة الله عليه (ff. 1v, 13, 18, etc.), I have here not found anything similar beyond only one instance of : قال الشيخ الاسلام (sic) الزاهدى رضي الله عنه (f. 502, l. 10). It is strange also that this volume, which in the colophon is called a complete "half" of the work, contains only 16 sūras, instead of the customary 18.

The authorities incidentally quoted are old works of the IV/X and V/XIc. This is, however, only in the beginning. In the text there are almost no references whatever. The sūras begin : 1 on f. 4 ; 2 on f. 8 ; 3 on f. 170v ; 4 on f. 228 ; 5 on f. 281 ; 6 on f. 320 ; 7 on f. 354 ; 8 on f. 397v ; 9 on f. 412v ; 10 on f. 439v ; 11 on f. 456v ; 12 on f. 473 ; 13 on f. 497v ; 14 on f. 510v ; 15 on f. 518v ; 16 on f. 526. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي انزل الفرقان نورًا مضيئًا الخ

Beg. of the 16th sūra (Persian text) :

آمد يا محمد فرمان خداوند تعالى بحرب كردن الخ

Copied towards the end of the xi/xvii c., or in the beg. of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 542 ; S 11,5 × 7,25 ; 8 × 4 ; ll 27, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. coarse nast. Cond. not quite good. The ink contains some sticky substance causing the pages to stick together and to become dirty. On some of them a thin film of the surface of the paper has torn off, having stuck to the opposite page. Incidental notes on the margins. A vignette, damaged.

333.

تفسير زاهدي

Tafsīr-i-Zāhidī.

I 210.

The second vol. of a Persian commentary on the Coran, from the 19th sūra to the end. The title is only given in the colophon. There are no indications as to the author's name ; references are usually given to only very early authorities. Comparatively often the sentence is repeated : قال الشيخ الامام الزاهد رحمة الله عليه (ff. 1v, 13, 18, etc.). According to Ḥājjī Khalīfa (vol. II, p. 362

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

No. 3276), the author is identical with the compiler of the Targhību's-ṣalāt (cf. IvASB 1032), whose name he gives as Muḥammad b. Aḥmad az-Zāhid. The Targhību's-ṣalāt has probably been written a long time before the middle of the X/XVIc. It is impossible to arrive at a definite conclusion as to whether this work is a part of the same commentary as No. 332, above. But this would not be improbable, judging from the style of both.

The work gives a translation of every verse of the Coran, with a detailed Persian explanation. The language is simple, but considerably modernised in this copy. Beg.

سورة مريم، كلها مكيه و هي ثمان و تسعون آية الخ

Beg. of the commentary itself:

كهيعص، قال ابن عباس رضي الله عنه الخ

Copied by Muḥammad Akram b. Muḥammad Sharīf b. Muḥammad, and dated the 25th Ṣafar 1121/the 6th May 1709.

Ff. 415; S 11,25 × 7,5; 9 × 5; ll 25, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Good Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten. A few glosses on the margins.

334. تفسير يعقوب چرخي

Tafsīr-i-Ya'qūb Charkhī. I 219.

A good and fairly old copy of the commentary on a portion of the Coran, by Ya'qūb b. 'Uthmān b. Maḥmūd al-Ghaznawī al-Charkhī (d. 838/1434–1435), see IvASB 957. It contains explanations to sūras 1 and 67–112: s. 1 on f. 3; 67 on f. 6; 68 on f. 14v; 69 on f. 26; 70 on f. 37; 71 on f. 41; 72 on f. 45; 73 on f. 51v; 74 on f. 57v; 75 on f. 63; 76 on f. 66; 77 on f. 71v; 78 on f. 74; 79 on f. 79; 80 on f. 84; and the minor sūras, 81–112 on ff. 86v–123v. A portion of the sūra 112, the whole of 113 and the greater part of 114 are lost, as there is a lacuna in the MS. Beg.

لك الحمد يا من بيده الملك وهو على كل شي قدير ... و بعد، يقول العبد الفقير الخ

Copied towards the end of the x/xvi c., or in the beg. of the xi/xvii c. (ff. 72–79 are of a more modern origin).

Ff. 124; S 9,5 × 6,25; 6,5 × 3,5; ll 19, within jadwals. Or. pap. Khorasani nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly injured by moisture. Mediocre double page 'unwān. A few notes and seals in the beg.

335. تفسير سورهٔ يوسف

Tafsīr-i-sūra-i-Yūsuf. I 215.

A detailed commentary on the XII sūra of the Coran, dealing with the story of Joseph. The author is Mu'īn al-Miskīn, or, to give him his full name, Mu'īnu'd-Dīn b. Muḥammad Farāhī Harātī (d. 907/1501–1502). See EB 453. It contains copious Sufic references, and frequent poetical quotations. Beg.

ربنا آتنا من لدنک (الدنک here) رحمةً ... همي گويد بندهٔ ضعيف معين المسكين الخ

A quite modern copy, transcribed shortly after 1862 (this year appears in the water-marks of the paper).

Ff. 349; S 13×8; 10×5; ll 17, no jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good.

336. تفسير سورة الواقعة

Tafsīr-i-sūratu'l-Wāqi'a. I 214.

A detailed commentary on the 56th chapter of the Coran, comp. in 1083/1672–1673, at Jalesar (near Agra, in the colophon also called Aurangnagar), by (Muḥammad) Sulṭān b. Sayyid Khwājagī Ḥusaynī. It is based on many standard works, partly Sufic. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي اعطى زمرة المؤمنين الخ ... و چون درين هنكام كه يكهزار و هشتاد و سه سال از هجرت گذشته اين فقير قليل البضاعت سيد سلطان ابن سيد خواجكي حسيني از خاک جليسر الخ

Dated the 6th Sha'bān 1104/the 12th Apr. 1693, copied by Shāh Muḥammad al-Qurayshī al-Hāshimī, at Jalesar, or Aurangnagar.

Ff. 69; S 13×8,25; 6,75×4,5; ll 18, within jadwals. Or. pap. New margins of Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good.

337. نعمت عظمى

Ni'mat-i-'uẓmā. I 1059–1060.

A voluminous commentary on the Coran, by the famous humorist Nūru'd-Dīn Muḥammad, who is usually called Ni'mat Khān 'Ālī (d. 1121–1122/1709–1710), cf. f. 4v. The work was started in 1112/1700–1701, completed in 1115/1703–1704 (see vol. II, f. 427), and dedicated to Aurangzīb (vol. I, f. 4). It is strange that the biographers apparently do not mention the existence of this work by 'Ālī. This may be due to the fact that it shows definite Shi'ite tendencies (it is mentioned in the Kashfu'l-ḥujub, p. 583), and was probably not made public. The present copy is divided into two vols., the first containing sūras 1–16, the second 17–114. There are occasional poetical passages, mostly by the author himself. Beg. of the preface:

صبح صادق سخن از پرتو آفتاب ربوبيت كه الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Beg. of the Persian text of the first sūra (f. 9v) :

يعني ابتدا ميكنم بنام الله كه معبود بحق است الخ

Beg. of the second vol. (s. XVII) :

سورهٔ بني اسرائيل مكيه الخ ... سبحان نام تسبيح است يعني بپاكي ياد كردن الخ

In the beg. of the vol. I there are: a note on the Coranic verses concerning the New Testament, a list of famous tafsīrs, and a short note on the Nuṣayrīs (giving no new information whatever).

Copied in the middle of the xii/xviii c.

2 vols. Ff. 395 and 427 ; S 14 × 8,75 ; 9,5 × 5 ; ll 21 ; and 13 × 8,5 ; 11 × 6 ; ll 25, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten. Marginal notes and glosses.

2. Treatises on the correct methods of reading, reciting, etc., the Coran.

338. لغة القرآن

Lughatu'l-Qur'ān. I 855.

A dictionary of the rarer words met with in the Coran, explained in Persian. In the colophon the authorship of this work is ascribed to Sayyid Sharīf, without any particulars concerning him. He may perhaps be identical with the famous author of the Ṣarf-i-Mīr, Mīr Sayyid Sharīf Jurjānī (d. 816/1413-1414), see EIO 2699, Br 19, where the work is called Tarjumān-i-Qur'ān. Here the title as above is given in the colophon. Beg.

الحمد لله ... اين كتاب ترجمان قرآن است و ترجمان الخ

The words are given not in alphabetical order, but in the order of their occurrence in every sūra. as they are traditionally placed.

Copied in the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 61 ; S 7,25 × 4,25 ; 4,75 × 2,25 ; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. In the beg. the text of some sūras with a translation is placed on the margins. Notes.

339. (مجموعه در تجويد)

(Majmū'a dar tajwīd). I 770.

Two treatises on the methods of reading the Coran :

1. (ff. 1v-38). Qawā'idu'l-Qur'ān, by Yār Muḥammad b. Khudādād Samarqandī, dedicated to the Shaybanide prince

342. خلاصة القراءة

Khulāṣatu'l-qarā'at. I 423.

A treatise on the rules of reciting the Coran and other connected matters, by Qāsim Jaunpūrī (f. 2), who dedicated it to Shāhjahān (f. 2v). As mentioned on f. 3, the work has been compiled with the assistance of Naṣīru'd-Dīn Muḥammad Qāri'. It is divided into 9 short bābs. Beg.

حمد بیحد مر حضرت قادری که کلام مجید و فرقان حمید الخ

On the margins of ff. 1v–3 there is a very short treatise on the same subject (رسالهٔ مختصر در بیان تجوید جهت تعلیم فرزند رشید). It is divided into one muqaddima and 12 faṣls. The author's name is not mentioned. Beg.

الحمد لله المتكلم الجواد المبين الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 17; S 9,75×6,5; 7×4; ll 10, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. A seal on f. 1.

343. حلية القاري

Ḥilyatu'l-qāri'. I 341.

A comprehensive treatise on the methods of reading the Coran, with all the connected customary disciplines. The author calls himself (f. 2v) Aḥmad b. Rukni'd-Dīn al-Ḥusaynī al-Kūhgīlū'ī, and states that when travelling in the Deccan, he found himself at Ḥaydarābād in 1083/1672–1673, when he began this work. It has not been completed, however, till 1095/1684 (f. 3v), and is dedicated to the Quṭb Shāh Abū'l-Ḥasan (1083–1098/1672–1687), cf. f. 3. The work is divided into a muqaddima, fourteen bābs, and a khātima; here, however, only 12 bābs are given:

(f. 5v) مقدمه ، در فضایل تلاوت کلام معجز الخ

(f. 9v) باب اول ، در بیان حروف هجا و مخارج آن ،

(f. 15v) باب دوم ، در صفات حروف الخ

(f. 23v) باب سیم ، در بیان رعایت کردن حروف در حالت تلفظ نمودن ،

(f. 41v) باب چهارم ، در بیان مدات و فقرات ،

(f. 59) باب هفتم ، در بیان تفخیم و ترقیق ،
(f. 63v) باب هشتم ، در بیان هائي کنایه و احکام آن ،
(f. 65v) باب نهم ، در بیان انواع تلاوت قرآن عظیم و احکام آن ،
(f. 71v) باب دهم ، در بیان استعاذه بسم الله و کیفیت آن ،
(f. 74v) باب یازدهم ، در بیان وقف و انواع و احکام آن ،
(f. 119v) باب دوازدهم ، در رسم الخط و طریق اصلاح آن ،

At the end there is a list of the names of the seven orthodox authorities on variants in the text of the Coran (f. 123v–124v).

Beg. of the treatise itself:

انواع حمد و سپاس متجاوز از حد و قیاس مر بارکاه الخ

On ff. 125–126v there is a versified index of the sūras of the Coran, with the title of احصای سورهٔ کلام الله, beg.

بدانکه یکصد و چار و ده است در قرآن ،
که کرده فصل به بسم الله اش خدای جهان ،

On ff. 127v–139 there is a treatise on the correct pronunciation of the Arabic sounds while reciting the Coran. The name of the author and the title of the work are not given in it, but there is a heading on f. 127v: (sic) هذا الکتاب التجوید کلام الله. Beg.

بدانکه بعد از معرفة الله ارکان ایمان نماز است الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c. The last item is of more modern origin. It is bound separately as No. I 341*a*.

349. قندية

Qandiyya. II 496.

A description of the religious places at Samarqand, graves of holy men, etc., with short details on the general history of the place. Its original title is Kitābu'l-qand fī ta'rīkh Samarqand. It is an extract, made by Muḥammad b. 'Abdi'l-Jalīl as-Samarqandī, a disciple of Abū Ḥafṣ 'Umar b. Muḥammad an-Nasafī (d. 537/1142–1143), from the latter's work Ta'rīkh Samarqand, in Arabic. The latter book was a continuation of the work on the same subject by Abū Sa'īd 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān b. Muḥammad al-Idrīsī (d. 405/1015), see W. Barthold, Turkestan, vol. II, p. 16, and v. I, pp. 48–51, where extracts from it, of purely historical contents, are edited. It is the same work as MSS. aa 574 ag and abb 574 ag in the Asiatic Museum, St. Petersburg, or No. 859 in the library of the University of St. Petersburg. It was several times lithographed in Tashkend and Samarqand.

On f. 1 there is a note, apparently in the same handwriting as that of the bulk of the MS: الجزء الاول من رساله قنديه ،

But that it is only the first part is not mentioned in the colophon. Beg.

350. شرح قصيدهٔ برده

Sharḥ-i-qaṣīda-i-Burda. II 525.

A paraphrase of and the commentary on the famous poem, Qaṣīda-i-Burda of Muḥammad Būṣīrī (d. 694–697/1295–1298), by Faḍlu'l-lah b. Rūzbihān Iṣfahānī, who wrote it in 921/1515. It is the same work as described in IvASB.989, but the present copy does not contain the introduction, and is slightly incomplete at the end, so that it corresponds to ff. 37, l. 11—f. 109 (middle) of No 29. Beg. abruptly:

امن تذكر جيران بذى سلم ، الخ ... ايا از ياد كردن همسايكان كه ساكنند در موضعى الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 52; S 9×6,25; 6,75×3,25; ll 15, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten and repaired. Seals on f. 1.

351. آثار احمدي

Āthār-i-Aḥmadī. I 1.

The tradition about Muḥammad, his first successors, and the 12 Imāms, by Aḥmad b. Tāji'd-Dīn Ḥasan-i-Sayfu'd-Dīn Astrābādī, based on Rauḍatu'l-aḥbāb (comp. 888/1484), see IvASB 69. As the present copy is dated 964/1556–1557, the author must have been writing about the beginning or the middle of the X/XVIc. Beg.

352. تکملهٔ مدارج النبوة

Takmila-i-Madāriju'n-nubuwwat. I 224.

The concluding chapter of the Madāriju'n-nubuwwat, by the well-known 'Abdu'l-Ḥaqq Dihlawī (d. 1053/1643), see IvASB 65 (this copy corresponds to ff. 711–721 of D 283). It deals with some special virtues ascribed to Muḥammad. Beg.

تکمله ، در بیان صفات کامله رسول الله الخ

At the end there are several notes of religious contents in Persian and Arabic. Most probably they are marginal notes possibly transcribed from another copy of this or some other work. Many of them contain the dates of the deaths of different divines.

The main portion of the volume was transcribed by Muḥammad Wārith b. Muḥammad Bāqir aṣ-Ṣiddīqī, and dated the 9th Muḥarram 1136/the 9th Oct. 1723.

353. ترجمهٔ حجة الوافية

Tarjuma-i-Ḥujjatu'l-wāfiya. II 539.

A translation of an Arabic risāla on the elementary ideas concerning ḥadīths in general, by Shamsu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Hāshimī 'Abbāsī, who used the takhallus Faqīr (d. ca. 1180/176–6 1767), cf. above, Nos. 178, 297. The translator gives his name as Ghulām Imām, and does not mention the exact date of his undertaking. Beg.

354. (مجموعه در حدیث)

(Majmū'a dar ḥadīth). I 814.

Two short works dealing with the subject of tradition, quite fortuitously joined in one cover:

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

1. (ff. 1v–12v). Risāla dar bayān-i-faḍāyil-i-Makka. A short treatise dealing with ḥadīths which indicate different points of religious excellence ascribed to the places of pilgrimage in Mekka. It is a paraphrase, or probably a free version, of the Arabic treatise on the same subject ascribed to Ḥasan Baṣrī (d. 110/728), cf. Brock. I, 67. The translator's name is not given. Beg.

الحمد لله ... اما بعد، این ورق چند است در بیان فضایل مکه الخ

Folio 13 is left blank. Ff. 13v–14v are occupied by prayers, in Arabic, for the use of pilgrims, with Persian explanatory notes.

Copied in the end of the xii/xviii c.; S 8×5; 5,25×2,75; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Ff. 4v–5 are left blank, but the text is not interrupted.

2. (ff. 15–18). Al-kashf 'alā (usually 'an) mujāwazat hadhi-hi'l-ummat al-alf. A short eschatological treatise, in Arabic, by the famous theologian, Jalālu'd-Dīn 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān as-Suyūṭī (d. the 18th Jum. I 911/the 17th Oct. 1505), composed by him in 898/1492 (f. 15, l. 3), see Brock., II, 151 (No. 135). Beg. is damaged :

355. (ترجمهٔ اربعین منظوم)

(Tarjuma-i-Arba'īn-i-manẓūm). II 138.

A versified translation of a set of 40 selected ḥadīths, by Ghulām Muḥyī'd-Dīn, who used the takhallus Shā'iq. He dedicated it, in the prose preface, to some prince, whose name he does not mention, and there are no indications as to the date of composition. It is different from IvASB 897. Cf. above No. 166. Beg.

2. Sunnite fiqh.

356. فتاوی قراخانی

Fatāwī-i-Qarākhānī. I 690.

An old and slightly incomplete copy of this well-known work on Sunnite fiqh, by Qarākhān (or Qabūl Qarākhān, as in other copies) (f. 2, l. 10), who rearranged and edited the original draft of it, composed by Ṣadru'd-Dīn Ya'qūb Muẓaffar Kirāmī (f. 2, l. 10–11), towards the end of the VIII/XIVc. See IvASB 1034.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The work is divided into the customary sections; at the end (ff. 317–326) folios are misplaced and greatly mutilated. The original copy was probably very incomplete, and the missing portions have been supplied by a modern hand (probably of the XII/XVIIIc.), namely, ff. 1–2, 245–248, 257–284, 286, 317–end. Beg.

حمد و سپاس و ثناء بی قیاس مر علیم مطلق الخ

Copied (the bulk of the MS.) in the beg. of the x/xvi c., India (peculiar shikasta of that period).

Ff. 326; S 10,5×6; 8,5×4; ll 25, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. shikasta. Cond. rather bad. Injured by worms and moisture. Glosses and notes on the margins. A fragment of a fihrist at the beginning. The last folio does not belong to the work.

357. مختار الاختيار

Mukhtāru'l-ikhtiyār. II 331.

The well-known treatise on the principles of Sunnite fiqh, composed towards the end of the IX/XVc. by Ikhtiyāru'd-Dīn Ḥusaynī Harātī (he died probably ca. 928/1522). See IvASB 1035, where the headings of the chief three parts (mabḥaths) into which the work is divided, are given. The present copy is slightly incomplete at the beginning where probably only one folio is lost. It opens with f. 2, l. 3 of Ac 45 (IvASB 1035). The first mabḥath ends on f. 69v. The second begins, with a special introduction, on f. 70v. The third begins on f. 153v (without an introduction).

Copied by Muḥammad Riḍā Ḥusaynī in 1128 (f. 69v) and 1129/1716–1717 (the colophon of the second part is not dated).

Ff. 194; S 8,5×5,25; 7,25×3,25; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. and shikasta. Cond. good. Slightly worm-eaten at the beginning.

358. مفتاح الصلوة

Miftāḥu's-ṣalāt. II 329.

The same treatise on the details of prayer and connected matters, as described in IvASB 1039. The suggestion made in that note that the year 1061/1651, given as the date of completion in the concluding lines, refers to the completion of the work itself, not of any particular copy, seems to be correct, because the same date is found also here, mentioned in exactly the same terms as in Ac 48: the last day of Dhī'l-ḥijja 1061/the 13th Dec. 1651. Beg.

الحمد لله ... بدانکه تا نیک بخت کند ترا حق تعالی الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 134; S 7,5×4; 5,25×2; ll 12, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. very bad. Worm-eaten, injured by moisture; the paper of some folios is decayed. Many marginal notes. Notes and prayers on several folios in the beginning and end of the volume.

359.

مجموعهٔ سلطاني

Majmū'a-i-Sulṭānī.

II 328.

The well-known compilation on the elements of fiqh, said to be composed by direction of Maḥmūd of Ghazna (بندكي حضرت سلطان المشايخ و الاولياء سلطان محمود غزنوى !!), see IvASB 1046. In the preface it is stated that the work is divided into 48 bābs (f. 2), but in fact it contains only 43, all in a catechetic form. Beg.

الحمد لله ... بدان اسعدک الله ... كه اين كتاب است معظم الخ

Dated the 11th Jum. I 1145 (the 16th year of Muḥammad Shāh's reign), or the 30th Oct. 1732, copied by Muḥammad Maḥbūb Qurayshī.

Ff. 132; S 8,5 × 5; 6,5 × 3,5; ll 11, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten. Marginal notes and glosses. A note on f. 1.

360.

خلاصة الفقه

Khulāṣatu'l-fiqh.

I 359.

A concise exposition of the system of Sunnite fiqh, in 18 bābs, by 'Abdu'l-Laṭīf. It is the same work as the one described in IvASB 1062. This copy is older than the preceding one, but apparently also contains no information which helps to identify the period at which the treatise has been written. Judging from its general style and the language it must be a fairly modern work. Beg.

الحمد لله يعني بكوئيد كه همه سپاس و ستايش الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ikhtiyār.

II 501.

A compilation on the Hanafite doctrine concerning criminal offences. It was compiled in 1212/1797–1798 (the title is a chronogram for this date, f. 2v), by Salāmat 'Alī Khān, surnamed Ḥadhāqat Khān, at Muḥammadābād (f. 1v, bottom), at the command of Mr. John Knife (جان نيف). See R 24; printed Calcutta, 1244/1828. The book is divided into a muqaddima, on the general principles of penal law according to Hanafite ideas, and two kitābs, the first on ḥadds (f. 19), and the second on janāyāt (f. 90). The work consists of quotations from the classical

362. مسایل اربعین في بیان سنة سید المرسلین

Masāyil-i-arba'īn fī (dar) bayān-i-sunnat-i-Sayyidu'l-mursalīn. Ia 238.

A treatise on the prescriptions of Sunnite fiqh connected with marriage and burial (در رسوم و شادي و ماتم). The name of the compiler is apparently not given. It consists of quotations of different Coranic verses and traditions, explained in Persian, and illustrated by examples from practice. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي خلق من الماء بشراً الخ

Copied at Rājpūr, near Dehra Dun, by 'Ināyatu'l-lah, and dated the 23rd Rajab 1261/the 28th July 1845.

3. Principles of Sunnite theology, moral doctrine, and forms of worship.

363. مغني نامه

Mughnī-nāma. II 330.

A treatise on the different observances of Muhammadanism according to Sunnī doctrine, by 'Alī b. Faqīh Maḥmūd b. Ḥusayn Isma'īl (f. 2, ll. 2–3). The author, a Persian Sunnite, gives some details concerning his biography in the introduction. He had to escape to India after the triumph of Shi'ism under Shāh Isma'īl of Persia, and found employment under the kings of Gujrat and Khandesh. He wrote his book in 932/1525–1526, at Panāla (?, f. 2, l. 4), in order to give a clear and authentic exposition of the Muhammadan system for the local Muslims whose ignorance and addictedness to superstitions surprised the learned divine. The book is divided into six bābs: I, on the general principles of Muhammadan theology (f. 8v); II, on purifications (f. 16v); III, on namāz (f. 70v); IV, on zakāt (f. 232); V, on fasting (f. 243); VI, on pilgrimage, etc. (f. 271). Beg.

364. فصول اربعه

Fuṣūl-i-arba'a. I 722.

A treatise on the elementary principles of Sunnite doctrine, with brief notes on the founders of the principal schools, some Sufic orders, and a list of the chief heretical sects. The author calls himself Abū'l-'iṣmat Muḥammad Ma'ṣūm (b.) Bābā Samarqandī, apparently identical with the writer with a similar name, referred to in IvASB 970. He was writing towards the end of the X/XVIc. or the beg. of the XI/XVIIc. There are references to the Nafaḥātu'l-uns, Ḥabību's-siyar, etc., and the author mentions that his spiritual guide was one Sayyid 'Abdu'l-lah Balkhī, apparently belonging to the Naqshbandī affiliation (f. 31). The work is divided into four faṣls:

۱ (f. 1v) در اعتقادات ،

۲ (f. 8) در بیان احوال خلفای اربعه الخ

۳ (f. 31) در بیان مذاهب باطله ،

۴ (f. 37v) در بیان آنکه مذهب حق مذهب اهل سنت و جماعت است و فرق ناجیه عبارت از ایشان است ،

The treatise contains nothing new, and the account of the sects is based on the well-known sources. Beg.

Nāfi'u'l-muslimīn.

A collection of useful notes on different subjects of Muhammadan dogma and practice, mostly in a catechetic form. The author calls himself (f. 1v) 'Abdu's-Salām b. 'Abdi'l-'Azīz Lāhūrī. He may be identical with Mullā 'Abdu's-Salām Lāhūrī mentioned in the Tuḥfatu'l-kirām (Pr 568, No. 44), who is said to have died in 1037/1627–1628. Beg.

حمد بیحد مر خالقي را که وجود انسان را با حسن صورت الخ

On ff. 146v–148 there is Ṣad pand-i-Luqmān, or the hundred counsels of Luqmān, of magical contents, the same as described in IvASB 1526 (1). Beg. as in that copy:

الحمد لله ... اما بعد، این صد پند سودمند دلبند است که الخ

On ff. 148–149v there is Rūz-nāma-i-ḥayḍ-i-'awrāt, dealing with predictions of the fate of women by observation of the day of the week on which their menstruation begins; also about the causes of barrenness of women and methods for its removal. It is based on the authority of Peris who, at his command, submitted a detailed report to Solomon. Beg.

368. اساس الاسلام

Asāsu'l-islām. II 327.

A versified summary of the principles and principal prescriptions of Muhammadanism, comp. in 1064/1653–1654 (see f. 1v, l. 5 from the bottom), by Mīr 'Ābid (see f. 2, l. 7, and the colophon on f. 34v). It is the same as the work described in IvASB 757, where references to other catalogues are given. Beg. as usual :

بسم معبود كل موجود ، من له حمد كل محمود ،

Numerous notes, prayers, scrappy quotations, etc., in Persian, Arabic and Urdu on 6 additional folios in the beg. On ff. 35–35v there is the beginning of another versified treatise, on prayer, etc.

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., by Ghulām Muḥyi'd-Dīn b. Sayyid 'Abdu'l-Qādir بهوری .

Ff. 35 ; S 7,25 × 4 ; 5,5 × 2,25 ; ll 17, within jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten, dirty. Numerous marginal and interlinear glosses. Seals on f. 1.

369. اصول الايمان

Uṣūlu'l-īmān. I 53.

A short treatise on the religious advantages of love cherished towards Muḥammad, 'Alī, and their relatives. The author calls himself Muḥammad Sālim ad-Dihlawī al-Bukhārī, son of Muḥammad Salāmu'l-lah b. Fakhri'd-Dīn b. Muḥibbi'l-lah b. Nūri'l-lah b. Nūri'l-Ḥaqq b. 'Abdi'l-Ḥaqq Dihlawī (the famous divine who d. 1053/1643–1644). As the author was separated from his ancestor by five generations, he must have lived in the beg. of the XIII

XIXc. The work is divided into a muqaddima, 5 faṣls (or waṣls) and a khātima. The muqaddima is very short and deals with the enumeration of the sources on which the work is based. The first faṣl, on love for Muḥammad, beg. on f. 2v ; II, on love for the Ahl-i-bayt, or the family of Muḥammad in general, f. 6v ; III, on love for ʻAlī in particular, f. 17 ; IV, on love for Fāṭima, 26v ; V, on love for Ḥasan and Ḥusayn, on f. 28 ; khātima, on the privileges of the sayyids, f. 34. The book is written in a flowery style, with many poetical quotations, in Shiʻite strain. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي اوجب محبت اهل بيت النبي الخ

The date given in the colophon is mutilated, and there is a worm-hole. It may be the 13th Ṣafar either of 1160 or 1260. The former seems to be too early, and the second too late for the MS., which apparently dates from the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 36 ; S 8 × 5,25 ; 5,5 × 3,5 ; ll 14, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Numerous marginal notes.

370. منافع القلوب

Manāfiʻu'l-qulūb. I 988.

A collection of short elementary notes, rules, etc., on different principles of Muhammadan doctrine. The authorship is ascribed to Qāḍī Shihābu'd-Dīn, Maliku'l-ʻulamā', but there are no indications to facilitate his identification. The work begins abruptly :

باب اول در بيان مسائل اعتقاديه ، در محيط روايت است الخ

But further on there is apparently no division into bābs, but only into short mas'alas, mathalas, aḥkām, etc. It was probably intended for beginners. The authorities which are here referred to, are mostly old Hanafite classic books. Cf. Bh 141 (1).

Dated the 8th Shaʻbān 1249/the 21st Dec. 1833.

371. ترجمهٔ چهل حديث

Tarjuma-i-chihil ḥadīth. I 514.

A translation of and a commentary on a set of forty selected ḥadīths, dealing with different religious institutions, but especially establishing the privileges of the descendants of ʻAlī. At the end there are special discussions on this subject, mostly in catechetic form, as well as several historical anecdotes about the respect shown on various occasions to the Sayyids by different pious rulers. The author calls himself Shihāb(u'd-Dīn) b. Shams(i'd-Dīn) b. 'Umar adh-Dhāwulī (usually az-Zāwulī) ad-Dawlatābādī (d. 849/1445, see Brock., II, 220). The ḥadīths are grouped under 10 bābs. Beg.

372. تنبیه الغافلین و تذکرة العارفین

Tanbīhu'l-ghāfilīn wa tadhkiratu'l-'ārifīn. I 233.

A paraphrase of and commentary on the Nahju'l-balāghat, a treatise containing the apocryphal utterances of 'Alī. Its authorship, which is not known with certainty, is here ascribed (f. 2) to Raḍiyyu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Mūsawī, who is often also called Sayyid Sharīf Raḍī, a writer of the V/XIc. (cf. IvASB 1107). The present Persian version is exactly the same as the one described in R 18. It has been compiled by Fatḥu'l-lah b. Shukri'l-lah Kāshānī (f. 2), who died, according to R 1077, in 978/1570–1571. The Kashfu'l-ḥujub (p. 143) gives 997/1589 as the date of his death. In the present copy the concluding folios seem to be of a more modern origin than the bulk of the volume, and do not contain the date of completion which is given in the British Museum copy as 955/1548. The original text is here written in red, and almost every word is commented upon. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي هدانا لهذا و ما كنا لنصدى (لنهتدى) الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or the beg. of the xiii/xix c. The name of the scribe is given as Sayyid Muḥammad 'Alī.

Ff. 402; S 12,5×9,5; 8,25×5,5; ll 17, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good. Some leaves, of dark paper, are crumbling. Worm-eaten and repaired. A few marginal notes. On the last folio a seal dated 1251 AH. Notes on f. 1.

373. ده مجلس

Dah majlis. II 362.

Shi'ite legends concerning the deaths of Muḥammad, the Imams and other saints, see IvASB 1106. It is chiefly based on the Rawḍatu'sh-shuhadā' of Ḥusayn Wā'iẓ al-Kāshifī (d. 910/1505),

376. منهج اليقين

Manhaju'l-yaqīn. I 1014.

A treatise on the Shi'ite ethical doctrine, by 'Alā'u'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Abī Turāb Gulistāna (f. 2v, bottom), who completed it the 25th Shawwāl 1081/the 7th March 1671 (f. 150v). It is based on the tradition ascribed to the 6th Imām, Ja'far Ṣādiq.

مجالس الاحزان

Majālisu'l-aḥzān. I 883.

A Shi'ite book of tradition concerning the deaths of Muḥammad, Fāṭima, 'Alī, Ḥasan, and Ḥusayn, in 10 majlises. The author calls himself 'Alī Aṣghar Khān. He dedicated his work to the grandson of Aurangzīb, Prince Muḥammad Buland Akhtar (d. 1118/1706), son of Muḥammad Akbar. As this rebellious prince surrendered in 1109/1697–1698 losing his influence, the book has probably been written before that date. It is based on different standard works (see f. 2, bottom). This book is apparently not mentioned in other catalogues. Beg.

سپاس قدسي اساس و ستایش بیقیاس سزاوار الخ

The majlises deal with: I (f. 3), on the spiritual advantages gained by deploring the fate of Ḥusayn, etc. II (f. 17v), on the sufferings of Muḥammad at the hands of the Qurayshites, and on the death of Ḥamza. III (f. 26v), on Muḥammad's death. IV (f. 37v), on Fāṭima's death. V (f. 48v), on 'Alī's death. VI (f. 65v), on Ḥasan's death. VII (f. 75v), on the death of Muslim b. ʿUqayl. VIII (f. 87v), on the death of the two sons of the preceding. IX (f. 93v), on Ḥusayn's departure to Kerbela. X (f. 147v), on his death.

Copied in the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 176; S 11×6; 8,5×4,25; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Ff. 15v–17, 25v, 26, 37, 65, 74v, 75, 87, 93, 146v, 147 are left blank.

مختار نامه

Mukhtār-nāma. I 904.

Legends about the Shi'ite hero, Mukhtār b. Abī 'Ubayda (or 'Ubayd) b. Mas'ūd ath-Thaqafī, the originator of a peculiar sect of Shi'ite extremists, deifying the third son of 'Alī, Muḥammad Ibn Ḥanafiyya (see Wellhausen, Die religiös-politischen Oppositionsparteien im alten Islam. Abh. d. K. Ges. d. Wissenschaften zu Göttingen, vol. V, 1901, pp. 79 sq.). His rebellions in Kūfa, about 66/685, were chiefly undertaken under the pretext of a revenge for the defeat of Imām Ḥusayn. The author of this version does not mention his own name; it seems to be the same as Bk 505, but different from other works of similar contents, described in R 156 or Pr 544–548 (Nos. 575, 576,1, 577), and also BrRs 232, 2. The chief rāwī (who is here called خداوند اخبار), is Muḥammad b. Aḥmad ath-Thaqafī. The book is divided into 14 majlises, but the headings are omitted in all except in the 1st (f. 2), 10th (f. 124), 11th (f. 137), 12th (f. 150v) and the 14th (f. 166). The tone of the work is rather more legendary than that of the usual works on tradition. There is no preface, and the book opens directly with the story of Mukhtār's miraculous birth. Beg.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

الحمد لله ... اما بعد، خداوند اخبار محمد بن احمد الثقفي رحمة الله عليه چنين كويد الخ

The story of Mukhtār is here given till his death, the date of which appears here as Ramaḍān 73/January 693.

A fairly good copy, dated the 23rd Ramaḍān 1059/the 30th Sept. 1649, written by Mīr Muḥammad Ja'far b. Mīr Aḥmad.

Ff. 171; S 13×8,25; 7,25×4; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. (new margins, Europ. pap.). Ind. nast. and shikasta. Cond. not quite good, especially in the beginning, where it is badly worm-eaten, and the right hand lower corners of ff. 1–15 are torn away.

در بحر المناقب

I 103.

Durr-i-baḥru'l-manāqib.

A biography of 'Alī b. Abī Ṭālib, according to the ideas of Shi'ite tradition, by 'Alī b. Ibrāhīm, known as Darwīsh Burhān. Its full title is Durr baḥri'l-manāqib fī faḍl 'Alī b. Abī Ṭālib (f. 2v), and it is an abbreviated version of a larger Arabic work on the same subject, by the same author, with the title Baḥru'l-manāqib, etc. The work is the same as the one described in Pr 537–538 and R 857. In all the known copies there are no indications, or even allusions, as to the date of composition. The book is not mentioned by Ḥājjī Khalīfa, or in the Kashfu'l-ḥujub. The author refers to his authorities on f. 2, and always mentions them explicitly when giving quotations from them in the bulk of the work. Those of them which are identifiable are all early treatises, dating from not later than the VII/XIIIc. Very rarely poets are quoted, but then also old ones (Rūmī on ff. 4v, 6v; 'Aṭṭār on f. 4v). All this suggests that the work is of fairly early origin. Beg. as usual:

سپاس بيقياس و ثنائي بى منتها حضرت حكيمى را الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

It is divided into a muqaddima and 12 bābs, each subdivided into several faṣls, ḥujjats, manqabats, etc., proving the excellence of 'Alī: I on f. 12v; II on f. 22; III on f. 29v; IV on f. 36; V on f. 44; VI on f. 47; VII on f. 50v; VIII on f. 54v; IX on f. 56v; X on f. 59v; XI on f. 78; XII on f. 82.

Dated the 27th Rajab 1218/the 12th Nov. 1803.

Ff. 86; S 13 × 8; 7,5 × 3,75; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. pap. New margins (Europ. pap.). Ind. nast. Cond. not good, especially in the beginning. Worm-eaten and repaired.

380. لب عين البكا

Lubb-i-'Aynu'l-bukā. I 886.

A large collection of sermons dealing with the circumstances of the martyrdom of various members of 'Alī's family. The volume contains two distinct works of similar contents, written in the same style, apparently by the same author. Their relation to each other cannot be definitely established because the first work is fragmentary.

1. (ff. 9–109v). 32 majlises, or sermons, each dealing with some particular episode, and uniformly beginning ... بعد از (only a few of them do not begin in this way). There is no introduction and no general colophon, but every majlis has at the end the date of copying, all within the limits of 1248/1832–1833. It seems probable that the last folios in the volume (ff. 402–406) belong to this, and not to the next work, because the date of copying is given as the 18th Sha'bān 1248/the 10th Jan. 1833 (Lucknow), whilst, as we shall see, the next work was transcribed in 1254, 1838. The title given in the colophon on f. 406 is 'Aynu'l-bukā, by 'Alī Naqī Burūjirdī who may be identical with the author of the next treatise. Beg. of the first extant majlis (f. 9):

حمد و سپاس عارى از قياس مجرى الفلكي را رواست الخ

2. (ff. 112v–406, or, really,—401v ?). Lubb-i-'Aynu'l-bukā. An abbreviated version of a larger work by Muḥammad Naqī b. Aḥmad Burūjirdī, also called 'Alī Naqī, composed by him at Kāshān in 1199/1784–1785 (f. 113v), with the title 'Aynu'l-bukā. It is possible that the preceding treatise represents a fragment of that original compilation. The work, as stated in the fihrist (in two copies, one apparently the original draft of the second, ff. 1v–8v), is divided into 73 (or 74) majlises. Here, however, only 63 appear, the last being incomplete. The title is given on f. 114v. Besides the preface, there is a muqaddima (ff. 115–116), with the heading: در بيان فضايل اشک تعزيه داران سرور شهيدان ،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Beg. of the preface : الحمد لله الذي خلقنا بلطفه من الماء الخ

Beginning of the first majlis (f. 116v, l. 2) :

رسولان ديار محنت و غم پيغمبران كشور الخ

Cf. Bk 506 where apparently the same work is described, although the date of composition and the name of the author are wrongly given.

Almost every majlis contains at the end the date of copying; the dates all range within 1254/1838, the last (f. 398v) being the 13th Rab. II/the 6th July of that year.

Ff. 406; S 8,75×6; 7×3,5; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast., different hands. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. Fol. 109v–112 and 183–184v are entirely or partly blank. A few notes on the margins.

381.

2. Shi'ite fiqh. لوامع صاحب قراني

Lawāmi'-i-Ṣāḥib-qirānī. I 865,866.

A Persian detailed commentary on an early Arabic treatise on Shi'ite fiqh, called Man lā yaḥḍuruhu'l-faqīh, by Ibn Bābūya al-Qumī, or Abū Ja'far Muḥammad b. 'Alī b. Ḥusayn b. Mūsā (d. 381/991), see Brock. I, 187 (No. 4). The commentator, who calls himself Muḥammad Taqī b. 'Alī, surnamed al-Majlisī (born 1003/1594–1595, d. 1070/1659–1660), mentions (f. 3v) that the present work is a translation of an Arabic commentary on Ibn Bābūya's treatise, written by himself shortly after 1060/1650. It was prepared in obedience to the command of 'Abbās II, the Safawide, to whom the original and the present versions are dedicated. See RS 23, Dorn C. No. 253. The present copy is incomplete, and contains only the parts dealing with purification (vol. I), and prayers (vol. II). Each of these two vols. is subdivided into two bābs :

I vol. Beg.

حمديكه اقلام اشجار و مداد بحار بر صفحات ليل و نهار الخ

On f. 225v begins the section on washing the dead :

الحمد لله ... با بيست در بيان غسل ميت الخ

II vol. Beg.

الحمد لله ... ابواب الصلوة ' باب الصلوة و حدود ها الخ

On f. 200 : الحمد لله ... باب سجدة الشكر و القول فيها الخ

The colophon of the first vol. gives the date of copying as 1098/1687. This seems probable, judging from the appearance of the MS.

2 vols. Ff. 343 and 280; S 10,25×6,75; 7,5×4; ll 24, no jadwals. Greyish Or. pap. Persian nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. Marginal notes. Several seals on the initial folios.

382.

The same. I 867.

A portion of the same work, called in the colophon جزء دوم, and on the fly-leaf جلد دوم. It is, however, different from the second vol. as given in the preceding copy, and deals with the questions of the ḥajj and other prescriptions of Muhammadanism, usually treated at the end of books on fiqh. It ends with different observances practised whilst on pilgrimage to the shrines of Imāms. Beg.

الحمد لله ... باب علل الحج، قال الشيخ مصنف هذا الكتاب ... و در بعضى نسخ علل الحج است الخ

Dated Jum. II 1092/June-July 1681, copied by 'Abdu'l-Karīm b. Muḥammad Ṣādiq al-Abharī.

Ff. 364; S 12,5 × 7,5; 8,25 × 4; ll 27, within jadwals. Or. pap. Pers. nast. Cond. not quite good. Worm-eaten and injured by moisture. Ff. 204–211 are decayed and crumbling. Bad vignette. Seals on the fly-leaf.

383. تحفة الحسينية

Tuḥfatu'l-Ḥusayniyya. III 53c.

An exposition of the principal prescriptions of Shi'ite doctrine, chiefly dealing with purifications and prayer. It is an extract from a larger work by Muḥammad Bāqir b. Muḥammad Akmal Iṣfahānī Bahbahānī, who died in 1205/1790–1791 (cf. R 34). The introduction is apparently due to the excerptor, and the extract was probably made still within the lifetime of the author, because prolongation of life is invoked for him (f. 2, l. 11). Beg.

الحمد لله ... مخفي نماناد كه چون نماز بعد از معرفت الله تعالى الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 39; S 9,25 × 6; 7,75 × 4; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Injured by moisture. Marginal emendations.

384. (مسائل فقهيه)

(Masā'il-i-fiqhiyya). I 477.

A detailed exposition of the principles of Shi'ite fiqh. Neither the name of the author, nor the title of the work, nor the date of composition are given. There are even no references to authorities in the text. On the fly-leaf the book is called Zubda, or Zubda-i-fiqh, and ascribed to Aḥmad (b. Muḥammad) Ardabīlī, who d. 993/1585 (see Br. Lit. Hist., IV, 369, and the Kashfu'l-ḥujub, p. 303). This, however, seems doubtful, because the beginning of that book is different (some allowance must, however, be made for the fact that the initial leaf in this copy is of more recent origin than the bulk of the MS., and may have been "improvised"). The work is divided into 7 bābs, but the headings of the sections are omitted in the text. Beg.

الحمد لله العلى الذي الخ ... و بعد، پوشيده نماند كه الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c. Ff. 202–228 have been added on different paper, by a different hand.

Ff. 228; S 9,5×7; 6,75×4,75; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. bad; injured by moisture, the paper of many folios is decaying. A few marginal notes.

385. (مسائل فقهيه)

(Masā'il-i-fiqhiyya). I 928.

A large compilation on the principles of Shi'ite fiqh, chiefly in catechetic form. It begins abruptly with a muqaddima, and many sections have blank space reserved at the end, probably for intended additions. It seems as if the copy was transcribed from a defective original. The author calls himself (f. 100v) Muḥammad Bāqir b. Muḥammad Taqī al-Mūsawī (ar-Rashtī), who died in 1260/1844, see Br. Lit. Hist., IV, 410 and Kashfu'l-ḥujub, p. 103; cf. here No. 395. There are no proper colophons, and no indications as to how much the present copy contains of the original work. Beg. مقدمة فى الاصول، سؤال، هر كاه شخصى تقليد الخ

On f. 100v there begins apparently another principal section:

كتاب الوقوف و الصدقات، الحمد لله الواقف على سرايرعباده الخ

Copied about the middle of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 254; S 11,5×7,75; 8,5×5; ll 32, no jadwals. Europ. pap. Pers. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten.

3. Exposition of the principles of Shi'ite theology, its moral system, and religious practice.

386. ترجمهٔ رسالهٔ اعتقاديه

Tarjuma-i-risāla-i-I'tiqādiyya. I 181.

A Persian paraphrase, with explanations, of the treatise I'tiqādātu'l-imāmiyya, of Abū Ja'far Muḥammad b. 'Alī b. Bābūya al-Qumī (d. ca. 381/991), cf. Brock. I, 187, dealing with an exposition of the principles of the Shi'ite theological system. The translator dedicates his work to a princess, whose name he does not mention (شاهزاده مهين بانو سلطانم), and gives his own name as Abū'l-Fatḥ Ḥusaynī (f. 2, l. 12). There are no indications as to the period in which the work was undertaken, and it is impossible to say if the translator is identical with Abū'l-Fatḥ Ḥusaynī, who revised and edited the Ṣifwatu'ṣ-ṣafā under Shāh Ṭahmāsp Ṣafawī (930–984/1524–1576), see R 345. Beg.

Ff. 41; S 8,5 × 4,75; 6 × 2,75; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Emendations on the margins. On ff. 40–40v the space is left blank, probably because of a lacuna in the original copy.

387. حیوة القلوب

Ḥayātu'l-qulūb. I 344.

The second vol. of this well-known composition of Muḥammad Bāqir b. Muḥammad Taqī Majlisī Iṣfahānī (d. 1110–1111/1698–1700), see IvASB 1123. Originally it is an epitome, in three vols., of the Biḥāru'l-anwār (in 25 vols.), an Arabic encyclopædia of Shi'ite doctrine, by the same author. It has been lith. in Persia and India (Tehran, 1824–1844; Lucknow, 1878–1879, etc.). Portions from it have been translated into English, by J. L. Merrick, Boston, 1850 (on the biography of Muḥammad), and into German, by C. G. Barth, Die Mythen des Lebens Jesu, Stuttgart, 1837. This copy is incomplete at the end, and breaks off at the beg. of the 25th bāb. Beg.

388. عین الحیوة

'Aynu'l-ḥayāt. II 537

The well-known exposition of Shi'ite doctrine, by the same Muḥammad Bāqir b. Muḥammad Taqī Majlisī, see EIO 2668, Br 26 (where the full table of contents is given); cf. Pr 75. Ind. libr. Bh 123. Lith. several times in Persia, and in Lucknow, 1887. Beg. as usual:

حلية المتقين

Ḥilyatu'l-muttaqīn. I 342.

The well-known work on the customs and practices prescribed to every faithful Shi'ite desiring to follow the example of the Imāms. The author is Muḥammad Bāqir b. Muḥammad Taqī Majlisī, see above, No. 387. Concerning the work see EIO 2669, RS 153, Pr 313–314, R 20; it was several times lith. in Persia. The work was completed at the end of 1079/1669, and is divided into fourteen bābs and a khātima. A fihrist is added at the beg. of the volume. Beg. as usual:

الحمد لله الذي حلى انبيائه المرسلين الخ

Copied towards the beg. of the xiii/xix c. (here 1199 of the Faṣlī era), by one Naẓīru'd-Dīn.

Ff. 308; S 9×5,75; 7×3,5; ll 18, no jadwals. Or. pap., except for ff. 1–7v, which are of quite modern origin, on Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten. Incidental marginal notes. Seals, notes, and magical formulas at the end.

حق اليقين

Ḥaqqu'l-yaqīn. I 337.

The well-known exposition of Shi'ite dogmatic theology, by the same Muḥammad Bāqir b. Muḥammad Taqī Majlisī, completed by him on the 1st Ramaḍān 1109/the 13th March 1698 (f. 527v). See R 33, etc. Ind. libr. Bh 122. Lith. Tehran, 1825. It is divided into six bābs. Beg. as usual:

الحمد لله الواحد الاحد الفرد الصمد الخ

Copied towards the middle of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 527; S 12,75×8; 10×4,5; ll 19, within double jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A few marginal notes and emendations. Note on the fly-leaf in the beginning.

391.

(مجموعهٔ رسائل مجلسی)

(Majmū'a-i-rasā'il-i-Majlisī). I 422.

A collection of several short treatises by Muḥammad Bāqir b. Muḥammad Taqī Majlisī (see above Nos. 387–390), to which is added a list of his works, apparently by some one else.

1. (f. 1). Fihrist-i-taṣnīfāt-i-ākhūnd mullā Muḥammad Bāqir. The list does probably not belong to the author's own pen, and is different from Pr 59 (in form, not in substance), containing the titles of 10 Arabic and 49 Persian compositions of Majlisī. It ends with calculations as to how many lines and letters were produced by him, on an average, every year, month or day. Beg.

تفصيل مؤلفات علامه العلمائي عالم رباني ملا محمد باقر مجلسى النخ

2. (f. 5v). Risālatu'l-awzān. A treatise on weights, in Arabic. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي ارتفع عن مطارح الافهام النخ

There are miscellaneous notes in Persian on ff. 18v–21v.

3. (f. 22v) Mishkātu'l-anwār (f. 24v, l. 13). A treatise on the excellence of the Coran (در بيان فضيلت قرآن), dedicated to Shāh Sulaymān Ṣafawī (f. 24v, l. 3), and divided into three tanwīrs, each of them being subdivided into several kawkabs. The present copy is merely a fragment, breaking off at the end of the first tanwīr. Beg.

حمدى بسان نعمتهاى بخشنده وجود و حيات النخ

4. (f. 28v). Tarjuma-i-ba'ḍī aḥādīth. A paraphrase and a commentary on several ḥadīths, in Shi'ite strain. Beg.

اما بعد، اين رساله ايست در ترجمه بعضى احاديث شريفه كه النخ

Collated, most probably shortly after the completion of copying, the 8th Dhī'l-Qa'da 1180/the 7th Apr. 1767, at Faydābād.

Ff. 46; S 9×5,75; 6×3,5; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. A few emendations on the margins. Seals, dated 1204 AH.

392. سبيل النجاة

Sabīlu'n-najāt. III 82.

A brief and simple exposition of the system of Shi'ism, chiefly dealing with the technical details of prayer and other religious practices. The author, Aḥmad b. Muḥammad 'Alī b. Muḥammad Bāqir al-Iṣfahānī al-Bahbahānī (f. 2), completed it in 1226/1811, at 'Aẓīmābād (f. 313v), and dedicated it to Muḥammad 'Alī Khān Qājār (f. 4v). See IvASB 1128. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي جعل ابواب الصلوة مفاتيح خزاين النخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 314; S 8,75×6; 6×3; ll 9, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A few notes on the margins. Fol. 1 is of modern origin.

393. مذمة الاجتهاد

Madhammatu'l-ijtihād. II 428.

An incomplete copy of a very interesting treatise, dealing with the question of ijtihād in the system of Shi'ism. The author intentionally (f. 3) omits his name, obviously in order to avoid personal enmity on the part of those concerned in the matter. He says that he has composed this treatise in 1233/1817–1818. The title, as given above, gives only 1230 (cf. f. 3v), but he expanded it in such a way as to make it a real chronogram, into مذمة الاجتهاد مع جذّ رأس جماعة اهل العناد. He seems to be a Shi'ite himself, but criticises this vital principle of the system with a view to restoring the true doctrine. The works which are chiefly attacked are those by two eminent Shi'ite theologians (f. 2), Muḥammad Amīn Astrābādī (d. 1033/1623–1624) and Muḥammad b. Ḥasan al-Ḥurr al-'Āmilī (d. 1099/1688). According to the preface, the book is divided into a muqaddima, three bābs, and a khātima. But here are found only the muqaddima (f. 3v), and the first bāb (f. 20). The former deals with the general position of different Shi'ite sects with regard to ijtihād; and the first bāb, subdivided into many faṣls, etc., deals chiefly with the criticism of the Shi'ite tradition. There is no detailed table of contents given in the preface, so that it is impossible to determine how much has actually been lost. Beg.

نخبر بكونك محمودًا فى كل فعالك الخ ... اما بعد، بندهٔ فقير اثيم راجي رحمت خداوند الخ

In order to facilitate the identification if a complete copy should be found, the beginnings of the muqaddima and of the first bāb are here given:

(f. 3v) مقدمه مشتمل بر چند فايده، فايده اولى، بدانكه علماء الخ

(f. 20) باب اول در ذكر حجت (here حجيت) كتاب مستطاب، و در آن چند فصل است الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.; the volume consists of two halves; one, of older origin, may, judging from the type of writing and the emendations, be an autograph. The second has been transcribed quite recently (beg. f. 56).

Ff. 80; S 12,75×8; 8,5×5; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. and Europ. pap. New margins in the older portion. Ind. nast. Cond. not good in the first half, but good in the second.

394. (رساله در اصول)

(Risāla dar uṣūl). I 671.

A treatise on the elementary principles of Shi'ite theology. On f. 3v, bottom, it is called 'Umda, but this title is written in a way which suggests that is was added afterwards. The author does not mention his own name and refers only to very early authorities. The treatise is incomplete at the end. Beg.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

حمدی بیحد موجدیرا که همکی موجودات الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 42; S 8,25 × 5; 6,25 × 3; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. Seals at the beg. and end, some of them dated 1145 AH.

395. تحفة الابرار

Tuḥfatu'l-abrār. I 146.

A Shi'ite treatise on the details of the prayer, by Muḥammad Bāqir b. Muḥammad Taqī al-Mūsawī. The author died in 1260/1844, cf. above No. 385. The full title of the work is Tuḥfatu'l-abrār al-multaqaṭ min āthāri'l-a'immati'l-aṭhār (f. 2, top); it is divided into a muqaddima, several bābs, and a khātima, as stated in the preface, but in the text there is probably no regular division into bābs. The copy is incomplete at the end, and it is impossible to say how much is lost. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي توحد بالملک فلا ند له في ملکوت سلطانه الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 114; S 12,25 × 7,5; 9 × 4,5; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly bad; worm-eaten and repaired. Emendations on the margins. A seal, dated 1204 AH., on f. 1v, and another on f. 1.

396. منهج الفاضلين

Manhaju'l-fāḍilīn. I 1013.

A defence of Shi'ism and the correctness of its doctrines. The author, Fāḍilu'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Isḥāq b. Muḥammad al-Ḥamawī, wrote this book in 937/1530–1531 (as may be seen from a chronogram appended on f. 213, منهج مذهب امامی, and from the statement in the Kashfu'l-ḥujub, p. 568), and dedicated it to Shāh Ṭahmāsp, the Safawide (930–984/1524–1576). The book is divided into a muqaddima, five bābs, and a khātima:

مقدمه، در بیان معتقد امامیه اثنا عشریه الخ (f. 6v)

باب اول، در بیان آنکه مذهب امامیه واجب الاتباع است الخ (f. 7v)

باب دوم، در ادلهٔ که دالست بر امامت حضرت امیر المؤمنین علی بعد از حضرت سید المرسلین، (f. 57v)

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

(f. 130v) باب سیوم ' در ادلهٔ امامت باقي ائمه اثنا عشر الخ

(f. 141) باب چهارم ' در کیفیت بیعت کردن مردم بر ابو بکر بامامت الخ

(f. 163) باب پنجم ' در ذکر ادلهٔ که مخالفان ایراد کرده اند بزعم خود بر امامت ابو بکر و رد آن الخ

All these bābs are subdivided into many faṣls, mabḥaths, manhajs, etc. Beg.

الحمد لله ذي اللطف و الاحسان و الفضل و الامتنان الخ

The last folio is badly damaged, almost half of it having been torn away. From what remains it may be concluded that the MS. is dated the 22nd Ṣafar 1070/ the 8th Oct. 1659, and that it was transcribed in Kashmīr.

Ff. 213; S 10,5 × 7; 7 × 3,75; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten. A few marginal emendations. A note on f. 1.

397. رسالهٔ حسنیه

Risāla-i-Ḥasaniyya. I 871.

A defence of the principles of Shi'ism, in the form of a tale about a woman, called Ḥasaniyya, or Ḥusaniyya, or Ḥusayna, who took part in disputes with various Sunnite divines in the presence of Hārūnu'r-Rashīd, and overcame them by her arguments. The author of this tale calls himself Ibrāhīm b. Waliyyi'l-lah Astrābādī (f. 1v), and states that he found the Arabic text of it in 958/1551, while returning from his pilgrimage, at Damascus, and translated it into Persian. He dedicated it to Shāh Ṭahmāsp, the Safawide. See R 30. It was lith. in Tehran, 1843 (the original text is ascribed in this edition to the authorship of Ḥusayn b. 'Alī Rāzī). Beg. as in the British Museum copy:

الحمد لله الذی من علینا بمعرفة الانبیاء والائمه الخ

The original and greater portion of the MS. dates from the xi/xvii c.; ff. 17–19, 59–67 are dated 1265/1848–1849.

Ff. 67; S 8,75 × 4,75; 6 × 2,75; ll 17, within jadwals Or. and Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Mediocre vignette. A few glosses on the margins.

398. (فقه مذاهب خمسه)

(Fiqh-i-madhāhib-i-khamsa). III 85.

A large treatise, dealing with a systematic exposition of Shi'ite fiqh, as compared with the theories of the four Sunnite orthodox schools. It is arranged in the customary order, beginning with the book on purifications. Not only is there no mention of the name of the author, or the date of composition, but apparently in all these almost four hundred pages there is no reference to any definite Shi'ite or Sunnite book. The language is simple, and Arabic quotations are remarkably rare. Most remarkable is the feature that there seems to be little real controversial spirit. The copy itself dates from 978/1570–1571 (cf. f. 35), and therefore the work may belong to the early Safawide period. Beg.

در فقه مذاهب خمسه، شیعه و حنفیه و شافعیه و حنبلیه و مالکیه، و آن
مشتمل بر چند کتاب است، اول کتاب طهارت و آن چند فصل است الخ

Copied, as mentioned above, in 978/1570–1571, or the next year (this date belongs to the first treatise included in the same majmū'a, f. 35).

*Ff. 113v–302; S 9,75 × 6; 6,75 × 3,75; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. Very good calligraphical nast. of Herati type. Cond. very good. A few corrections on the margins.

399. (مجموعه)

(Majmū'a). Ia 159.

Three short treatises, dealing with religious matters, by different authors:

1. (f. 1v). Ma'rifatu'l-madhāhib, by Maḥmūd Ṭāhir Ghazālī. A short note, divided into two bābs, the first dealing with the elementary principles of the Sunnite doctrine, and the second giving a list of the 73 sects. See EIO 1920 (11). Beg.

الحمد لله المحمود الظاهر المعبود الباطن و الظاهر الخ

2. (f. 5v). Ma'rifatu'd-dunyā, by 'Alī b. Ḥusāmi'd-Dīn Muttaqī (d. 975/1567), on the different kinds of worldly goods, see R 873. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي جعل الدنيا قنطرة الآخرة الخ

3. (f. 8v). Maktūb-i-Sayyid Aḥmad. A letter, of Sufico-religious contents, from Sayyid Aḥmad to one Miyān Shaykh Mukarram.

Copied by Ghulām Farīd, son of Barkhūrdār Chishtī, the last treatise being dated the 1st Rajab 1113/the 2nd Dec. 1701.

Ff. 10; S 7 × 4; 6 × 3,25; ll 21, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten. Marginal notes.

400. رد المنكرين

Raddu'l-munkirīn. III 31.

A short treatise, refuting heretical conceptions of Deity, and establishing the sound doctrine, by one Ilahdād (f. 1v, bottom), who is here called Shaykhu'l-islām. In the text he omits any reference to his authorities, and only once in a poetical quotation the name of Qāsimī is given (f. 9). It may belong either to

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Qāsim-i-anwār (d. ca. 837/1434), or Qāsimī Gunābādī (d. 979/1572), or, indeed, any other less-known poet who used this takhallus. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي اخرجني من الظلمات الي النور الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 22; S 6 × 3,75; 4,5 × 2,25; ll 13, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten and repaired. Bad vignette.

401. تحفهٔ اثنا عشریه

Tuḥfa-i-ithnā ʻashariyya. II 152.

A large controversial work, dealing with a refutation of Shiʻism. The author, Ghulām Ḥakīm b. Quṭbi'd-Dīn Aḥmad b. Abī'l-Fayḍ Dihlawī, mentions in his preface that Shiʻism was spreading with great rapidity in his country, and thus the true beliefs became endangered. He was writing just after the close of the XIIc. AH., and it is for this reason that he has given this title to his compilation (ff. 2, 352v). It is divided into 12 bābs:

۱ (f. 3) در کیفیت حدوث مذهب تشیع و انشعاب آن بفرق مختلفه،
۲ (f. 34v) در مکاید شیعه و طرق اضلال و حیله هاى تلبیس،
۳ (f. 111v) در ذکر اسلاف شیعه و علما و کتب ایشان،
۴ (f. 126v) در احوال اخبار شیعه و ذکر رواة اینها،
۵ (f. 149) در البیات،
۶ (f. 163) در نبوات (sic) (در بحث نبوة و ایمان بانبیا)
۷ (f. 175v) در امامت،
۸ (f. 226v) در معاد،
۹ (f. 234v) در مسائل فقهیه،
۱۰ (f. 246v) در مطاعن خلفاى ثلثه و ام المؤمنین و دیکر صحابه،
۱۱ (f. 307) در خواص مذهب شیعه،
۱۲ (f. 337v) در تولا و تبرا،
(f. 352v) خاتمه،

The book contains a refutation of Shiʻism, chiefly of the sect of the 12-Imamites, but occasionally touches on the teachings of other sects, and is based almost entirely on the well-known controversial works. Beg.

الحمد لله و کفي و سلام على عباده الذين اصطفى ... اما بعد، میکوید بنده درکاه قادر قوى حافظ الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The fly-leaves at the beginning contain some scrappy notes and poetical quotations, a fihrist, and a short risāla with the title Su'ālāt-i-'ashar, by Shāh 'Abdu'l-'Azīz Dihlawī, also of controversial contents. It was copied the 12th Rab. I 1233/the 19th Febr. 1818, by 'Alī Ḥasan al-'Alawī, at Lucknow. Beg.

402. كشف الشبهه عن حكم المتعه

Kashfu'sh-shubha 'an ḥikami'l-mut'a. III 53*b*.

A short treatise, defending the institution of temporary marriage, allowed by Shi'ite law. It is a sort of reply to, or criticism on, the Tuḥfa-i-ithnā 'ashariyya, see No. 401, here. The author calls himself Jānī b. Muḥammad 'Alī b. Muḥammad Bāqir Iṣfahānī Bahbahānī. The author's father died in 1216 1801–1802 (see R 34); therefore he must have been writing in the beg. of the XIII/XIXc. Beg.

VIII. SUFISM.

403. كشف المحجوب

Kashfu'l-maḥjūb. II 175.

The well-known treatise on Sufism, by (Abū'l-Ḥasan) 'Alī b. 'Uthmān b. 'Alī al-Jullābī al-Ghaznawī al-Hujwīrī (d. ca. 465/1072–1073). For references, etc., see IvASB 1149. The copy is apparently complete. Beg. as usual :

ربنا آتنا من لدنک رحمةً الخ ... الحمد لله الذي كشف لاولياءه الخ

Copied in the end of the xii/xviii c. Fol. 1 is of recent origin.

Ff. 265 ; S 9 × 4,75 ; 6,5 × 3 ; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten and repaired. Notes on an additional folio at the end and on the margins. Seals at the beginning and end of the volume.

404. ترجمهٔ منهاج العابدين

Tarjuma-i-Minhāju'l-'ābidīn. II 198.

1. A Persian paraphrase of the Minhāju'l-'ābidīn, a Sufico-ethical treatise by the famous Zaynu'd-Dīn Abū Ḥāmid Muḥammad b. Muḥammad al-Gazālī aṭ-Ṭūsī, d. 505/1111, composed by him in Arabic, see IvASB 1165. It is divided into seven 'uqbas : I on f. 5 ; II on f. 9 ; III on f. 13 ; IV on f. 46v ; V on f. 61v ; VI–? (the heading is not clearly marked) ; VII on f. 79 The name of the translator is not given in this copy. Beg. as usual :

حمد مر خدائرا كه ملک حکیم است و جواد کریم است الخ

2. On ff. 84v–93v there is a short treatise, called in the colophon Risāla-i-Imām Muḥammad al-Ghazālī. It is a Persian paraphrase of Ghazālī's Arabic treatise Ayyuhā'l-walad, the same as described in EIO 1792 and Pr 42, No. 30, cf. also Rödiger, in ZDMG, vol XVI, p. 221. It consists of a number of instructive anecdotes in which Ghazālī explains various metaphysical matters. There are many references to his other works. Beg. of the treatise :

الحمد الله (sic) ... اما بعد ، بدانکه یکی از جمله شاگردان خواجه امام علامت الزمان حجت الاسلام ... الغزالی الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 93 ; S 9,5 × 6 ; 7,5 × 3,5 ; ll 17–23, no jadwals. Or. pap. (different). Ind. nast. and shikasta, different hands. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. Many notes and emendations on the margins. A fragment of a work on f. 1 : a note of magical contents on the last folio. A seal, dated 1264 AH., on f. 2

405. كيميای سعادت

Kīmiyā-i-sa'ādat. I 843.

The famous Sufico-religious and ethical treatise by the same Abū Ḥāmid Muḥammad Ghazālī, see IvASB 1160. The present copy is incomplete in the middle, and the end of the first, as also the whole of the second Rukn and a portion of the third (out of the four Rukns into which the work is divided) are lost. Some folios towards the end are damaged. Beg. as usual:

شکر و سپاس فراوان بعدد ستارهٔ آسمان و قطرهٔ باران الخ

A good old copy, with archaic orthography (ڈ for د after long vowels, etc.), transcribed by Aḥmad b. Ibrāhīm b. Aḥmad Shādhānān an-Nā'inī, in 737/1336-1337 (see f. 1, where the title of the book is given, and in the colophon of the third Rukn, on f. 135v).

Ff. 214; S 11×7,25; 9×5,5; ll 27, no jadwals. Good old Or. pap. Old Persian nast. Cond. fairly good. Worm-eaten and injured by moisture, especially in the second half. A few emendations on the margins. Seals, notes and stray quotations on fly-leaves, all of modern origin.

406. سوانح

Sawāniḥ. III 59.

A short treatise, dealing with عشق, or love, mystic and Divine. It consists of the usual verbiage met with in all the writings dealing with the same topic, and numerous poetical quotations; it is divided into many unnumbered faṣls. No references to the authorities or to known eminent Sufis. The title as above is given in the concluding lines:

کتاب سوانح بآخر رسید، که خواننده را عشق کردد مزید،

but it is not clear whether this bayt belongs to the original text, or was added by one of the scribes. In the opening lines the work is ascribed to the authorship of Aḥmad b. Muḥammad Ghazālī, d. 517/1123, the brother of the famous philosopher, and himself an eminent Sufic shaykh. He wrote indeed a treatise in Arabic, called Sawāniḥu'l-'ushshāq, of which this one may be a paraphrase. Beg.

قال الشیخ الامام الاجل ..... احمد بن محمد الغزالی ... چند فصل ثبت افتاد چنانکه تعلق بهیچ جانب ندارد و در حقایق عشق و احوال و اغراض عشق الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

There is, however, no mention in the text to the effect that the present work is a translation. Cf. Bl 111, where another paraphrase of the same treatise, called Lawā'iḥ, is described.

Copied probably in the beg. of the xii/xiii c.

*Ff. 40v–73v ; S 6×3,75 ; 4,5×2,25 ; ll 13, within jadwals. Or. pap. Good Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Bad vignette.

407.

The same. Ia 201.

Another copy of the same work. There are minor discrepancies in wording, and in the order of the poetical quotations. The lines giving the title at the end of the preceding transcript, are not found here, but there is a heading in red ink :

كتاب السوانح فى العشق و العاشق و المعشوق من مقالة شيخ المشايخ قطب الاولياء سر الله فى الارض احمد غزالى رحمة الله عليه الخ

The book itself begins as in the preceding copy :

قال رضى الله عنه ، جند فصل اثبات افتاد الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 30 ; S 10×6,5 ; 6,5×3,75 ; ll 13, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten.

408.

تمهيدات عين القضاة

Tamhīdāt-i-'Aynu'l-quḍāt. I 231.

A slightly incomplete copy of the same Sufic treatise, already described in IvASB 1166, also called Zubdatu'l-ḥaqā'iq fī kashfi'-d-daqā'iq, by 'Aynu'l-quḍāt of Hamadān, with his full name Abū'l-Ma'ālī 'Abdu'l-lah b. Muḥammad al-Miyānajī (d. 533/1138–1139). The ten chapters, each called tamhīd-i-aṣl, into which it is divided, begin : I on f. 1 ; II on f. 6v ; III on f. 13 ; IV on f. 19 ; V on f. 21v ; VI on f. 30v ; VII on f. 44v ; VIII on f. 52v ; IX on f. 63 ; X on f. 78v. In the beginning some folios are lost, and the opening line of this copy corresponds to f. 2v, l. 6 in Oa 20 (IvASB 1166), or f. 1, l. 10 in E 49 (IvASB 1167). It gives the same version of the work as the other two copies in the Society's library, and there are only minor discrepancies in wording.

Dated the 24th Ramaḍān 1180/the 23rd Febr. 1767, copied by Shāh Raḥīm.

409. ترجمهٔ غنية الطالبين

Tarjuma-i-ghunyatu't-ṭālibīn. II 196.

The Arabic original text and a Persian literal translation, sentence by sentence, of a portion of the well-known Sufic work of 'Abdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī (d. 561/1166). The original title of the work is Al-ghunyat li-ṭālibī ṭarīqi'l-Ḥaqq, see Brock. I, 435. The present translation contains only the second half of the treatise, namely: a portion of the bāb on Sufism in general (فی التصوف, cf. Ahlwardt, 2836) which begins on f. 1v; on mystical training (فیما یجب علی المبتدی فی هذه الطریقة الخ), beg. on f. 23; on intercourse with different classes of people (فی صحبة الاخوان و الصحبة مع الاجانب و کیفیة الصحبة مع الاغنیاء و الفقراء), beg on f. 51; on Sufic virtues (f. 103v) (without a heading), here:

باب یشتمل علی بیان المجاهدة و التوکل و حسن الخلق الخ

The name of the translator and the date of completion are not mentioned. Beg. abruptly:

کتاب آداب المریدین و الفقراء الصادقین سالکی الصوفیة ' در بیان آداب مریدان و فقراء که اهل صدق اند الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xii/xviii c. (here only Monday, the 19th Jum. I, without the date of the year), by Muḥammad Ṣāliḥ.

411. (مجموعه در تصوف)

(Majmū'a dar taṣawwuf). II 49.

A collection of Sufic works, in Arabic and Persian, chiefly by the same 'Abdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī (see No. 409), and by some other authors, connected with him. Cf. Brockelmann, I, 435–436.

1. (ff. 1v–370v). Malfūẓu'sh-shaykhi'r-rabbānī, as it is styled in the colophon (f. 370v); or, as in other copies, Al-fatḥu'r-rabbānī, see Ahlwardt, 3402. It is a collection of the Shaykh's instructive discourses, in Arabic, which were delivered by him in Baghdād in 545 and 546/1151–1152. According to the colophon in this copy, they have been collected and edited by a disciple of 'Abdu'l-Qādir, 'Afīfu'd-Dīn b. al-Mubārak. In the Berlin copy there are 62 majlises. In the present one, however, there are only 59 which are numbered. What may be the last two of them beg. on f. 302, without a number. The real first majlis is not marked with a special heading, and the first majlis as given here is in fact the second in the Berlin MS. Beg.

نسب سيد اولياء الله عز و جل الشيخ ابى محمد الخ

Beg. of the first majlis (f. 2, top):

الاعتراض على الحق عز و جل الخ

Numerous notes and rubrics, in Arabic and Persian, on the margins, by the same hand as that of the bulk of the MS.

2. (ff. 371v–372v). Al-munājāt min Amīri'l-mu'minīn 'Alī. A religious poem, in Arabic, attributed to the fourth khalif, 'Alī, the same as described in Ahlwardt, 3900. Beg.

لک الحمد يا ذا الجود و المجد و العلى ، الخ

3. (ff. 372v–373). (Shajara-i-Qādiriyya). The spiritual pedigree of some local branch of the Qādirī order. After 'Abdu'l-Qādir's son, 'Abdu'r-Razzāq (d. 623/1226), seven generations are mentioned: Maḥmūd (the son of the preceding one); Aḥmad (the son of the preceding); Shāh Abū'l-Wafā': Muḥammad Burqa'-pūsh; Kabīr Muḥammad (or Badr); Ḥāfiẓ 'Aynu'l-mulk; Muḥammad Sharafu'l-Ḥaqq.

4. (ff. 373v–392). Qaṣā'id. Four qaṣīdas, in Arabic, ascribed to the authorship of 'Abdu'l-Qādir. The first one is a long poem called al-'Ayniyya, i.e., rhyming in ع. Beg. of the introduction:

هذه القصيدة الوحيدة الدرر الفريدة الخ

Beg. of the 'Ayniyya (f. 374):

5. (ff. 392–392v). Al-asmā' li's-sulṭān . . . 'Abdu'l-Qādir al-Jīlānī. Honorific titles of 'Abdu'l-Qādir.

6. (ff. 393v–415v). Lughāt-i-Malfūẓu'sh-sharīf. A vocabulary explaining in Persian rare Arabic words in the discourses of 'Abdu'l-Qādir (see above, 1). The name of the compiler is not given. Beg.

خط انداخت ' بحشی پر کرده شود ' الخ

7. (ff. 416–416v). A prayer, in Arabic, invoking the blessings of the Qādirī pīrs (the same as those mentioned in this note above, 3) to secure safety on journeys. A poem, in Arabic, and partly in Persian, in praise of 'Abdu'l-Qādir.

8. (ff. 417v–428). Maktūbāt-i-'Abdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī. A Persian version of 'Abdu'l-Qādir's letters on religious matters. Beg.

مکتوبات بندکي حضرت ... عبد القادر جيلاني ... مشتمل بر دويست

هفتاد پنج آيت قرآني ' مکتوب اول ' اى عزيز جون بروق شهود الخ

9. (ff. 428v–446). Tasbīḥu's-ṣalāt wa'l-istikhāra. Magical prayers, current amongst the Qādirīs, helping to evoke Khiḍr, or abdāls, etc. Beg.

بدان اسعدک الله ... سند استخاره از خرقه قادريه الخ

10. (ff. 446v–455v). Aṣ-ṣalawātu'l-ma'mūlāt. Rules for ordinary prayer as taught by 'Abdu'l-Qādir, with explanations in Persian. The compiler's name is not mentioned. Beg.

اللهم صل على محمد ... صلاة التسبيح ' منقولست در بعضى نسخ الخ

11. (ff. 456–458). Several medical prescriptions, in Persian; a prayer, in Arabic.

A good calligraphical copy, dating apparently from the xi/xvii c.

رساله در وصول الى الله

Risāla dar wuṣūl ilā'l-lah. Ia 112.

A fragment of a theosophical treatise, ascribed in the heading to the authorship of Najmu'd-Dīn Kubrā, or Aḥmad b. 'Umar al-Khīwāqī, Abū'l-Janāb (d. 618/1221), in Arabic, with a Persian paraphrase. The original work seems to be not identical with Ahlwardt 3272 or 3456 (cf. Brockelmann, I, 440). The name of Kubrā is mentioned only in the heading, not in the text · the name of the translator does not appear at all. Beg.

The last folio (6) is not connected with this treatise, but belongs to the Arabic original of the Ar-risālatu'l-Ghauthiyya, by ʿAbdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī (cf. above, No. 410), and gives only the two concluding pages of it.

Copied by the same hand and on the same paper as the fragment of the Ghauthiyya, the colophon of which is dated 983/1575–1576; transcribed by Darwīsh Muḥammad al-ʿAbd as-Sulṭān ʿAlī b. Sulṭān Aḥmad b. Sulṭān Gulshanī.

Discourses of the famous Chishtī saint, Quṭbu'd-Dīn Bakhtyār Ūshī (d. 633–635/1235–1238), by his disciple and successor, Farīdu'd-Dīn (Masʿūd) Ajūd'hanī (here اچود هنى), whose surname was Ganj-i-Shakar (d. ca. 664/1265–1266), cf. above, No. 72. Unfortunately the dates of the separate discourses are omitted in this copy. It is difficult to pronounce definitely as to the genuineness of this work; in any case it must be fairly early. Beg.

415. مبدأ و معاد

Mabda' wa ma'ād. I 450.

A short theosophical treatise on the macrocosm and microcosm, by the same 'Azīz b. Muḥammad an-Nasafī (see the preceding note). It is apparently different from the work of this author, bearing the same title, described in Fl III 433. It is probably an imitation of Avicenna's book on the same subject (cf. R 439), and is similarly divided into two bābs, subdivided into numerous faṣls and aṣls: I (f. 2) در بیان معرفت عالم کبیر, and II (f. 22) در بیان عالم صغیر. There are no references to the authorities, or generally to specific persons; no poetical quotations. Beginning just like the preceding treatise:

الحمد لله ... اما بعد، چنین گوید اضعف الضعفاء و خادم الفقراء عزیز بن محمد النسفی ... که جماعت درویشان الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 38; S 10×6,5; 7×4; ll 15, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. A few emendations on the margins.

417. فیه ما فیه

Fīhi mā fīhi. II 169.

A rare collection of notes giving a summary of the instructive utterances and discourses of the famous Persian Sufic poet, Jalālu'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Muḥammad Balkhī, or, as he usually is called, Jalālu'd-Dīn Rūmī (cf. above, No. 207 and IvASB 490 where references to the literature about him are given), who died at Iconium (Quniya) in 672/1273. The name of the compiler is not given explicitly. It is however clear that he was one of Rūmī's personal associates. In the introduction which is here prefixed to the text (ff. 1-3), the authorship is ascribed (f. 1v) to Rūmī's own son, Sulṭān Walad, Bahā'u'd-Dīn Aḥmad, who was also a poet and the author of several mathnawī poems, and died in 712/1312-1313 (cf. IvASB 547). The allusions in the text (where Sulṭān Walad is often referred to) do not supply a decisive corroboration for this; on the contrary, they may often be taken in support of the conclusion that the compiler was a different person.

The treatise is little known, and besides the present incomplete copy there probably exist only two other MSS. in public collections, at Constantinople (one of them is Fātiḥ, 5296). The work is referred to in Br. Lit. Hist., II, 519. It has been lithographed, in two parts, at Tehran, 1334/1915-1916.

With regard to its contents the treatise, as is usual with works of this class, deals with a great variety of anecdotes, Coranic verses, ḥadīths, utterances of the early Sufis, etc., explaining them for the purpose of illustrating various moral maxims. In tone and depth of thought it is far inferior to the Mathnawī; like the latter, it contains almost no references to the history of Sufism, or its dogmatic theories

The persons, who are referred to, are few: the Saljuqide governor of Iconium, Amīr Mu'īnu'd-Dīn Parwāna; some of his sons; Bahā'u'd-Dīn Sulṭān Walad; Salāḥu'd-Dīn (f. 71, etc.), a disciple of Rūmī; Shamsu'd-Dīn Tabrīzī (referred to as already dead); Rūmī's father, some early Sufis, and a few others. Very interesting, although scarce, are allusions to the Mongols (cf. ff. 51, 61, etc.), and generally to the local life of Asia Minor of the middle and the end of the VII/XIIIc.

As compared with the lithographed edition, the present copy appears to contain only a very small portion of the whole work (only about 150 pages out of 524). The lith. edition is divided into two mujallads (pp. 330 and 194). The first is divided into 66 faṣls; in the second they are not numbered. Almost every faṣl is subdivided into several ḥikāyats The present copy corresponds only to pp. 2-188, l. 7 (f. 85v); there are also many lacunas or omissions (probably due to this copy having been transcribed from an incomplete original). Such gaps occur on pp. 140-150 (approximately, corresp. to f. 73v); pp. 155-156 (f. 75); p. 168, bottom to p. 170, l. 9 (f. 78); p. 177, l. 7 to p. 179, l. 12 (f. 80).[1] The text in both versions does not always coincide literally. The division into faṣls is different; often what is marked as a faṣl in the lith. ed., appears here as a ḥikāyat: ff. 15v (IV in the lith. ed.); 18v (VI); 24v (VIII); 26v (IX);

[1] These lacunas are almost invariably masked in the present copy by alteration of the concluding and opening sentences on both sides of the gap.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

49 (XV); 68v (XXI); 69v (XXII); 80 (XXIX); 80 (XXX). There are also faṣls in the present copy which are not marked in the lith. ed.: on ff. 21v, 39v, 58v, 75. Some sections, as the faṣls on ff. 23, 85v, 87, seem to have been omitted in the lith. ed. Here follow the references to the folios on which the extant faṣls are found, with their equivalents in the lith. ed., wherever available, in Roman figures:

2. f. 10v—II.

21. f. 75— „ „
22. f. 84—XXXI.
23. f. 85v—not marked.

The introduction, mentioned above, is different from the dībācha in the lith. edition. It begins:

الحمد لله ... اما بعد، اين رساله موسوم است به فيه ما فيه از كلام مولانا جلال الدين محمد بلخى المشهور بمولاناء رومي النخ

Beg. of the treatise itself (f. 3):

بسم الله ... اين رساله كنجينهٔ اسرار الهيست ... (f. 3v.) قال النبي صلعم شر العلماء من زار الامراء النخ

A peculiar colophon appears on f. 87v (it is not found in the lith. ed., and is probably spurious):

تم هذه الرسالة المسماة بفيه ما فيه و هو فصول كل فصل ينبئى عن كلمات مروية عن حاكم الروم المسمى بپروانه و توصل اخر الكلام الى المعارف و الحكم بعون الله تعالى و حسن توفيقه،

On f. 1 there is an anecdote about Rūmī extracted, according to a subscript, from the Manāqibu'l-'ārifīn (see IvASB 240). More notes and anecdotes are found on the margins of ff. 86–87v and on ff. 88–90v, probably taken from the same source.

(رسائل افضل كاشي)

I 492.

(Rasā'il-i-Afḍal-i-Kāshī).

Two treatises of Afḍalu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Kāshī (d. 707/1307–1308), with a preface and a note on his biography, by different authors:

1. (ff. 1–3v). Dībācha. A verbose preface, containing nothing beyond the usual vague phraseology of this kind of compositions. In the colophon it is ascribed to one Muḥammad Ḥusaynī; the date of composition is expressed by a chronogram سفينة النجاة حكمه which gives the year 1158/1745. Beg.

نيايش دادار و ثنايش (sic ?) چنانكه شايد و چندانكه بايد الخ

2. (ff. 4–22). Madāriju'l-kamāl. The well-known theosophical treatise by Afḍalu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Kāshī. It is a translation of his own Arabic work on the same subject. The book is divided into eight كشايش در, which are subdivided into several faṣls. See EIO 1921,2, 1922,14, R 830, etc. In the present copy the title is given in the heading as Gushāyish-i-hashtgāna (f. 4); the name of the author does not appear in the work. Beg.

بنام خدائی كه جز او خدائی نيست آغاز هر چيز الخ

Beg. of the first gushāyish (f. 5v):

كشايش در اول كه كوهر مردم و آنچه او را ست الخ

3. (ff. 24v–34v). Rahanjām nāma, by the same Afḍal Kāshī, also dealing with theosophical and psychological matters, divided into three guftārs, see EIO 1921,6; 1922,15; EB 1445,3; R 830, etc. Beg.

لله الحمد اهل الحمد و وليه و منتهاه الخ

4. (ff. 35v–38v). (Dhikr-i-Afḍalu'd-Dīn Kāshānī). A short biographical note on the author of the preceding treatises. The name of the compiler is not mentioned. It gives very little detail, and consists chiefly of poetical quotations from Afḍal himself and from Naṣīru'd-Dīn Ṭūsī. The date of his death is given (f. 38v) as Rajab 666/ March.-Apr. 1268. Beg.

ذكر واقف حقايق سبحاني خواجه افضل الدين كاشاني سرور علما و فضلاء اماميه الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c. This is probably only a portion of the original majmū'a, because in a fihrist at the end of the preface (f. 3v) other works also are mentioned, such as Minhāju'l-mubīn, Faḍl-i-Hermes, and Inshā-nāma.

Ff. 38; S 10,75 × 6; 8,5 × 4,25; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Ff. 1v, 22, 24v, 34, and 38 are of more modern origin. Ff. 22v–24 are blank. A few marginal notes.

420. (رسالهٔ عرض)

(Risāla-i-'araḍ). I 917.

Another theosophical treatise by the same Afḍalu'd-Dīn Kāshī, see the preceding note, dealing with "accidental" matters. It is the same as described in EIO 1812,2 and 1921,13. Here in the heading of f. 1 it is erroneously called Madāriju'l-kamāl, probably because this title of one of Afḍal's works (cf. above, 419, 2) is referred to on f. 4, top. In a subheading it is also styled (on f. 1):

رساله طبعيات كه خواجه افضل الدين كاشاني تصنيف نموده

The name of the author is apparently not mentioned in the text. The treatise is divided into four عرض: I (f. 4) عرض اجسام; II (f. 14) عرض كنندكان; III (f. 18v) عرض دانش; IV (f. 33v) عرض دانندكان. Beg.

خداوندا بفزوني جود و فروع وجودت كه جان بوى جويا الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., apparently a portion of the same volume to which the preceding MS. also once belonged. The same hand, style and paper.

Ff. 41; S 10,75 × 6; 8,25 × 4; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten and repaired. A few emendations on the margins.

421. نزهة الارواح

Nuz'hatu'l-arwāḥ. I 1042.

An incomplete and very bad copy of this well-known treatise on Sufism, by Ḥusaynī Sādāt, or, to give him his full name, Ruknu'd-Dīn Ḥusayn b. 'Ālim b. Abī'l-Ḥasan al-Ḥusaynī al-Ghūrī, surnamed Mīr Fakhru's-sādāt, who died after 729/1329, see IvASB 1188. Out of the 28 faṣls into which the work is divided (see for their headings EIO 1821), here only seventeen complete, and the beg. of the 18th are found. The copy breaks off at the passage corresponding with f. 80v, l. 8 in E 205 (IvASB 1189).

The initial leaf, as well as several folios in the middle, are rewritten on different paper in a vulgar handwriting. Beg. (modern) as usual:

The bulk of the MS. was probably copied in the xi/xvii c.; the restored portions belong to the xiii/xix c.

422. مصباح الهداية و مفتاح الكفاية

Miṣbāḥu'l-hidāyat wa miftāḥu'l-kifāyat. I 182.

The well-known Persian abbreviated version of the Arabic treatise on Sufism, the 'Awārifu'l-ma'ārif, by Shihābu'd-Dīn Abū Ḥafṣ 'Umar b. Muḥammad as-Suhrawardī (d. 632/1234–1235), the same as the one described in IvASB 1199. The name of the abbreviator is here given (f. 2v, top) as Maḥmūd b. 'Alī al-Qāshānī. According to the statement in the colophon, he completed this his work on the 14th Shawwāl 734/the 18th June 1334. It is divided into 10 bābs, each subdivided into 10 faṣls:

۱ (f. 3v) در بیان اعتقادات متصوفه،
۲ (f. 14) در بیان علوم،
۳ (f. 22v) در معارف،
۴ (f. 37v) در بعضي اصطلاحات صوفیان،
۵ (f. 44) در مستحسنات متصوفه،
۶ (f. 63v) در آداب،
۷ (f. 95) در اعمال،
۸ (f. 117v) در بیان حقیقت خلق،
۹ (f. 128) در بیان مقامات،
۱۰ (f. 142v) در بیان احوال و ختم کتاب،

Beg. of the treatise, as usual:

حمدی که لمعات صدق و نفحات آن اخلاص الخ ... اما بعد، این مختصریست مشتمل بر ذکر مباني و اصول طریقت الخ

Dated the 8th Rajab 1180/the 10th Dec. 1766, copied by Rabī' b. Shamsi'd-Dīn Aḥmad.

Ff. 153; S 8,5 × 5,5; 7 × 3,75; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Slightly injured by moisture. A few emendations on the margins. A note on f. 1. Ff. 34v and 91v are left blank, although the text is not interrupted. The top of the last folio is torn away.

423. سلک السلوک

Silku's-sulūk. I 496.

The well-known Sufic treatise by Ḍiyā'u'd-Dīn Nakhshabī, who lived in India and died ca. 751/1350–1351 (cf. above, No. 105), see IvASB 1200. The work is divided into 151 brief silks, which are subdivided into minor sections variously beginning with عزیز من , or ای درویش , or بشنو بشنو . The present copy is slightly incomplete at the beginning and end, and corresponds with f. 2, l. 4 to f. 148, l. 3 of E 105 (IvASB 1200). Beg. abruptly :

خاتم فقـــر را نکینـــه ازو ' ملک درویش را خزینه ازو '

Copied probably in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 114 ; S 8 × 5,25 ; 6,25 × 3 ; ll 13, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten and repaired. A few notes on the margins.

424. انیس الغرباء

Anīsu'l-ghurabā'. I 91.

The same treatise on Sufism, chiefly on moral matters, as the one described in IvASB 1212. The present copy does not contain anything new to help towards the identification of the author of this work, and of the period in which he wrote ; going through it again I noticed several details, which formerly had escaped me : the frequency of the expression غریب (ff. 4,5,8, etc.) ; the traces of archaic original diction of the work ; the fact that Chirāgh-i-Dihlī is mentioned without this surname, simply as Naṣīru'l-Ḥaqq wa'd-Dīn Maḥmūd (f. 36), and specially styled a khalīfa of Niẓāmu' d-Dīn (this would be superfluous if the work should have been written after the VIII/XIVc.). These observations are insufficient for a definite conclusion, but may, to some extent, support the conjecture that the real author was Niẓāmu'd-Dīn's pupil Burhānu'd-Dīn Gharīb (d. the 12th Ṣafar 732/the 14th Nov. 1331). Unfortunately he never gives the name of his pīr-i-dastgīr, frequently referred to here. He states (f. 48v) that he modelled his book on the Mu'nisu'l-fuqarā' (cf. No. 466, 1), of which he does not mention the author. All poetical quotations, given here, belong to the poets who lived not later than the VII/XIIIc. Beg. as usual :

حمد و ثناء مر مفضلی را که فضل داد مهاجران را الخ

A few verses from Jāmī on f. 1.

Copied in the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 49 ; S 10 × 6,5 ; 6,75 × 4 ; ll 15, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A few notes and additions on the margins.

425. معدن المعاني

Ma'danu'l-ma'ānī. III 38.

A comprehensive exposition of the system of Sufism based on discourses of the famous Indian mediæval saint, Sharafu'd-Dīn Aḥmad (b.) Yaḥyā Munyarī (or Munayrī), who died in 782/1380–1381. The author calls himself (f. 9v) Zayn-i-Badr-i-'Arabī, and is doubtlessly identical with the editor of the saint's letters (cf. IvASB 1205, EIO 1843–1844, etc.). The present work is different from the Ma'danu'l-ma'ānī, described in EB 1263; the latter is a daily record of the saint's lectures, whilst in the present work his teachings are systematically expounded so as to form a treatise on the usual plan followed in this kind of compositions. In tone and stylistical details the present work very closely resembles the fragmentary treatise on the same subject, described in IvASB 1204. The saint is here similarly styled بندگی مخدوم عظمه الله; many of his disciples referred to in the former treatise as having been present at this or that assembly, reappear here. The works are, however, not identical (although the one described in IvASB 1204 may form a portion of, or be in some way connected with the Ma'danu'l-ma'ānī described in EB 1263). Of Munyarī's disciples those here referred to more frequently are: Qāḍī Minhāju'd-Dīn Darūn-ḥiṣārī, Qāḍī Ashrafu'd-Dīn, Niẓāmu'd-Dīn Khāl-zāda, Zakariyā Gharīb, Shamsu'd-Dīn Khwārizmī, Mu'izzu'd-Dīn, and others. The subjects of the discourses are chiefly of a dogmatic nature, the biographical and hagiological topics are rare. The date of completion is not given, and generally there are probably no dates referred to. But the work must have been composed still within Aḥmad Munyarī's life-time, because he is mentioned in terms implying his being alive at the time of composition. The work is divided into 63 bābs (their list is given in the text, on ff. 11–12v, and, in a different form, prefixed on ff. 1–8). Each bāb, as well as the smaller subdivisions, uniformly begin with ذکری در ..... افتاد الخ. A complete list of the headings of the bābs is here given:

A short treatise on Sufism, based on utterances of the famous shaykh of Turkestan, Bahā'u'd-Dīn Muḥammad Naqshband (d. 791/1389), by Muḥammad b. Muḥammad (b. Maḥmūd al-Ḥāfiẓī) al-Bukhārī (usually called Muḥammad Pārsā), who d. 822/1419, cf. IvASB 1218. This work has been described in Bl 113,2, EIO 1920,1, 1923,3, EB 1266, etc. It deals with Sufism as based on strict orthodox Sunnite ideas. There is no regular division into chapters. The style is flowery, numerous poetical quotations (mostly from 'Aṭṭār). Beg.

The same commentary on the Ghauthiyya of 'Abdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī (cf. above, No. 410), as described in IvASB 1771. In the present copy the name of the compiler appears in the form of 'Abdu'l-lah b. Ḥasan b. 'Alī al-Makkī al-Ḥasanī (الحسن) al-Ḥusaynī (الحسين) al-Jīlānī (ff. 2, 55). At the end (f. 55v) the date of completion of this commentary is given as the 2nd Muḥarram 835/the 10th Sept. 1431. It is difficult to pronounce definitely on the correctness of this statement. Beg. as usual:

جواهر الاسرار

Jawāhiru'l-asrār.

II 173.

A comparatively rare work on the mystic meaning of various passages in the Coran, the ḥadīths, utterings of early Sufis, difficult verses from various poets, the cabbalistic values of the letters of Arabic alphabet, etc. It was composed in 840/1436–1437 (cf. f. 3v, bottom), by Shaykh Ādharī of Isfarāin (now ruins near Miyānābād, in the Northern corner of the Juwayn plain). His full name is here (f. 3) given as 'Alī b. Ḥamza (instead of the usual Jalālu'd-Dīn Abū 'Alī Ḥamza) b. 'Alī b. Malik b. Ḥasan aṭ-Ṭūsī, or rather al-Bayhaqī, as he is often called (d. 866/1461–1462), a descendant of Aḥmad b. Muḥammad az-Zamchī al-Hāshimī al-Marwazī. The present work is an abbreviation of his earlier composition, written in 830/1426–1427, called Miftāḥu'l-asrār. For other copies of this work and a biography of the author see Br. Lit. Hist., III, 497, GIPh 304; Bl 123, EIO 2036, EB 402, R 43–44 (where his biography is given in detail). Ind. libr. Spr 316–317. For references concerning his dīwān and other works see also IvASB 606.

The book is divided into four bābs, of uneven length, subdivided into numerous faṣls, sirrs, etc.:

۱ (f. 7) در معرفت اسرار حروف مقطعات از قرآن ،

۲ (f. 12v) در بیان اسرار احادیث نبوی ،

It is divided into 9 sirrs, ff. 12v, 19v, 29, 31v, 34, 36, 40v, 44.

۳ (f. 46) در اسرار کلام مشائخ ،

Divided into two faṣls: the first (f. 46), on paradoxes in prose; and the second (f. 90v), on paradoxes in verse. Both sections are subdivided into numerous sirrs, the headings of which are not always properly distinguished in the text.

۴ (f. 177 ?) در بیان کلام شعرا ،

The beginning of this bāb is not properly marked, and so it is the case with the 10 faṣls, into which this section is subdivided (except the fourth, on f. 223). It explains the difficult passages (ashkāl) in various qaṣīdas, ghazals, and other forms of poetical compositions, chiefly of Sufic contents.

In the last bāb, as well as in the preceding one, there are many short but valuable biographical notes and chronograms for the dates of deaths of various saints and poets. Beg. of the treatise, as usual:

يا مفتح الابواب افتح باب قلبي و قلوب المسلمين الخ

Copying completed in the eighth year of Muḥammad Shāh, the 10th Jum. I 1140/the 24th Dec. 1727, at Shāhjahānābād, by Muḥammad Aslam b. Mullā Khūshḥāl Ghaznawī.

The same. II 200.

Another copy of the same work. It is an excellent MS., dating from the beginning of the X/XVIc., being perhaps not much younger than the work itself. Unfortunately it is extremely fragmentary, and contains only the portions corresponding in the preceding copy to: f. 7v, l. 8 to f. 84v, l. 14 (here ff. 1–71); f. 89, l. 15 to f. 90v, l. 7 (here f. 72); f. 96v, l. 12 to f. 125, l. 5 (here ff. 73–96); f. 139v, l. 9 to f. 140v, l. 10 (f. 97); f. 150, bottom, to f. 169, l. 12 (ff. 98–111). Besides, there are occasional discrepancies in the text, so that some passages are omitted in this copy (cf. f. 101, approximately corresponding to f. 154, l. 4 to f. 156, l. 9 in the preceding MS.), or an omission in the former, cf. here f. 54v, l. 3 to f. 55v, l. 12 (f. 66 in No. 429).

The introduction is lost, and the book opens in the beg. of the first bāb; the second bāb begins on f. 6, the third on f. 35v (it is incomplete in the middle and at the end). The fourth bāb is completely lost.

Copied apparently early in the x/xvi c. by a good scribe belonging to the Herat school of calligraphers.

Ff. 111; S 9,75×6; 7,75×4; ll 17, within jadwals. Light brownish, thick Or. pap., probably of Samarqandi manufacture. Excellent calligraphical Herati nast. Cond. fairly good; the inner edges are worm-eaten, the outer edges slightly injured by moisture.

Mawāṭin. II 182.

A Sufico-philosophical treatise, dealing with the usual topics of metaphysics, divided into several unnumbered mawṭans. It is dedicated to Mu'izzu'd-Dīn Abū'l-Qāsim Bābur (see ff. 4v-11, where numerous mu'ammās for his name are given). This prince was apparently Bābur b. Baysunqar b. Shāhrukh b. Tīmūr; he was appointed a governor of Khorasan in 854/1450, of Fārs in 855/1451, and died in 861/1456–1457. The treatise itself has been completed in 856/1452 (see f. 109v, where the chronogram بابر خان is given). The name of the author is not mentioned. On the fly-leaf the authorship of this work is attributed to the well-known Sharafu'd-Dīn 'Alī Yazdī (see above, No. 17). As the latter died in 858/1454, this is not impossible from the chronological point of view. The inflated style, the abundance of mu'ammās, etc., are quite characteristic of his writings. In all the poetical quotations given in the treatise there is only one place in which the takhallus Sharaf (which was used by 'Alī Yazdī) may be found. This is however a very doubtful case (f. 29) :

شرف دل شده کز سلطنتش عار آید ' الخ

There are no references to any contemporaries or historical persons (except Bābur), nor to books. The mawṭans have headings as follows :

(f. 11) تنبیهات و تحقیقات من سوانح الوقت و افاضة الخ

(f. 29) تنبیه و تحقیق و من الله الهدایه والتوفیق الخ

(f. 33) تنبیهات و تائیدات لما مضی الخ

(f. 69v) موطن عظیم و المستعان هو الله العلیم الخ

Beg. of the treatise :

Irshādu'l-murīdīn.

An incomplete copy of a Sufic treatise, chiefly dealing with the relations between a murīd and his murshid. The author calls himself (f. 1v), Ḥusayn al-Ḥasanī al-Khwārizmī. He was, as he states on ff. 10v–11, a member of the Sufic affiliation, which was a branch of the Kubrawī order and included such celebrities as Ruknu'd-Dīn 'Alā'u'd-Dawla Samnānī (d. 734/1334) and Sayyid 'Alī Hamadānī (d. ca. 786/1384). He himself died in Syria (according to the Safīnatu'l-awliyā', see EIO 647, No. 364), in 956/1549. The author was a disciple of Muḥammad Khabūshānī, or, to give him his full name, Muḥammad b. Jalāli'd-Dīn Yūsuf al-Manṣūrānī al-Khabūshānī, who died in 937/1530–1531 (see Safīnatu'l-awliyā', ibid., and the Riyāḍu'l-awliyā', f. 132v). This shaykh was probably still alive at the time of composition of this treatise (cf. f. 23). Cf. also EIO 1877.

The work is originally divided into four faṣls (f. 4); but their headings are not given in the preface and are omitted in the text, where the space for them is left blank. There are many poetical passages (in which the author's takhallus appears as Ḥusaynī). Beg. الحمد لله الذي رفع اعلام الشرع بميامن ايمة الدين الخ

On four unnumbered folios at the beginning and on the blank side of f. 1, there are many notes, chiefly on the interpretation of dreams. A few magical tables, prescriptions, and a note on the slaughtering of animals.

435. مصباح العاشقین

Miṣbāḥu'l-'āshiqīn. I 947.

A short treatise, dealing with an interpretation of the 93rd sūra of the Coran from the Sufic point of view, and referring also to many other utterances of Muḥammad, etc., see IvASB 1298 (1). The author calls himself Bahā'u'd-Dīn Maḥmūd b. Ibrāhīm, a grandson (nabīra), or generally, a descendant of Qāḍī Ḥamīdu'd-Dīn Nāgūrī (d. 643/1245), whose work, Ṭawāli'-i-shumūs (see IvASB 1183) is here referred to on f. 10 ; other works by the same author, called Baḥru'l-anwār (f. 15v), Baḥru'l-marjān (ff. 1v, 16), and Baḥru'l-ma'rifat (f. 10v), are also referred to. The compiler may be identical with Bahā'u'd-Dīn b. Ibrāhīm al-Anṣārī al-Qādirī, the author of the Shaṭṭāriyya, described in the preceding note. Beg.

436. شرح اوراد فتحیه

Sharḥ-i-Awrād-i-fatḥiyya. I 526.

A detailed Sufic commentary on the book of awrād, prayers, in Arabic, ascribed to Sayyid 'Alī Hamadānī (d. 786/1384), cf. f. 5v. The commentator calls himself in this copy Ja'farī, but in RS 20, where another copy of the same work is described, his name is given as Muḥammad Ja'far Ja'farī. He must have written his book in the X/XVIc., because he very frequently quotes Jāmī's Nafaḥāt, but, on the other hand, the copy itself is dated 1015/1606. The text of the Awrād-i-fatḥiyya and of this commentary have been repeatedly lithographed in India. Beg. of the original text (f. 8, continued on f. 12v, etc.) :

Beg. of the commentary (f. 5v):

On ff. 1–4v there are several prayers, in Arabic, apparently not pertaining to the commentary.

437. مخزن دعوت

Makhzan-i-da'wat. I 916.

A large treatise on the forms of dhikr, various Sufico-magical practices, etc., as prescribed to the darwishes of the Shaṭṭārī affiliation. The author, Isma'īl b. Maḥmūd Sind'hī Shaṭṭārī Qādirī (f. 2), an inhabitant of Burhānpūr (برهانپور f. 3, l. 2), composed it in 1037/1627–1628 (f. 3v), after long wanderings in different provinces of India (f. 3). The work is chiefly dedicated to 'Īsā b. Qāsim Sind'hī, here called Masīḥu'l-awliyā', a Shaṭṭārī shaykh of the beg. of XI/XVIIc. (his biography is given in the Gulzār-i-abrār, IvASB 259, No. 536; he was born, as stated there on f. 160, the 5th Dhī'l-ḥijja 962/the 21st Oct. 1555). Another Shaṭṭārī saint, Muḥammad Ghauth 'Aṭṭārī (Gwāliyārī), the author of the Awrād-i-Ghauthiyya (or Jawāhir-i-khamsa), see IvASB 1252, who died in 970/1562–1563, is also often referred to here. The book is based on different earlier works, such as Ḥiṣnu'l-ḥaṣīn, Sirāju's-sālikīn, Kashfu'l-anwār, Asrāru'd-da'wat, Awrād-i-Ṣūfiyya, etc. (cf. the list, given on f. 3), but other treatises are also incidentally referred to. There is little or nothing to learn from this book concerning the history of Sufism in that period, but it gives an enormous amount of information concerning the magical practices of the Indian Sufis. It is divided into seven bābs of different length:

۱ (f. 4v) در اذان و استنجا و وضو و غسل و مقدار آب هریک و ادعیه آن و نوافل و اوراد الخ

۲ (f. 28v) در استخاره و فال مصحف بنوعیکه در حدیث صحیح وارد شده است و بعضی نوافل و اوراد الخ

۳ (f. 52v) در دعوت اسماء عظام وغیره

٧ (f. 330v) در بیان بیعت کردن و کلاه و خرقه دادن و اوصاف پیر و مرید و تعریف خلوت و عزلت و فواید و آداب آن ،

The 3rd chapter is divided into 42 faṣls, and contains a very large number of magical prayers, incantations, talismans (sayf) and other similar matters. The last chapter, on the rites of initiation, is very meagre and gives nothing new. Beg. of the treatise:

438. (اسناد اشغال شطاریه)

(Asnād-i-ashghāl-i-Shaṭṭāriyya). II 533.

A detailed work on different mystical practices, prescribed to the Sufis of the Shaṭṭāriyya affiliation. It was composed in 1045/1635–1636, as stated on f. 36:

جو تاریخ پرسي مر (؟) این کنج را ، بدان یک هزار و چل و پنج را ،

The author mentions his own name apparently only on ff. 35v and 36, in the form of a takhallus, Mullā Ja'far. He does not give the title of his book, nor does he mention any definite authority (he refers to his sources as بعضی مشایخ, etc.). Only in a few places 'Abdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī and Ibn al-'Arabī are eulogised. On ff. 101v and 103 the author refers to his own treatise, Anīsu'l-musāfirin, and on f. 93 to his murshid's work, Sirāju's-sālikīn, both apparently dealing with similar mystical matters.

The treatise begins with a versified introduction, after which is given a long series of prescriptions, in prose, unnumbered, almost all opening with the expression: sanad-i-shughl-i-.... In the body of the text poetical quotations are rare. Beg.

439. مناظر اخص الخواص

Manāẓir-i-akhaṣṣu'l-khawāṣṣ. II 180.

A systematic exposition of the principles of Sufism, completed on the 13th Ram. 1050/the 27th Dec. 1640, by the 'old' (پیر as he calls himself) Muḥibbu'l-lah Mubāriz; he is apparently identical with the well-known divine, an associate of prince Dārā Shikūh, the author of a theological work 'Ibādatu'l-khawāṣṣ (see IvASB 1084), comp. in 1053/1643, etc., Muḥibbu'l-lah Mubāriz Ilahābādī (d. ca. 1058/1648). The work is almost exclusively based on the Futūḥāt of Ibn al-'Arabī, from whom many passages are quoted, translated and commented upon, and Jāmī's Nafaḥātu'l-uns, in its first half dealing with the earlier Sufism. References to other works are rare; almost no mention of the author's contemporaries or their compositions. The book is divided into 27 manẓars, of which the first two, as is explicitly stated on f. 4, constitute a sort of introduction (muqaddima):

۱ (f. 5) در بیان آنکه مناظر و ملاحظه عرفاء کرام مغایر عقاید علماء ظاهر اند که اهل اسلام و اهل کلام باشند،

440. شرح فصوص الحکم

Sharḥ-i-Fuṣūṣu'l-ḥikam. II 536.

A Persian paraphrase of and a commentary on Ibn al-'Arabī's famous Fuṣūṣu'l-ḥikam (see Brockelmann, I 442). The commentator does not mention his own name, or the date of composition in the usual places. The date of completion is added on the margin, against the colophon, by a different hand, as 1041/1631–1632. In the colophon the name of the author is added by a different hand as Shāh Muḥibbu'l-lah Ilahābādī. The same statement is

(شرح تسويه)

(Sharḥ-i-Taswiya).

A Persian paraphrase of and a commentary on a short Sufico-theosophical treatise, in Arabic, on the nature of the Deity, etc. The title is apparently given on f. 16, as At-Taswiya bayna'l-ifādat wa'l-qabūl (فسميت هذه الرسالة برسالة التسوية بين الافادة و القبول). The names of the author and of the commentator, the date of composition, etc., do not appear in this copy. There are only a few references to different persons, all being early celebrities, like Junayd, Ghazālī, etc. The work is almost entirely based on Ibnu'l-'Arabī's Fuṣūṣu'l-ḥikam, which is referred to on every page. The treatise is apparently not mentioned in C. Brockelmann's Gesch. d. Ar. Lit. At the end (f. 21v) the commentator refers to his other works, Anfāsu'l-khawāṣṣ and 'Aqā'idu'l-khawāṣṣ. If the latter be identical with 'Ibādatu'l-khawāṣṣ (composed in 1053/1643, see IvASB 1084), the commentator may be the same Muḥibbu'l-lah Mubāriz Ilahābādī as referred to in two preceding notes. There is another copy of the same work in this library, see No. 465 (1), dated 1122/1710–1711, and this has so far to be regarded as the earliest fixed date before which the commentary must have been written. This copy does not contain the preface, given in No. 465 (1), and opens with the initial words of the original text:

الحمد لمن وجد بكل ما وجد، يعني ثناء اساني و محبت الخ

The initial line of the original text of the Taswiya runs as follows:

الحمد لمن وجد بكل ما وجد و سجد بكل ما سجد الخ

انوار التحقيق

Anwāru't-taḥqīq. II 165.

A Sufic treatise, in ornate rhymed prose, dealing with pious instructions and aphorisms on the usual topics of Sufism. There is an introduction, with an index, in which it is stated that the present work is a compilation of extracts from the writings of 'Abdu'l-lah Anṣārī (d. 481/1088), made by 'Alī b. Ṭayfūr al-Bisṭāmī (f. 2v). The latter may be identical with a Shi'ite writer of the XI/XVIIc., the author of the Tuḥfa-i-Malikī (see IvASB 1108), and of the Risāla-i-Ma'ṣūmiyya (ibid., 1115). It is difficult to judge in how far the compilation is a faithful reproduction of passages from Anṣārī and how much was contributed by the compiler. The work is divided, as apart from the introduction, into three maqālas. The first is divided into two mukālimas (f. 9v): the first mukālima consists almost entirely of the well-known Munājāt of Anṣārī. This section is called (f. 8):

مقالهٔ اول در امر باوصاف حميدهٔ الخ

The second maqāla, on f. 43v, is divided into 12 mukhāṭibas, dealing with وصيت به پيروي اصحاب كمال و تبعيت ارباب حال الخ, i.e. various moral and Sufic prescriptions.

The third maqāla, on f. 73, is divided into 12 maw'aẓas, also on various Sufic and moral matters:

مواعظ ارجمند و نصايح دلپسند الخ

A complete fihrist of the work occupies ff. 4v–8v. There are almost no references to Sufic literature. Beg. of the introduction:

اى نام تو آرايش عنوان كلام، الخ

Beg. of the work itself (f. 9v):

Copied in Ṣafar 1289/April-May 1872, by 'Abdu'l-Ghaffār Hamadānī. Carefully written.

Two treatises dealing with the same subject, i.e. the question of the deification of 'Abdu'l-Qādir Jīlānī, peculiar to Indian Sufis, praying to him, etc. It appears that the lawfulness of this form of worship became a subject of controversy in the XI/XVIIc., but found many defenders amongst the shaykhs interested in the popularity of the Qādiriyya affiliation.

1. (ff. 1v–26v). Radd-i-munkirīn (cf. f. 26v), or, to give it its full title: Radd-i-munkirīn-i ruk'atayn-i-ṣalāt-i-Ḥaḍrat-i-Ghawthu'th-thaqalayn (ibid.). The author calls himself (f. 1v), Mullā 'Alī Muḥammad-i-Khutan (ختن), the nephew (خواهرزاده) of Yār Muḥammad, a teacher (mudarris) at Multān. The treatise has been chiefly composed by the latter, and 'Alī Muḥammad seems to be merely the editor. The work is an energetic defence of the extremist forms of worship of this saint. It appears to be a reply to 'Abdu'l-Ḥaqq's Ḍarbu'l-aqdām, which is placed second in this volume. The date of the treatise is not explicitly given, but it was most probably composed shortly after the appearance of 'Abdu'l-Ḥaqq's work (the expressions with which he is referred to, do not imply his being dead at the time when the Radd-i-munkirīn was composed). It contains a long series of quotations from a great number of theological, hagiological, and Sufic works, chiefly in Arabic. Beg.

حمدیست مر خدایرا عز و جل که برابر کرده است الخ ..... اما بعد،

میکوید ... ملا علی محمد ختن الخ

2. (ff. 26v–28v). Ḍarbu'l-aqdām. A short note by 'Abdu'l-Ḥaqq Dihlawī (d. ca. 1052/1642–1643, cf. above, No. 351), discussing the unorthodox forms of worship amongst the Qādirī Sufis. The name of the author does not appear in its proper place, but is given in the colophon, as also is the case with the title. It is peculiar that this treatise, at least under its present title, is not mentioned in the list of 'Abdu'l-Ḥaqq's works, the Ta'līf-i-qalbu'l-alīf, see IvASB 1006. There are many interesting allusions to the state of Sufism in India of the times, as well as references to various prominent shaykhs, both in this work and in the preceding one. Beg. of the treatise:

بسم الله و الحمد الله (sic) و الصلوة و السلام الخ ..... هداة طریق الحق

و علوم محیی الدین در کانه که متعارف است در سلسله شریفه قادریه الخ

Copied about the middle of the xii/xviii c.

444. (رسائل دارا شکوه)

(Rasā'il-i-Dārā Shikūh). III 10.

Three mystical treatises by prince Dārā Shikūh (d. 1069/1658):

1. (ff. 16–26v and 1–5). Ḥasanātu'l-'ārifīn. The well-known treatise on the shaṭḥiyyāt, or paradoxical utterances of different mystics. It is the same as IvASB 1270 and Pr 982–983, cf. also Bh 179. Lith. Delhi, 1892. The work begins on f. 16, in a way different from the usual one:

حمد مر خدائی راست که حمد و حامد و محمود اوست الخ ...

اما بعد، فقیر حقیر ... محمد دارا شکوه چون درین سال الخ

The title appears on f. 16v, top; the date of composition is 1062/1652 (f. 16). Although there is a colophon on f. 26v, stating that the treatise is complete, this is not so. The last passage corresponds to f. 15v of E 79 (IvASB 1270). The continuation, to the end, beginning with E 79, f. 15v, l. 4, is found on ff. 1–5. This is probably due to the misarrangement of the original from which this copy has been transcribed.

2. (ff. 5–12v). Risāla-i-ḥaqq-numā (cf. f. 6). A short Sufic treatise, completed on the 8th Rajab 1055/ the 30th Aug. 1645 (f. 5v); it has several times been lith. in India (Lucknow, 1881, etc.). For another copy in this collection see No. 461 (19). Beg. as usual:

هو الاول هو الآخر الخ ... حمد ذاتی را که اوست موجود مطلق الخ

3. (ff. 12v–16). Risāla-i-rumūzāt. 45 mystical explanations of various principles and dogmas of Muhammadanism. The name of the author is not mentioned; the work may belong to the authorship of the same Dārā Shikūh. In the colophon the treatise is called Malfūẓ-i-Junayd-i-Baghdādī (repeated on the margins of f. 12v). But this is an obvious mistake, based on the misreading of the words of the author who ascribed to Junayd only the last aphorism. There are quotations from different authors who lived long after Junayd. Beg.

Copied in the camp, near Gwalior, of Maharaja Sind'hiya, by Muḥammad Fatḥu'd-Dīn Aḥmadī of Mārhara, during the month of Dhū'l-Qa'da 1246/Apr.-May 1831 (cf. ff. 5, 16).

كنز الهدايات

II 174.

Kanzu'l-hidāyāt.

A treatise on the principal points of Sufic doctrine according to the beliefs of the Indian Naqshbandī affiliation. It is based on the six collections of Sufic letters and a treatise styled Risāiat al-Mabda' wa'l-ma'ād, by the famous Sufi, called Mujaddid-i-alf-i-thānī, with his real name Aḥmad Fārūqī Sarhindī (d. the 28th or 29th Ṣafar 1034/the 10th or 11th Dec. 1624, cf. above, No. 82, p. 85), as stated on f. 3. The compiler calls himself Muḥammad Bāqir b. Sharafi'd-Dīn Lāhūrī 'Abbāsī Ḥusaynī (f. 2). He composed this work in order to provide the followers of the saint with a correct exposition of his teachings in a condensed form (f. 4). This he states to have done between the 21st Shawwāl and the 9th Dhī'l-qa'da 1080/ i.e. the 14th to 31st March 1670, see f. 3v. This seems to be too short a period. There is a chronogram for the date of completion at the end of the treatise (f. 113v), which gives only 1079 : الحق كه رساله ما كنز الهديات آمده, but it becomes all right if corrected into كنز الهدايات (then it gives 1080). The date of the month is not mentioned.

The complete form of the title is given on f. 4, bottom, as Kanzu'l-hidāyāt fī kashfi'l-bidāyāt wa'n-nihāyāt. The work is divided into a number of hidāyas, each subdivided into several fā'idas. The exact number of these sections is not mentioned. In the present copy their headings are given only as far as the 11th hidāya (f. 70v) ; after this the spaces reserved for the headings, which were intended to be written in in red ink, are left blank. The hidāyas which have their headings written in, deal with :

١ (f. 6) در آنچه دانستن آن مرشد و مسترشد را نا گزير است في المبداء و معاد ،

٢ (f. 13) در بيان ذكر قلبي اسم ذات ،

٣ (f. 16v) در بيان ذكر قلبي و نفي و اثبات ،

III 118.

A treatise on various prayers, forms of dhikr, etc., which should accompany every action of a pious man in his daily routine. This is an abbreviation of a voluminous earlier work on the same subject, Futūḥu'l-awrād. The abbreviator calls himself (f. 1v) Shihābu'd-Dīn, son of Fatḥ-Muḥammad (the author of the original work), and grandson of Abū'l-Barakat 'Aynu'l-'irfān Shāh 'Īsā Jundu'l-lah. The latter is apparently identical with Abū'l-barakat 'Aynu'l-'urafā' (probably better 'Aynu'l-'irfān) Shāh 'Īsā b. Qāsim Sarhindī, a Shaṭṭārī shaykh, who was born the 5th Dhī'l-Ḥijja 962/the 21st Oct. 1555, and flourished in the beg. of the XI/XVIIc. (cf. Gulzār-i-abrār, IvASB 259, f. 160). The present work must therefore have been compiled in the second half of the XI/XVIIc. Another copy of the same treatise is described in IvASB 1324 (2). There are no dates in the book, no references to the literature contemporary with the compiler; instead of these there is a profusion of quotations from the early works on the ḥadīths. Beg. as in IvASB 1324 (2):

الحمد لله ... اما بعد ' چنین گوید خادم الفقرا شهاب الدین ولد شیخ

447. رسالة المسعودي

Risālatu'l-Mas'ūdī. II 191.

A concise Sufico-theologico-ethical treatise, by Manṣūr Multānī, beginning:

الحمد لله ..... اما بعد، فهذه المجموعة المولفة عن المسايل المنقولة من الكتب المعتبرة المحتوية على بعض الاحكام (sic) الشريعة و الطريقة مسمّاة برسالة المسعودى الفها الفقير المنصور الملتاني الخ

It is divided into unnumbered bābs: العلم و العلما (f. 1v): التوبة (f. 5v); التوكل (f. 22); الصحبة (f. 27v); العزلة (f. 28v); المجاهدة (f. 31); العبادة (f. 35): المحبة (f. 41); التفرقات (f. 41v). The treatise deals with all these Sufic matters from a strictly orthodox Sunnite point of view. Quotations and references to earlier saints are rare. Ṣalāt-i-Mas'ūdī (cf. IvASB 1023), an early treatise on fiqh, is referred to on ff. 6v, 13, 43; Irshādu'l-murīdīn is referred to on f. 14v, but it cannot be identified. A few other references and quotations do not help to identify the period in which this work was composed. It seems, however, not to be of a very old origin, and must have been written before 1089/1678, which year is the date of this transcript. It may be a translation from the Arabic, judging from the style and the abundance of Arabic passages.

Copied by Tāj Muḥammad b. 'Alī Muḥammad, in 1089/1678.

Ff. 48; S 8,25 × 4,5; 6,25 × 2,5; ll 18, no jadwals. Brown Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. bad. Worm-eaten and damaged by moisture. Many marginal and interlinear notes and glosses. A note and a seal on f. 1.

448. ثمرات الحيوة

Thamarātu'l-ḥayāt. I 261.

Summary notes of instructive discourses delivered by the famous Indian Sufic saint, Burhānu'd-Dīn b. Kabīr Muḥammad b. 'Alī Burhānpūrī Gujrātī Shaṭṭārī, with the surname of Rāz-i-Ilahī (f. 2), d. 1083/1672. They were collected and edited by 'Alī 'Askarī b. Muḥammad Taqī b. Muḥammad Qāsim al-Khwāfī (f. 1), who is better known as 'Āqil Khān Rāzī (d. 1108/1696–1697). For references see IvASB 1278. The present copy is incomplete at the end and breaks off at the passage corresponding with f. 71v, l. 5 of the Society's MS. Beg. as usual:

حمد الخفي و الجلى لله (sic) القوي الولي و الصلوة و السلام الخ

Copied early in the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 71; S 8,75 × 5,25; 6,75 × 2,75; ll 18, no jadwals. Or. coloured pap., new margins. Coarse Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. A few emendations on the margins.

449. تنزلات ستة

Tanazzulāt-i-sitta. II 193.

A short treatise on Sufic metaphysics, by 'Abdu'l-'Alī b. Niẓāmi'd-Dīn Muḥammad al-Anṣārī. It is dedicated to Anwaru'd-Dīn Khān Bahādur, who may be identical with a nawwāb of the Carnatic, Anwar Khān who died in 1162/1749 (cf. IvASB 872). The author mentions in the opening lines that he had written this pamphlet in Arabic, but has translated it into Persian by order of that nobleman. Beg.

سبحان الذی تنزه عن کل نقص الخ ... اما بعد فیقول الفقیر الخ

The title as above is given in the colophon.

Dated the 5th Rab. II 1295/the 8th Apr. 1878.

Ff. 12; S 9×5,5; 8×4,5; ll 23, no jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. still good, but paper is decaying.

450. برهان الذاکرین علی المعاندین

Burhānu'dh-dhākirīn 'alā'l-mu'ānidīn. II 532.

A treatise on the details of dhikr, according to Chishtī rules, by 'Alī Akbar Mawdūdī Chishtī, who may be identical with the author of Nos. 451–452. He gives his full name as Muḥyī'd-Dīn 'Alī Akbar b. Asadi'l-lah b. Sirāji'd-Dīn Amri'l-lah al-Mawdūdī al-Chishtī al-Qādirī, etc. His grandfather was a disciple of Shaykh Khūb Allah-garhī (or Khūbu'l-lah Garhī ?), cf. f. 64. The latter was the spiritual guide of the author of the Maṭlūbu't-ṭālibīn (EIO 653), which was completed in 1111/1699–1700: he therefore lived towards the end of the XI/XVIIc. (see EIO 653, col. 324, No. 21). 'Abdu'l-Ḥaqq Dihlawī (d. ca. 1053/1643, cf. No. 443, 2) is referred to on f. 27v. It seems therefore obvious that the author must have flourished towards the end of the XII/XVIIIc. He may be identical with the poet whose compositions are described above, No. 301. The name of the author is often mentioned in the text in the form of the takhallus, as 'Alī Akbar (ff. 4, 11v, 12, 17v, 34, 36, etc.). The work is divided into a short muqaddima, two faṣls (I on f. 6; II on f. 14), and a khātima (f. 54v), subdivided into 6 murshids. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي نور قلوبنا بذکره الکثیر ... اما بعد، میکوید بنده

بی بضاعت ... علی اکبر المودودي الچشتي الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The spiritual pedigree of the author is given on ff. 63v–64.

Dated the 17th Dhī Qa'da 1198/the 3rd Oct. 1784.

Ff. 72; S 8,25 × 4,75; 6,25 × 3,25; ll 14, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good. Worm-eaten and repaired. Numerous marginal notes and emendations, apparently by the same hand as that of the bulk of the text.

451. (رسالة در تصوف)

(Risāla dar taṣawwuf). II 534.

A short treatise on the principles of Sufism, ascribed in the colophon to the authorship of Sayyid 'Alī Akbar Mawdūdī Chishtī who used in poetry (cf. f. 13) the takhalluṣ 'Alī Akbar, cf. above, No. 450). There are no indications as to the period in which the work was written. The author mentions his other works (f. 7) Maḥābāt (or Majānāt)-i-Mawdūdiyya, Hawājis-i-Mawdūdiyya (which is a commentary on the Qanṭaratu'l-ma'ārif, cf. f. 9v), and Sharḥ-i-Taswiya (probably different from Nos. 441 and 465, q. v.). In the colophon the scribe, who was writing probably in the beg. of the XIII/XIXc., calls the author his murshid, and refers to him as still living.

The treatise deals with different points of Sufic theosophy, and often refers to the works of Ibn al-'Arabī. There is no subdivision into chapters. Beg.

ای آنکه به تست این جهان جمله عیان، الخ ... اما بعد، این کلمه چند است مشتمل بر چیزیکه دانستن آن و عقد بستن بدان واجب است بر هر صوفي مسلمان الخ

Copied probably in the beginning of the xiii/xix c., by one Rām Jas (?).

Ff. 17; S 8,5 × 4,75; 6 × 3; ll 14, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Additions and glosses on the margins.

452. (رساله در تصوف)

(Risāla dar taṣawwuf). II 535.

A short Sufic treatise, dealing with some criticism of the teachings of the Naqshbandīs (of the Mujaddidī branch, as the letters of Aḥmad Sarhindī are often quoted here). No proper title is given, nor the name of the author. In a note, at the top corner of f. 1, the latter is called 'Alī Akbar al-Mawdūdī (here المومورزی). This may be correct, because the compiler refers several times (ff. 2, 2v, 5v, etc.) to the treatise, which he claims to be his own composition, called Hawājis-i-Mawdūdiyya. The latter is mentioned amongst the works of 'Alī Akbar Mawdūdī in No. 451, above.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Many detailed notes on the margins (by a different hand). Beg. of the treatise :

الحمد لمن انزل العلوم على قلوب الفهوم الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 11 ; S 8,25 × 4,75 ; 5,5 × 2,75 ; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good. Dirty.

نالهٔ درد

Nāla-i-dard.

I 1034.

A collection of 341 different aphorisms in Sufic strain, ethical rules, and reflections, by Khwāja Mīr Dard (f. 3), or, to give him his full name, Muḥammad Mīr Dihlawī, with the takhallus Dard, son of Khwāja Muḥammad Nāṣir, surnamed Shāh Gulshan, with the takhallus 'Andalīb. As stated in Spr 218, he died either in 1196/1782, or 1199/1785, or 1202/1788 ; he is known chiefly as a Hindustani poet. In the preface several of his works are referred to (ff. 3–3v) : Asrāru's-ṣalāt (composed by him when he was 15 years old) ; Wāridāt (see No. 455) ; 'Ilmu'l-kitāb (علم الكتاب), a commentary on the preceding. The present work is dedicated to the memory of his father, and is, as stated above, divided into 341 nāla in accordance with the numerical value of the name Nāṣir (cf. f. 143v). It was begun in 1184/1770–1771, as expressed in the chronogram (f. 5) 'نالهٔ عندليب گلشن ما ست' to which ا must be added ; and completed in 1190/1776, as expressed in :

گوش کن از سر صفا و صدق ، نالهٔ درد عندليب منست ،

(under the first chronogram an equivalent in red is given as 1193). Beg.

حمد الهي كجا از دست من بيدستگاه كما هو حقه سر انجام خواهد يافت تا زبان خامه الخ

Transcribed at Lucknow, in the 27th year of Shāh 'Ālam, and completed the 5th Dhī'l-Ḥijja 1199/the 9th Oct. 1785.

by the same Dard (see the preceding note), to match his earlier composition, Nāla-i dard (No. 453). It has, therefore, been completed shortly after 1190/1776. Beg.

حمدیکه شایان جناب اقدس الوهیة باشد الخ ... اما بعد، میکوید بنده دل از خود پراکنده فقیر ... میر محمدی المتخلص بدرد الخ

Copied in the beg., or in the middle of xiii/xix c.

Ff. 85; S 8×6,25; 5,75×4; ll 15, no jadwals. Bluish Eur. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A prayer on f. 85v.

455. واردات

Wāridāt. III 116.

Another Sufico-metaphysical tract by the same Mīr Muḥammad, surnamed Dard (cf. f. 6v), the author of the preceding two works. It has been written earlier, as it is referred to in the Nāla-i-dard (see No. 453). Another incomplete copy of the same treatise is already described in EIO 1912. The book is divided into 111 short wārids, each dealing with some theosophical topic. They are too short (mostly not longer than a page) to justify giving here a list of headings. There are almost no references to Sufic literature and to contemporary Sufis. The last, 111th wārid, is dedicated to the memory of the author's father, Muḥammad Nāṣir, surnamed 'Andalīb (f. 114). The exact date of composition is not mentioned. The first five folios contain a fihrist of the wārids, and the treatise begins on f. 6v:

الحمد لله العلیم الملهم الخ ... اما بعد، میکوید فقیر خواجه میر محمدی المتخلص بدرد الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 115; S 7,5×4,75; 6×3; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Much injured by worms. A few marginal notes. Scrappy quotations on a fly-leaf at the end.

456. اصل المعارف

Aṣlu'l-ma'ārif. I 55.

A versified treatise on Sufism, containing the utterances of early saints concerning different moral virtues. The author mentions in his concluding chapter (f. 29v) that he translated and arranged these passages, collected from the original works in Arabic. The treatise was composed in 1211/1796–1797

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

(f. 30). In the colophon the author is called Shāh Turāb-'Alī. Beginning of the treatise:

حمد کویم حضرت الله را، آنکه پیدا کرد مهر و ماه را،

Dated the 7th Dhī Qa'da 1270/the 1st Aug. 1854.

Ff. 30; S 10,25 × 6,75; 8 × 4,5; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. pap. Coarse Ind. nast. Cond. good. A few emendations on the margins.

457. ازالة القناع عن وجوه السماع

Izālatu'l-qinā' 'an wujūhi's-samā'. I 35.

A treatise on the religious lawfulness of the Sufic practice of samā', i.e. singing, music and dancing to promote spiritual excitement. The author calls himself (f. 2) Muḥammad Nūru'l-lah b. Muḥammad Muqīmi'd-Dīn 'Abdu'l-Ghafūrī (العبد الغفوری) A'ẓampūrī (الاعظم پوری) Jahrānwanī (الجهرانوني) Chishtī, etc. He completed his work (see f. 102) in 1244/1828–1829 (in a versified chronogram the date is given as 1275 minus 31: تاریخ ختام او شد نغمه قدوسی، لیکن پی تکمیلش لا کشت از و بیرون). The work has also an alternative title (f. 4) Nighma-i-'ushshāq. It is divided into a muqaddima (f. 5), three bābs and a khātima:

۱ (f. 8) در اباحت سماع،

۲ (f. 26) در روایات کتب معتبره فقهیه و اقوال ایمه دین که در اباحت غنا و ضرب دف و طبل وغیره الات مباحه وارد کشته،

۳ (f. 54) در احادیث و روایات فقهي که مدعیان حرمت بدان استدلال میکنند و جواب آن،

(f. 81) خاتمه، در اثار و فواید سماع و شرایط و اداب آن،

Every bāb, as also the khātima, is divided into numerous subsections differently called faṣl, faṣṣ, tadhkira, etc. Many references to various Sufic and theological works. The style is inflated; there are many poetical quotations. Beg.

458. (رساله در ذکر)

(Risāla dar dhikr). II 147.

A short succinct note on various forms of dhikr practiced by different affiliations of Sufis. It may be an extract, or an abbreviation of a larger work on the subject. In the colophon it is stated that it was transcribed (or extracted, نقل برداشته) from a MS. (نسخه), by, or belonging to, Maulawī Irtiḍā ʿAlī Khān, who was alive at that time. He is apparently identical with Qāḍī'l-quḍāt of Madrās, Muḥammad Irtiḍā ʿAlī Khān Gūpāmawī, with the takhallus Khushnūd, who was alive in 1265/1849. See No. 61 in this catalogue, 31 in the list. The name of the scribe, who may be also the abbreviator, is Muḥammad Ḥusayn. Beg.

459. (رسائل محمد احمد بلگرامی)

(Rasā'il-i-Muḥammad Aḥmad Balgrāmī). II 166.

Three short Sufic treatises by Muḥammad Aḥmad b. Muḥammad Fatḥ-ʿAlī b. Faḍl-ʿAlī (surnamed Lakkū-Miyān) Balgrāmī Chishtī Ṣābirī. The author, who gives many particulars about his family, was born in 1232/1816–1817, cf. f. 41, flourished towards the end of the XIII/XIXc., apparently in Ḥaydarābād in the Deccan; all his works were written between 1288 and 1294/1871–1877.

1. (ff. 1v–41). Taʿlīm-nāma-i-Muḥammadiyya. A compilation on the most different topics connected with Sufism, divided into 52 short taʿlīms, dealing with prayer, poverty, begging, Sufic principles, etc. Very many dates of births and deaths of various Sufis, ancient and modern, are here given, but all of them seem to have been taken from the well-known hagiological works. The dates concerning various modern Sufis at Balgrām, mostly relations of the author, are of very little interest. The composition of the work was started in 1288/1871; cf. f. 2, where the chronogram for this date is given in the expression:

کتاب تعلیمنامه سید محمد احمد،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

It was, however, not completed before 1294/1877, because this year is several times mentioned in the text (ff. 33, 41). Beg.

حمد و سپاس بالله الغني را که خود در کلام مجید الخ ... اما بعد، فقیر حقیر الخ

A fihrist of the 52 ta'līms is given on two leaves at the beginning. On f. 41v (as also on f. 75v) are given the titles of other works of the same author. In addition to the present one and the two which will be presently described, mention is made of: Chashma-i-fayḍān (comp. 1289/1872); Talāmīdh-i-Muḥammadiyya (comp. 1288/1871); Jāmi'u't-taṣānīf (comp. 1293/1876); Taḥqīq-i-siyar-i-Sayyid Aḥmad (comp. 1294/1877); Sayr-i-siyar-i-Muḥammadiyya (comp. 1294/1877).

2. (ff. 42v–75v). A'rās-i-shuyūkh-i-Muḥammadiyya. A list of the dates of the deaths of the Sufic shaykhs belonging to different affiliations. Completed (cf. f. 75v) the 17th Sha'bān 1294/the 27th Aug. 1877, in the madrasa of the chief mosque at Ḥaydarābād in the Deccan.

The Indian affiliations which are here dealt with are: several branches of the Chishtīs (ff. 45, 51v, 54, 55v); Qādirīs (ff. 58, 60); Suhrawardīs (ff. 61, 62v, 64v); Naqshbandīs (ff. 68, 69v), and Rufā'īs (f. 73). It gives little or nothing new, because in the dates of deaths the year is mentioned only in connection with the well-known personages. Those who are less well-known are dismissed with the date of the month only. There are references to many local modern darwishes of Balgrām, belonging to the XIII/XIXc., mostly relations of the author, but it does not seem necessary to mention them here. Beg. of the treatise:

زبان ناطقه در نغمه سرایی سپاس او الخ

A fihrist is given on f. 42.

3. (ff. 76–83). Tāziyāna-i-nafs-i-ammāra. A collection of quotations from Sa'dī, Ḥāfiẓ, and other poets, in Sufic strain, compiled the 27th Rajab 1293/the 18th Aug. 1876 (f. 76v). Its full title is given as Tāziyāna-i-nafs-i-ammāra wa quwwat-i-nafs-i-muṭma'ina. Beg.

برگ درختان سبز در نظر هوشیار، الخ ... اما بعد، این فقیر حقیر الخ

The last item is not dated. The first two were transcribed by Muḥammad Isma'īl b. Muḥammad Ḥasan, an inhabitant of Ṣafīābād, in the sūba of Muḥammadābād, and completed respectively the 15th Ram./the 23rd Sept. and the 14th Dhī Qa'da/the 20th Nov. 1294/1877.

Ff. 83; S 11,25 × 7,5; 8 × 4,25; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Slightly worm-eaten. Numerous notes, glosses and emendations on the margins.

Collections of Sufic contents.

460. (مجموعه در تصوف)

(Majmū'a dar taṣawwuf). II 538.

A collection of short treatises, chiefly of Sufic contents :

1. (ff. 1–18). Anīsu'l-arwāḥ. A collection of 28 discourses of 'Uthmān Hārūnī, written down, at Baghdād, by Mu'īnu'd-Dīn Ḥasan Sanjarī Chishtī (d. ca. 632/1235), cf. ff. 1, 1v, 18. See Bh 169 ; lith. several times in India, in the original or in a Hindustani translation. It is very difficult to pronounce as to its genuineness. The contents produce an impression of being due to an author of very insignificant education. The book deals with all sorts of moral and practical prescriptions, all of a very simple nature. Beg.

الحمد لله ... بدان اسعدک الله تعالی في الدارين كه اخبار و آثار انبيا الخ

2. (ff. 18–20v). Dalīlu'l-'ārifīn. A short extract from the discourses of Mu'īnu'd-Dīn Chishtī, collected by Quṭbu'd-Dīn Bakhtyār (d. ca. 633/1235–1236), cf. R 973. It gives mystic explanations of the first sūra of the Coran. Beg.

نقل ، در كتاب دليل العارفين مذكور است روز چهار شنبه الخ

3. (ff. 20v–22v). Tuḥfa-i-anwār. A slightly different version of the same treatise as No. 468, 2, containing aphorisms on various moral matters. The name of the author is not mentioned. It is divided into 40 bābs each containing only one aphorism. Beg.

الحمد لله ... اما بعد ، اين رسالهٔ مشتمل است بر آنكه حكما از كتب قدما اختيار كرده اند الخ

4. (ff. 22v–26v). (Risāla dar namāz). A short treatise on the rules of ablutions, prayer, etc., in a catechetic form. The name of the author is not given. Beg.

الحمد لله ... بدانكه ايمان اقرار كردن است بزبان الخ

5. (ff. 26v–28). Wujūdiyya. A short treatise on mystic psychology, ascribed in the heading to the authorship of Farīdu'd-Dīn Ganj-i-Shakar (d. 664/1265–1266). Beg.

بدان اى طالب من عرف نفسه فقد عرف ربه الخ

6. (ff. 28–34). Qaṣīda-i-Fayḍī. Faydī's well-known qaṣīda which is usually placed first in his dīwān (cf. IvASB 692, 2), beg.

(Majmū'a dar taṣawwuf). III 115.

Two famous Sufic compositions:

1. (ff. 1v–29v). Gulshan-i-rāz. The well-known versified exposition of Sufic doctrine, cf. above No. 217, by Sa'du'd-Dīn Maḥmūd Shabistarī (d. ca. 720/1320), for references see IvASB 553. Beg. as usual:

بنام آنکه جانرا فکرت آموخت ، چراغ دل بنور جان بر افروخت ،

2. (ff. 30v–45). Munājāt-i-'Abdu'l-lah Anṣārī. The well known invocations of 'Abdu'l-lah Anṣārī Harawī (d. 481/1088), see IvASB 1153; cf. above, No. 442. Beg. as usual:

ای ز دردت بیدلانرا بوی درمان آمده ، الخ

3. (ff. 26–35v). Scrappy poetical quotations, from Maẓhar (a musaddas, ff. 26–27), and Sa'dī (some of his mukhammases, ff. 29–35v).

All three items are written by different hands and only accidentally joined in one volume. The first is dated the 22nd Muḥarram 1071/the 27th Sept. 1660, in the reign of Aurangzīb. The name of the scribe is illegible. The second treatise is dated the 1st Ṣafar 1050/the 23rd May 1640, by 'Abdu'l-Malik al-Ḥayy ar-Rūḥī.

Ff. 35; S 7 × 4; 5,25 × 2,5; ll 17 and 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly bad, injured by moisture and worms. Ff. 26–35 are of modern origin; the paper on which the quotations are written is crumbling. A few marginal notes and glosses by different hands.

462. (مجموعه در تصوف)

(Majmū'a dar taṣawwuf). III 112.

A large collection of short Sufic pamphlets of different authors:

1. (ff. 1v–30v). Miftāḥu'l-maṭlab. The same treatise as described in IvASB 1320–1322 and EIO 1849. It is also known under the titles 'Ishqiyya, or Khiyālāt-i-'ushshāq. The authorship is ascribed to different writers; in the present copy (just like in IvASB 1322) the author is called Ḥamīdu'd-Dīn Nāgūrī, the disciple of Quṭbu'd-Dīn Bakhtyār Ūshī, who composed many Sufic works (cf. IvASB 1183, 1342, 2). He died (according to the Sawāṭi'u'l-anwār, EIO col. 329) the 5th Ramaḍān 643/the 24th Jan. 1246, at Dihlī. There is no internal evidence in the work to support this attribution of authorship, and generally there are no references to the authorities. No division into chapters, but every new passage opens with the words هیهات هیهات. Many poetical quotations. Beg.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

الله لا اله الا هو، حمد نا محدود و درود بی حد بران ظهور که النخ

2. (ff. 31–42v). Abjad-i-'ishq. A Persian paraphrase of and a commentary on a theosophical treatise styled Marātib-i-sitta, in Arabic. Its author is not mentioned, and the title, as given above, may not be genuine. The commentator's name is given as Muḥammad al-Harawī al-Lāhūrī ad-Dihlawī. It seems to be the same work as EIO 1924, 6. Beg. of the original treatise:

هو الموجود صافی الوجود الامین واحده النخ

The commentary begins with the first words of the original:

هو الموجود، اوست موجود نه غیر او و تاکید او است آنکه میکوید النخ

3. (ff. 45–46v). Irshādu's-sālikīn. The same short Sufic treatise by Sharafu'd-Dīn Aḥmad b. Yaḥyā Munyarī (or Munayrī), d. 782/1380–1381, as described in IvASB 1208 and EIO 1849. It begins slightly differently:

الحمد لله رب العالمین که موجود نیست مکروی و درود النخ

4. (ff. 47v–50v). Risāla-i-ajwiba, a short Sufic treatise, giving a reply to three questions:

۱ - آنکه مرید بدستکیری پیر بمقام معرفت برسد خارج ذات خود چیزی بیند و یابد یا در ذات خود،

۲ - آنکه تمثیل که در بعضی کتب سلوک نوشته اند چه معنیست،

۳ - آنکه عاشق یا معشوق اتصال باید بصورت مرد یا بصورت نسا،

In the heading and in the colophon it is ascribed to the authorship of the same Sharafu'd-Dīn Munyarī. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي خلق آدم علی صورته و جعل معرفته بمعرفته النخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

5. (ff. 52v–58v). Risāla-i-Shāh Bāqī bi'l-lah. A short Sufic treatise on metaphysics, ascribed in the colophon to Shāh Bāqī bi'l-lah (cf. IvASB 1328,5). It seems to be of modern origin. No division into chapters, but every paragraph begins with ای سید. Beg. of the treatise:

الحمد الله الحمد الله (sic) که حقیقت از آفتاب رویش الخ

A fragment of a Sufic treatise is found on f. 59.

6. (ff. 59–61). Risāla dar biyān-i-marātib-i-fanā wa wuṣūl (cf. f. 59v). A short theosophical treatise, by Abū'l-'Alā' Aḥrārī al-Ḥasanī (or Chishtī ?), cf. f. 59v. Beg.

بعد حمد واجب الوجودیکه بچندین هزار صور و اشکال ظاهر شد الخ

On f. 61v there is a fragment of the mathnawī poem of Sharafu'd-Dīn Bū 'Alī Qalandar, the same as the one so often lithographed, cf. Spr 565.

7. (ff. 63v–76). Mir'ātu'l-muḥaqqiqīn. The same theosophical treatise, divided into seven bābs, as described in IvASB 1345, 2. In the colophon it is attributed to the authorship of Naṣīru'd-Dīn Ṭūsī (d. 672/1273–1274). The bābs deal with:

۱ (f. 64) در بیان نفس طبعی دنیائی و حیوانی الخ
۲ (f. 66v) در آفرینش صدر موجودات ،
۳ (f. 68v) در بیان واجب و ممکن و ممتنع ،
۴ (f. 69v) در بیان آنکه حکمت چه بود الخ
۵ (f. 70) در مبدائی و معاد ،
۶ (f. 73) در تطبیق عالم بزرک و عالم کوچک ،
۷ (f. 74v) در بیان عالم ظاهر و باطن ،

Beg. of the treatise:

حمد بیحد و ثنای بیعد حضرت ذو الجلال را که الخ

8. (ff. 78–81v). Aṣ-ṣaḥīfatu'l-unsiyya. A short note, in Arabic, of religious and moral contents, with an interlinear Persian translation. The authorship is ascribed in the heading and in the colophon to no one less than Uwaysu'l-Qaran, or Uways of Qaran, a legendary personage contemporary with Muḥammad. Beg. of the Arabic text:

الحمد للموجود الذي شهد بکلما شهد و عبد بکلما عبد الخ

Beg. of the Persian translation:

سپاس مر وجودی را که دیده شد بهر چه که دیده شد الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

9. (ff. 82v–86v). Risāla-i-'ishqiyya. A versified treatise on Divine love, etc., ascribed to the authorship of Shāh Sharafu'd-Dīn Bū 'Alī Qalandar of Pānīpat'h, d. ca. 725/1325 (cf. IvASB 1196 and Spr 565). Beg.

توئي عاشق توئي معشوق ايدوست ، جمال خويشتن بنگر كه خود اوست ،

10. (f. 86v). Nān-u ḥalwā. The beginning of the well-known Sufic treatise, in prose and verse, by Bahā'u'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Ḥusayn al-'Āmilī (d. ca. 1030/1621), see IvASB 722. Here only a few initial lines are given.

11. (ff. 87–91). Qaṣīda-i-'Aṭṭār. A long Sufic qaṣīda, ascribed to the authorship of Farīdu'd-Dīn 'Aṭṭār of Nīshāpūr (d. ca. 622/1225), cf. above, No. 204. It seems spurious, and is not included into the dīwān of 'Aṭṭār (at least it is not found in IvASB 477, 1). It is the same poem as described in IvASB 907. In the present copy it seems to be incomplete and 'Aṭṭār's name is not found in the text. Beg.

چشم بكشا كه جلوهٔ دادار ، متجلى است از در و ديوار ،

12. (ff. 92–93). (Risāla dar dhikr-i-wujūd-i-muṭlaq), as it is called in the heading and in the colophon. A short note of theosophic contents; the name of the author is not mentioned. Beg. abruptly:

بدان اى عزيز كه نزد اهل كفت و تحقيق الخ

13. (ff. 93v–94v). Ḥall-i-mushkil. Another short note on similar metaphysical matters, as dealt with in the preceding one. The name of the author is not mentioned. Beg. abruptly:

اى مشكل حل و حل مشكل ، اى عزيز بدانكه عرض الخ

14. (ff. 96–105). Lawā'iḥ. The well-known Sufic treatise by Jāmī, see above, No. 432. Beg. as in that copy:

رب وفقنا للتكميل و التتميم سبحانك ، لا احصى ثناء عليك الخ

15. (ff. 105v–107). Dhikriyya, by the same Jāmī, a short tract on the dhikr of the Naqshbandīs, etc. It is also variously called Risāla-i-ṭarīq-i-tawajjuh-i-khwājahā, or R. dar sharā'iṭ-i dhikr, or R. dar ṭarīqa-i-Naqshbandiyya, see IvASB 612, 15. Beg. as usual:

سررشته دولت اى برادر بكف آر ، وى عمر كرامى بخسارت مكذار ،

A note, in red ink, which according to a subscript, is taken from a commentary on the Mathnawī, by Majdu'd-Dīn Tabrīzī.

16. (f. 107v). Wālidiyya. A fragment of a Sufic treatise, attributed in the heading to the authorship of ('Ubaydu'l-lah) Aḥrār, the famous saint of Turkestan (d. 895/1490). There are only a few initial lines, in which the author, who does not mention his own name, states that he has composed the treatise by order of his father. Beg.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

الحمد الله (sic) الاحد بذاته و الكبرياء الواحد الخ

17. (ff. 110–113). Maktūb-i-Mu'īnu'd-Dīn Chishtī. A letter from Mu'īnu'd-Dīn Ḥasan Sanjarī (d. ca. 632/1235) addressed to Quṭbu'd-Dīn Dihlawī, different from the one described in EIO 1924, 21. It deals with some ethico-religious matters. Beg.

مكتوب بجانب خواجه قطب الدين دهلوى از خواجه معين الدين حسن سنجرى قدس الله سرهما الخ

18. (ff. 114–116). Guftār-i-Shāh 'Īsā Jundu'l-lah. A few aphorisms (daqīqa), with explanations, on theosophical matters, ascribed to the famous Sufi of the Shaṭṭārī order, 'Aynu'l-'urafā' Abū'l-barakat 'Īsā b. Qāsim Sarhindī. According to the Gulzār-i-abrār (IvASB 259, f. 160), he was born the 5th Dhī'l-ḥijja either of 962 or 963 AH., i e. the 21st Oct. 1555 or the 10th Oct. 1556, and died in the beg. of the XI/XVIIc. Cf. above, No. 446. The compiler of the note does not mention his own name. Beg.

از گفتار شيخ الاوليا الخ ... دقيقه، خلق بعد از ارتفاع كثرت الخ

On f. 116v there is the beg. of another copy of the same Mir'ātu'l-muḥaqqiqīn as above in this note, 7.

19. (ff. 118–122v). Risāla-i-ḥaqq-numā, the well-known short Sufic treatise by Dārā Shikūh (f. 118v), composed by him about the 8th Rajab 1055/the 30th Aug. 1645 (f. 118v, l. 5), see above, No. 444, 2. Beg. as usual:

هو الاول هو الآخر هو الباطن هو الظاهر، حمد ذاتى كه اوست الخ

20. (ff. 125–131). This and the next four articles seem to be parts of one larger work. Unfortunately, the title of the original treatise, the name of the author, etc., are not mentioned in either of them, and there are no references to the authorities, which might render possible an identification. There are five wārids (II–VI), each opening with a short Arabic preamble, and dealing with various metaphysical matters, the first (originally the third), is styled Ḥaqīqatu'l-ḥaqā'iq, beg.

الحمد لله الذي هو خالق ذوات الحقائق الخ ... اما بعد، فهذا الوارد الثالث هو المسمى بحقيقة الحقائق الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

21. (ff. 131v–132v). Maṭla'u'l-fajar. The fourth wārid, apparently belonging to the same original work as the preceding one, beg.

الحمد لله الذي اصبحنا و اصبح الملک الخ ... اما بعد، فهذا الوارد الرابع هو المسمى بمطلع الفجر الخ

22. (ff. 133–138v). Ad-da'watu'th-thāmina, the fifth wārid, beg.

الحمد لله الذي دعانا الى اسلام الخ ... اما بعد، فهذا الوارد الخامس هو المسمى بالدعوة الثامنة الخ

23. (ff. 139–141v). Hudā'l-lah. The sixth wārid, beg.

الحمد لله الذي بدئنا لبدا الخ ... اما بعد، الوارد السادس هو المسمى بهدى الله الخ

24. (ff. 143–149). Nūr mina'l-lah. The second wārid, beg.

الحمد لله الذي نور العالم الخ ... اما بعد، فهذا الوارد الثاني هو المسمى بنور من الله الخ

25. (ff. 150–152). Nafaḥātu'l-uns. Portions of the preface to Jāmī's famous hagiological work, see above, No. 65, corresponding with pp. 1, 5-7, 17–20, of Nassau Lees' edition. Beg. as usual :

الحمد لله الذي جعل المرأى قلوب اولياء الخ

26. (ff. 154–157v). Risāla-i-rumūzāt. A short treatise on the mystical meaning of various religious observances, theological principles, etc. In the heading its authorship is ascribed to Shāh 'Abdu'l-Jalīl. He may be identical with Sayyid 'Abdu'l-Jalīl Ḥusaynī Balgrāmī, who d. in 1138/1725–1726 (see R 963). Beg.

لا اله الا الله الخ ... بعده، اقول رمز حسن اسرار الخ

27. (ff. 158–174v). Mathnawī-i-Walī Rām. A Sufic mathnawī poem dealing with various theosophical topics by Walī (cf. f. 173v), or Bānwalī Dās, or Walī Rām, an employee of Dārā Shikūh, cf. above, No. 270. This is the same work as described under that No. ; it was completed, as stated on f. 173v, in 1055/1645–1646. The present extract begins with the second wazn, f. 172v, l. 5 in No. 270, which seems to be complete. On f. 170 begin extracts from the first wazn ; only a very small portion is given. This extract may perhaps be the author's own abbreviation of his original work. Apparently exactly this version is referred to in Spr 589.

Beg. as in Spr 589 :

ازان علم شریعت شد معلم ، شود ترتیب ظاهر تا مسلم ،

28. (ff. 175-175v). A fragment of a Sufic treatise ; the name of the author is not mentioned. Beg.

اقرب طریق طریقه توحید است هر که از ابتدا علم توحید را الخ

29. (ff. 177–181). (Maktūbāt-i-'Abdu'r-Razzāq Kāshī wa 'Alā'u'd-Daula Samnānī). The well-known critical notes, by 'Abdu'r-Razzāq Kāshī (d. 730/1330), on the 'Urwa, a Sufic treatise by Ruknu'd-Dīn 'Alā'u'd-Daula Aḥmad b. Muḥammad al-Biyābānakī as-Samnānī (d. the 22nd Rajab 736/the 6th March 1336), and a reply to them by the latter. A biographical note on Kāshī is prefixed. It seems to be an extract from Jāmī's Nafaḥāt (Nassau Lees' edition, pp. 557–568). The text of these letters is also included in the Laṭā'if-i-Ashrafī (see IvASB 1214, ff. 414–419), but they are sometimes given as an independent work, see EIO 1835. Cf. also W. Ivanow, JASB, 1923, p. 303. Beg. of the extract :

شیخ کمال الدین عبد الرزاق کاشي رحمه الله تعالی ، وی مرید الخ

The letter of Kāshī begins on f. 177v ; of 'Alā'u'd-Daula,—on f. 179v.

The different articles included into this majmū'a are transcribed by different hands, and dated 1253/1837–1838 (ff. 76, 105), 1261/1845 (ff. 42v, 58v), 1262/1846 (f. 50v), 1265/1848–1849 (f. 122v), and 1268, the 10th Jum. I/the 2nd March 1852, which seems to be the latest date. Ff. 43, 44, 51, 62, 77, 95, 108, 109, 117, 123, 124, 142, 153, 176 are left blank.

Ff. 181 ; S 11,25 × 8,25 ; 9,5 × 6 ; ll 15–23, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. and shikasta, different hands. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. Marginal notes, glosses, emendations.

463. (مجموعه در تصوف)

II 52.

(Majmū'a dar taṣawwuf).

Three metaphysical treatises, dealing with pantheistic theories of the world :

1. (ff. 1–5). Risāla-i-marātib, or Marātib-i-khamsa, as it is differently styled in the colophon. Its authorship is ascribed to one Fatḥ-Muḥammad-i-'Aynu'l-'urafā'. The latter is probably identical with the son of 'Aynu'l-'urafā' 'Īsā b. Qāsim Sarhindī, cf. above, No. 446 ; if so he must have flourished about the middle of the XI/XVIIc. There is a reference to Suyūṭī on f. 4v. This treatise has much in common with the well-known anonymous risāla on Waḥdat-i-wujūd (see IvASB 1311, 1328, 1342, 1347). Beg.

الحمد لله ... طالب حق را باید دانست که مراتب وجود الخ

2. (ff. 5v–9). Ḥallu'sh-shukūki'l-wāridat 'alā waḥdati'l-wujūd (in Arabic). A short treatise, of theosophical contents. It is apparently a portion of a larger work on Sufism, and is here called المسالک الرابع. There are 10 shakks, and one fā'ida. The name of the author is not given. Beg.

نحمد و نصلی علی رسوله ... المسلک الرابع في حل الشکوک الخ

3. (ff. 9v–28). Sharḥ-i-Tuḥfatu'l-mursala. A commentary, in Persian, on a short Arabic treatise on Sufic metaphysics, by Muḥammad b. Faḍli'l-lah Burhānpūrī (d. 1029/1620), the same as described in IvASB 1266. The introduction, given in that copy, is not found here, and the work begins abruptly with the commentary itself:

الحمد لله رب العالمین الخ ... یعني جمیع محامد و ثنا ثابت مر خدایرا که الخ

At the end, however, this transcript is complete, and it appears that IvASB 1266 breaks off at the passage found on f. 25v, l. 5 of this copy. From the concluding lines it appears that the name of the commentator was 'Abdu'l-Ghafūr (f. 28).

Dated the 6th Muḥarram 1299/the 28th Nov. 1881, copied by Muḥammad 'Uthmān Khān, son of Muḥammad Sulaymān Khān.

Ff. 28; S 9×5,75; 7,5×3,75; ll 15, no jadwals. Brown Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Many marginal and interlinear notes and glosses.

464.

(مجموعه در تصوف)

(Majmū'a dar taṣawwuf). Ia 130.

A collection of four Sufic treatises by different authors:

1. (ff. 1–9). (Risāla dar taṣawwuf). A treatise on the general principles of Sufic theosophy, etc. The exposition is very vague; there are many poetical quotations (the latest are those from Jāmī). The title, the name of the author, and the name of the prince to whom it is dedicated, are not mentioned. Beg.

سبحان من لا اله الا هو ... و بعد، این چند کلمه ایست معروض میکردد بر جناب حضرت شهریاری الخ

2. (ff. 9v–43). (Risāla-i-faqr). A treatise dealing with the rules of prayer; explanations of the conception of ma'rifat; the principles of 'poverty'; definitions of the terms pīr and murshid. The exposition is throughout in catechetic style; in the beginning there is a reference to Minhāju'l-'ārifīn on which the section dealing with namāz, etc., is based:

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

از کتاب نقه کفته شود، الحمد لله کما هي صمدیته عن الحلول و الاتحاد
لمنزه عن کمیة محیط عجیب الاخبار منهاج العارفین الخ

The exact title of the work, the name of the author, and the date of composition are not given. There are no references to other Sufic works.

3. (ff. 43v–90). Ḥujjatu'dh-dhākirīn. A treatise on the elementary principles of Sufism, on dhikr, and on some customary observances of darwishes, cf. on f. 67:

بیان شرائط و توبه دادن و خرقه پوشیدن و مقراض راندن،

Very often single questions are expounded, in a catechetic form. There are no references to the authorities, no mention of the name of the author, or of the date of composition. Only very rarely some ancient Sufic saints are referred to ('Abdu'l-lah Tustarī on f. 45; Manṣūr Ḥallāj on f. 45v). In the beginning there is a heading implying that it is only an extract from the Ḥujjatu'dh-dhākirīn:

در بیان ذکر حق تعالی از کتاب حجة الذاکرین،

Beg. of the treatise:

حمد حضرت جلال آن پادشاهي را که الخ ... اما بعد، مدتي بود که
طایفه از ذاکران درین نصیحت پرداخته شد الخ

4. (ff. 90v–108). Mir'āt ḥaqqi'l-yaqīn (cf. f. 91). A short, but old Sufic treatise of Indian origin, dealing with the general principles of mystic training and cognate matters. The author (f. 90v) gives his own name as Sayyid 'Alā'u'd-Dīn b. Sayyid Farīd Bukhārī; he was a disciple of Shāh Ilāhdād (f. 90v), and lived most probably in the end of the VIII/XIVc. This may be inferred from the fact, that he refers (f. 96) amongst other shaykhs of his time to Wajīhu'd-Dīn Yūsuf of Chanderi, who was a pupil of the famous Niẓāmu'd-Dīn Awliyā (d. 725/1325), see Gulzār-i-abrār (IvASB 259, No. 104), and Maṭlūbu'ṭ-ṭālibīn (EIO 653, col. 324, l. 21). Another saint of the VIII/XIVc. is referred to on f. 105, Nūr Quṭb-i-'Ālam, or Nūru'l-lah Aḥmad b. 'Alā'i'd-Dīn (cf. IvASB 259, No. 110). The spiritual guide of the author may be identical with the saint of the VIII/XIVc., Ilāhdād Aḥmadābādī, referred to in the Gulzār, No. 48. On f. 96 he refers to other Sufis also, whom he met at Chanderi, at the assemblies of Wajīhu'd-Dīn, namely Sayyid Ṭāhir Jaunpūrī; Jandan Aud'hī; 'Imād Jabīdī (or Junaydī?); one called Quṭbu'd-Dīn; Bud'h; Maḥmūd, son of 'Abdu'l-Qādir Gujrātī. This reference may be useful for the chronology of Indian Sufism. Apparently no authorities are referred to in the treatise. Beg. of the work:

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

حمد بیحد و ثنای بیعد مر حضرت صمدیت را که ... بعد حمد و صلوة

میکوید بنده سید علاء الدین الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or beg. of the xiii/xix c. On f. 43 there is the date: Thursday, the 7th Ṣafar ۱۰۰۱۲ (sic). Most probably this must be read as 1201, or the 29th Nov. 1786. This day was Wednesday, but if the copying of the book has been completed after sunset, it was really Thursday.

Ff. 108; S 10 × 6,5; 6,5 × 4; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. (the same as in No. 468). Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. Interlinear glosses.

465. (مجموعه در تصوف)

(Majmū'a dar taṣawwuf). I 191.

A collection of several short treatises, chiefly Sufic in contents:

1. (ff. 1v–41). Sharḥ-i-Taswiya. Another copy of the same treatise as described above, No. 441. The title appears here on ff. 30, 30v. This copy gives no key to the solution of the question as to the authorship of the book, but there is a short preface, not given in the former transcript, beginning with:

اعنه ثنا راجعند بسری حق غیور الا الی الله الخ

Beg. of the commentary itself is the same as in No. 441. Several notes on ff. 41v and 42.

2. (ff. 42v–86). Sharḥ-i-rubā'iyyāt. The well-known commentary by Jāmī on some of his own quatrains, see above, No. 239. Beg. as usual:

حمدًا لاله هو بالحمد حقیق ' الخ

On f. 86v there are several quotations.

3. (ff. 87–88). A fragment of an Arabic treatise on theosophy; here only the beginning of the fifth faṣl is given. In subscripts at the end of this and the next fragment it is ascribed to Shaykh Qayṣarī, i.e. Dā'ūd b. Maḥmūd ar-Rūmī al-Qaysarī (d. 751/1350), who wrote a commentary on the Fuṣūṣu'l-ḥikam (see Brock., II, 231).

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

4. (ff. 88v–89). Another fragment, apparently from the same work as the preceding one, from the third faṣl.

Copied in 1122/1710–1711, the second treatise being dated the 12th Dhī'l-ḥijja 1122/the 1st Febr. 1711, at Sād'hūra.

A short collection of fragments of Sufic contents:

1. (ff. 1-37v). A fragment of a large Sufic work, called Mu'nisu'l-fuqarā' in a marginal note on f. 1v (cf. above, No. 424). Its title and the name of the author do not appear in the text, however. The compiler calls himself (f. 14v) a disciple of the eminent saint of Lucknow, 'Alā'u'd-Dīn 'Umar As'ad Lāhūrī (cf. EIO 654, col. 333), a khalīfa of Sirāju'd-Dīn 'Uthmān Dihlawī, the famous disciple of Niẓāmu'd-Dīn Awliyā (d. 725/1325). The book must, therefore, have been compiled about the beginning of the IX/XVc. It is divided into a number of faṣls, of which only 15–21 are found in this copy. Fol. 1 may contain the end of the 14th faṣl.

۱۵ در ذکر توبه و شرائط آن الخ (f. 1v)

۱۶ در ذکر ارادت و شرائط مریدی و در تعریف شیخ و شرائط شیخی الخ (f. 10)

۱۷ در ذکر خلوت و عزلت و اربعین الخ (f. 15v)

۱۸ در بیان شرائط خلوت و عزلت الخ (f. 24)

۱۹ در فضل ذکر الخ (f. 29)

۲۰ در اختیار ذکر و کیفیت گفتن ذکر الخ (f. 31v)

۲۱ در ذکر نفی خواطر که آن اهم مهمات الخ (f. 35v)

The last faṣl is apparently incomplete. Many references to early Sufic literature, in Persian and Arabic.

2. (ff. 38–43). Maktūb-i-hashtum ba jānib-i-Shaykh 'Izzu'd-Dīn.

A letter on Sufic matters, undated, from one who calls himself Nūr-i-Miskīn (f. 38). The style of this letter is exactly the same as that of the preceding work, so that it seems fairly certain that this Nūr-i-Miskīn is identical with the author of that treatise. It is peculiar, that according to the Sawāṭi'u'l-anwār (EIO 654, col. 333), some Maktūbāt of Sufic contents are ascribed to the authorship of Shāh Nūru'd-Dīn Quṭb-i-'Ālam, a son and khalīfa of 'Alā'u'd-Dīn 'Umar Lāhūrī. These three, i.e., the author of the Mu'nisu'l-fuqarā', Nūr-i-Miskīn, and Nūru'd-Dīn may perhaps be identical. Beg. of the letter :

مکتوب هشتم بجانب شیخ عزالدین نبسهٔ شیخ فرید الحق و الشرع و الدین و دیکران در خلوت ، خدمت خوندکار زادکان سلام و دعاء سک کرکین نور مسکین مطالع نمایند الخ

3. (ff. 43–36). (Jawābāt-i-su'ālhā). A few questions and replies to them, concerning spirits (both good and evil), of men and jinns, etc. Beg.

جوابات سوالها که عرض داشت سید محمود بندکی مخدوم فرموده اند ، اول ارواح کجا میدارند الخ

Copied apparently towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 46 ; S 10 × 6,25 ; 6,75 × 3,75 ; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. brownish pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Slightly worm-eaten and repaired. A few marginal notes.

II 495.

A collection of scrappy notes, mostly of Sufic contents, by different authors :

1. (ff. 1–7). A short biographical note on Muḥammad and 'Alī (f. 5v-end), the name of the author is not mentioned. Beg.

حمد و سپاس خداوندیرا سزد که الخ

2. (ff. 8v–12 ; ff 7v and 8 are blank). (Risāla dar īmān). A short treatise on faith, without a proper title or indication of the author's name. Beg.

الحمد لله ... اما بعد ، ان الایمان و الشریعت الخ

3. (ff. 12–14v). (Risālat fī'l-akhlāq). A short ethico-religious treatise, in Arabic, on obligatory morals. Beg.

اعلموا رحمکم الله تعالی انه یلزم العبد المسلم الخ

4. (ff. 15–36v). Futūḥātu'l-asḥār wa kunūzātu'l-asrār. Several extracts from this theosophical treatise. The name of the author and the date of composition are not given. In the text there are no references to authorities, except to a book called Mir'ātu'l-muḥaqqiqīn (ff. 21, 25, etc.), which it is impossible to determine (cf. IvASB 1329, 1345,2, RS 418 III, etc.). On f. 31v

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

one نصير الحق والدين is referred to. The treatise, being apparently written in Persian, not a translation, with numerous poetical quotations, is divided into a number of majlises, each subdivided into several bābs. Here only the following majlises are given: the 31st (?), on f. 15; apparently another (the 16th ?), on f. 17; the 8th, on f. 23v (it deals with astrology, and is divided into 7 bābs); the 9th on f. 33v. Beg. of the 8th majlis (f. 23v):

من قدرة الاحرار صاحب لوای لولاک ما خلقت الافلاک الخ

Beg. of the 9th majlis (f. 33v):

Long marginal notes and additions, in the same handwriting.

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or beg. of the xiii/xix c.

I 429.

Three short Sufic treatises, by different authors:

1. (ff. 1–6) (Risāla dar taṣawwuf). A short treatise on the principles of ascetic devotion, etc., divided into three muqaddimas. The exact title of the work, the name of the author and the date of composition are not mentioned. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي هدانا لهذا ... اما بعد، بعضی از کائنات مخفي الخ

2. (ff. 6v–9). Tuḥfa (?). A short treatise ascribed to the authorship of the famous Christī saint, Farīdu'd-Dīn Mas'ūd Ajūd'hanī (d. ca. 665/1266), the same as above, No. 460,3, and IvASB 1356,4. (The beg. in that copy is different). The work is a collection of aphorisms of an ethical character, 30 in number, giving definitions in 'fours' from every class of virtues. It is difficult to prove that the authorship to which it is ascribed is really genuine. Beg.:

الحمد لله ... بدان اسعدک الله ... که این رساله از حضرت ... شیخ فرید الحق ... مسعود اجودهنی الخ

3. (ff. 9v–11v). (Risāla-i-faqr). A brief darwish elementary catechism, dealing with the usual definitions of Sufic terms and principles, ascribed to the authorship of Shihābu'd-Dīn Suhrawardī (d. 632/1234). Beg. abruptly:

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

III 111.

A small collection of Sufic treatises, in Persian and Arabic, by different authors:

1. (ff. 1–12). (Maktūb-i-Waliyyu'l-lah Dihlawī). A letter, in Arabic, of Sufic contents, from Aḥmad Waliyyu'l-lah b. 'Abdi'r-Raḥīm Dihlawī (lived in the second half of the XIII/XIXc., cf. R 1058, where a reference is given to his work composed in 1267/1850–1851), to Ismaʿīl b. 'Abdi'l-lah ar-Rūmī al-Madanī. Beg.

من العبد الضعيف احمد المدعو بولى الله الخ ... فقد وصل كتابكم الخ

2. (ff. 12–12v). Taqrīr. A short note of Sufic contents, ascribed in the colophon to Shāh 'Abdu'l-'Azīz Dihlawī. Beg.

معني وحدة الوجود آنست كه وجود حقيقى الخ

3. (ff. 17–28). Jām-i-Jahān-numā. The same well-known theosophical treatise, of uncertain authorship, as described in IvASB 1299. Many explanatory notes on the margins. Beg. as usual:

حمد بى حد و شكر بى عد براى ذاتي را كه الخ

4. (ff. 28–28v). Barzakhiyya. A short appendix to the preceding treatise, in Arabic, dealing with the question of Barzakh, or Purgatorium. It is ascribed in the heading to Ibn al-'Arabī. Beg.

اعلم ان البرزخ عالم مستقل الخ

5. (ff. 32–40v). Marātibu'l-wujūd. The same theosophical treatise as described in IvASB 1262. The name of the author appears here as Muḥammad b. Nūri'd-Dīn al-Khalīfa الحصري (al-Ḥuṣrī ?). Beg as usual:

الحمد لله (sic) الذي لا اله الا هو الخ ... اين رساله ايست مسمى الخ

Only one item is dated, namely the third, on f. 28: Bhawālpūr, 1274/1857–1858. Others, although written on different papers and by different hands, seem to be of approximately the same time.

470. (مجموعه در تصوف)

(Majmū'a dar taṣawwuf). II 178.

A collection of Sufic and metaphysical treatises, which seem to be of fairly modern origin. The exact dates of their composition cannot be ascertained as there are no indications in them to this effect.

1. (ff. 1–17). Nafas-i-Raḥmānī. The same metaphysical tract, as described in IvASB 1315, by Mūsā b. Dā'ūd (f. 1v, l. 12), a disciple of Sayyid 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān al-Ḥusaynī al-Qādirī. It is not divided into chapters, and consists of mystical interpretations of various Coranic expressions. Beg. as usual :

حمدیکه بر کرسي هاى السنه کاینات بمضمون و ان من یشئ الخ

2. (ff. 17v–18). A portion of a Sufic epistle, see further, 4, in this note.

3. (ff. 18v–28). Maktūb dar taḥqīq-i-rūḥ. An epistle of Sufico-metaphysical contents, dealing with the nature and properties of the spiritual world, see IvASB 1312 (1). The author calls himself Sayyid 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān and is probably identical with the spiritual guide of Mūsā b. Dā'ūd, mentioned above (1). Beg.

حمد بیغایات سزاى فیاضي که حقایق علمى را بفیض اقدس الخ

4. (ff. 28v–32). Maktūb dar taḥqīq-i-shughl-i-maqāman maḥmūdan, etc. A Sufic epistle, probably by the same author as of the preceding letter, addressed to his son, Sayyid 'Alī Muḥammad, the same as IvASB 1312 (4). It deals with the mystical interpretations of the Coranic expression مقاماً محموداً و سلطاناً نصیراً. Its end corresponds here with f. 64, l. 2 of E 188 (IvASB 1312), and its continuation is found on f. 17v in this volume, see (2) above. Beg. as usual :

الحمد لله ... اما بعد ، بر ضمیر عقیدت پذیر فرزند سعادتمند الخ

Copied at Ḥaydarābād, by Muḥammad 'Uthmān Khān, in the month of Rab. II 1297/March-April 1880.

Three short notes of Sufic contents, all apparently of quite modern origin :

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

1. (f. 1). Fā'ida az malfūẓ-i-jināb-i-Sulṭānu'l-awliyā'. A short note, half a page long, on the principal Sufic virtues.

2. (ff. 1v–4v). (Risāla dar adhkār-i-Qalandariyya). A short treatise on the forms of dhikr, practised by the Qalandarī affiliation, beg. abruptly:

طریق ذکر قلندریه در یابد جلسهٔ معهود نکاهدارد الخ...

3. (ff. 4v–5v). (Risāla dar tawḥīd). Two pages on tawḥīd, beg.

472.

اصطلاحات صوفیه

Iṣṭilāḥāt-i-Ṣūfiyya.

I 418.

A short note on Sufic poetical and mystical terms and metaphors, with very meagre explanations. The heading is given as رسالهٔ عبد الرزاق در اصطلاحات صوفیه. It is known that 'Abdu'r-Razzāq Kāshī (d. 730/1329) has written a special treatise, in Arabic, on Sufic technical terms (ed. by A. Sprenger, Calcutta, 1845). This heading may therefore imply that this note is based on 'Abdu'r-Razzāq's book (cf. R 832, where a Persian paraphrase of the same original treatise is described). It begins abruptly:

بدانکه تصوف تزکیهٔ قلب است الخ

Copied in 983/1575-1576 (?–very doubtful), by Darwīsh Muḥammad.

Ff. 4; S 6 × 4; 4,5 × 2,75; ll 17, no jadwals. Old Europ. pap. Turkish nast. Cond. good. Turkish verses on f. 1.

473.

مخزن السالکین

Makhzanu's-sālikīn.

III 110.

A Sufic theosophical treatise, ascribed to the authorship of Burhān Chishtī (f. 3), of whom no details are given. Moreover, this seems to be the only proper name appearing in the whole of the work, so that there is no chance to establish even a conjectural date of composition. It seems to be rather modern in its style, and contains discussions on the 'light' of Muḥammad. Divine love and other similar topics. There is no division into chapters. In the colophon the title is given in a more expanded form:

مخزن السالکین و مقصد فارقین و مطلب طالبین و مشهد عاشقین،

Beg. of the treatise :

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 27 ; S 8,25 × 5,25 ; 5,25 × 2,25 ; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap., new margins, of Eur. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. A few folios in the beginning are damaged by worms.

474. در المجالس

Durru'l-majālis. II 167.

The well-known collection of Sufic, religious and moral anecdotes, in 33 bābs, by Sayfu'ẓ-Ẓafar, or, as he is called here, f. 2v, l. 4, Sayyid Ẓafar Naubihārī. The period in which he was writing still remains uncertain, but it was probably not later than the XI/XVIIc. See IvASB 1306, where references to other catalogues are given. The present copy is slightly incomplete in the beginning (probably only one leaf is lost), and opens with the passage corresponding to f. 1v, l. 8 in D 161 (IvASB 1308) :

... و كرامات كرامات مزين كردند الخ

Dated 1135/1722–1723.

Ff. 161 ; S 8,5 × 5 ; 6,5 × 3,25 ; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. A few notes on the margins.

475. اثبات سماع الغناء

Ithbāt samā'i'l-ghanā'. II 145.

A brief treatise dealing with the lawfulness of the Sufic practice of extatic music and dances, from the strict Sunnite point of view. In the colophon it is ascribed to the authorship of one Shaykh Jamāl Muḥaddith. Cf. another treatise on samā', No. 457. The work consists of references to the most authentic treatises on fiqh and ḥadīth. It is divided into 4 bābs :

۱ (f. 1v) مباح سماع الغناء في الاحياء (sic) القلوب ،

۲ (f. 2v) در جواز سماع غنا و رقص بآثار صحابه ،

۳ (f. 3) در جواز سماع غنا و رقص صحيح علماء فحول الخ

Numerous and long marginal notes and occasional glosses. Beg.

الحمد لله ... اما بعد، فهذه رسالة المسمى باثبات السماع الغناء

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c. (from the original dated 1091/1680, as stated in a postscript), by one Ḥāfiẓ Imāmu'd-Dīn, called 'Ārif Shāh Qurayshī al-Qādirī, who in spite of his being a ḥāfiẓ apparently had no elementary knowledge of Arabic grammar.

Irshādu's-sālikīn.

II 172.

A short treatise, intended for the perusal of beginners, on the elementary rules concerning the practising of dhikr according to the teachings of the Indian Naqshbandīs. In the colophon the author is called Khayru'd-Dīn. He apparently belonged to the branch of the Naqshbandī order, founded by Aḥmad Fārūqī Sarhindī (d. ca. 1035/1626) (cf. f. 7). The date of composition is not given, but the work seems to be rather modern. It is divided into one muqaddima, explaining Sufic terminology, two maqṣads: the first (f. 3v) در بيان تلقين ذكر اسم ذات, and generally on initiation; the second (f. 6v), در بيان ذكر نفى و اثبات; and a khātima (f. 13) of a didactic nature. There are no references to other Sufic works. Beg.

A short Sufic treatise, incomplete at the beginning, containing instructive anecdotes about early Sufis. The title, the name of the author, and the exact date of composition are not found in this copy, probably because of its being defective. There is no division into bābs and it does not seem clear what particular topic in Sufic lore these anecdotes are intended to illustrate. In the colophon the book is called: نكته چند از كلام معجز نظام ولي الله, but it is difficult to determine whether the words ولي الله constitute the name of the author. Beg. abruptly :

(Risāla-i-faqr).

(رسالهٔ فقر)

II 189.

The usual brief darwīsh manual on the principal rites, prayers, initiation, and some moral teachings the knowledge of which is compulsory to every faqīr. As usual, the authorship is ascribed to the early Sufic saint, Abū'l-Ḥasan Kharqānī (d. ca. 425/1033–1034), but this is a merely stylistic element in this kind of composition, and should not be relied on. The work is divided into nine very short bābs :

۱ (f. 2v) در بیان ارادت آوردن ،
۲ (f. 3v) در بیان توبه دادن ،
۳ (f. 4v) در بیان مقراض راندن ،
۴ (f. 5) در بیان کلاه پوشیدن ،
۵ (f. 6v) در بیان خرقه پوشیدن ،
۶ (f. 7v) در بیان میان بستن ،
۷ (f. 8v) در بیان سجاده و ادب (قندیل و زنبیل و علم) ،
۸ (f. 9v) در بیان جاروب دادن و کچکول گردانیدن و تکبیر گفتن ،
۹ (f. 10) در بیان جهد و چهل و چهار مقام فقر دانستن ،

(رسالهٔ فقر)

(Risāla-i-faqr).

II 171.

Another elementary manual on the Darwish rites and moral doctrines, similar to that described above under No. 479. The work is chiefly based on the (apocryphal) tradition ascribed to Ja'far Ṣādiq (he and Abū'l-Ḥasan Kharqānī are frequently chosen as authorities in this class of compositions). The real compiler does not mention his own name. The date of composition, as usual in these risālas, may be the same as the date of transcription. There is some irregular division into bābs, and they are all unnumbered. Beg.

(رسالهٔ فقر)

(Risāla-i-faqr).

I 728.

Another manual of rules for Darwishes concerning prayer, rites of initiation, moral principles and mystic interpretations of various parts of the dress, ornaments, daily routine, etc., of a mendicant Sufi. As very often in compositions of this class, the authorship is ascribed to Imām Ja'far Ṣādiq (cf. No. 480). There is no systematic division in the booklet, and the greater portion of it is written in a catechetic form (... اکر ترا پرسند که ... جواب بکو که). It is incomplete at the end (the last folio, said in the subscript to belong to a risāla of Quṭbu'd-Dīn Dihlawī, is not connected with the present work). Beg.

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

The work is dedicated (cf. f. 3v) to a local prince of Gīlān and Daylam, Dubāj b. Fīlshāh b. Rustam b. Dubāj, belonging to the house of the Isḥāqides, who is profusely eulogised here (ff. 3v–6v). The title in its full form is given on f. 6v, as Durratu't-tāj li-ghurrati'd-Dubāj. A complete fihrist is given on ff. 29v–41v. The book is divided into a fātiḥa, five jumlas, and a khātima, but the present copy contains only: Fātiḥa (f. 6v), subdivided into three faṣls: 1, f. 6v, on the advantages of knowledge; 2, f. 15, on its reliability; 3, f. 17v, on the division of the sciences.

I jumla (f. 41v), on logic, divided into seven maqālas (m. 1 on f. 41v, m. 2 on f. 56, m. 3 on f. 58v, m. 4 on f. 73, m. 5 on f. 80v, m. 6 on f. 87v, m. 7 on f. 89v).

II jumla (f. 97), on physics and philosophy, in two fanns (on ff. 97 and 114), each subdivided into seven maqālas.

III jumla (f. 133), on natural science, in two fanns (on ff. 133 and 156), also subdivided into seven maqālas each.

This section comes to an end on f. 177, and the remainder of this volume is occupied by an additional fihrist to the work (ff. 193–199v), and several items which are not connected with the Durratu't-tāj:

1. (ff. 178–180). A qaṣīda, in Arabic, apparently ascribed to the authorship of Avicenna, beg.

يقول الراجي ربه ابن سينا، و لم يزل بالله مستعينا،

2. (ff. 180–180v). Another qaṣīda, also in Arabic, with the heading:

القصيدة المعروفة بتنزيل الشمس فى المنازل الاثنى عشر لابى الحسن ابن ابى الرضا العلوى المحايرى (?)،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

It begins:

اعلم بان الشمس لما خلقت، الخ

Notes at the end, of a magical character.

3. (ff. 181–185v). (Risāla dar hay'at). A short treatise, or rather a collection of extracts, on some astrological and astronomical matters connected with the moon. The name of the compiler, the title of the treatise, and the date of composition are not given. Beg.

بر اینه ضمیر منیر خورشید نظیر الخ

4. (ff. 186–187v). Dar ma'rifat-i-maqādir. A brief note on mensuration and geometry.

5. (ff. 187v–192). (Risāla dar ḥisāb). A short note of mathematical contents, probably an extract from the Durratu't-tāj (cf. f. 188), beg.

منقولست که واضع علم عدد حکیم فیساغورس است الخ

Copied apparently towards the end of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 199; S 12 × 7,5; 9 × 4,5; ll 21, no jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Slightly worm-eaten. Notes and emendations on the margins.

484.

The same. I 365*a*.

An incomplete copy of the khātima of the same Durratu't-tāj. It is originally divided into four quṭbs, but here only the second, third and fourth are found, the last being incomplete at the end:

II quṭb (f. 1), on theological matters (در انچه بفروغ دین تعلق دارد), in two qā'idas.

III quṭb (f. 97v), on ethics and politics (در حکمت عملی که منحصرست در تهذیب اخلاق و سیاست), divided into four qā'idas.

IV quṭb (f. 193), on spiritual training and mysticism (در بیان انچه طالب راه حق را دانستن دربایست شود در سلوک راه حق); it is divided into two bābs.

Beg. of the MS.

عقول عشرة

I 667.

'Uqūl-i-'ashara.

The well-known encyclopædia, by Muḥammad Birārī Ummī b. Muḥammad Jamshīd b. Ujyārī (sic, usually Jabbārī) Khān b. Majnūn Khān Qāqshāl (f. 1v), see EB 1495, Pr 168, Fl I 43–44. Ind. libr. Bh 222. The second 'aql from this work, on the astrolabe, included in a majmū'a, is mentioned in IvASB 1500(2). The book was completed in 1084/1673–1674 (f. 1v, bottom). The chronogram for the date of completion, found at the end of the work (f. 305v), gives only 1083/1672–1673: عقول عشرة و اعجوبهٔ دهر. The treatise is divided into 10 'aqls, each subdivided into a number of fahms, firāsats, kiyāsats. The first 'aql, on astronomy, beg. on f. 4v; II, on the astrolabe, beg. on f. 46v; III, on divination by raml, beg. on f. 54v; IV, on physics, meteorology, geography, etc., beg. on f. 66. A description of the seven iqlīms, given on ff. 85–129, with brief notes on countries, cities and remarkable buildings, is full of anachronisms and fairy tales. Biographies of Sufis (ff. 134v–139v), divines and poets (ff. 139v–147), are meagre and give no dates; V, on medicine, including the interpretation of dreams, physiognomy, music, dancing, etc., beg. on f. 179; VI, on hills, metallurgy, etc., f. 272; VII, on the mineral and animal worlds, on f. 277v; VIII, on seas, f. 296; IX, on 'wonders,' f. 300. The tenth 'aql, on time and space, is entirely omitted here. A list of headings is given on ff. 2–4v. Beg. of the work:

حمدی که لایق درگاه کبریا باشد ... اما بعد، محمد برازی امی ابن محمد جمشید ابن اُجیاری خان الخ

On the margins of ff. 77v–83, there are two faṣls, the 19th and the 20th, the first on famous rivers, and the second on remarkable springs. According to subscripts in both sections (ff. 79v and 83), this is an extract from چهل فصلی آخوند محمد باقر as the work is here called. The first of them is identical with a fragment described above under No. 99. These notes have been added in 1179/1765–1766.

Dated the 19th Jum. I 1173/ the 8th Jan. 1760, at Faydābād, transcribed by Sayyid Bakhshu'l-lah (?) al-Ḥasanī, for Muḥammad Yūnus Khān.

Ff. 305; S 11,5 × 6,5; 9 × 3,75; ll 19, within jadwals. Or. coloured pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. Bad vignette. A few notes on f. 1.

486. مطلع العلوم و مجمع الفنون

Maṭla'u'l-'ulūm wa majma'u'l-funūn. II 427.

An encyclopædia of sciences, arts and crafts, by Wājid 'Alī (cf. f. 3v), composed by him in the period from the 20th Dhī'l-Qa'da 1261/ the 20th Nov. 1845 to Shawwāl 1262/ Sept.-Oct. 1846 (cf. f. 6). A chronogram for the second date is given in the preface (f. 2), as مظهر العجايب (1262). It was lithographed at Agra, 1862,[1] and Lucknow, 1866. It is divided into two halves, daftars, each separately called the Maṭla'u'l-'ulūm and Majma'u'l-funūn. There is a short preface, in which the title and the date of composition are given (ff. 1–2). The work itself begins on f. 3, with a doxology, followed by a chapter on some details concerning the compiler's biography and qualifications, on ff. 3v–5v, and reasons for compiling the book (f. 5v–7); a complete list of the bābs into which the work is divided, and an appeal to the customers to correct the mistakes found in it, are given on ff. 6v–7.

The first daftar is divided into 37 bābs: 1, f. 7, on the alphabet; 2, f. 10v, on proverbs; 3, f. 13, on 'ajā'ib, and anecdotes; 4, f. 15, on jokes; 5, f. 21, on physiognomy; 6, f. 25, on grammar; 7, f. 30v, on style, epistolography, etc.; 8, f. 33, on ethics; 9, f. 38v, on history and biography (it gives the legends of ancient prophets, ancient kings of Persia, salsalas of Sufis, f. 65v; of some legendary sages and philosophers, f. 66v, etc.); 10, f. 69v, on rhetoric; 11, f. 72, on dialectics; 12, f. 76, on badī', or tropes; 13, f. 84, on prosody; 14, f. 87v, on rhyme; 15, f. 90, on theology ('aqā'id); 16, f. 92, on fiqh; 17, f. 100, on tafsīr; 18, f. 102v, on ḥadīth; 19, f. 105, on ṭarīqat; 20, f. 110v, on medicine; 21, f. 119, on geography; 22, f. 123v, on accounts and mathematics; 23, f. 127, on geometry; 24, f. 129, on astrology; 25, f. 138v, on mechanics; 26, f. 150, on music; 27, f. 155v, on philosophy; 28, f. 164, on logic; 29, f. 168, on the art of debate; 30, f. 169, on astronomy; 31, f. 175v, on raml; 32, f. 181v, on jafr; 33, f. 188v, on kīmiyā: 34, f. 192v, on līmiyā; 35, f. 196v, on hīmiyā; 36, f. 197, on sīmiyā; 37, f. 201, on rīmiyā.

The second daftar (f. 205), is divided into four bābs, dealing with funūn, of the highest (I), middle (II), lower (III), and the lowest (IV) orders: the first bāb (f. 205), deals with the interpretation of dreams, veterinary art (f. 214), chess and other games (f. 226v), knowledge of precious stones (f. 229v), cookery (f. 233), surgery (f. 241), hunting (f. 251v), making antimony (f. 253), midwifery (f. 258v), elephant breeding (f. 260v), teaching (f. 264), education

[1] In E. Edwards' Catalogue of the Persian printed books in the British Museum, 1922, col. 717, the year is given as 1826, which is probably a misprint.

(f. 267), calligraphy (f. 276v), riding (f. 279), agriculture (f. 280), printing (f. 282), military art (f. 284v), painting (f. 285), trade (f. 285v), billing and money-lending (f. 290).

The second bāb (f. 293v) deals with the crafts of: the blacksmith (f. 293v), inkmaker (f. 294v), زنگار سازان (f. 295v), firework-maker (f. 296), corn merchant (f. 296v), maker of domestic utensils (f. 297), painter on ivory (f. 297), etc., with different minor crafts; also with sorcerers (کیمیا گران, f. 318v), perfumers (f. 320), musicians (muṭribs, f. 321), tobacco sellers (f. 322v), etc.

The third bāb (f. 323v), deals with different professions like those of the barber (f. 323v), camelman (f. 324), etc., including beggars (f. 341).

The fourth bāb (f. 341v), deals with the vile professions, like those of the thief, gambler, pederast, prostitute, etc.

The khātima (f. 343), gives in a versified passage the date of completion as 1268/1851–1852 (نامه بی نظیر).

Beg. of the preface:

مطلع العلوم عقلیه و نقلیه سواد حمد آنست که الخ

Beg. of the work itself (f. 3):

حمدی که شان خداوندی را شاید از زبان مخلوق الخ

2. Philosophy, Ethics and Politics.

487. معراجیه

Mi'rājiyya. I 93.

A treatise on the philosophical and theosophical meaning of the tradition about Muḥammad's Mi'rāj, usually ascribed to the authorship of Abū 'Alī Ibn Sīnā (d. 428/1037). This is the case also in the present copy, Avicenna's name being mentioned in this connection in the heading. See EB 1422, IV, and R 438. There are many reasons to doubt the genuineness of Avicenna's authorship, as already noticed in R 438.

The language of this copy is much modernised. Beg. as usual:

سپاس و ستایش خداوند زمین و آسمان را الخ ... بهر وقتی عزیزی از جملهٔ دوستان ما در معنی معراج سوالها میکرد الخ

Copied in the end of the xii/xviii c., or beg. of the xiii/xix c.

488. اخلاق ناصری

Akhlāq-i-Nāṣirī. II 206.

The famous treatise on ethics and politics, by (Naṣīru'd-Dīn) Muḥammad (b. Muḥammad b. al-Ḥasan) aṭ-Ṭūsī (f. 2v), who died in 672/1274, see IvASB 1372, where references to other catalogues, etc., are given (add Rs Br 130). The copy is an excellent MS., although slightly incomplete in the middle due to several lacunas. Beg. as usual:

حمد بیحد و مدح بیعد لایق حضرت عزت مالک الملکی الخ

Of the three maqālas into which the work is divided, the first (در تهذیب اخلاق) begins on f. 9v; the second (در تدبیر منزل) is incomplete in the beg. and opens with the 3rd faṣl (f. 135v); the third (در سیاست مدن) beg. on f. 155v.

The first and the last folios are of more modern origin. There is no colophon at the end, but in another, on the margins on f. 174 (belonging to the Jām-i-jam, see above, No. 224), the date is given as the 20th Shawwāl 877/ the 20th March 1473. Both works are transcribed by the same hand, and therefore the present one must have been completed a short time before that date.

Ff. 236; S 8×4,5; 4,25×2; ll 17, within double jadwals. Old Or. pap. Excellent Khorasani calligraphic nast., vocalised almost throughout. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. A modern bad vignette.

489. مفتاح الجنان

Miftāḥu'l-jinān. I 964.

An incomplete copy of a treatise on ethics and religious duties, based on strictly orthodox Sunnite ideals, and containing many prayers, etc. The author calls himself (f. 2) Muḥammad Mujīr-i-Wajīh Adīb; he was a disciple of the famous Chishtī saint, Chirāgh-i-Dihlī (d. 757/1356). See EIO 2565–2566, R 40. The work may have been written ca. 770/1368. It is divided into 25 bābs (their contents are given in R 41), but the present copy gives only ten of them, the last being incomplete:

۱ (f. 4v) در بیان کلمه تهلیل و ذکر و استغفار و دعاهائی هر روزه الخ
۲ (f. 27v) در فضیلت وضو و غسل الخ
۳ (f. 36) در فضیلت نماز و فضیلت صف اول الخ
۴ (f. 89v) در فضیلت روزهٔ نفل و روزهٔ ایام بیض الخ
۵ (f. 96) در فضیلت زکوة و صدقه الخ
۶ (f. 122) در ثواب نیت دل مؤمن،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

۷ (f. 123v) در بیان ادب ،

۸ (f. 128) در بیان حلم و غضب و عفو الخ

۹ (f. 136v) در حیا ،

۱۰ (f. 138v) در صدق و کذب و غیبت الخ

The authorities on which the work is based are enumerated in detail in EIO 2565. Beg. of the treatise :

حمد بی حد و ثنائی بی عدد مر خالق احد ... میکوید این بندهٔ ضعیف الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

*Ff. 1v–154v; S 11 × 6,25; 8 × 3,75; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. A few glosses and emendations on the margins.

490. ذخیرة الملوک

Dhakhīratu'l-mulūk. I 404.

The well-known work on ethics and politics, by 'Alī b. Shihāb(i'd-Dīn) Hamadānī (d. ca. 786/1384–1385), see IvASB 1380. The present copy is incomplete and breaks off at the end of the 8th bāb. Beg. as usual :

حمد بسیار و ثنای بیشمار حضرت ملکی را که الخ

The 1st bāb begins on f. 2v; 2nd on f. 15v; 3rd on f. 27; 4th on f. 38v; 5th on f. 49v; 6th on f. 66v; 7th on f. 80; 8th on f. 100v.

Copied probably towards the beg. of the xii/xviii c. Ff. 1–23 are of newer origin, dating probably from the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 109; S 10 × 6,25; 5,75 × 3,25; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. pap., new margins, of Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. rather bad. Injured by moisture.

491. نصائح نظام الملک

Naṣā'iḥ-i-Niẓāmu'l-Mulk. I 1092.

The well-known counsels concerning the duties of a wazir, compiled towards the end of the IX/XVc. by an author who does not mention his own name, see IvASB 1381. The present copy is slightly incomplete at the end (several lacunas), which is different from that in No. 492. Beg. as usual :

شرایف تحمیدات پادشاهي را که انتساب فخر دین بنظام ملک الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 40; S 8 × 5,5; 6 × 3; ll 18, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good. Worm-eaten, repaired. A few emendations on the margins. Bad vignette. A seal, erased, on f. 1, and a note.

492.

The same. III 44.

Another copy of the same work, much inferior to the preceding one with regard to its execution. Beg. as usual, see No. 491.

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 81; S 8×4,75; 6,75×3; ll 13, within jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Scrappy notes on the first and last folios.

493. تحقيقات در بيان احوال موجودات

Taḥqīqāt dar bayān-i-aḥwāl-i-mawjūdāt. II 149.

A treatise on philosophy, chiefly dealing with the general subjects of Deity, being, etc. The author calls himself (f. 1) Muḥammad, surnamed Shamsā Gīlānī. He was living not earlier than the X/XVIc., because on f. 113 he refers to Jalālu'd-Dīn Dawānī (d. 908/1502–1503). There are almost no references to the authorites or contemporaries of the compiler. He may be identical with Shamsu'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Yaḥyā Lāhijī Gīlānī, who used the takhallus Asīrī, and was the author of the well-known commentary on the Gulshan-i-rāz (cf. above, No. 217 and IvASB 555); he died in the beg. of the X/XVIc. (see for his biography R 650). The work is divided into a number of taḥqīqs, without headings, but only about half a dozen of them in the beginning are clearly marked. Beg.

سپاس تقدس اساس و ستایش بیرون از الخ ... اما بعد، چنین گوید الخ

Copied apparently in the beg. of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 122; S 9×5; 6,5×3,25; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A few marginal emendations. Marginal notes on f. 1. Several seals.

494. جام كيتي نما

Jām-i-gītī-numā. I 266.

A short philosophical treatise, divided into a fātiḥa, 30 short maqṣads, and a khātima. It is usually ascribed to the authorship of Ḥusayn b. Mu'īni'd-Dīn Maybūdī, with the takhallus Manṭiqī (d. 910/1504–1505, cf. IvASB 1103 and R 19). See Rs Br 256,3, Br 4 VI, R 812. The present copy is complete, but the date of composition is not mentioned in it. Beg.

سپاس حكيمي را كه افكار حكما و انظار علما الخ

Copied in the xi/xvii c.

Ff. 18; S 8,25×4,75; 5,25×2,75; ll 14, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten, pasted, dirty. Bad vignette.

اخلاق همایون

Akhlāq-i-Humāyūn.

I 21.

A short treatise on ethics, chiefly arranged in tabular form, composed in 912/1506–1507, by Ikhtiyār al-Ḥusaynī, and dedicated to Bābur, see IvASB 1387, where references to other catalogues are given. Beg. as usual:

طغرای سعادت خسروان عالیشان دار الملک سخن طرازی الخ

Copied apparently in the same year 1282/1865 as other items in the same volume.

*Ff. 2v–13; for measurements, etc., see No. 297.

496.

(مجموعه در حکمت)

(Majmū'a dar ḥikmat).

III 85.

Two treatises on philosophy, without titles, the names of their authors, or any indication as to the date of composition. Judging from the uniformity of their style they may belong to the same author, or, perhaps, may be extracts from the same work. The copy itself is dated 978/1570–1571 (f. 35), and this is therefore the latest date before which they might have been completed. The earliest date may be the beg. of the VII/XIIIc., because Rāzī (d. 606/1209–1210) is referred to on f. 48. The style of the work rather suggests a later date, and the end of the IX/XVc., or beg. of the X/XVIc. would suit it better.

1. (ff. 1v–35). Kitāb dar ḥikmat ba ṭarīqa-i-ḥukamā-i-mashā'iyyīn. An exposition of the doctrines of the peripatetic school of philosophers. It is divided into several mabḥaths, subdivided into faṣls, unnumbered, dealing with various topics of metaphysics. Beg.

کتاب در حکمت بطریقه حکماء مشایین، مقدمه در تعریف حکمت و تقسیم آن، اعلم ایدک الله که حکمت در اصل لغت الخ

2. (ff. 36v–80). Kitāb dar ḥikmat ba ṭarīqa-i-ishrāqiyyīn. An exposition of the Neo-Platonic philosophy, or rather theosophy, chiefly based on the works of Avicenna. It is divided into seven faṣls:

۱ (f. 37) در بیان اشیایی که حکم مبادی مباحث آیته دارد،

۲ (f. 38) در اثبات تجرد نفس،

۳ (f. 50) در مسایل از علمی که ما بعد طبیعت است و متوقف است بران اثبات واجب لذاته،

۴ (f. 51v) در مباحث نقلیه (? نفیسه or) از الهیات،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

٥ (f. 62v) در اثبات تسلسل حوادث تا غیر نهایت و استنماه آن بحرکت متصله سرمدیه ،

٦ (f. 73v) در اثبات بقاء نفس بعد از هلاک بدن و اشاره باذات و الم عقلیین ،

٧ (f. 76v) در نبوات و معجزات و کرامات و مقامات ،

Beg. of the treatise (f. 36v) :

کتاب در حکمت بطریقهٔ اشراقیین ، اعلم نور الله سرک باشراق النور و الثبات علیه فی دار الغرور الخ

Copied, as mentioned above, in 978/1570–1571 (f. 35).

*Ff. 1–80; S 9,75×6; 6,5×3,75; ll 21, no jadwals. Good old Or. pap. Calligraphic nast. of Khorasani type. Cond. very good. Only in a few places injured by worms or moisture. Seals, not clearly legible.

497. خلاصة الحیوة

Khulāṣatu'l-ḥayāt. I 357.

A history of philosophy, from Adam to the early Muhammadan period. The author calls himself Aḥmad b. Naṣri'l-lah at-Tatawī (f. 1v); he was one of the compilers of the Ta'rīkh-i-Alfī (see above, No. 4), and was assassinated in 996/1588. The work is dedicated to Abū'l-Fatḥ b. 'Abdi'r-Razzāq (Gīlānī, d. 997/1588–1589), cf. R 117–118 and 1034–1035. It is divided into a fātiḥa, subdivided into five faṭḥs, two maqṣads, and a khātima. The first faṭḥ (f. 3) deals with the question of the duration of the world; II (f. 8), on the classification of the religions of mankind; III (f. 14), definition of the conception of philosophy (ḥikmat); IV (f. 20v), on the origins of medicine; V (f. 42), on the ancient geography and history of Greece. Of the two maqṣads the first deals with the pre-Islamic sages and philosophers, beginning from the time of Adam. This maqṣad, begins on f. 46, and is incomplete. There is a colophon, which may be genuine, but a large number of folios must have been lost before it. The second maqṣad, which is not found in this copy, together with the khātima, deals with the philosophers of the Muḥammadan period; the khātima treats on various religions. The exact date of compilation is not mentioned. Beg.

A very bad copy, grievously injured by worms, unskilled pasting, etc. In addition, the original margins have been cut off and replaced by new ones, of bad European paper, so that the catch-words have disappeared. The colophon is dated the first Rajab 3412 (سنه ۳۴۱۲ هجری), probably 1234 or 1243/1819 or 1828, if these figures mean anything at all.

498. ترجمهٔ سراج الملوک

Tarjuma-i-Sirāju'l-mulūk. I 488.

A Persian paraphrase of the well-known work on ethics and politics, Sirāju'l-mulūk fī'l-'adl wa's-sulūk (f. 2), by Abū 'Abdi'l-lah (or, more correctly, Abū Bakr) Muḥammad b. al-Walīd (b. Muḥammad b. Khalaf b. Abī Randaqa) al-Fahrī aṭ-Ṭarṭūshī (d. 520/1126 or 525/1131), cf. Brockelmann, I, 459. The author of the Persian version calls himself (f. 2) Taqiyyu'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Ṣadri'd-Dīn, and is probably identical with the author of a medical work, written about the same time, the Mīzānu'ṭ-ṭabā'i'-i-Quṭb-shāhī, see IvASB 1551. This translation is dedicated (f. 2) to 'Abdu'r-Raḥīm Khān-Khānān (d. 1036/1626-1627). As the original text has been described and printed several times, it is superfluous to give here the full list of the 64 bābs into which the book is divided. In the MS. it is given on ff. 4–6. The translation seems to follow the original fairly closely, and is written in ā simple style. Beg.

499. حق الیقین

Ḥaqqu'l-yaqīn. II 143.

A concise treatise on philosophical and theosophical matters. The author calls himself Aḥmad ash-Sharīf b. Kamāl al-Ḥusaynī ash-Shīrāzī, surnamed Qāḍī (ابن کمال احمد الشریف الحسینی الشیرازی), see f. 3. The work is dedicated to, apparently, a governor, or high official, Sayyid 'Abdu'l-lah Khān (f. 5). The book must have been written towards the end of the XI/XVII*c.*, or in the beg. of the XII/XVIII*c.*, because there are references to Ṣadru'd-Dīn Muḥammad Shīrāzī, d. 1050/1640–1641 (f. 50), and to the author of the Gauhar-i-murād (see above, No. 374), who flourished in the second half of the XI/XVII*c.*, 'Abdu'r-Razzāq (Qumī), cf. ff. 26, 51v, 72, etc. The author of the work, described above under No. 493, Shamsā-i-Gīlānī, is also referred to on f. 21. The book is divided into a muqaddima (f. 5): در بیان ابطال اولویة ذاتي, and two maqālas, each subdivided into minor sections:

501. انیس الوزراء

Anīsu'l-wuzarā'. II 406.

A treatise on ethics and politics, by Ṣadru'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Zabardast Khān (f. 1v), who wrote between 1131 and 1161/1719-1748 (in the reign of Muḥammad Shāh, see R 338), and who is better known as the author of a work on the biographies of famous wazirs, the Irshādu'l-wuzarā' (see R 338). The date of composition of the present treatise is not given. As stated in the introduction (f. 1v), it is chiefly based on the Akhlāq-i-Nāṣirī (see No. 488), and is intended to facilitate the understanding of that treatise. The book is divided into 22 ta'līms of unequal length, some being subdivided into numerous fanns, and a khātima:

503. ترجمهٔ عين العلم

Tarjuma-i-'Aynu'l-'ilm. I 183.

A Persian paraphrase of a rare work on ethics, based on the Sunnite orthodox tradition and the Coran, called Aynu'l-'ilm. The Arabic original seems to have been lost (not mentioned in C. Brockelmann's work), and its authorship is uncertain. In this copy, as well as in Ḥājjī Khalīfa (No. 8440, in vol. IV, pp. 282–283), it is ascribed to the grammarian of the VIII/XIVc., Muḥammad b. 'Uthmān b. 'Umar al-Balkhī (cf. Brockelmann, II, 193). The compiler of the Persian version calls himself (f. 2) Muḥammad Rafī'u'd-Dīn. He also perused the commentaries of Mullā 'Alī Qāri' (Harawī or Makkī, cf. Ḥājjī Khalīfa, loc. cit., and Brockelmann, II, 394), d. 1014/1605 (Ḥ. Khalīfa gives 1104/1692–1693, but this is an obvious misreading), and of Fakhru'd-Dīn Dihlawī (perhaps identical with the Indian traditionalist, a grandson of 'Abdu'l-Ḥaqq Dihlawī, who wrote towards the end of the XI/XVIIc., cf. IvASB 1007). The Persian translation was apparently completed on the 22nd Shawwāl 1186/the 16th Jan. 1773, as stated on f. 276 (the passage is not quite clear). The author may therefore be identical with the compiler of the Thamarātu'l-Makkiyya, who wrote, on Sufic subjects, in 1198/1783–1784, Muḥammad Rafī'u'd-Dīn b. Muḥammad Shamsi'd-Dīn b. Muḥammad Tāji'd-Dīn (cf. IvASB 1293). The work is divided into a muqaddima (f. 3), 20 bābs, and a khātima, در محبت الهي و سلوك (f. 271). The bābs deal with :

At the end, on ff. 278-284, there is a short note on the ḥadīth, in Arabic, with the heading (in the beginning) Aṣl uṣūli'l-ḥadīth, but the title, as given on f. 278v, l. 5, is Al-uṣūlu'l-'Aṭā'iyya. The compiler calls himself (f. 283v, l. 6), Nūru'l-islām b. Salāmi'l-lah b. Shaykhi'l-islām ad-Dihlawī. The pamphlet is divided into several short maqṣads, it seems to be incomplete in the middle. Beg.

At the end there is a short note (f. 283v-284) of religious contents, in Persian.

Copied apparently in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.; perhaps the date is the 17th Shawwāl 1258/ the 21st Nov. 1843, as stated in the passage on f. 276, referred to above, which is not quite clear:

لله الحمد ... كه روز شنبه بيست و دوم شوال سنه ١١٨٦ هجري دوشنبه هفتدهم

شوال سنه ١٢٥٨ هجري از تسويد اين ترجمه ..... فراغ دست داد الخ (sic)

The first date is most probably that of the completion of the work itself, and the second one may have been added by the scribe, who corrupted the sentence.

III 36.

A treatise on politics, in the form of anecdotes concerning the wazīrs Sūmat and Kūmat (سومت و كومت), narrated to Rājā Paramātmā (پرماتما). The anecdotes deal with the usual questions of 'administrative ethics,' but considerable attention is devoted to different allusions to actual politics in Oudh, and generally Eastern India, a special place being reserved for eulogies of the Nawwāb of Oudh, Sa'ādat-'Alī Khān (1212–1229/1797–1814). The author does not mention his own name, but gives the date of composition of his work as 1214/1799–1800 (f. 3, chronogram باد انجامش بخير). But it was probably only completed in 1218/1803-1804 (see f. 144v). He calls the treatise باغچهٔ بهار چهار چمن كيان پركاش (f. 3). It is divided into four chamans, subdivided into khiyābāns:

1 كفتار وزير سومت و كومت و بر آمدن كومت از دربار، (f. 3v)

R 24. The work is divided into five maṭla's and an additional nukta, all subdivided into different numbers of maqālas, qisms, bābs, faṣls, etc. The maṭla's deal with :

Gulzār-i-i'tibār. II 314.

A short treatise on moral virtues and vices, in ornate prose and verse, in a highly artificial, bombastic style. It was written by Ḥamīd, whose real name was Muḥammad Ḥamīdu'l-lah Islāmābādī, in 1281/1864–1865 (see f. 39v, where the chronogram فراغ is given, cf. also f. 42). On ff. 43–46 and on a fly-leaf at the end there are additional quotations from Ḥamīd and a few from other poets. Beg. of the treatise:

اى دل غنچه درد در ياد نام تو ز بيم الخ ... بنام پاک پروردكار الخ

The treatise is subdivided into short unnumbered sections, in prose or in the form of ghazal-, mathnawīs, rubā'īs, etc., in praise of some particular virtues or condemnation of particular vices. Many marginal notes and interlinear glosses.

Dated (see f. 42v) the 6th Jum. II 1285/ the 24th Sept. 1868, transcribed by Minnatu'l-lah Paṭyawī (Patnawī?).

غاية المكان في دراية الزمان

Ghāyatu'l-makān fī dirāyati'z-zamān. I 681.

A treatise on space and time, discussed from a theosophico-psychological point of view, proving their illusoriness, especially with regard to the supernatural powers of the Deity or the saints. It is the same work as described in EIO 1869 IV and IvASB 1392, where it is styled Ghāyatu'l-imkān fī dirāyati'l-makān. In the colophon of this copy it is called Ar-risālatu'l-makāniyya. In the India Office copy the authorship is ascribed to Maḥmūd Ushnū'ī. Here, however, it is attributed to the famous Sufic saint, ' Aynu'l-Quḍāt Hamadānī (f. 22, in the colophon, عين القضات سيد همداني),[1] who died ca. 533/1138-1139, cf. above, No. 408. This statement seems to be rather unreliable : but the style of the treatise resembles to some extent that of the Tamhīdāt, and the authorities, referred to here, all are early Sufic writers or saints. It is divided into several unnumbered faṣls, without special headings. There are occasional Persian and Arabic poetical quotations. On the whole, the work may really be of an early origin. The text of this copy coincides closely with that of Oa 49 (IvASB 1392), except in the concluding lines. Beg. as usual :

[1] The word Sayyid is probably due to the confusion, on the part of the scribe of 'Aynu'l-quḍāt with Sayyid ' Alī Hamadānī, so popular in India.

الحمد لله الذي لا آخر لاوليته ولا اول لآخريته ... بدان احسن الله تعالى تعليمک و تفهيمک که چون پادشاه عالم النخ

A bad copy, dating apparently from the end of the xii/xviii c., or the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

511. (مجموعه)

(Majmūʿa). II 54.

A collection of extracts, in Arabic and Persian, dealing with metaphysical and psychological matters :

1. (f. 1). (Mukhtaṣar fī'n-nafs). A short treatise, in Arabic, on psychology, ascribed to the authorship of Aristotle (cf. R 834 XXIII, where a Persian version of this work, also ascribed to Aristotle, is mentioned). It is divided into seven short qauls. Beg.

2. (f. 3). Ādāb Arisṭūṭālīs. A short tract, in Arabic, dealing with the elements of morals ; it is ascribed to the authorship of Aristotle ' who taught it to Alexander.' Beg.

هذا آداب ارسطوطاليس كتبها فى صحيفة و كان يعلمها اسكندر النخ

3. (f. 4). (Risāla dar ḥikmat). A short treatise, in Persian, without a title or any mention of the name of the compiler and the date of composition, dealing with theosophic matters. It is dedicated to a sultan (f. 5v), whose name does not appear. The work is divided into two maqāms (I, f. 5v, در مباحث علمى رسمى and II, f. 10v, در كشف بعضى حقايق شهودى), subdivided into several minor sections. Beg.

4. (f. 15v). (Muntakhab min Iḥyā'i'l-'ulūm). A short extract from Ghazālī's well-known work, Iḥyā' 'ulūmi'd-dīn, beg.

On ff. 22–23 there are minor extracts, in Persian and Arabic, on different subjects.

Copied, according to the colophon on f. 15, the 22nd Shawwāl 1156 (the 26th year of Muḥammad Shāh), or the 9th Dec. 1743; but on f. 3, l. 2, the date is the 12th Shawwāl 1125. As the text is continuous, and the handwriting exactly the same, this must be a mistake.

3. Logic.

منهاج المبين

512. I 1012.

Minhāju'l-mubīn.

A treatise on logic, written in fairly archaic and simple language. The title, as above, is given in the colophon; in the heading at the beginning of the treatise it is called Risālat fī'l-manṭiq. In the same heading the authorship is attributed to Bābā Afḍal Kāshī (d. 707/1307-1308), cf. above No. 419. In the text his name is not mentioned, and it is impossible to decide as to the correctness of the statement. Apparently this MS. originally formed a part of the volume to which belonged Nos. 419 and 420 in this catalogue, containing works of Afḍal Kāshī. The title of this treatise is mentioned in the fihrist of Kāshī's compositions given there, No. 419, on f. 3v. There are no references to the authorities. Beg.

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c. The last folio is of more modern origin.

Ff. 39; S 10,75×6; 8,25×4,25; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good, except in the middle. Worm-eaten.

Muḥākamāt.

A commentary on a treatise on logic; the original is a slightly different version of the well-known Kubrā, by Sayyid Sharīfu'd-Dīn 'Alī Jurjānī (d. 816/1413-1414). The commentator is here called (f. 1v) 'Iṣāmu'd-Dīn Ibrāhīm (b. Muḥammad b. 'Arabshāh al-Isfarā'inī, d. 944/1537–1538) (cf. Brock. II, 410). His explanations were collected, arranged, and edited by his disciple, who calls himself (ibid.) Abū'l-Fatḥ b. al-Makhdūm al-Ḥusaynī. Apparently exactly this work is referred to by Ḥājjī Khalīfa, No. 6374 (III, 446). The text of the original treatise is not given in full, but only the beginnings of the sentences, which are commented upon (marked by قوله) are quoted. Beg. of the treatise :

514. (مجموعه در منطق)

(Majmū'a dar manṭiq). II 78.

A collection of short treatises on logic, in Persian and Arabic, by different authors :

1. (ff. 1–119v). Sharḥ-i-Tahdhību'l-manṭiq. A Persian commentary on the Arabic treatise on logic, Tahdhību'l-manṭiq wa'l-kalām, of Sa'du'd-Dīn Mas'ūd b. 'Umar at-Taftazānī (d. 791/1389). It is the same work as the one described in IvASB 1410; the present MS. is incomplete at the beg. and opens with f. 1, l. 14 (from the bottom) of that transcript. As in the Society's copy, there is here no mention of the commentator's name.

2. (ff. 120v–155). Sharḥ īsāghūjī, or, as it is called in the colophon, Ḥawāshī īsāghūjī. It is an Arabic commentary on the well-known treatise on logic (also in Arabic), by Athīru'd-Dīn (Mufaḍḍal b. 'Umar) al-Abharī, d. ca. 663/1264-1265 (cf. f. 120v), see IvASB 1408, 3. The name of the commentator is not given. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي جعل منطق الانسان مظهر المعلومات الخ

3. (ff. 156–174). Ifādāt. A short treatise, in Arabic, on logic, by Ḥasan Chūg'haryā'ī (چوگهریائی), of Bardwān. It seems to be of modern origin. Beg.

5. (ff. 182v–195). Kubrā. The most popular school-book on logic, by Sayyid Sharīf, or Sharīfu'd-Dīn 'Alī Jurjānī (d. 816/1413–1414), the same as IvASB 1408, 2. Beg. as usual:

بدانکه آدمي را قوتیست دراکه که منتقش کردد الخ

6. (ff. 195v–196v). Ṣughrā. Another, shorter, treatise on logic, by the same Sayyid Sharīf, see IvASB 1408,1. It is incomplete at the end. Beg. as usual:

II 301.

Asāsu'l-iqtibās.

An incomplete copy of the same lengthy treatise on logic as the one described in Bl 729. It does not contain any mention of its author or of the date of composition. There are apparently no references to the authorities, except those to Avicenna, which are very frequent. The Paris copy contains nine maqālas, but in the present MS. there are only five. I (f. 4) در مدخل منطق; II (f. 19v) در مقولات عشر; III (f. 35v) در عبارات; IV (f. 113v) در برهان. V (f. 229v) در علم قیاس. Begins as in Bl 729:

Farhang-nāma.

An early work on Persian lexicography, dealing with rare words met with in the Shāhnāma, here said to be Pahlawī.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Every word is explained and its use is illustrated by numerous quotations from different early poets. The author calls himself Mubārak Ghaznawī, surnamed Qawwās (f. 1v), but his fuller name is given in the Dastūru'l-afāḍil (No. 517, f. 4), as Fakhru'd-Dīn Mubārak Shāh Ghaznawī, surnamed Kamāngar.[1] As stated in R 491 (on the authority of Firishta vol. I, p. 214), he was living in the reign of 'Alā'u'd-Dīn Khiljī (695–715/1296–1316). He refers to his predecessors only in general terms (f. 3), but does not specify any particular work. This Farhang-nāma is often referred to as an authority in the earlier lexicographical compositions (cf. Blochmann, Contributions, No. 61 in the list), but apparently no copy of it is known in Western libraries.

The treatise is divided into five bakhshs, each subdivided into several gūna, etc., in which the words are arranged according to the subject to which they belong. Their list is given on ff. 3-4 (although, as usual, there are some discrepancies between it and the headings in the text, chiefly in wording) :

بخش نخستان در نامها جیزهاء که بهری ازان سوی بالا راه دارد ' (f. 4)

کونه نخست در نام یزدان خدای تعالی الخ (f. 4)

„ دوم در نام جیزهاء براکنده جون فریشته (sic) و بیغامبران و کتابها و دینها و مانند ان ' (f. 4v)

„ سیوم در نام اسمان و ستارکان و ماهها ' (f. 7)

„ جهارم در نام اتش و باد و اب و خاک ' (f. 9v)

„ بنجم در نام جیزهایی که میان اسمان و زمین بیدا اند ' (f. 10)

بخش دوم در نام جیزهای بر بسته که انرا جماد خوانند جون زمین و کل و خاک و مانند این و این همین کونه است ' (f. 13v)

بخش سیوم در نام جیزهاء بر بسته که انرا نبات خوانند جون کیاه و درخت و مانند ان ' (f. 16v)

کونه نخست در نام کیاه و سبزه ' (f. 16v)

„ دوم در نام کلها ' (?)

„ سیوم در نام درختان تنه دار ' (f. 19v)

[1] Ḥājj Khalīfa (vol. IV, p. 419, No. 9044) calls him Fakhru'd-Dīn Ibrāhīm b. Qiwām al-Qawwās.

The copy is incomplete at the end, and the last gūna, which is mentioned in the list given in the preface, does not appear in the text.

The words have no special arrangement within each section, and are even not always properly marked. The quotations are abundant, especially from Daqīqī, Asadī Ṭūsī, Niẓāmī, Khāqānī, Rafīqī, ʿUnṣurī, Manjīk, Rūdakī and Farrukhī. Many other poets are quoted, but not so often: Firdausī, Nāṣir-i-Khusraw, Mujīr Baylaqānī, Sūzanī, Muʿizzī, Waṭwāṭ, ʿAsjadī, Sanāʾī (strange to say, I have not noticed any quotation from Anwarī). Of the lesser known early poets there are: Shams-i-Ṭabbasī (cf. f. 9), Abū'l-

1 Added on the margin in the preface. In the text the heading is omitted.

2 This should probably be the 9th, because in the text there is another seventh gūna (f. 64v) ، شگفت بود در نام تفاریق هر چیزی که با او (?)

'Abbās, Abū Shukūr, Fakhrī (cf. f. 15v), 'Arūḍī (f. 18), Kisā'ī, Sharaf Shufurwa, Ḥakīmī (ff. 20, 25v), Azīdī (?—f. 20), Suhayl (cf. f. 20v), 'Alī Quṭrub (?—f. 20v), Bahrāmī (f. 20v), Abū'l-'Alā' Shūshtarī (ff. 21, 33), Abū Shākir Bukhārī (ff. 21, 22v), Khumkhāna (f. 21v), Khujasta (f. 23), Azraqī, Bū Ṭāhir Khusrawānī (f. 26), Mas'ūd-i-Sa'd-Sulaymān (sic, f. 28), Muẓaffarī (f. 29v), Ṭayyān (ff. 30v, 59), Ma'rūfī, Khāṭirī, Jūybārī, Bū Sa'īd (f. 33v), Bū 'Āṣim, Sālār, Bū Shu'ayb, Shahīd, Tāj-i-dabīr, Labībī, Bū Ḥanīfa (f. 43), Bundār Rāzī, and others.

The preface contains nothing beyond the stereotype story of the insistent requests to the author by his friends to compile the book. No information is given as to the date or place of composition, or the prince in whose reign it was composed. Beg. (the initial lines are apparently lost and the MS. opens abruptly):

... به کزین آفرید (کار) بهر (بهین) و همین (مهین) افریدکار (ان)
بصد هزاران هزار (یار) با یاران و یاوران پی در پی و دم در دم، جنین کوید
بنده مبارک غزنوی المعروف بقواس که ایزد تعالی در کار این بی روی النخ

An old copy, slightly incomplete at the end, transcribed apparently in India towards the end of the ix/xv c., or in the beg. of the x/xvi c., in the peculiar shikasta of that time. On many folios there are corrections, interlinear and marginal notes and glosses, by different hands, belonging to much later periods. Catchwords have disappeared on many leaves, so that the sequence cannot be properly verified all through, but there are apparently only one or two small lacunas, in the middle of the volume.

Ff. 68; S 10 × 6,25; 8,5 × 4; ll 18, within jadwals. Old Or. pap. Peculiar old Ind. shikasta, often dotless. Cond. tol. good, in some places worm-eaten. Stray notes on f. 1; none of them contains a date.

517. دستور الافاضل

Dastūru'l-afāḍil. II 418.

An old lexicographical work, often referred to by the authors of Persian dictionaries (cf. Blochmann, Contributions, No. 17 in the list). The author does not give his full name, but several times mentions his surname, or part of the name (Ḥājat-i-) Khayrāt (probably for Khayrātu'l-lah), cf. ff. 2 and 22, and states (f. 2, bottom) that he originally came from Dihlī. The work was composed in 743/1342–1343, cf. f. 22:

کسی که این عین نسخه باز جوید،
دعاء حاجات (حاجت read) خیرات کوید،
زهجرت بود هفصد با سه و چهل،
مرتب کشته دستور افاضل،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The title is also mentioned on f. 6, top, as Dastūru'l-afāḍil fī lughāti'l-faḍā'il. The name of the person to whom the book seems to be dedicated appears as Shamsu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Aḥmad b. 'Alī Jajnīrī (? ججنیری) who is profusely eulogised (ff. 2v–3). He apparently was an important divine, or a wazir.

In the lengthy introduction the author refers, besides, with special reverence to Fakhru'd-Dīn Mubārak Ghaznawī (see No. 516), although there are no direct indications of his personal connection with him (ff. 1v, 4). The Farhang-nāma is frequently referred to. Other authorities are: Rashīd Waṭwāṭ (with his work, Ḥadā'iqu's-siḥr), f. 5; Ruknu'd-Dīn Nāwī (f. 4v), the author of some Munsha'āt; Shihābu'd-Dīn Jauharī (f. 4); Ẓahīru'd-Dīn Fāryābī (f. 5), Mujīr Baylaqānī (f. 5), and many other well-known early poets (ff. 5–5v).

The dictionary itself (beg. on f. 6) is most disappointing. It is utterly inadequate (for instance, the section of dhāl occupies only 8 lines!). The words are arranged under their first letter (there is apparently no further arrangement whatsoever). There are Persian and Arabic words, rare and common, and a multitude of proper names, glorious attributes of God, etc. Only equivalents in Persian are given, and there are no illustrative quotations, or examples, whatsoever. The copy is incomplete in the middle: there are lacunas after f. 9 (end of ت, the whole of ث, and beg. of ج), and after f. 16v (غ—beg. of ق).

The opening lines are apparently copied from the Farhang-nāma, as they resemble the beg. of No. 516, and there is a reference to Fakhru'd-Dīn:

سپاس و ستایش و نیاز و ثنایش (sic) مر بدید آرندهٔ کیتي و سپهر و دارندهٔ ماه و مهر الخ ... جنین میفرماید استاد جهانیان مقتداء عالمیان ... فخر الحق و الدین الخ ... (f. 2) اما بعد، مي کوید مولف این تالیف و مصنف این تصنیف بنده ضعیف رفیع مکمن اندوه و بلیات معروف بحاجت خیرات الخ

An old copy, dating apparently, as the preceding one, from the end of the ix/xv c., or beg. of the x/xvi c., written in the peculiar Indian shikasta of that period. There were apparently many marginal notes (cf. f. 6, 14, etc.), but they have been cut off and the text pasted to new margins, according to a detestable practice of some booksellers. A note on f. 1, dated the 15th Rajab 879/the 25th Nov. 1474.

Ff. 22; S 12,5×7,5; 8,5×4,5; ll 25, within jadwals. Or. (and Europ.) pap. Old Ind. shikasta. Cond. tol. good. On some folios traces of moisture.

518. مؤيد الفضلاء

Mu'ayyidu'l-fuḍalā'. II 414.

The well-known dictionary of Persian words as well as the Arabic and Turkish expressions found in the works of Persian poets, composed some time in the X/XVIc., by Muḥammad b. Lād (who has changed here, f. 2, l. 7, into محمد مراد), see IvASB 1415. This copy contains an appendix at the end, dealing with numerals and rules of Persian grammar. This appendix is slightly incomplete at the end. It is not found in IvASB 1415. Beg. as usual :

محامد متوافره و مدايح متكاثره مر دادار دانا الخ

Copied in the xii/xviii c., by different scribes, with many notes and glosses on the margins.

Ff. 442 ; S 11,25 × 6,25 ; 8,25 × 4 ; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. (different). Ind. nast. (different hands). Cond. good. A few stray quotations, erased seals and notes on f. 1.

519. كشف اللغات والاصطلاحات

Kashfu'l-lughāt wa'l-iṣṭilāḥāt. II 422.

The well-known dictionary of Persian words with special regard to Sufic terminology, composed ca. 950/1543–1544, by 'Abdu'r-Raḥīm b. Aḥmad Sūr, see IvASB 1416. It is arranged according to the first and the last letters of the words. Beg. as usual:

الحمد لله ... اما بعد حمد و صلوة ميكويد اضعف العباد الخ

In the present copy the text is written in two columns, in European style, in such a way that words and their explanations are separately written opposite each other (the remarks on vocalisation are omitted).

Copied for Capt. Herbert Lloyd (هربرت لايد), at a place Chhānwanī (چهانوني), near Cawnpore, by one Muḥammad Wārith, of Sanbhal, and dated the 20th Ramaḍān 1195/the 9th Sept. 1781.

Ff. 423 ; S 12 × 7,5 ; 11,5 × 6,25 ; ll 34, in two columns, no jadwals. Europ. paper (water-marks J. Taylor). Ind. nast. Cond. good, but in the first half paper is decaying.

520.

The same. II 499.

Another copy of the same work, containing the second half of the dictionary, from the letter ط to the end.

Dated the 18th Rab. I 1107 (the 40th year of Aurangzīb's reign), i.e. the 27th Oct. 1695, in the pargana of Kūtwāli, copied by Karamu'l-lah b. Aḥmad b. Ilahbakhsh Ṣiddīqī.

Ff. 238 ; S 12,5 × 6,5 ; 9,5 × 3,75 ; ll 25, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Slightly worm-eaten. Emendations and marginal glosses on several folios.

521.

The same. II 499*a*.

Another copy of the beginning of the same dictionary, to the letter dhāl, i.e. about one-third of the whole work. Beg. as in No. 519.

Copied apparently in the end of the xii/xviii c., or the beg. of the xiii/xix c., by different hands.

Ff. 222; S 12,5 × 6,5; 10 × 4,25; ll 20–22, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. and shikasta. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten.

فرهنگ شیر خانی

Farhang-i-Shīr-khānī. I 717.

A dictionary of rare Persian and Arabic words and difficult sentences found in Persian classical poetry, arranged according to the first and the last letters of the words, the same as the one described in IvASB 1420, where references to other catalogues are given. The name of the author, who was Shīr Khān, surnamed Sūr, and the date of composition (X/XVIc.) are not mentioned in the preface; the latter does not seem to be genuine but is possibly supplied by a scribe, and appears to be quite different from the one given in IvASB 1420. The dictionary itself begins quite correctly. Beg. of the preface:

حمد بیقیاس مر قادری را که دلهای عارفان الخ

At the end (ff. 228 sq.) there are two appendices:

1. (ff. 229–240v). (Farhang-i-shi'r-i-Gulistān). A list of Arabic quotations and expressions in the Gulistān of Sa'dī (see above, No. 212), with interlinear Persian translation. There is no preface, and no colophon; the title as above is given in a subscript on f. 236v, where the date of copying is given as the 27th Dhī'l-ḥijja 1060/the 21st Dec. 1650. The words از ان شیخ مصطفی apparently refer to the owner of the copy.

2. (ff. 241v–325v). (Lughat-i-'Arabī). A concise Arabic and Persian dictionary, without any introduction or colophon. The title, the name of the author, and the date of composition are not given. It is arranged according to the first and the last letters of the words; there are no quotations, and the Persian equivalents are very brief (cf. f. 275v 'رود' – دجله). Beg.

استعجالا – شتابی کرده ؛ اطبا – طبیب الخ

It may be a farhang to some particular work.

The main entry is dated (f. 227v) the 14th Muḥarram 1062/the 27th Dec. 1651, and is called the property of Shaykh Muṣṭafā b. Ibrāhīm b. Ḥabīb b. Bahā'i'd-Dīn 'Umdatu'l-Mulk, an inhabitant of Chanderi. Most probably he was not only the owner, but also the scribe, and apparently is the same as the one mentioned on f. 236v (cf. above), because the handwriting in both items is the same.

Ff. 325; S 8 × 5,5; 6,25 × 3,25; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. very good. Additions and notes on the margins and on fly-leaves.

524. فرهنگ جهانگیری

Farhang-i-Jahāngīrī. II 420.

The well-known dictionary of words of purely Persian origin, comp. in 1017/1608–1609, by Jamālu'd-Dīn Ḥusayn Injū b. Fakhri'd-Dīn Ḥasan Shīrāzī (here not clearly legible, f. 1v, bottom), who died shortly after 1030/1621, see IvASB 1421, where references to other catalogues, etc., are given (add Br Rs 20, 21, 153, 268). The introduction (divided into 12 ā'īns) occupies ff. 1v–19v; the dictionary itself ff. 20–468; the khātima is incomplete, and out of the five dars, into which it is subdivided, there are only: the second (ff. 468–505) and the fifth (ff. 505v–519v), corresponding with ff. 417–434v and 441v–449 in IvASB 1421. Durr-i-durrī.

در دری

III 77.

A Persian dictionary, alphabetically arranged according to the first and the last letters of the words. It contains also a number of Arabic words and proper names; it seems that there was no special class of idioms to which particular attention was paid. It was compiled in 1018/1609–1610 (f. 2v, bottom), by ʿAlī Yūsufī Shirwānī (f. 2v), and was dedicated to Khusraw Khān (f. 6v), who is probably identical with the eldest son of Jahāngīr (b. 995/1587, d. 1031/1622). The present dictionary is apparently very rare, and is either entirely unknown to the later Indian lexicographers, or is referred to by them under a different title. The authorities, 12 in number, are given on ff. 2v–3; almost all are the old works often perused by other authors: 1. Tuḥfat-u'l-aḥbāb, by Ḥāfiẓ Aubahī (from Ōbe, near Herat: here called the father of the "famous calligrapher ʿAlī al-Ḥusaynī"; he composed his work in 936/1529–1530, see R 494–495); 2. Miʿyār-i-jamālī, by Shams-i-Fakhrī (comp. 733–744/1332–1343, ed. by C. Salemann, 1887; cf. Bl 971); 3. Sharaf-nāma-i-Aḥmad Munyarī (comp. 864–879/1459–1474, cf. IvASB 1414); 4. Risāla of Abū Manṣūr ʿAlī b. Aḥmad Asadī aṭ-Ṭūsī (ed. P. Horn, Berlin, 1897; cf. EIO 2455); 5. Nuskha of Ḥusayn Wafā'ī (cf. R 498); 6. Risāla of Mīrzā Ibrāhīm b. Shāh Ḥusayn Iṣfahānī, who was a wazīr to Ismaʿīl I Ṣafawī; 7. Risāla of Muḥammad Hindūshāh; 8. Muʾayyidu'l-fuḍalā' (see above, No. 518); 9. Sharḥ-i-sāmī fī'l-asāmī; 10. Risāla by Abū Ḥafṣ Sughdī; 11. Adātu'l-fuḍalā', by Qāḍī Khān (here Jān) the father (not son, as usually) of Muḥammad Dihlawī (comp. 812/1409, cf. IvASB 1413); 12. Jāmiʿu'l-lughāt, versified, by Niyāzī Ḥijāzī.

The title is not explicitly mentioned in the lengthy preface, and it only appears on p. 7 in the following verse, and may be read also Durr-i-Darī:

چون ز قضا صورت اتمام یافت ، هم ز قضا در دری نام یافت ،

Beg. of the preface:

پیش وجود همه ایندکان ، الخ ... شکر و سپاس بیحد و قیاس مبدعی را که الخ

Beg. of the dictionary (f. 7):

526. چراغ هدایت

Chirāgh-i-hidāyat. Ia 43.

A dictionary of difficult and uncommon expressions found in the works of modern Persian poets, by Sirāj-'Alī Khān Ārzū (cf. above, No. 295), who died in 1169/1756, see IvASB 1435. This copy seems to be complete, but is in a bad state of preservation. Beg. as usual :

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 162 ; S 8,75 × 5,25 ; 7 × 3,25 ; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. rather bad. Much worm-eaten. Incidental notes and glosses on the margins.

527. فرهنک خانی

Farhang-i-Khānī. II 419.

An incomplete copy of a concise Persian dictionary, arranged according to the first and second letters of words. It was compiled by Khān Muḥammad b. Khān Muḥammad b. Ni'mati'l-lah Ṣiddīqī, of Harharpūr, in Orissa (f. 1), in 1174/1760–1761 (see f. 2, top, where the chronogram is given : بغایی فضل عالم). Both rare and very common words are included, and freely illustrated by quotations from the classical poets. The copy is incomplete at the beg., where probably only one leaf is lost, and at the end, where it breaks off in the end of the letter م. Beg. abruptly :

... هوش رشک افزای ... اما بعد ، کاتب این کتاب مختصره و راقم

این ابواب منتخبه اضعف ... خان محمد ولد شیخ خان محمد الخ

A bad, carelessly written copy, dating from the beg. or middle of the xiii/xix c.

528. مصطلحات الشعراء

Muṣṭalaḥātu'sh-shu'arā'. II 204.

A dictionary of Persian words and sentences used in the writings of modern Persian poets, with numerous quotations. It appears to be the same work as the one described in R 503 ; it was begun in 1180/1766-1767 (the title, as above, is a chronogram for this date, cf. f. 1). The name of the author is given in the colophon as Siyālkūtī Mal (سیال کوتی مل), who used the takhallus

بحر عجم

II 416.

Baḥr-i-'ajam.

A Persian-Persian dictionary, in which occasionally some common Arabic and Urdu expressions are also included. It is arranged according to the European system, and does not contain illustrative quotations. The author, Muḥammad Ḥusayn (Qādirī), who used the takhallus Rāqim (see the Ishārat-i-Bīnish, No. 61 in this Catalogue, f. 30v), flourished in the middle or towards the end of the XIII/XIXc. His book was begun in 1268/1851–1852 (cf. f. 2, top, where the chronogram انهار اعظم is given), and completed in 1272/1855–1856 (cf. f. 239v, chronogram مصطلحات شعراي عجم). It is dedicated to Nawwāb Muḥammad Ghauth Khān, of the Carnatic, with the takhallus A'ẓam (born the 1st Dhī'l-Ḥijja 1239/ the 28th July 1824, see the Ishārat-i-Bīnish, No. 61, f. 5v, and cf. Spr 172). It is based on standard lexicographical works (see f. 1v, bottom and f. 2 top), and contains a short preface, beg.

اللهم صل على سيدنا محمد النبي الخ ... اما بعد، بخدمت كرامي مرتبت سخن فهمان نكته دان الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Beg. of the dictionary itself (f. 2v) :

531. (مجموعه در لغت)

(Majmū'a dar lughat). II 417.

A collection of fragments and extracts of lexicographical contents from different well-known works. The majority are not literal copies, but abbreviated versions of their originals :

1. (ff. 1v–42v). Murakkabāt-i-Jahāngīrī. The first dar of the khātima of the well-known Farhang-i-Jahāngīrī, see IvASB 1421, ff. 383v–417 (cf. No. 524 above, which is incomplete). This section deals chiefly with metaphorical expressions. In many places the text does not coincide literally with the original. Beg. as usual :

باب الف، آب آتش رنگ، آب آتش زای، آب آتش نما، الخ

2. (ff. 43–53v). Isti'ārāt-i-Surūrī. The concluding chapter of the Majma'u'l-furs, see above, No. 523, f. 219–221, beg.

باب الف، آب شناسان، قانون دانان الخ

3. (ff. 54–137v). (Risāla dar lughat). Another extract, also on metaphorical expressions, probably also taken from some well-known lexicographical work. No heading is given here, and no colophon (it breaks off in the beg. of the letter 'ayn). Beg.

آب جو بستن آب بجو آوردن، آب آتشین شراب تند الخ

4. (ff. 138–188). Mukhtaṣar-i-Chirāgh-i-hidāyat. A fragment of an abbreviated version of Sirāj 'Alī Khān Ārzū's well-known lexicographical work, Chirāgh-i-hidāyat, see above, No. 526. This version is much condensed, quotations are omitted, and even the order of the expressions is not always preserved intact. It opens in the beginning of the letter پ. Beg. abruptly :

... پادشاه خود و پادشاه وقت خود، کنایت از نهایت الخ

Copied, apparently by the same hand, but on different papers, towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or the beg. of the xiii/xix c. On the majority of folios there are many marginal notes and additions.

Niṣābu'ṣ-ṣibyān.

The well-known versified Arabic and Persian school vocabulary, by Abū Naṣr Muḥammad (or Mas'ūd) b. Abī Bakr b. Ḥusayn Farāhī (or Farāhānī), who flourished ca. 617/1220. See IvASB 1411, where references to other catalogues are given. It is usually divided into a number of qiṭ'as, each illustrating the rules concerning a particular metre. In this copy there is no prose introduction, found in some transcripts, and the work begins abruptly:

اما بعد، همي كويد ابو نصر فراهي، ... حسد حاقده و حقد حاسده الخ

Dated the 14th Jum. I 1186/the 13th Aug. 1772, at Sad'hūt, copied by Muḥyī'd-Dīn b. Qādir Walī.

538. شرح نصاب الصبيان

Sharḥ-i-Niṣābu'ṣ-ṣibyān. Ia 177.

A commentary on the Niṣābu'ṣ-ṣibyān (see Nos. 533–537), by Muḥammad b. Faṣīḥ b. Muḥammad, surnamed Karīm ad-Dasht-ı-bayāḍī (in Quhistān, North of Qāin), the same as the one described in Bl 963, EIO 2383. The author lived towards the end of the X/XVIc. This work is different from IvASB 1412. Other commentaries on the Niṣāb are enumerated in EIO 2383. Beg.

حمد و ثناء نا محدود و شکر و سپاس نا معدود ... و بعد، چنین گوید بنده قاصر عاصي محمد بن فصیح بن محمد المدعو بکریم الدشتبیاضي که الخ

Dated the 2nd Dhī'l-Ḥijja 1208 (the 35th of Shāh 'Ālam's reign), i.e., the 1st July 1794.

* Ff. 1v–87; for measurements see above, No. 220.

539. نصاب بدیعی

Niṣāb-i-Badī'ī. Ia 257.

A versified school vocabulary of Arabic words, also styled Muthallathu'l-lughāt, or Niṣāb-i-muthallath, by one Badī'ī (cf. f. 15 اینچنین شعر بدیعی را بدیعی نظم کرد). See EIO 2383, 2384, 2958, EB 1650, 1651. The date of composition is not known, but the work may be old. Beg. as in EB 1650:

از بس حمد خداوندی زمین و آسمان، کرده ام نظم مثلث چون لآلی عیان،

The term muthallath, here alluded to, refers to the fact that every bayt uniformly deals with only three words. The poem has the form of a qaṣīda, the rhyme being ان–, all through.

Dated the 26th Rab. II of the 16th year, apparently of some prince's reign, probably in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 15; S 8,5 × 5,5; 6 × 3,25; ll 7, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly bad. Many glosses, marginal and interlinear.

540. عقود الجواهر

'Uqūdu'l-jawāhir. II 426.

A short versified school dictionary of the most common Arabic words. It is divided into 51 qiṭ'as which, in addition to the lexicographical material which they contain, serve also as specimens of different metres. In a prose introduction, the author calls himself 'Abdu'l-Jalīl b. Rashīdi'd-Dīn 'Umar al-Waṭwāṭī;

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

he dedicates the work (f. 2v) to the Turkish sultan Murād (II) b. Muḥammad b. Bāyazīd b. Murād b. Ūrkhān b. ʻUthmān (824–855/1421–1451). See R 507. This version is probably slightly different from the one in the British Museum copy, as the latter contains only 50 qiṭʻas. It may be identical with the one described in Ḥājjī Khalīfa, vol. IV, p. 239, No. 8230. Beg. of the prose preface:

الحمد لله مبدع البدايع و منشي الصنايع الخ ... اما بعد، جنين كويد الخ

Beg. of the treatise itself (f. 2v):

ابتدا و افتتاح و فاتحه آغاز كار، استمالت دلخوشى دادن موافق سازكار,

Dated Ẓafarābād (Bīdar), the 21st Shaʻbān 1098/the 2nd July 1687, copied by Muḥammad Jaʻfar b. Muḥammad Qāsim Ṭihrānī. Many marginal notes. Ff. 33v–34 were left blank (text not interrupted), and afterwards used for stray quotations, in Hindustani. Fragments of a darwish risāla at the end.

Ff. 38; S 7,75 × 4,5; 6 × 2,75; ll 15, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten and repaired.

541. تاج الاسامى

Tāju'l-asāmī. I 122.

An Arabic and Persian dictionary, dealing only with nouns, alphabetically arranged according to the first and the last letters of the words. There are no indications as to the name of the author, the date of composition, and the real title of the book. The title as above is given on f. 1, apparently by the same hand as that by which the bulk of the MS. is copied. See EB 1634. Ind. libr. Bh 249. Beg.

An Arabic and Persian dictionary, arranged according to the first and the last letters of the words, by (Maḥmūd) b. ʻUmar b. Maḥmūd (b.) Manṣūr al-Qāḍī az-Zanjī as-Sijzī (ثم العربي), cf. Hājjī Khalīfa, vol. VI, p. 273, No. 13459. The date of completion is not given; the copy was probably transcribed from an original defective in the beginning so that some places are left blank on the first two pages. The authorities referred to on f. 1v are mostly early compositions (like as-Sāmī fī'l-asāmī, cf. Brock. I 289); several of them cannot be properly identified. The Tarjumānu'l-Qur'ān, referred to here, may belong to Suyūṭī (Brock. II, 145,5). As the work is mentioned by Ḥājjī Khalīfa, it seems probable that it was not composed later than the X/XVIc. Prefixed to the dictionary is a short bāb on the names of God, and at the end there is another bāb, dealing with numerals and calendary terminology. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي خلق الخلايق بقدرته الخ ... قال العبد الضعيف الخ

Copied apparently in the beg. of the xii/xviii c. A seal on f. 1 is dated 1143/1730–1731.

Ff. 140; S 10,5 × 6,5; 8 × 4,25; ll 23, within jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Worm-eaten, traces of moisture in some places. A very few marginal glosses.

543. منتخب اللغات شاهجهاني

Muntakhabu'l-lughāt-i-Shāhjahānī. III 98.

The well-known Arabic and Persian dictionary, by 'Abdu'r-Rashīd (b. 'Abdi'l-Ghafūr) al-Ḥusaynī al-Madanī at-Tatawī (cf. f. 3), who is better known as the author of the Farhang-i-Rashīdī (cf. IvASB 1431), and who died shortly after 1069/1658–1659. This dictionary has been compiled in 1046/1636–1637 (as mentioned in many other copies; in this one the date is not given), and dedicated to Shāhjahān (f. 2v). The words are alphabetically arranged, according to the first and second letters. See Bl 956–958, EIO 2398–2403, Br 158, 159, EB 1672, 1673, Pr 200, R 510, Leyden C. V, p. 150, etc. Ind. libr. Bh 252. Several times lith. and printed in India: Calcutta 1808, 1836; Lucknow, 1835, 1845, 1869, etc.; Bombay, 1862, 1879; Tehran, 1874, etc. A rearrangement of this work has been published by J. H. Taylor, Calcutta, 1816. Beg. as usual:

ستایش و سپاس مالک الملکی که تذکار آلاء بی احصاء الخ

Dated the 2nd Sha'bān 1223/ the 23rd Sept. 1808, Lucknow; copied by Rājārām Pandit.

Ff. 301; S 8,75 × 6; 7,25 × 4,25; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten, traces of moisture. Occasional additions and emendations on the margins.

544.

The same. II 203.

A fragment of the same, breaking off with the letter ت. A worthless modern copy mostly written in bad, dotless shikasta. Beginning like the preceding transcript.

Copied in the middle of the xiii/xix c.

* Ff. 92v–146v; for measurements, etc., see below, No. 562.

545. (لغت فارسي و عربي)

(Lughat-i-Fārsī wa 'Arabī). II 424.

A dictionary of Persian common words with their Arabic, and occasionally Turkish, equivalents. There is no introduction and no colophon, no mention of the title of the book, the author's name, or the date of composition. The words are arranged only under the first letter. At the end there are a few notes on some special terms. Beg. abruptly:

باب الالف مع الالف، اب ماء شب نشب الخ

Copied, by different hands, about the middle of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 189; S 11 × 6,5; 7,5 × 4,5; ll 11, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast., bad and stumbling in the beg., and coarse and often dotless in the greater part of the volume. Cond. good. A few additions and glosses on the margins.

(c) Panjābī-Persian.

546. (لغت پنجابي)

(Lughat-i-Panjābī). I 854.

A dictionary of Punjabi, with equivalents in Urdu and Persian, apparently compiled in the beg. of the XIII/XIXc., by one Ajūd'hā Prashād, a taḥṣīldār in the Lahore district, for Major George MacGregor (میجر جارج میگریگر), Deputy Commissioner of Lahore. The preface is written in Urdu; the dictionary is arranged alphabetically, but there are several maqālas added, containing some special terms and expressions. Beg. of the preface:

بعد ادای هزاران هزار شکر جناب حق الخ

Copied in the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 406; S 12 × 7,5; 11 × 6; ll 10, within jadwals. Eur. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good.

547.

غرائب اللغات

Gharā'ibu'l-lughāt. II 421.

A concise Urdu and Persian dictionary, by 'Abdu'l-Wāsi' Hānsawī, who flourished in the second half of the XII/XVIIIc. (cf. IvASB 1477 and R 1096). The words are alphabetically arranged only according to their first letters. The title as above is given in the colophon. Beg.

سبحان ربک رب العزت عما یصفون ... میکوید کرفتار کفتار و معني

و کردار لا یعني عبد الواسع هانسوی که النخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 81; S 7,25 × 4,25; 5,5 × 2,75; ll 15, within double jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Stray notes on fly-leaves.

548.

The same. I*a* 212.

Another copy of the same work, slightly incomplete at the end (breaking off at f. 69v, l. 9 of the preceding copy). Beg. as in No. 547.

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 62; S 8,5 × 5,5; 6,5 × 3,5; ll 11, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. A few glosses on the margins.

549.

فتح الفهم

Fatḥu'l-fahm. II 120.

A brief versified Urdu vocabulary, for the use of beginners. The name of the author is not given, and the date of composition is not clearly expressed. It is most probably 1206/1791–1792, as may be concluded from one of the concluding lines: هامی را بیرون کن و تاریخ تام کش ازان, i.e. 1211 (تاریخ) minus 5 (ه). Beg.

بعد از حمد و ثنا مر پادشاه بی نشان،

5. Grammar.

(a) Persian.

550. مثمر

Muthmir. I 877.

A large work on Persian grammar, orthography, phonology, and style, by the well-known Sirāju'd-Dīn 'Alī Khān Ārzū (d. 1169/1756). As he states in the preface, it is an imitation of a similar work concerning Arabic philology, called Al-miz'har fī 'ulūmi'l-lughat, by Jalālu'd-Dīn as-Suyūṭī, cf. Brockelmann, II. 155. The work is, as stated in the preface, divided into 41 aṣls, which are of uneven length, subdivided into faṣls, and containing a great many illustrations from classical and modern poetry: (1), on f. 2, explanations of the terms Fārs and Fārsī; (2), f. 3, on the ḥadīths concerning the Persian language; (3), f. 6, on the general character of the Persian language and its division into the traditionally recognised dialects, etc., with many interesting remarks concerning the evolution of the poetical style up to the author's time; (4), f. 12, on lexicography; (5), f. 13, on style and rhetoric; (6), f. 16v, on some principles of arrangement in dictionaries; (7), f. 20, on the formation of compound words; (8), f. 26v, on simple words; (9), f. 28v, on pronunciation and orthography; (10), f. 29v, on loan words, etc.; (11), f. 32, on the different meanings of words; (12), f. 34v, on the difference in pronunciation of sounds and other phonetic changes; (13), f. 43v, on some other phonetic changes, etc.; (14), f. 46. on transpositions of sounds and syllables in words; (15), f. 61v, on loan words; (16), f. 97v, on vocalisation (i'rāb); (17), f. 98, on simple suffixes, etc. (ḥurūf), in alphabetical order; (18), f. 161, on compound words; (19), f. 258v, on various idiomatic expressions, proverbs, etc. It is possible that the headings of many minor subdivisions have not been properly distinguished in the text, and that some faṣls are also included in the number of 41 principal sections. Beg.

مثمر سعادات و مزهر خیرات سپاس زبان آفرینست که الخ ... اما بعد، and verbs. In the colophon its authorship is ascribed to the same Sirāju'd-Dīn 'Alī Khān Ārzū (see No. 550). It is difficult to pronounce on the correctness of this statement, as the name Ārzū is not mentioned in the text itself and the work seems to be incomplete at the beg. and the end (although not at first sight). In this copy much space is left between the lines to be filled with a commentary, which is not everywhere written. Beg.

رسالهٔ فارسیه

II 379.

Risāla-i-Fārsiyya.

A very short work on Persian grammar, by Afḍalī Allahābādī, who composed it in 1202/1787–1788 (see the chronogram at the end, رساله خوش). Beg.

بعد از حمد واهب رساله و صلواة صاحب الخ

At the end a lithographed table of different metres is added.

Dated the 14th Ramaḍān 1242/the 11th Apr. 1827, at Bāndā.

Ff. 4; S 9×5,5; 7,5×4,5; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Slightly worm-eaten.

553.

(ازالهٔ اغلاط کلمات فارسي)

I 927.

(Izāla-i-aghlāṭ-i-kalimāt-i-Fārsī).

A short vocabulary of common Persian words written for the special purpose to establish their correct pronunciation. The compiler gives his own name as Ḥabību'l-lah Mudarris (f. 1), and states that he composed the present work on the lines of his similar compilation concerning Arabic words, with the title Muzīlu'l-aghlāṭ (f. 1), dedicated to a nawwāb whose name is not mentioned. The work cannot have been written earlier than the end of the XI/XVIIc., as the Burhān-i-qāṭi' is mentioned amongst the authorities (f. 1v, top). In the colophon the title of the work is given as Muzīlu'l-aghlāṭ, but this seems to be incorrect. Beg.

حمد و ثنای سخن افرینی را که سخن را الخ

Dated the 25th Dhī'l-Qa'da 1261/the 25th Nov. 1845.

Ff. 10; S 9×5,75; 7,25×3,75; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten and repaired. Additions and emendations on the margins.

554. (الفاظ املا)

(Alfāẓ-i-imlā). II 117.

A short treatise on the Persian orthography of words of purely Persian and of Arabic origin, together with some rules of Persian grammar. The work was composed in 1268/1851–1852 (f. 57), at the request of one Muḥammad Ḥusayn. The author does not mention his own name. It is divided into three qisms: I, on the correct use of single letters (f. 36); II, on the correct use of groups of letters (f. 43); III, on habitual and common misspellings (f. 50, there called guftār-i-duwwum); and a khātima (f. 52), on some grammatical rules, with a table of corrections to some particular printed edition of the Gulistān, the mistakes of which were originally the cause which moved the author to undertake the compilation of this work. Beg.

له الحمد فی البدو و الرجعی و السلام علي عباده الخ

On ff. 58v–61 there is a vocabulary, alphabetically arranged, of Persian and Arabic words, probably a farhang to some particular work.

Copied towards the end of the xiii/xix c.

* Ff. 34v–61; S 12,5 × 6,75; 8,75 × 3,75; ll 14, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. A few marginal and interlinear glosses.

555. آمد نامهٔ بدیع

Āmad-nāma-i-badī'. II 369.

A Persian grammar, with numerous examples taken from classical poets. It seems to be only a fragment, and goes as far as the 11th faṣl. In the beginning apparently several lines are lost, and although the title, as above, is given, the name of the author and the date of composition are missing. There are no allusions to these in the text itself, but from the author's incidental references to Hindi it is clear that he was in some way connected with India. The general impression is that the work is of modern origin. Beg. abruptly:

... حروف وضیفه و بعضی از الفاظ متفرقه پارسي را از کتب معتبره

556.

(رسالهٔ آمدن)

(Risāla-i-āmadan). II 373.

A list of Persian irregular verbs and their principal forms, with Urdu equivalents added as interlinear and marginal glosses, similar to IvASB 1473, 1474, etc. On f. 1 it is called Nuskha-i-āmadan, and, in a quite modern handwriting—Fawā'idu's-ṣibyān. The name of the author and the date of completion are not given. Beg.

سراج المتعلمين

Sirāju'l-muta'allimīn. I 585.

A detailed Persian commentary on the Kāfiya, the famous school book on Arabic grammar, with its full title Al-Kāfiya fi'n-naḥw, by Ibnu'l-Ḥājib (Jamālu'd-Dīn 'Uthmān b. 'Umar, d. 646/1248-1249), cf. IvASB 1447. The author calls himself Burhānu'd-Dīn b. Shihābi'd-Dīn 'Abdu'l-lah al-Jānī (in No. 558 the last part of the name can also be read as al-Jāmī). There are no indications as to the date of composition. The title as above appears in No. 558, but is omitted in the present copy. After a short preface explanations of the bismilla are given, and the text of the body of the work begins on f. 2, as usual: لفظ الكلمة وضع الخ. Beg. of the preface:

الحمد الله (sic) ... قال، چنین کوید محرر این مقال الخ

Dated the 27th Muḥarram 1233/the 7th Dec. 1817.

Ff. 185; S 10×6,5; 7,5×3,75; ll 19, within jadwals. Or. pap. (margins of ff. 137-end are new, of Eur. pap.). Ind. nast., different hands. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten and repaired. A few marginal glosses.

559. شرح شافيه

Sharḥ-i-Shāfiya. I 557.

A detailed Persian commentary on another grammatical work of the same Ibnu'l-Ḥājib (cf. No. 557), called Ash-Shāfiya, by Muḥammad Hādī b. Muḥammad Ṣāliḥ Māzandarānī, who flourished ca. 1088/1677–1678. See EIO 2435. Beg. as usual:

الحمد لله ... و بعد، چنين كويد ذرهٔ بيمقدار تراب اقدام شيعيان الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

560. شرح شافيه

Sharḥ-i-Shāfiya. II 384.

Another detailed Persian commentary on Ibn Ḥājib's Shāfiya, see No. 559, also composed towards the end of the XI/XVIIc. The editor, Ghulām 'Alī (f. 1v), states that it was written by his murshid and teacher, Ghulām Muḥammad b. Allahyār al-Murīdī (? or ar-Rindī) al-Amrohawī (who had died in 1098/1686–1687), for the special purpose of the instruction in Arabic grammar of Aurangzīb's eldest daughter, Zību'n-nisā' (cf. above, No. 281). This shaykh was also a teacher to Muḥammad Akbar, son of Aurangzīb (cf. f. 2). The leaves of the original copy of this translation and commentary had become scattered, but the remaining portions had been collected, arranged, and re-written by the editor, as stated on f. 324, at Burhānpūr, in 1098/1686–1687, at the time of the visit to that city by Aurangzīb, on his Golkonda expedition. Beg.

الحمد لصارف اللسان مصدر الا كلمات (sic) المركبة بالحروف الخ

The copy is apparently Ghulām 'Alī's autograph.

Ff. 324; S 8,25 × 4,5; 5,75 × 3; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten, but more injured at the end.

561. (مجموعه در نحو)

(Majmū'a dar naḥw). II 375.

Two short works on Arabic syntax (naḥw):

1. (ff. 1v–4). (Manẓūma-i-Mi'at 'āmil). A Persian versified paraphrase of the famous Mi'at 'āmil, or Al-'awāmil fī'n-naḥw, by 'Abdu'l-Qāhir b. 'Abdi'r-Raḥmān al-Jurjānī (d. 471/1078), see

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Brockelmann, I, 287 ; cf. IvASB 1728. The name of the author is not mentioned. The work is dedicated to a prince whose name appears as Mu'izzu'd-Dīn Ḥusayn. The first word is suspect, having been altered. There were many princes of the name of Ḥusayn, but apparently none is known with the surname Mu'izzu'd-Dīn. This is the same work as the one described in EB 1658 and Aum 52. Beg.

بعد توحید خداوند و درود مصطفی ، نعت ال پاک پیغمبر رسول مجتبی ،

2. (ff. 6v–36). Naḥw-i-Mīr. The well-known work on Arabic grammar, ascribed to Mīr Sharīf Jurjānī (d. 816/1413–1414), the same as the one described in IvASB 1457, where references to other catalogues are given. Beg. as usual :

الحمد لله ... اما بعد ، بدانکه ارشدک الله تعالی ... که این مختصریست الخ

On ff. 4v–5v there is a fihrist to this work ; on f. 36v there begins another fihrist of which the end is missing.

Dated the 23rd Rajab 1227/ the 2nd Aug. 1812.

Ff. 36 ; S 7 × 4,25 ; 5,25 × 2,5 ; ll 11, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A few additions and emendations on the margins.

(رسائل صرف)

(Rasā'il-i-ṣarf).

II 203.

Two treatises on Arabic grammar, one in prose, and the other versified.

1. (ff. 46v–81v). Qā'ida-i-Raushan 'Alī (as it is called in the colophon). A treatise on Arabic grammar, based on the Shāfiya and the Fuṣūl-i-Akbarī. The name of the author is given as Raushan-'Alī, who was already dead at the time of copying. He is apparently identical with Raushan-'Alī Jaunpūrī, d. at Calcutta ab. 1810, whose treatise on Persian grammar is described in R 857. Beg.

الحمد لله ... اما بعد ، این رساله ایست در صرف انتخاب شافیه و فصول اکبري بقدر ضرورت برای تعلیم طالبان ، بدانکه جمله مصادر و افعال الخ

2. (ff. 85v–91v). (Manẓūma dar ṣarf). A fragment of a versified treatise on Arabic grammar, all through rhyming in ام–.

563. فوائد مرقومه در شرح منظومه

Fawā'id-i-marqūma dar sharḥ-i-manẓūma. II 372.

A treatise on Arabic grammar, consisting of a general introduction and a versified tract, with a commentary on it, mostly in catechetic form. The author calls himself Muḥammad Raḥmatu'l-lah b. Ni'mati'l-lah al-Ḥusaynī aṣ-Ṣādiqī al-'Aṭṭārī al-Aurangābādī al-Bukhārī; he completed it (see f. 40v) on the 2nd Ramaḍān 1221/the 13th Nov. 1806. Beg.

محامد و اثنیه مضاعفه بصرف القلوبیکه ... اما بعد ، پس التماس فقیر النخ

Beg. of the versified treatise (f. 8v), which has the rhyme ال- all through :

واو ساکن قبل او مکسور باشد هرکجا ، یا بگردد غیر مدغم کر بود در کل حال ،

On f. 35 a khātima begins, on some additional grammatical rules concerning verbs.

Dated the 14th Rab. I 1272/ the 24th Nov. 1855, copied by Najmu'd-Dīn b. Muḥammad Ḥusayn b. Najmi'd-Dīn Ḥasan, etc. According to a note on the margin it was transcribed from a copy of the author's son, dated 1224/1809.

Ff. 40; S 8,25 × 6,25; 5,5 × 4,25; ll 13, no jadwals. Blue Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A few additions on the margins.

564. (مجموعه در صرف)

(Majmū'a dar ṣarf). III 174.

A fragment, or probably a collection of fragments, dealing with Arabic grammar. Apparently extracts from different works have been transcribed without being marked off, the one from the other. The first is Faṣl-i-panjum dar shināKhtan-i-khāṣṣiyyat-i-bābhā, but on f. 9v there is the third faṣl, the fourth on f. 12, then again a fifth on f. 12v, etc. It ends abruptly (f. 31v), and at the end there is a short fragment on ethics.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 49; S 9×5,5; 6×3; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast., different hands. Cond. very bad; almost entirely destroyed by worms.

6. Astronomy and Mathematics.

565.

(رساله در هندسه)

(Risāla dar handasa). Ia 101.

A short exposition of the elements of Euclid. The editor, a disciple of Avicenna, 'Abdu'l-Wāḥid Jūzjānī, who flourished in the beg. of the V/XIc., states in his preface that, while editing his master's work Dānish-nāma-i-'Alā'ī, he had some additional short notes of Avicenna on different subjects. Those on geometry were combined by him into this risāla. Beg.

الحمد لله ... چنین گوید خواجه بزرگوار عبد الواحد جوزجاني ... که

آنگاه که بخدمت رئیس قدس الله روحه بودم الخ

Dated the 27th Rab. I 1228/ the 30th March 1813.

Ff. 20; S 8×5; 6×3; ll 15, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. fairly good. Notes on the margins.

566.

كفاية التعليم

Kifāyatu't-ta'līm. I 826.

A treatise on the principles of astronomy and astrology, by Abū'l-Maḥāmid (on f. 2, top, Abū'l-Majāhid) Muḥammad b. Mas'ūd b. Zakī Ghaznawī. It is the same work as that of which a fragment is described in IvASB 1500, 1. See also Bl 904; Ḥājjī Khalīfa refers to it in vol. V, p. 219, No. 10779, and gives the name of the author as Imām Ẓahīru'd-Dīn Abū Maḥāmid, etc. Probably the same writer is also referred to by Ḥ. Kh. in vol. II, p. 39, No. 1755, in connection with a treatise on grammar, Al-badī' fī'n-naḥw, by Ibn Athīr al-Jazarī (d. 606/1209–1210), apparently as the latter's collaborator; his name is given in a slightly corrupt form, as Muḥammad b. Mas'ūd الغزني. The present work has been compiled apparently towards the end of 541 and beg. 542/1147; on f. 90v the author mentions that he writes these lines on the 1st Muḥarram 542/ the 2nd June 1147. The copy in the Society's collection, IvASB 1500, 1 (Ob 3), corresponds only to f. 2 top–f. 29, l. 8 of the present one.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The book is divided into unnumbered faṣls, maqālas, qisms, etc. The original diction has been thoroughly modernised. The texts of this copy and of IvASB 1500, 1, differ considerably in wording. Beg.

سپاس و ستایش مر خدایرا که افریدکار است ... ابو المحامد محمد بن مسعود بن زکی غزنوی اصلحه الله لمرضاته میکوید الخ

Dated the 3rd Ramadān 1147 (the 17th year of Muḥammad Shāh's reign), i.e. the 27th January 1735, at Peshawar, transcribed by Ranjīt Rāy, who mentions that he "corrected" the diction which he found in the original being نا مربوط عبارت. In the middle of the last page, in red ink, there is a note about this copy being submitted to and entered into the library of Muḥammad Ṣafawī, who is called سلطان and خدیو هفت کشور, on the 19th Rajab 1224/ the 30th Aug. 1809; he probably was a Safawide exile in India.

The same. III 75.

Another copy of the same work, see No. 566. The wording of the initial lines is slightly different:

شکر و سپاس خدایرا که افریده کار است الخ

The present MS., as stated in the colophon, f. 174, is transcribed from a copy dated the 16th Sha'bān 729/ the 15th June 1329, which was a transcript of the autograph. The latter was dated the 13th Rab. I 543/ the 1st Aug. 1148; this may be true.

At the end, on ff. 174v–200, there is a series of short risālas on the same subjects:

1. (ff. 174v–182). (Risāla dar ma'rifat-i-ṭāli'). A short treatise on horoscopes, apparently of an early origin as, probably in illustration of the rules, the date of the birth of one Abū'l-Qāsim is given as the 20th Jum. I 501/ the 6th Jan. 1108. The name of the author is not mentioned. Beg.

معرفت طالع تخمین دانستن بروز به ساعت الخ

2. (ff. 182–185v). (Risāla dar athar-i-kawākib). A short treatise on the influence of the planets, on methods of reading other people's thoughts, etc. The name of the author is not given. Beg.

الحمد لله ... بباید دانست که هریکی از کواکب سیاره را الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

3. (ff. 185v–187v). Kunūzu'l-mu'azzimīn (so the title is given in the heading), ascribed to the authorship of Avicenna, also on the influence of the planets. Beg.

حمد و سپاس خدایرا که افریده کار جهانست الخ

4. (ff. 187v–189v). Aḥkām-i-sālhā-i-Turkān. A short note on the Turkish system of calculating time.

5. (ff. 189v–200). (Risāla dar hay'at). Another treatise on astrological matters; the title of the work and the name of the author are not mentioned. Beg.

الحمد لله ... اما بعد، بدانکه حکماء زمان و فیلسوف جهان الخ

Copied apparently early in the xii/xviii c. On f. 174 the date is given as the 15th Rajab 1601, which may stand for 1061. This date, 1061/1651, seems quite probable.

This copy was transcribed, by 'Alī Riḍā b. Sayyid Najaf 'Alī al-Mūsawī, from an earlier MS., completed in 951/1544–1545, written by Qāsim b. 'Abdi'l-'Alī al-Birjandī, apparently a son of the author. Risāla dar hay'at. II 452.

The well-known treatise on elementary astronomy, by the same 'Alā'u'd-Dīn 'Alī b. Muḥammad Qūshchī, see No. 570. It was written for Sulṭān Muḥammad II of Turkey (855–886/1451–1481). The name of the author and the dedication are not found in the present copy. See IvASB 1489. It was repeatedly commented upon and translated into Turkish and Arabic (cf. EIO 2240). The work is divided into a muqaddima, two maqālas (ff. 4 and 23v), and a khātima. Beg. as usual :

Durratu'l-masāḥat. I 368.

A treatise on the elements of geometry and practical rules concerning mensuration, by Ghiyāthu'd-Dīn 'Alī b. 'Alī Amīrān

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

(Ḥusaynī Iṣfahānī). His work was compiled at the request of a wazīr, Niẓāmu'd-Dīn Darwīsh-'Alī, for the direction of Shihābu'd-Dīn Khwājagī, an architect, and dedicated to Abū'l-Fatḥ Sulṭān Maḥmūd Ghāzī, 'the ruler of Iran and Turan,' in 890/1485 (as here given در سال فرخي). The Sulṭān Maḥmūd in question is undoubtedly the Timuride prince who ruled in 899–900/1494, but was a governor of Mazandaran since 864/1460. This identification helps to settle an old-standing puzzle, viz. the exact date of the Dānish-nāma-i-jahān, on the physical sciences, also by the same writer, dedicated to the same ruler (cf. IvASB 1363 and Pr 373). Another tract, of cabbalistic contents, by the same author, written in 870/1465–1466, was dedicated to Abū Bakr, Maḥmūd's brother, who was a governor of Badakhshān in about 865–884/1460–1479 (see Br 133, p. 219).

The work is divided into a muqaddima (f. 2), on the general principles of mensuration; four maqālas: the first (f. 29), on the measurement of plain surfaces; the second (f. 40v), on the measurement of spherical surfaces; the third (f. 43), on the measurement of irregular curved surfaces; the fourth (f. 45), on the measurement of the surfaces of solid bodies; and a khātima (f. 51v), on some elementary algebraic rules. Beg.

573. (رساله در معدل قمر)

(Risāla dar ma'dal-i-qamar). I 481.

Tables of lunar phases, with some appendices on the positions of the sun, etc. There are only two pages of explanations, at the beginning, containing no preface, no indication of the exact title of the book, the name of the author, and the date of composition. On f. 1v the year 871/1466–1467 is referred to, to illustrate the explanation of some rules. Most probably it was taken for this purpose because of being current at the time of composition. At the end, on ff. 61–62, there are tables of solar positions, calculated for the years 904–1089/1498–1678 (there are, however, no direct indications that these tables are part of the main treatise). On ff. 1 and 1v the book is called Tas'hīl-i-qamar and attributed to one Mullā 'Imād. On f. 61, in two astrological tables, which may belong to the work itself, the name of their author is given as Maḥmūd b. Aḥmad, surnamed Humām al-Fārsī.

574. (رساله در هيئت)

(Risāla dar hay'at). III 79.

A treatise on astrology, with a detailed horoscope for a nobleman, or a high official, Shaykh Ḍiyā'u'd-Dīn Muḥammad (born, apparently, in 888/1483, was alive in 923/1517, cf. f. 16). The name of the author does not appear. At the end it is stated that the work was completed in Jum. I 923/May-June 1517, at Samarqand (f. 77v). It is divided into five bābs, but there are lacunas in the middle of the book and only of I (f. 8), IV (f. 32), and V (f. 68), the headings are given. It is peculiar that in the heading of the first bāb, this section is said to belong to the "second part":

باب اول از قسم ثاني در احكام طالع همايون،

(the word ثانى, however, is left without dots, as if it has caused some doubt to the scribe). Every bāb is subdivided into a different number of faṣls. The authorities are mentioned on f. 8, but occasional references are found in many other places. The latest of them seems to be Jalālu'd-Dīn Dawānī (d. 907/1501–1502), see f. 22. The earlier treatises consulted by the compiler are: Kifāyatu't-ta'līm, by Abū'l-Maḥāmid Ghaznawī (f. 8); Rauḍatu'l-munajjimīn, by Shāh-Mardān al-Jīlī (f. 8); Jāmi'-i-shāhī, by Shajarī(?); Mawālīd-i-kabīr, by Abū Ma'shar (Balkhī); Talkhīṣ, transl. by Ḥusayn b. Fārisī; Thamaru'l-falak, with a commentary on it by Naṣīru'd-Dīn Ṭūsī, also Nukat (?), by the same; Mujmalu'l-aḥkām, by Abū'l-Ḥasan Kiyā Sa'īd Gūshyār; Sirru'l-asrār, by Muḥammad Balkhī; Athmāru'l-ashjār and Aḥkāmu'l-a'wām, by 'Alī Shāh Bukhārī; Aḥkām-i-Bayhaqī. Beg. of the treatise:

الحمد لله الذي حكمه المبرم اصوب الاحكام و كلامه الخ

Transcribed in Samarqand, apparently from the draft of the author, immediately after the completion of the work, by Muḥammad Yūsuf b. Shamsi'd-Dīn Muḥammad (قد تم بعض من هذا الاجزاء بعد ما كتب استادى الخ), and finished the 10th Jum. II 923/ the 30th June 1517.

575. الرسالة المعينية

Ar-risālatu'l-Mu'īniyya. II 453.

A short treatise on astronomy, divided into four maqālas. It may be of early origin and is apparently the same as the one referred to by Ḥājjī Khalīfa (vol. III, p. 444, No. 6362). The name of the author and the date of composition are not mentioned; the dedication to one 'Abdu'r-Raḥīm b. Abī Manṣūr, whom Ḥājjī Khalīfa calls شهريار ايران, and his son, Mu'īnu'd-Dīn Abū Shams b. 'Abdi'r-Raḥīm, is not found here (the text seems to have been copied from a disarranged original). At the end also (f. 80v) this prince's name is omitted:

... رساله را برين فصل و مقاله ختم كنيم اكر پسنديده خاطر بزركوار ...

... الدين ضاعف الله علاه آيد غايت سعادت اين بنده مخلص روى نموده باشد الخ

The name probably refers to some local governor, as there was no prince of this name who ruled over any considerable part of Persia. Beg. سپاس و ستايش حضرت عزت ذوالجلال را كه الخ

At the end several folios are occupied with kitchen accounts.

Copied in the xiii/xix c. Many marginal notes. On many folios space is left blank, probably for drawings, which were not inserted.

Ff. 80; S 7,5×5; 5,75×3; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten and repaired.

576. رساله در تحقيق سمت قبله

Risāla dar taḥqīq-i-samt-i-qibla. II 403.

A short treatise on practical methods to determine the qibla, i.e. direction of Mekka. The name of the author and the date of composition are not mentioned. Beg.

Copied apparently in 1005/1597, because it bears a note of collation dated Lahore, the 19th Dhī'l-Qa'da 1005/ the 4th July 1597 (this date seems suspiciously early for the character of the handwriting).

585. ذخیرهٔ خوارزم شاهي

Dhakhīra-i-Khwārizm-shāhī. II 297.

The well-known exposition of medical science, by (Zaynu'd-Dīn Abū Ibrāhīm) Isma'īl b. Ḥusayn b. Muḥammad b. Aḥmad al-Ḥusaynī al-Jurjānī (d. 531 or 535/1136–1141). The treatise was completed in 504/1110–1111, and dedicated to Quṭbu'd-Dīn Muḥammad, Khwārizm-shāh (490–522/1097–1128). See IvASB 1530, where references to other catalogues are given. In the present copy the introduction differs slightly from the usual version. The date of the beginning of compilation is given as the month of Rab. II 526/Febr.-March 1132. The Khwārizm-shāh at whose request the book was compiled is not mentioned by name. Beg., not as usual:

الحمد لله المنفرد بالوحدانیه خالق الخلق ... چون از بندهٔ دعاکوی جمع کنندهٔ این کتاب اسمعیل بن الحسین الخ

Of the nine books (kitāb), into which the treatise is divided, the first begins on f. 3; II on f. 40v; III on f. 76v; IV on f. 150v; V on f. 168v; VI on f. 207; VII on f. 412v; VIII on f. 442v; IX on f. 450v (although in all colophons of the preceding kitābs the work is regarded as consisting of only 8 books); X on f. 465v. The last section is not regarded here as a book, but as an appendix, and is called Qarābādīn, in three parts.

Transcribed between Shawwāl 1064 and Rajab (or a little later) 1066/Aug. 1654–Apr. 1656, as can be seen from the dates in the colophons of separate sections, see ff. 40, 76, 149v, 206v, 238, 264, 321, 442, 464v, 494.

Ff. 533; S 16×10; 12×6,25; ll 29, within jadwals. Brownish thin Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. remarkably good for an Indian MS. of this age. Only slightly worm-eaten. Mediocre and bad vignettes, of Indian gaudy colouring, at the beginning of every big section. Seals on f. 1, erased.

504/1110–1111, and the name of the Khwārizm-shāh as Arslān Tegīn Muḥammad. Beg. as usual:

الحمد لله رب العالمين حمد الشاكرين ... و چون تقدير ايزد تعالى النخ

The books begin: I on f. 4; II on f. 71v; III on f. 128v; IV on f. 248v; V on f. 274v; VI on f. 336v; VII on f 354v; VIII on f. 411v; IX on f. 428v; the Qarābādīn on f. 446v. The text seems to be slightly abbreviated.

Copied in the xii/xviii c. Many marginal notes, especially in the second half. A great number of glosses in Portuguese or Spanish, many Persian terms are written transliterated into Latin letters. A fihrist is added at the beginning.

Ff. 546; S 12,5 × 8,25; 9,5 × 5; ll 21, within double jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast., different hands. Cond. tol. good.

The same. Ia 67.

Another, incomplete copy of the same work. It begins with the preface in the same version as that in No. 586, and contains only the following books: I on f. 5v; II on f. 116; VII on f 213v; VIII on f. 301v; IX on f. 326. Beg. as in the preceding copy.

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or the beg. of the xiii/xix c. A few notes on the margins.

اختيارات بديعى

Ikhtiyārāt-i-Badī'ī. I 20.

A treatise on simple and compound medicines, by 'Alī b. Ḥusayn al-Anṣārī, surnamed Ḥājjī Zaynu'l-'Aṭṭār (born 730/1330, d. 806/1403–1404); he compiled it (according to EIO 2289; here the date is not given) in 770/1368–1369, chiefly from his own earlier work, the Miftāḥu'l-khazā'in (completed 767/1366). It is dedicated to a princess Badī'u'l-Jamāl (f. 2), who cannot be properly identified. See Bl 836–843, EIO 2289–2294, Br 128, EB 1581–1584, R 469, Leyden C. III, 277–278, Mehren, p. 13; cf. also R. Seligmann, Ueber drei seltene Persische Handschriften, p. 24; etc. Ind. libr. Bh 229, 230. Lith. Cawnpore, 1879. The work is divided into two faṣls (in some copies called maqālas; here the second is so called). Their headings:

۱ (f. 3) در مفردات ادويه و نامهاى آن و ابدال و اصلاح و منافع آن به ترتيب حروف ،

۲ (f. 217v) در مركبات مستعمل ،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

The first faṣl contains the names of drugs alphabetically arranged; in the second they are given in 16 bābs, arranged under the principal groups of medicines, beg. with purgatives and ending with unctions (marham).

The beginning of the treatise is slightly different from the usual one :

حمد بی حد و سپاس بی عد مبدعي را که آثار ابداع او برهر ورقی از اوراق ... اما بعد، بر ارباب فطنت و اصحاب حکمت الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xi/xvii c. (the name of the scribe is erased); many marginal notes and glosses. Seals and notes on f. 1.

Ff. 236; S 13×7; 8,5×4; ll 23, within jadwals. Or. pap. Good careful Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten; traces of moisture; ff. 163, 164, 174, are decaying, paper begins to crumble.

589. كفاية مجاهديه

Kifāya-i-Mujāhidiyya. I 831.

The well-known treatise on medicine, by Manṣūr b. Muḥammad b. Aḥmad b. Yūsuf b. Faqīh Ilyās (f. 4, top), dedicated to Zaynu'l-'Ābidīn, a ruler of Kashmīr (826–877/1423–1472) (in this copy his name is omitted), see IvASB 1536. It is divided into two fanns, the first beg. on f. 9v; the second is not clearly marked (approximately somewhere near f. 380). The first fann is divided into two qisms: I on f. 9v, subdivided into four maqālas (ff. 9v, 34v. 41, 62v); the second qism, on f. 84, subdivided into five maqālas (ff. 84v, 115, 293, 322, 357v). The second fann is subdivided into two maqālas: ff. 380 (?) and 398. Beg. as usual :

شکر و سپاس مر خالقی را که در خلقت انسان دقایق حکمت الخ

Dated the 12th Rajab 1104/ the 19th March 1693. A fihrist is added in the beg.

Ff. 473; S 6,5×3; 4,5×1,75; ll 12, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. A few marginal and interlinear glosses, especially in the beginning. A few notes.

590. معدن الشفاء

Ma'danu'sh-shifā'. II 288.

A treatise on medicine and description of drugs, based on Indian sources. The beginning is that of the well-known Ma'danu'sh-shifā' of Bhūwa b. Khawāṣṣ Khān (f. 2, top), composed in 918/1512–1513 (f. 2v), and dedicated to Sikandar Lodi, see IvASB 1540. There are lacunas corresponding to f. 2, l. 10 to f. 2v, last line, and f. 3, bottom, to f. 5, l. 6, of G 55 (IvASB 1540). There is one leaf more, written by the same hand (f. 3), the origin of which has not been identified. Then begins the main body of the volume, which contains faṣls 3 to 73, apparently belonging to a work quite different from the Ma'danu'sh-shifā'. It deals chiefly with medicines, classed under the diseases against which they are used. Beg. of the Ma'danu'sh-shifā', as usual:

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

حمد مر خدایرا که بحکمت بالغه و قدرت کامله الخ

Beg. of the third faṣl of the other work (f. 4, here marked as 3):

فصل سیوم در اسماء بعضی داروها الخ

Copied by different scribes, apparently in the xii/xviii c. In the colophon the date is given as the 29th Ṣafar 1086. This date is unreliable, as it has apparently been interfered with. Originally there was perhaps 1186, i.e. the 1st June 1772.

Ff. 322; S 8,5 × 5,25; 6,25 × 3,25; ll 20, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. (different hands). Cond. tol. good, except ff. 241–246, which are crumbling. Numerous marginal notes and glosses; often headings of faṣls are repeated on the margins.

I 471.

A treatise on simple and compound drugs, comp. in 946/1539–1540, by Yūsufī, or Yūsuf b. Muḥammad b. Yūsuf Harātī (flourished in the first half of the X/XVIc.), cf. IvASB 1543, and dedicated to Humāyūn. See R 840. The work is divided into two bābs. The names of medicines are alphabetically arranged. The present copy contains only the first bāb. Beg.

الحمد الله (sic) الذي خلق لكل داء دواء و جعل الخ

On ff. 58v–69v, there is an appendix, probably an extract from some larger work, with the heading:

مقالهٔ دویم در (sic) فصل اول در شناختن طبع و منافع دانها

It begins abruptly with descriptions of different cereals.

Dated (see f. 58v), the 7th Ṣafar of the 16th year of 'Ālam Shāh's reign, or 1188/the 19th Apr. 1774. The colophon on f. 69v is dated the 22nd Ṣafar of the same year, i.e. the 4th May.

to Badaoni (Muntakhabu't-tawārīkh, vol. III, tr. by T. W. Haig, pp. 229–230 and 320–322, cf. also vol. II, text, p. 403), he died the 27th Dhī'l-Ḥijja 1003/ the 2nd Sept. 1595. In the present work, which is dedicated to Akbar, the date of composition is given as 1004/1595 (f. 3, top) : شد اسمش فواید الانسان. This is probably an approximate date, and some freedom may have been allowed on account of the fact that the title was given by Akbar himself (ff. 2v–3). The names of the drugs are here arranged alphabetically. The descriptions of some of them form acrostics, the initial letters of every verse also spelling the name of the medicine, dealt with in the passage. Beg. of prose preface :

الله اکبر این چه حکمت است همایون و نعمت است الخ

Beg. of the versified text (f. 3) :

نامه از بعد ذکر نام اله، شد موشح بنام اکبر شاه،

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c. Many notes and glosses on the margins.

Ff. 144 ; S 7 × 4,25 ; 4,75 × 2,75 ; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten and repaired.

593. میزان الطبائع قطب شاهي

Mīzānu'ṭ-ṭabā'i'-i-Quṭb-shāhī. II 289.

A rather rare medical treatise, by Taqiyyu'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Ṣadri'd-Dīn 'Alī, who re-arranged it from his earlier work on the same subject (f. 2), and dedicated it to Muḥammad Quṭbshāh (989–1020/1581–1611), see JvASB 1551. It is divided into a ṣughrā, a kubrā, a natīja, and a lāzima, subdivided into muqaddimas and qisms. Their beginnings are not properly marked in the text. The treatise apparently ends on f. 215v, and there is an appendix, on various drugs, on ff. 215v–218. Beg. of the treatise :

زیب دیباجهٔ هر رساله بستایش صانع حکیمي رواست الخ

Copied towards the end of the xi/xvii c., in Dihlī.

Ff. 218 ; S 9,75 × 6,5 ; 7,75 × 4 ; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten and injured by moisture. Many marginal notes. On several folios space is left blank, probably due to lacunas in the original.

594. الفاظ ادویه

Alfāẓ-i-adwiya. II 415.

A brief pharmacology, with the names of drugs alphabetically arranged. It was composed by Nūru'd-Dīn Muḥammad (b.) 'Abdi'l-lah Ḥakīm (b.) 'Ayni'l-Mulk Shīrāzī (f. 3v), in 1038/1628–

1629 (f. 4, the title is a chronogram), and dedicated to Shāhjahān (f. 3). See IvASB 1555. For a detailed description of this work see EIO 2325; the khātima, mentioned there, is not given in this copy. Beg. as usual:

هو الله الاحد الصمد که پایه حقیقت بیچونش از دایرهٔ النخ

Dated the 1st Muḥarram 1231/the 3rd Dec. 1815 (1872 of the Sambat era). Many marginal notes and emendations, in addition to the names of drugs dealt with on the pages, written in red ink.

عين الحيوة

'Aynu'l-ḥayāt.

II 286.

A treatise on the so-called 'China root,' and on the bezoar-stone, and their effects on various diseases. The title as above, and the name of the author, Muḥammad Hāshim (b. Muḥammad Ṭāhir) Ṭihrānī, are given in the colophon, and the treatise is apparently identical with EIO 2336,1. In this copy the preface is omitted, and the work begins abruptly with the muqaddima. The identity cannot, therefore, be definitely decided. Judging from the description of the fuller copy in the India Office library, the work is dedicated to Sulaymān Ṣafawī (1077–1105/1667–1694). For another work by the same author, Miftāḥu'l-khazā'in, see Bl 865.

According to H. Ethé's description, the work consists of two maqālas; a separate work, called Tuḥfa-i-Sulaymānī, on the bezoar-stone, is appended (EIO 2336, 2). In the present copy there are three maqālas, and the last one deals with zedoary, etc. Most probably the two works described in EIO 2336, were combined into one by the author himself, or by one of the editors. Here the contents are:

مقدمه، در بیان کیفیت اطلاع بر بیخ چینی، (f. 1v)

(no special heading) (مقالهٔ اول ؟) (f. 2v)

مقالهٔ دویم، در بیان عشبه مغربیه و مزاج او، (f. 41v)

مقالهٔ سیوم، در خواص جدوار و فاوزهره و غیره، (f. 44v)

These maqālas are subdivided into bābs, and these into faṣls. Beg.

تحفة المؤمنين

Tuḥfatu'l-mu'minīn. II 295.

The well-known treatise on medicine, by Mīr Muḥammad Zamān Tankābunī Daylamī, who dedicated it to Sulaymān Ṣafawī (1077–1105/1666–1694), cf. f. 2v, top, see IvASB 1562. It is divided into two parts, the first contains five tashkhīṣ; the second is divided into three qisms. The first tashkhīṣ of the first part begins on f. 2v; II on f. 4v; III on f. 8v; IV on f. 269v; V on f. 275v. The second part, called Dastūrāt, begins on f. 277 (qism I on f. 277, II on f. 302v). Beg. as usual:

سبحان اللهم يا قدوس و يا طبيب النفوس الخ

On the margins of ff. 269v–309v there are several extracts (in Arabic) from different medical works such as Zubdatu'l-ḥukamā', Baḥru'l-jawāhir; another Arabic work on the hygiene of the child (f. 303), etc. There are a great many notes, glosses, and emendations on the margins and on the fly-leaves at the beg. and end.

II 506.

A portion of a large pharmacological work, dealing with compound medicines. The present copy contains only the second ganjwar, incomplete at the end, subdivided into 8 naqds which are, in their turn, subdivided into numerous 'aqds, etc. Most probably it belongs to the same work, several fragments from which are described in IvASB 1597, 2. There is no mention of the real title, of the author's name, or of the date of composition. The latter may be approximately fixed as belonging to the end of the XI/XVIIc., or a little later. Many authors of the X/XVIc. are referred to, such as Kamālu'd-Dīn Ḥusayn Shīrāzī, 'Imādu'd-Dīn Maḥmūd Shīrāzī, Yūsufī, etc. Shāh 'Abbās (probably the first) of Persia (d. 1037/1628), is referred to here (f. 21v), as Wālī-i-Īrān, a humiliating title which used to be given to the heretical kings of Persia during the strained relations with India in the reign of Aurangzīb. Beg. of the volume:

Khulāṣatu'sh-shurūḥ. II 505.

A condensed commentary on the Mūjiz, an extract by Ibn an-Nafīs (d. 687/1288) from the famous medical work of Avicenna, the Qānūn (cf. Brock., I, 457). It is based on several standard commentaries of the Qānūn as well as of the Mūjiz, especially those of Aqsarā'ī (d. ca. 800/1397), Faḍlu'l-lah Tabrīzī, and Ḥakīm Shifā'ī Khān, who is apparently identical with the well-known poet Shifā'ī (d. ca. 1037/1628, cf. IvASB 729). The author calls himself Ghulām Imām b. Ḥakīm Banda 'Alī Khān (the latter was the translator of the Mūjiz into Persian). The exact date of composition is not given; therefore the second half of the XI or the first half of the XIIc./XVII–XVIII may be suggested. Cf. another work, apparently by the same author, No. 604. Beg. بعد حمد شافی عز و جل و نعت رسول اکمل الخ

1. (ff. 1v–86v). Zādu'l-musāfirīn (?) (this title is given only in the fihrist to the work, at the beginning). A treatise on the preservation of good health, the prevention of diseases, and on first aid during journeys. The author calls himself (f. 2) Muḥammad Mahdī b. 'Alī Naqī Sharīf. He composed this treatise at Iṣfahān, during the Afghan invasion, and completed it the 10th Ṣafar 1141/the 15th Sept. 1728 (f. 86v). The work is divided into two maṭlabs:

۱ (f. 2v) در تدبیر مسافر و قوانین حفظ صحت ایشان و تدابیر امورى
که مسافرانرا غالبا اتفاق مي افتد،

۲ (f. 8v) در معالجهٔ صنفی چند از بعضی امراض که بدون مراجعت
بطبیب توان معالجه نمود،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Beg. of the treatise :

سپاس افزون از خواهش بیماران بشفا الخ

Then follow three short appendices, apparently by the same author, because the style seems to be the same as in the main work :

2. (ff. 87–89). Mujarrabāt dar mu'ālija-i-ba'ḍī amrāḍ. A short note on the cure of some specific diseases. The name of the author is not mentioned. The authorities referred to are : Ḥājjī Ḥusayn Jarrāḥ, Muḥammad Bāqir Qumī, and Muḥammad Ṣādiq b. Muḥammad Ja'far (Iṣfahānī). The full heading is :

رساله مجربات در معالجه بعضی امراض که اکثر نرا از اسرار نوشته اند '

3. (ff. 89–93v). Another risāla, with a similar heading, on the same subject as the preceding one. Beg.

نقل من خط المرحوم المبرور مؤالف (sic) هذه الرساله الخ

4. (ff. 93v–95v). Another short note on some particular diseases, describing medicines to cure them. Nādir Shāh (d. 1160/1747) is referred to on f. 95. Beg.

صفت قرص رادع بجهة درد سر الخ

Dated the 12th Jum. I 1226/ the 4th June 1811. Stray notes and prescriptions on fly-leaves, at the beg. and end. Marginal notes. A fihrist.

طب منظوم

Ṭibb-i-manẓūm.

I 646.

A treatise on medicine, in versified form. The authorship is ascribed in the opening lines and the colophon to (Muḥammad) Ṣādiq b. Kāẓim Riḍawī. There are no indications as to the date of composition, and no references to the authorities. The author is probably identical with the poet from whom a quotation is given in an anthology, dating from the XII/XVIIIc., described in IvASB 943, f. 93. The treatise is divided into four maqālas, dealing with different groups of diseases, subdivided into guftārs and faṣls. Beg.

(رساله در اصول طب)

(Risāla dar uṣūl-i-ṭibb). I 789.

A treatise on physic and the principles of medicine, divided into a muqaddima, 12 bābs, and a khātima. There is no preface, and the book begins abruptly with the muqaddima. The name of the author, the title of the book, and the date of composition are not mentioned. In the beginning, on the top, is written by a different hand:

يقول العبد المحتاج الى ربه الغني محمد صادق ابن محمد كاظم الرضوى،

i.e. the same writer as mentioned in No. 607. There are, however, no means to ascertain from this copy whether this statement is correct. The work is based on Avicenna's treatises, and its mediæval commentaries. The contents are:

(f. 1) مقدمه، در بيان معني روح و كيفيت تولد آن،

١ (f. 2) در بيان معاني قوت،

٢ (f. 3v) در عدد قوتهاى كليه و جزئيه،

٣ (f. 13v) در بيان عدد ارواح و اعضاء اين،

٤ (f. 29v) در بيان خلافي كه ميانهٔ اطبا و حكما در محل فيضان قوا

٥ (f. 36) در بيان تقسيم متناولات بغذا و دوا و غير آن،

٦ (f. 43v) در بيان شطرى از احوال كيف و امرى چند كه متعلق بآنست مانند مزاج و غير آن،

٧ (f. 53) در بيان بعضى از كيفيات و صفات ديكر كه عارض ادويه ميكردند،

٨ (f. 62v) در تقسيم كيفيت مزاجيهٔ ادويه باعتدال الخ

٩ (f. 78v) در بيان معني مراد از مركب القوى،

١٠ (f. 87) در بيان خاصيت و معني اجسام ذو الخاصيت،

۱۱ (f. 91) در بیان برخی از حالات که عارض نفس باعتبار اتصاف قلب و روح ببعضی از صفات میکردند،

۱۲ (f. 93v) در بیان چگونگی جهات تاثیر ادویه قلبیه در قلب و روح قلبی از تقویت و تفریح و نظایر آن،

خاتمه (f. 98v) در بیان معنی محتملة الارادة از طبیعة در اصطلاح حکما،

There is no colophon, and at the end of the khātima there is given a fihrist of the bābs in the work. F. 103 is blank. Beg. of the treatise:

الحمد لله ... مقدمه، در بیان معنی روح و کیفیت تولد آن، بدانکه اهل ملل الخ

On ff. 103v–106v there is a short treatise on the effects of liquid drugs (بیان مقادیر الشربات من الادویة), in Arabic. It is similarly ascribed, in an additional line, to the authorship of the same Muḥammad Ṣādiq, the author of the main treatise in this volume. Beg.

لله الحمد و المنة و هو العزیز الحکیم الخ

Copied towards the end of the xii/xviii c., or in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 106; S 9,75×6; 7×4; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. A few marginal notes.

I 263.

(Qarābādīn-i-'Alawī Khān).

A large pharmacological treatise, on compound medicines, in which descriptions of drugs, etc., are often mixed up with religious matters, ḥadiths, etc. The author calls himself Sayyid Muḥammad Hāshim (b. Muḥammad Hādī al-'Alawī); he bore the titles of 'Alawī Khān and of Mu'tamidu'l-Mulūk, and died (cf. R 382) in 1162/1749; cf. also EIO 2361. The present work may be identical with the Jāmi'u'l-jawāmi', mentioned in EIO 2361. The work is divided into three maqṣads, of which the first two form, in fact, merely an introduction:

۱ (f. 1v) در ذکر ادویه مرکبه مذکوره در احادیث،

۲ (f. 11) در ذکر دواء عصمت که ذکر کرده معلم اول ارسطاطالیس حکیم در رساله که از برای اسکندر تالیف کرده،

۳ (f. 13) در ذکر دوای کبد جامع المنافع،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Many earlier works are referred to. Beg. of the treatise :

الحمد لله ... اما بعد ، میگوید السید محمد هاشم المخاطب بمعتمد الملوک علوی خان الخ

Copied in the end of the xii/xviii c. A few glosses and notes on the margins.

Ff. 333 ; S 13,5 × 8,5 ; 9,5 × 5,25 ; ll 25, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. bad. The second half of the volume is badly damaged by worms or white ants. Ff. 1 and 2 are of quite recent origin.

610. تحفة المسیحا

Tuḥfatu'l-Masīḥā. II 294.

A voluminous work on medicine, based on various standard works, Western as well as Muhammadan and Indian, such as those of Lazar, Ribeira, Avicenna (the Qānūn), Zakariyā Rāzī, Najību'd-Dīn Samarqandī (Asbāb wa 'alāmāt), Abū'l-Ḥasan Qarshī (Mūjiz), Īlāqī (Mu'ālijāt), Abū Manṣūr Zarrīn-dast (Nūru'l-'Uyūn), Isma'īl Jurjānī (Dhakhīra-i-Khwārizmshāhī), and many others (see f. 1v). The author, a Christian apparently connected with the Portuguese church, mentions that his ancestors came from Syria, from Ḥalab, or Aleppo. Some of them lived at Dihlī, but he had settled at Ūdaypūr, under the local raja Jagat-Sing'h, to whom the work is dedicated (f. 2). He gives his own name as Dominic Gregory Bautist, surnamed Dak'hanī Beg, s. of Rafa'īl Bautist, surn. Naẓar Beg, s. of Juan Bautist, surn. Yaḥyā Beg, s. of Ibrāhīm Beg, s. of Qaraqāsh Beg, s. of Yūnus Beg (f. 1v and in the colophon). He also refers to his teacher whom he calls Silvestre Zacharos (?) :

افضل علمای دوران سلویستر ذکروس عرف اصلح مسیح بن جری زکروس ،

(the word ذکروس is not clearly legible).

There is some doubt as to the exact date of composition. The date of the beginning of compilation is given on f. 2, top, as the 5th January (جنیرو ?) 1749 (so in figures and in words). But the equivalent in the Hijrī era, the 22nd Muḥarram 1160, or the 30th year of Muḥammad Shāh's reign, is in fact the 3rd Febr. 1747. The present copy is an autograph, dated the 5th Rab. II of the first year of Aḥmad Shāh's reign, i.e. 1162, or the 25th March 1749. Therefore the Hijrī date seems to be more reliable, and a mistake in the Christian date is probable.

The work is divided into three maqālas, subdivided into different numbers of faṣls, etc. :

ا (f. 2) اندر یاد کردن حد طب و منفعت آن و یاد کردن مایها و تشریح اندامها و قوتها و غیر آن ،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

۲ (f. 90) اندر یاد کردن طب معالجات که طبیب از آن عمل تواند کرد ،

۳ (f. 639v) اندر یاد کردن اعمال الید اعنی دستکاری ،

Beg. of the treatise :

سپاس و ستایش مر خدای و عیسی مسیح را که ذات او بهیچ ذات نماند ... اما بعد ، میکوید شکسته و دلخسته مسیحی دومنیک کرکوری الخ

The book is paged from the beginning to end, in red ink, and at the top of the pages are given page headings, in Persian, in the original characters or in transliteration, or, sometimes, in Portuguese ; cf. on f. 2 "Andar had tebque" (اندر حد طب), etc. There are also very many marginal notes, in Persian, Portuguese, and transliterated Hindustani. A long note in Portuguese appears on f. 1. A complete fihrist, with references to pages, is added in the beginning, on eight leaves. On seven fly-leaves at the beg. there are : a note on Persian medical terms, with their Portuguese equivalents ; on some alchemic matters, with drawings of various implements ; on the properties of various plants ; on the cultivation of some medicinal vegetables ; a horoscope, etc.

At the end there are : some stray notes, of the same nature as above, on ff. 669v–672v. On ff. 672v–676v there is a treatise on the properties of the 'China root,' apparently an adoptation of the well-known treatise of 'Imādu'd-Dīn Maḥmūd Shīrāzī (cf. IvASB 1542), who is referred to in the text.

Ff. 677–679 are occupied with a note on farriery ; the work from which it has been extracted is not mentioned. Some stray notes cover the last two leaves.

On ff. 3–27v, on the margins, there is placed the Jāmi'u'l-fawā'id (sometimes also called Ṭibb-i-Yūsufī), a treatise on medicine, by Yūsufī, or Yūsuf b. Muḥammad b. Yūsuf aṭ-Ṭabīb Harātī, who flourished in the first half of the X/XVIc., see IvASB 1543, 6, completed the 18th Ramaḍān 917/the 9th Dec. 1511. The beginning differs from that of IvASB 1543, 6 :

ای که خواهی تندرستی از در حکمت در آ ،
تا بعلت هلی کونا کون نکردی مبتلا ،

Dated, as mentioned above, the 5th Rab. II 1161/the 4th Apr. 1748, at Ūdaypūr, by the author himself.

Ff. 696 ; S 18 × 10 ; 13 × 6,5 ; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. pap. Large Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten and repaired ; traces of moisture. Seals at the beg. and end (erased).

خلاصة العيش عالمشاهي

Khulāṣatu'l-'aysh-i-'Ālamshāhī. II 285.

A large treatise on sexual intercourse, aphrodisiacs, diseases of the sexual organs, etc., by one Muẓaffar (f. 2), compiled by him in 1177/1763–1764 (f. 3), for presentation to Shāh 'Ālam (1173–1221/1759–1806), to whom it is dedicated (f. 3v). It is divided into two maṭlabs, each subdivided into 20 bābs. The work is chiefly based on Indian sources. See EB 1628. Beg.

(مجموعه در طب)

(Majmū'a dar ṭibb). I 157.

Treatises, in Persian and Arabic, connected with medical matters:

1. (ff. 1–11). Taḥqīqu'l-awzān. Explanation of terms used in medical works in connection with weights, etc., by 'Abdu'l-lah b. Muḥammad Ashraf Ṣiddīqī. He wrote apparently in the second half of the XII/XVIIIc., or beg. XIII/XIXc., as many late works are referred to, such as Qarābādīn-i-Qādirī (comp. ca. 1130/1718), Sirāju'l-lughat, of Ārzū (completed in 1147/1734–1735), etc. Beg.

حمد و سپاس لایق کردکاریست که ... اما بعد، چنین کوید کرفتار علل الخ

Many marginal notes. Additional notes at the end.

2. (ff. 11v–13). (Fuṣūl Buqrāṭ fī'l-buthūr). A collection of 25 rules for the cure of pustules and ulcers, in Arabic, ascribed to Hippocrates, found by the editor in the sage's grave (!). Beg.

هذه فصول في البثور وجدت في قبر بقراط الخ

Additional notes of medical contents at the end, and on the margins.

3. (ff. 13–14v). Bur'u's-sā'at. A short treatise on medicine, in Arabic, by Abū Bakr Muḥammad ar-Rāzī (d. ca. 320/932), see Brock. I, 233–234, cf. IvASB 1552. In the colophon he is confused with Fakhru'd-Dīn Rāzī (d. 606/1209–1210), the famous theologian. Beg.

613. دستورات

Dastūrāt. I 377.

A short treatise on the general principles of medicine. The title, as above, is given in the colophon. The name of the author and the date of composition are not mentioned. On f. 1 the book is ascribed to the authorship of one Ḥakīmu'l-Mulk Jīlānī, but the place is mutilated, and it is impossible to ascertain whether the statement is correct. The work seems to be of modern origin. There is no regular division into chapters. It begins:

الحمد لله و الصلوة على رسوله ، بدانكه طب علم است باحوال ابدان الخ

Copied in the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 33; S 7,75 × 4,75; 5,5 × 3,25; ll 12, no jadwals. Or. and Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. very bad. Worm-eaten and badly spoilt by 'repairs.' A seal on f. 1, dated 1262/1846.

614. بستان افروز

Bustān-afrūz. II 432.

A short risāla on the curative properties of various Indian plants, by Sayyid 'Abdu'l-Fattāḥ (surnamed) Khwāja 'Abdu'l-lah Namakīn. There are no indications as to the date of composition, and apparently no references to earlier works on the subject. There is apparently no special arrangement. The author translates the ordinary names of plants into Arabic, or coins new Arabic names for them, and these new names are written in red ink as headings to the notes in which every particular drug is dealt with, cf. on f. 8v: انعكاس القمر ، اعنى كل چاندني كه آن الخ, etc. Beg.

(Risāla dar ṭibb). Ia 99.

A fragment of a medical work, containing maqālas 3–8 (the last two incomplete). There are apparently no references to the earlier medical literature in the book. In order to facilitate identification, the headings of the maqālas are here given. Each maqāla is divided into a different number of faṣls.

616. باز نامه

Bāz-nāma. I*a* 19.

A detailed treatise on falconry, composed in 570/1175–1176 (cf. f. 4, top). This date does not seem to be reliable, as Bāz-nāma-i-Fīrūzshāhī, which was comp. in 571/1176 (cf. EB 1859), is referred to. The old diction and orthography are not preserved in this copy. The name of the author is not mentioned. The treatise is divided into 72 bābs; their list is given on ff. 4–5v. The last one breaks off just in its beginning, but the alphabetical vocabulary of veterinary and medical terms, given on ff. 237v–244v, apparently forms part of it. Beg.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Mongol prince Ṭughāy Tīmūr Khān (f. 13), who reigned in 739–752/1338–1351. The work is divided into two muqaddimas and 27 bābs (cf. ff. 22–24, where their list is given). It seems, however, that this means that the 27 bābs constitute these two muqaddimas, the first containing 22 of them, dealing chiefly with falconry, and the second (f. 120), five bābs, on different quadrupeds which may be trained for hunting. In the first muqaddima the last bāb of which the heading is distinctly marked, is the 15th, on f. 59v. The bābs 16–22 have no headings, although the text is apparently complete. The authorities on which the book is based are given on ff. 15–15v. The treatise is an expanded version of the Ṣayd-nāma-i-Malikshāhī, which is supplemented from various apocryphal books of Jāmāsp, Hippocrates, Galen, Buzurjmihr, etc.; also from authors or works as follows: the Jawāriḥ-nāma of Abū'l-Bukhturī (?), Dihqān Shakanī (شکنی); a Risāla of Abū'l-Fawāris Fītāwardī; Shukra-nāma of Abū'l-Faraj Bāz-dār, Dihqān Bā Tegīn; Ṣayd-nāma of Abū Dakrī, Dihqān Bukhārī (بخاری), Rāfi' Sayyār, etc.

The work contains a great many Mongol and Turkish terms and may be interesting from a linguistic point of view. The diction in this copy is modernised, but almost exclusively with regard to the orthography. A fragment of the same work is described in EIO 2979, 5. Beg.

A treatise on farriery, by Niẓāmu'd-Dīn Aḥmad (f. 4v), dedicated to 'Abbās II (f. 4), written in 1071/1660–1661 (cf. R 483). Besides, the present copy gives the colophon of its original, of which the transcription was completed the 2nd Jum. II 1080/the 28th Oct. 1669, so that (if this colophon is not entirely fictitious) the work must have been completed before that date. See IvASB 1605 where a small extract from this work is described. Also EB 1867, Pr 591, Ros 319, R 482–483, etc. It is divided into a muqaddima, three marḥalas, and a khātima. Beg. as usual:

619. (مجموعه)

(Majmū'a). Ia 60.

A collection of extracts from different treatises on falconry :

1. (ff. 1–36v). Dastūru's-ṣayd. A treatise on falconry, by Muḥammad Riḍā b. Muḥammad Yūsuf, who wrote it (cf. f. 1v) in 1083/1672–1673, and dedicated it to Aurangzīb (ibid.). The treatise is divided into 77 short bābs; their list is given on ff. 1v–2v. Beg.

حمد بیحد و سپاس بیعد از ازل تا ابد ... اما بعد، اضعف العباد الخ

2. (ff. 37–44). Extracts from different bābs of a work on falconry of which the title is not given.

6. (ff. 69–82v). Bāz-nāma-i-Fīrūzshāhī. It is apparently very closely connected with the treatise described in IvASB 1607, 3; the text differs in wording, but the subjects, their sequence, and terms, are almost the same in both. There is no introduction, and the work begins :

انتخاب باز نامه فیروز شاهي، مشتملبر چهل و یک باب الخ

This treatise, as well as IvASB 1607,3, are apparently entirely different from EB 1859, which has also the title Dastūr-i-ṣayd.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

7. (ff. 83–136). Bāz-nāma. Yet another treatise on falconry, composed at Bhakar, in Berar, in 1091/1680 (the 25th year of Aurangzīb's reign), cf. f. 85. The author does not mention his own name. The treatise is divided into 43 bābs. The beg. of the introduction is versified. Apparently a few bayts are lost, and it begins with :

III 144.

A treatise on falconry. The name of the author and the date of composition are not given. It is divided into 76 bābs, mostly very short ones. The work seems to be of comparatively modern origin. Beg.

بعد حمد و ثنا ایزد توانا که شد باز فکر الخ

The present copy is written so as to imitate the style of lithographs ; the introduction is separated, and the first two bābs are probably left without headings. The text of the main portion begins abruptly :

Copied a few years ago, in a pretentious style, but without the date of transcription, etc.

1. Military art.

625. (رساله در سپاهداری جماعت انگریزیه)

(Risāla dar sipāh-dārī-i-jamā'at-i-Angrīziyya). I 769.

A fragment of a large work, dealing with the methods of the British administration in India, military and civil. The extant portion deals chiefly with the European principles of organising the army, and only the last few pages deal with the civil government of the East India Company (f. 56v). The author's name does not appear. The work must have been compiled towards the end of the XII/XVIIIc., or early in the XIII/XIXc. There are many interesting anecdotes from the military history of the XII/XVIIIc. It is divided into many unnumbered faṣls. Beg. abruptly:

... لكن بسبب نام و جلب قلوب عوام اهل اسلام الخ

The copy is apparently an autograph, originally completed in Muḥarram (الشهر الاول) 1225/Febr. 1810 (which probably is the date of the completion of the work itself), at Patna. It is at present in a very bad condition, being much injured by worms. Portions of many leaves are torn away.

author, the title of the work, etc., cannot be ascertained from the text. The author mentions his teacher, Nūru'l-lah (cf. f. 67), and often refers to a book on archery called Dastūru'l-'amal. The extant portion is divided into six aṣls, subdivided into different numbers of waṣls. Beg. abruptly:

628. ارشاد الزراعة

Irshādu'z-zarā'at. I 30.

A treatise on agriculture, composed in 921/1515 (f. 15), by Qāsim (b.) Yūsuf b. Abī Naṣr Ṭabībī (better, probably, Ṭabbasī), who claims to be a descendant of shaykh 'Abdu'l-lah Anṣārī (f. 3v), see IvASB 1612 and Bl 916, 3. The work is dedicated to a prince whose name is not mentioned. Beg. (as in IvASB 1612):

حمد مر قادریرا که در عرصهٔ چهار باغ جهان الخ

Copied apparently in the xiii/xix c. (ff. 9–32, written by the same hand, are of machine-made paper), but some skill was shown in the attempt to mislead the readers into a belief that the MS. is an old copy. A seal of Akbar appears on f. 1v, but there is no need to prove that it is forged. The orthography of the MS. is quite modern.

There is no regular division into chapters. Beg.

630. (رساله در فلاحت)

(Risāla dar falāḥat). Ia 116.

A treatise on agriculture, incomplete at the beginning, so that the passages which may have contained the exact title, the name of the author, etc., are lost. The colophon does not give information on these points. The work consists of 12 bābs and a khātima, dealing with various technical details of cultivation. The introduction and the beginning of the first bāb are lost, and the work opens with :

... ذکر دو دائره یا سه دائره زرد یا سرخ بر کرد و قرطاس شود الخ

Beg. of the second bāb (f. 5v):

باب دویم در معرفت زراعت حبوب و آنچه تعلق بآن دارد، درین ماه معرفت زمین زراعت و معرفت برز الخ

Dated the 27th Dhī Qa'da 1255/ the 1st Febr. 1840.

Ff. 62 ; S 6,75 × 4,5 ; 5 × 2,75 ; ll 11, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Slightly worm-eaten.

4. Technology, metallurgy, mechanics, etc.

631. جواهر الصنائع

Jawāhiru'ṣ-ṣanā'i'. II 529.

An incomplete version of Majma'u'ṣ-ṣanā'i', or Majmū'atu'ṣ-ṣanā'i', as the book is sometimes also called, dealing with different methods of applied chemistry and alchemy. The date of composition and the name of the real author of this work remain unknown. See IvASB 1621, where references to other catalogues are given. The wording and the sequence of the bābs differs from those in IvASB 1621 and EIO 2783. The present copy contains 24 numbered bābs and two without numbers. The last two, on evoking dīws and parīs (f. 47v and 48), dealing with demonology, do probably not belong to this work. Beg. as usual:

posed in 1118/1706–1707 (cf. f. 2, where a chronogram is given as تائید بصارت). The name of the author is not given, but in the Cambridge copy, described in Br 136, 1, and in No. 633 here, it appears as Nithār, whose real name was Luṭfu'l-lah, and surname Nuṣratu'l-lah Khān. In the present copy the actual beginning is lost, and the work opens with the versified passage quoted by E. Browne on p. 224 of his catalogue, or on f. 3, l. 13 in No. 633:

این نسخه مسمی است بتائید بصارت، الخ

2. (ff. 21–24v). Tamhīdu'l-baṣārat. Another, shorter, work on the same subject, based on the preceding one. The compiler, who does not mention his own name, calls the author of the preceding work his ustād, and must therefore have lived in the first half of the XII/XVIIIc. He compiled this treatise at the request of Muḥammad Ḥādī b. Fākhir Khān b. Iftikhār Khān b. Aṣālat Khān Ni'matu'l-lahī al-Ḥusaynī al-Harawī. Another copy of this treatise is described under No. 634, 2. It is divided into a muqaddima, five very short bābs, and a khātima. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي اقام بدو الدين بالسيف ... اما بعد ارشد ارجمند و اسعد بختمند در عمان شرافت الخ

On f. 1v there is a prayer, in Arabic, apparently not connected with either of these treatises.

Dated (f. 20v) the 16th Jum. I 1255/the 28th Jul. 1839, copied from a very incorrect original, as explained in the colophon. The figure 1255 has been mutilated in such a way as to give 1155.

634. (مجموعه در شمشیر)

(Majmū'a dar shamshīr). I 105.

Another collection of treatises dealing with the quality of swords.

1. (ff. 1v–43). Barāhīnu's-ṣawārim (cf. f. 6), a detailed treatise on swords, by Aḥmad b. Muḥammad (or Mīr Muḥammad Khān) b. Ibrāhīm (or Multafit, as given here ملفت, Khān) 'Ālamgīr-shāhī Ni'matu'l-lahī al-Ḥusaynī al-Yazdī (cf. f. 3v); he wrote probably in the middle of the XII/XVIIIc., as he refers to Luṭfu'l-lah, the author of the Ta'īdu'l-baṣārat (see above, No. 632,1), who wrote in 1118/1706–1707. The work is divided into one muqaddima, giving some historical anecdotes concerning swords (f. 6v); five maqālas, on ff. 14v, 20, 23, 25, 27v, dealing with the qualities of steel, its composition, tempering, shaping, etc.; and a khātima (f. 34) on various additional matters. At the end (f. 42v) Muḥammad Shāh (1131–1161/1719–1748) is eulogised. Beg. of the treatise:

حمد بیحد خالق الاصباحي را که صفایح شهور الخ

2. (ff. 43v–48v). Tamhīdu'l-baṣārat (f. 44). Another copy of the same treatise as described in No. 632, 2. Beg. as usual:

635. اداة الكاتب

Adātu'l-kātib. II 497.

A treatise on the methods of preparation of ink, by 'Abdu'l-lah b. Ḥasan b. Ibrāhīm b. Ḥusayn Kūhdizī Dāmghānī. The author, who apparently was a professional copyist, mentions that when he came to India, he found that it was there impossible to find the good ink and pens, necessary for really calligraphical writing. He therefore wrote his book which is based on reminiscences of the methods used by Sulṭān 'Alī Mashhadī and Majnūn (cf. f. 2), two famous calligraphers of Herat who flourished in the beg. of the X/XVIc. As the latter died about 945/1538–1539, it is possible that the author may have lived in India under Akbar. The work is not divided into separate chapters. Beg.

7. Music.

639. راگ درپن

Rāg-darpan. I 407.

A treatise on Indian music, the same as described in EIO 2017, RsBr 71, EB 1847, composeb in 1076/1665–1666 (cf. ff. 49 and 55). The author, who styles himself Faqīr, or Faqīru'l-lah (cf. f. 2v), apparently intentionally omits his full name. His treatise is divided into 10 bābs (the headings are quoted in EIO 2017), and chiefly based on a Hindī work, composed under Mān Sing'h of Gwalior (beg. X/XVIc.), and called مانکتوهل (f. 2v), Mānkutūhal. Beg. as usual:

The well-known work on Indian music, different arts as practised in India, physiognomy, sexual matters, etc., composed some time about 1086/1675–1676, by Mīrzā Khān (Muḥammad) b. Fakhri'd-Dīn Muḥammad, and divided into a muqaddima, seven bābs and a khātima; see IvASB 1630, where references to other catalogues are given (add RsBr 78). Beg. as usual:

1. Interpretation of dreams.

641. کامل التعبیر

Kāmilu't-ta'bīr. II 201.

The famous early work on the interpretation of dreams, by Abū'l-Faḍl Ḥusayn (b. Ibrāhīm) b. Muḥammad at-Tiflīsī (this word is here corrupted by the scribe into النعلی); he dedicated it to a prince in Asia Minor, 'Izzu'd-Dīn Qlich Arslān b. Mas'ūd (569–588/1173–1192). See IvASB 1508, where references to other catalogues are given. It is divided into 16 faṣls of which the first 15 form a sort of introduction, and the last one contains a list of dreams with their explanations, in which the subjects of dreams are alphabetically arranged. Beg. as in EIO 2276:

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

ستایش و سنایش (sic) خدایرا که واحد و صمد و قادر است الخ

Dated the 15th Ramaḍān, the year is not given. It must be within the limits of 1173–1221/1759–1806, as the intended date was also to be given in the regnal year of Shāh ʿĀlam.

Ff. 446; S —; 7,5 × 3,75; ll 17, within jadwals. Or. pap. Margins, of different paper, have decayed and crumbled away. Cond. of the extant part is fairly good. Slightly worm-eaten. Bad vignette.

642.

تعبیر نامهٔ سلطانی

Taʿbīr-nāma-i-Sulṭānī.

II 202.

The well-known work on the interpretation of dreams, comp. in 763/1361–1362 by Qāḍī Ismaʿīl b. Niẓāmi'l-Mulk Abarqūhī, see IvASB 1509. The present copy contains a quite different preface, in which the dedication to Shāh Shujāʿ, the name of the author, and the list of the authorities, are omitted. Apparently this portion of the book had been lost in the original, from which the present copy was transcribed, and a new preface was 'improvised' by the scribe. Of the first of the two introductory faṣls, subdivided into 10 nuktas, there are only nuktas 1–5 (the last one incomplete). Then follows a lacuna, corresponding to ff. 9–11v of IvASB 1509 (M 46), and from the middle of the first nukta of the second faṣl the text of both copies coincides up to f. 333, l. 15, of M 46. The present copy, collated with M 46 (which is an excellent old MS., dating apparently from the beg. of the X/XVIc., or the end of IX/XVc.), appears to give the text carelessly transcribed and much modernised. In some places it is obvious that the scribe did not understand what he wrote. The concluding poem here breaks off in the middle, and the scribe has added a concluding bayt, extemporised by himself. Beg. of the treatise: composition of the work is not given, and there are apparently no allusions to help to fix it. H. Ethé seems to be right in regarding it as an early work dating probably from the VI/XIIc. It was already a recognised standard treatise on the subject in the end of the VII/XIIIc., and is referred to in Aḥkāmu'l-a'wām, written ca. 690/1291, see No 644. The diction of the work, although obviously altered by scribes, still retains many archaic features. The book is also referred to by Ḥājjī Khalīfa, II, p. 46, No. 1791. It is divided into 14 principal sections, the first two called bābs and the other 12 burjs (for their headings see EIO 2270), subdivided into different numbers of minor sub-sections. Beg.

الحمد لله ... سبحان الله آن قادری که خاک را الخ

احکام الاعوام

Aḥkāmu'l-a'wām.

I 13.

A treatise on astrology, based on several earlier standard works (cf. f. 1v–2), by 'Alīshāh b. Muḥammad b. Qāsim al-Khwārizmī, surnamed 'Alā' al-Munajjim al-Bukhārī. He states that in Ramaḍān 688/Sept. 1289, he went on his pilgrimage to Mekka, but apparently had at Baghdad some complicated transactions with Jews, of whose impertinence he bitterly complains. He alludes to one of them as having become a wazir to the sultan, apparently referring to Rashīdu'd-Dīn. After some anti-Jewish disturbances, which took place the 5th Rab. II 690/the 7th Apr. 1291, and helped him to settle his affairs, he was able to proceed further. The book is divided into two maqālas, the first subdivided into four bābs, the second into eight:

۱ مقالت اول در کیفیت اعمال تسیرات، (f. 2v)
۲ مقالت دوم در احکام طالع تحویل و اتباع او، (f. 9v)

The present copy is slightly incomplete at the end. Beg.

645. مدخل منظوم

Madkhal-i-manẓūm. I 152.

A very short versified treatise on the propitious hours for the beginning of various undertakings. It has been completed the 1st Jum. II 816/the 29th Aug. 1413, as stated on f. 17 :

وقت تاریخ نظم بد ظاهر، غره از جمادي آخر،
هشتصد شانزده ز هجري بود، که بنظم این ضمیر فکرت بود،

In the beg. (f. 1v) there is a dedication :

بهر تشریف خویش اول این، کردم از مدحت جمال الدین،
بو المحمد محامد احمد، که بقدر است برتر از فرقد،

If this name belongs to a ruling prince, there was at that time only one with the name Aḥmad, in Gujrat, who reigned in 814–846/1411–1443. But no usual epithets accompany his name which would imply his being a prince. The name of the author is not given (or he may have been called Fikrat, cf. the first quotation ?). Beg.

On ff. 17v–19v, there is another very short versified treatise on the same subject, in Hindustani, with the title Tuḥfatu'l-gharā'ib, ascribed to the authorship of one Mīr Qays Mashhadī, apparently the same as the poet mentioned in Spr 278,—Aḥmad 'Alī Beg, surnamed Madārā Beg, son of Murād 'Alī Beg, who was a pupil of Ḥasrat, and flourished in the beg. of the XIII/XIXc. Beg.

buted in the initial lines to the authorship of (Abū Bakr) Muḥammad (b.) Zakariyā ar-Rāzī (d. 311 or 320/923–932). It is probably a modern Persian paraphrase of his Sirru'ṣ-ṣanā'at (see Brock., I, 235,13), which is apparently not identical with Kitābu'l-asrār (see Brock., ibid.), as it is referred to in the text in terms implying its being a separate work (cf. f. 10v : در کتاب اسرار ذکر نکرده ایم). It contains different recipes, etc. Beg.

It is divided into nine bābs, subdivided into different numbers of faṣls. There are only a few references to authorities, mostly apocryphal works. Beg.

Risāla-i-iksīr.

A short treatise on alchemy, apparently an extract from a larger work ; it is, however, subdivided into a muqaddima and three maqālas, as if forming an independent item. The name of the author is not mentioned. There are only very few references to earlier treatises on the subject. The latest appear to be the works of Al-Jildakī ('Alī b. Aydamur b. 'Alī, d. 743/1342, cf. Brock., II, 138–139), his Al-burhān (fī asrār 'ilmi'l-mīzān), Ash-shamsu'l-munīr fī taḥqīqi'l-iksīr, and Shudhūdh (f. 8v). Beg. of the treatise :

The work is divided into two maqṣads, subdivided into different numbers of bābs, all very short. It is dedicated to Dūrmīsh Khān (f. 1), governor of Herat (cf. R 98). The author refers in the preface to the work, on which the present one is based, namely to his father's treatise, Asrār-i-Qāsimī, on sīmiyā and rīmiyā (which was transcribed in a secret script, called ʻilm-i-kāshifī). It was deciphered and condensed by ʻAlī b. Ḥusayn at the request of Dūrmīsh Khān. Beg.

649. ذخيرهٔ اسكندري

Dhakhīra-i-Iskandarī. II 461.

A treatise on alchemy, the preparation of poisons, antidotes, amulets, magical rings, and other useful articles. It is said to have been compiled for Alexander the Great, and its text has been recovered in a monastery at ʻAmūriya (?) at its capture by the Abbaside khalif Muʻtaṣim. It would be a hopeless task to search for its real author, as there are many similar apocryphal mediæval treatises on the occult sciences, in which stories like this are narrated to throw possible persecutors off the track. It is divided into nine fanns (see f. 3v), subdivided into faṣls. There are numerous pictures, illustrating different monsters, constellations, etc. Beg.

Ash-shāmil mina'l-baḥri'l-kāmil fī dauri'l-'ālam fī uṣūli't-ta'zīm wa qawā'idi't-tanjīm (f. 2v, bottom), or originally (f. 2v, l. 4), Nuz'hatu'l-amāq (here الامات) yawm ijtimā'i'l-akhwān wa't-tilāq. The author of the original version is Muḥammad b. Aḥmad aṭ-Ṭabbasī (f. 1v), d. 482/1089 ; but his treatise was subsequently revised by Abū'l-Barakāt 'Abdu'l-lah b. Muḥammad b. al-Faḍl as-Ṣā'adī al-Farāwī (an-Nīshābūrī), d. 530/1136. See Brock., I, 496 ; Ahlwardt, No. 5885. Apparently this identical treatise is described in EB 1561,3, amongst the works of Sakkākī, who may be the author of this Persian paraphrase. The name of the translator is not given in the text. The introduction is left in the original Arabic, and the Persian version begins with the first bāb. The Berlin copy contains 32 bābs. In the present version, however, only 19 of them are given, corresponding to bābs 1–19 of the Berlin MS. Beg.

(Risāla dar taskhīrāt).

A treatise on demonology, magic, and other occult matters, compiled by Muḥammad b. Sirāji'd-Dīn as-Sakkākī (f. 1v), from the writings of Muḥammad Sirāju'd-Dīn as-Sakkākī, who is occasionally referred to in the text. If the reading Muḥammad son of Sirāju'd-Dīn is not a mistake, the compiler may have been the son of the author; the latter's real name was Abū Ya'qūb Yūsuf b. Abī Bakr Khwārizmī as-Sakkākī (born 555/1160, d. 626/1229), see EB 1560. The treatise itself seems to be identical with that described in EB 1561, 4. On the margins in the introduction its title is added by a different hand as Ikhtiyārāt. There are many earlier writers referred to in the text (cf. f. 24), but almost all of them are unidentifiable as this kind of literature is still insufficiently explored.

There is no regular division into bābs ; many folios are partly

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c. Originally this MS. formed a portion of the same volume in which the preceding MS. was included (No. 650). The end of this copy, transcribed by a different hand, is found on the first folio in that transcript, and can be clearly read inspite of a piece of paper having been pasted over it.

652. کتاب در احکام جن

Kitāb dar aḥkām-i-jinn. III 85

A detailed treatise on the nature, peculiarities, etc., of jinns, based on numerous reliable sources and a great many ḥadīths. The authorities which are identifiable, are mostly early writers. The latest seems to be mentioned on f. 87, the Mukhtaṣar Ākāmi'l-marjān fī aḥkāmi'l-jānn, apparently Suyūṭī's (d. 911/1505) abbreviation of the well-known book on demonology by Badru'd-Dīn Muḥammad Dimishqī (d. 769/1367), cf. Brock. II, 75. The copy itself is dated 978/1570–1571, so that the treatise must have been written some time in the beg. of the X/XVIc. The name of the author does not appear here. As to sources, there is mention of the books of Abū Isḥaq b. Bashar, his Kitāb mubtadā (f. 81v); Qāḍī Abū 'Alī Muḥammad b. Ḥusayn Farrā'ī Ḥanbalī (d. 458/1066), cf. Brock. I, 398 (f. 82); Abū'l-Qāsim Suhaylī ('Abdu'r-Raḥmān b. 'Abdi'l-lah, d. 581/1185), cf. Brock. I, 413 (f. 82); Ibn Abī'd-Dunyā, his treatise Makā'idu'sh-shayṭān (ff. 82, 82v, 83v, 90, etc.) and another, Kitāb ṭawā'īn (f. 100); Muḥammad b. Ja'far b. Sahl Kharīṭī (d. 327/938), cf. Brock. I, 154, his book Hawātifu'l-jinān (f. 82, etc.); Dalā'ilu'n-nubuwwat (probably by Abū Nu'aym Aḥmad Iṣfahānī, d. 430/1038, cf. Brock. I, 362, or Aḥmad Bayhaqī, d. 458/1066, cf. Brock. I, 363); Ibn Ḥazm (d. 456/1064), on f. 85v; Abū Ḥafṣ b. Shāhīn with his book 'Ajā'ib wa gharā'ib (f. 85v); 'Izzu'd-Dīn b. 'Abdi's-Salām, the author of the Qawā'id ṣughrā (f. 86v); the Fawā'id of Ṣayrafī Ḥarrānī (f. 87); the Itbā' sunan wa āthār, by Abū Sa'īd 'Uthmān b. Sa'īd Dārimī (f. 89); the Sharḥ Hidāya, by Abū'l-Ma'ālī b. Manjā Ḥanbalī (f. 90v); Najmu'd-Dīn Ḥājjī Khalīfa b. Maḥmūd Kīlānī (f. 91v); 'Abdu'l-lah b. Muḥammad Qarshī (f. 94v); Aḥmad b. Muḥammad b. Ta'rīkh-i-nafīs. II 360.

A short composition dealing with miscellaneous subjects, but chiefly concerning the occult sciences. The author, apparently an inhabitant of Calcutta (cf. f. 2), calls himself Muḥammad-i-'Abbās (ff. 2v, 25v). The exact date of composition is not mentioned, but the treatise has been completed after 1284/1867, referred to on f. 18. It is dedicated to Lord Mayo (f. 3). There are also many references to dates slightly earlier than this one. The work is divided into four bābs:

(Majmū'a). II 411.

A collection of short treatises on different matters, chiefly connected with occultism:

1. (ff. 1v–8). Tuḥfatu'l-mulūk. A brief collection of maxims dealing with the ethics of administration. It seems to be a version of the same treatise as the one described in EB 1241, 45, 1465, and 1466. It is divided into 40 very short bābs. Beg.

IvASB 1526, 1, where references to other catalogues are given, and above, No. 366. In this copy a special preface is added, probably by the scribe himself, dedicated to Maharaja Dulīp-Sing'h, for whom this copy was prepared. Beg. of the preface:

5. Cabbalistic meaning of letters.

656. حرز الامان من فتن الزمان

Ḥirzu'l-amān min fitani'z-zamān. I 331.

A treatise on the cabbalistic meaning of the letters of the alphabet, the mystical Coranic letters, names of God, etc., by the well-known 'Alī b. Ḥusayn al-Wā'iẓ al-Kāshifī, who used the takhallus Ṣafī (d. 939/1532–1533), and is better known as the author of the Rashaḥāt. Ḥājjī Khalīfa (III, p. 43, No. 4467) ascribes it to the authorship of Kāshifī himself. This is probably not quite correct, because the work clearly shows Shi'ite tendencies on the part of the compiler, which better suit the son of the famous Sunnite divine than himself. It is divided into five maqālas, each being subdivided into five bābs:

The date of composition is not given, but the work must have been of rather early origin (not later than the X/XVIc.), because it is mentioned by Ḥājjī Khalīfa (vol. II, p. 244, No. 2701); he calls it At-tuḥfat fī'r-raml, and states that it is divided into four, not two, maqālas, as given in this copy. Beg.

1. Bibliography.

663. ترجمهٔ كشف الظنون

Tarjuma-i-Kashfu'ẓ-ẓunūn. I 184.

A translation of the famous bibliographical work of Ḥājjī Khalīfa, or, to give him his real name, Muṣṭafā b. 'Abdi'l-lah, surnamed Kātib Chalabī, d. in Dhū'l-Ḥijja 1068/Sept. 1658. The original Arabic text has been repeatedly printed and lithographed in Cairo (1274, etc.) and in Constantinople (1310, etc.); the critical edition and Latin translation by G. Fluegel, seven vols., Leipzig, 1835–1858 (Or. Transl. Fund), is to be re-edited shortly. In the present translation there is no preface by the translator, and it begins with the Persian paraphrase of the original doxology:

بهترین نطق که ظاهر می شود انوار الطاف الخ

It ends with the passage found in vol. VI, p. 510 of Fluegel's edition. There is no colophon.

Copied in the xiii/xix c. At the end there is a seal dated 1253/1837–1838, which may belong to the scribe.

Ff. 561; S 9,25×5,75; 7×3; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten.

2. Proverbs.

664. مجمع التمثيل

Majma'u't-tamthīl. III 26.

A collection of Persian proverbs, by Muḥammad 'Alī Halbarūdī (هلبه رودی, usually Jabalrūdī), who composed it at Golconda in 1049/1639–1640. This is an earlier version of a larger work on proverbs of the same author, called Jāmi'u't-tamthīl, see EIO 2209, Pr 325, R 773, Mélanges Asiatiques, vol. V, p. 522, etc., which was composed in 1054/1644–1645. The proverbs are given here in alphabetical order, under the first letter of the first word in each proverb. Beg. abruptly:

اما بعد، کوشه نشین دیار بیوجودی محمد علي هلبه رودی الخ

Copied apparently in the beg. of 1207/1794, as other items in the same majmū'a (cf. f. 184), in Calcutta.

* Ff. 161v–177; S 8,5×5,5; 6,25×4; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. shikasta and nast. Cond. not quite good. Worm-eaten and repaired.

مرآت القدس

Mir'ātu'l-quds. II 164.

A biography of Jesus Christ, based on the New Testament, comp. in 1602, at Agra, by Geronimo Xavier (d. 1617). It is exactly the same version as the one described in IvASB 1635, slightly different from the usual one, see EB 364, R 3, Gotha C. 57. Dorn C. 243–246, cf. also H. Blochmann, Proc. A.S.B., 1870, pp. 138–147. Beg. as in IvASB 1635 :

پس از ستایش آفریدگار دو جهان و تمحید شافع درماندگان الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiv/xx c.

Ff. 70 ; S 9,75 × 6,25 ; 7 × 3,5 ; ll 15, within jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good.

666.

داستان احوال حواریان

Dāstān-i-aḥwāl-i-Ḥawāriyān. II 436.

Biographies of the Apostles, also written by Geronimo Xavier, for Akbar, apparently in 1609. See IvASB 1636, EB 365 ; cf. R 3 ; also H. Blochmann, in the Proceedings of the A.S.B., 1871, pp. 138–139. This copy does not contain the usual preface, and is incomplete ; it opens abruptly with the biography of St. Peter :

داستان سن بیدرو نخستین خلیفه حضرت عیسی الخ ... سن بیدرو از
تخمه یهود است از قریه بیت سایده الخ

The biographies begin : St. Peter, f. 1v ; St. Paul, f. 40v ; St. Andrew, f 104v ; St. Jacob, f. 149v ; St. Simon (?), f. 191 ; there are several lacunas, and in several biographies the introductory passages and headings have been omitted.

Copied in the beg. of the xiv/xx c.

Ff. 257 ; S 9 × 5,25 ; 7 × 3,5 ; ll 15, within jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Paper is decaying.

ترجمهٔ زبور

Tarjuma-i-Zubūr. III 182.

A translation of the Psalms, dedicated apparently to Nādir (1148–1160/1736–1747), whose name is written in gold on f. 2v, and on f. 3v, where it appears in the form of ظل سبحان و نادر دوران. It was compiled at Iṣfahān (cf. f. 3v), but the translator does not mention his own name. This version is different from the one described in Bl 1. Beg. of the preface:

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

حمدی که عندلیبان قدسی زبان الخ

Beg. of the translation (f. 4v):

خوشا مردی که پیروی نکرد مشورت ستمکارانرا الخ

A calligraphically written copy, dating from the beginning of the xiii/xix c. A seal dated 1221/1806–1807 may have belonged to the first owner. Notes in English, on f. 1, by G. Meyer, "the gift of N. B. Edmonstrong," etc.

Ff. 119; S 10 × 6,25; 6,75 × 3,5; ll 14, within double jadwals. Europ. pap. Calligraphical Persian nast., vocalised. Cond. not good. The jadwal lines, in gold, have 'cut' through the paper. Good vignette and marginal painting.

4. Chronograms.

668. (مجموعهٔ تواریخ)

(Majmūʿa-i-tawārīkh). I*a* 213.

A collection of chronograms for every year between 3 and 1200 AH. Some years, in the beginning, have very many equivalents, but later on, only one or two are given. There is no preface, no colophon, no indication as to the date of compilation. Beg.

۳ اب آب با پا ۴ ابا جا الخ

Copied in the xii/xviii c. A seal on f. 1 is dated 1169/1755–1756. Other seals of later date are found on the last folio.

Ff. 54; S 9 × 5; 7,25 × 3,5; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Injured by dampness.

5. Political pamphlets.

669. شلتاقیه

Shaltāqiyya. I 93.

A pamphlet dealing with complaints against the oppression and injustice of the volunteers (غازیان) and militant darwishes of the troops of Allah-Qulī Sulṭān (ff. 303, 306, 309v, etc.) and Maʿṣūm ʿAlī Beg (f. 302). They were apparently stationed in various towns of Gīlān and Māzandarān, and their discipline was very loose. The author does not mention his real name, but calls himself Mullā Mīr Qārī Gīlānī. The date of composition is not given; the work was most probably written under the later Safawides. In the beginning there is a heading:

رساله شلتاقیه که درو شلتاقات مذکور میشود تالیف مولانا ملا میر قاری کیلانی رحمة الله علیه،

670. تنبیه الغافلین و هدایة الظالمین

Tanbīhu'l-ghāfilīn wa hidāyatu'ẓ-ẓālimīn. II 413.

A short work, apparently a kind of statement of claims to some landed property, by Ḥusayn b. Ḥaydar 'Alī al-Mūsawī an-Nīsābūrī al-Kantūrī (f. 29), who wrote in 1233/1817–1818. The exposition of the case occupies only a minor portion of the volume (ff. 29–31v). It begins abruptly with اما بعد الخ , and some space is left blank before it. It is therefore not quite clear whether this portion is a continuation of the main part of the MS. (ff. 1v–28v), containing a kind of lengthy dībācha full of eulogies to different noblemen and princes. Beg.

الحمد لله المرشد الدلیل ... اما بعد ، بر صاحبدلان مرات ضمیر الخ

Copied in the middle of the xiii/xix c. Many marginal notes.

Ff. 31 ; S 11 × 6,75 ; 8 × 4,75 ; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good.

6. Commentaries on Arabic poetry.

671. شرح غزل متنبي

Sharḥ-i-ghazal-i-Mutanabbī. III 108.

A detailed commentary on a single ghazal of Mutanabbī, or Abū Ṭayyib Aḥmad b. al-Ḥusayn, d. 354/965 (cf. Brock. I, 86–87), chiefly explaining its peculiarities under the headings of prosody, poetics, versification, etc. The author, Amīru'd-Dīn Khān, surnamed Muftī Amru'l-lah Khān (cf. f. 2), wrote it in order to submit it to several British officials, interested in Oriental studies, such as Robert كيل Keyle (?) (f. 2), Colebrooke (f. 2v), etc., in May 1810 (f. 2), at Calcutta. Cf. also R 25, where another work, on law, by the same author, is described. Beg.

7. Scrap-books.

672. (مجموعه)

(Majmū'a). Ia 55.

A scrap-book, containing fragments of different works, written by different hands and on different papers.

1. (ff. 1–2). Fragments, in Arabic, on religious matters.

2. (ff. 3–7v). Extracts from various Arabic works, on grammatical and other subjects. Some of them are ascribed to Muḥibbu'l-lah al-Bihārī (d. 1119/1708, cf. Brockelmann, II, 420), as on f. 7, etc.

3. (ff. 8v–14v). Ḥadīqatu'l-masā'il. A short treatise on prayer and fasting, by Ghulām Imām. The date of composition is not given. The work is divided into five bābs. There is a lacuna between ff. 8 and 9, corresponding to the greater portion of the first bāb, and the beginning of the second. Beg.

الحمد الله (sic) ... و بعد، میکوید احقر انام غلام امام که الخ

4. (ff. 15–17). Ma'rifatu'l-madhāhib, a short treatise on the '73' sects of Muhammadanism, in Arabic; the name of the author is not mentioned. It is divided into seven bābs. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي الهادي للمتقين الحافظ عن طريق الضالين الخ

5. (ff. 18–24v). (Tafsīr-i-ba'ḍ-i-āyāt). A commentary on seven verses of the Coran, by Muḥammad Amīr. The date of the composition is not given. Beg.

نحمدک و نستعین بک و نصلی ... اما بعد، فیقول العبد الخ

6. (ff. 25–45v). Mir'ātu'l-muḥaqqiqīn. The same short treatise, on theosophical matters, divided into seven bābs, as described in IvASB 1345, 2. The name of the author is not mentioned here. Beg.

حمد بیحد و ثنای بی عد حضرت ذوالجلال را الخ

The first half copied in the end of 1285/1869 (f. 17); the second (6) is dated the 5th Sha'bān 1277/the 16th Febr. 1861 (f. 45v).

II 248.

A scrap-book containing fragments in prose and verse:

1. (ff. 1–3). Scrappy notes and poetical quotations.

2. (ff. 3v–18v). Nān-u ḥalwā. The well-known Sufic poem by Bahā'u'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Ḥusayn al-'Āmilī (d. ca. 1030/1620–1621), see IvASB 722 (add RsBr 55, p. 49), cf. above, No. 462, 10. Beg. as usual, with a short preface in prose:

اما بعد حمد الله على افضاله و الصلوة والسلام على اشرف الخلايق الخ

3. (ff. 19–26v). Fragments of mathnawī poems, in praise of Muḥammad, his Mi'rāj, etc.

4. (ff. 27–45v). Lawā'iḥ, by Jāmī, see above, Nos. 432, and 462, 14. Beg. as in those copies.

5. (ff. 46–49). Fragments of mathnawī poems.

6. (ff. 50v–52v). A fragment of the same poem, ascribed to 'Aṭṭār, as described above, No. 462, 11.

7. (ff. 54–69v). Mathnawī-i-Bū 'Alī Qalandar, the well-known poem, ascribed to Sharafu'd-Dīn Bū 'Alī Qalandar Pānīpat'hī (d. ca. 725/1325), see R 668, Spr 565, Bk 124, often lithographed in India. Cf. above, No. 318. Beg.

مرحبا اى بلبل باغ كهن ، از كل رعنا بكو با ما سخن ،

At the end there are some scrappy quotations.

8. (ff. 70–77). A short treatise of Sufic contents, beg.

الحمد لله الاحد بذاته ... اما بعد سبب تاليف الخ

9. (ff. 77v–81v). Dhikriyya, also called Risāla dar ṭarīqa-i-Naqshbandiyya, by Jāmī, see above, No. 462, 15. Beg. as in that copy.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

10. Extracts: from a mathnawī poem, the title of which is not given (ff. 82–85v); from Jāmī (ff. 86–93); from the Būstān (ff. 94-97).

11. (ff. 98–99). A short extract from the Sharḥ-i-Sufaru's-sa'ādat by 'Abdu'l-Ḥaqq Dihlawī, see IvASB 1002.

12. (ff. 102–117v). More poetical scraps, mostly from Rūmī's Mathnawī.

13. (ff. 118–170v). Fragment from a prose work (here only faṣl-i-siyūm), dealing with praises of Muḥammad, and divided into 12 na'ts.

14. (ff. 170v–183v). Poetical extracts, chiefly from the Mantiqu't-ṭayr of 'Aṭṭār (see above, No. 205), etc.

Transcribed in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 183; S 8,5 × 5,5. Different papers, handwritings, etc. Cond. rather bad; worm-eaten. Several folios are left blank.

675.

(مجموعة)

(Majmū'a).

II 203.

A collection of short works and fragments of different contents, in Persian and Hindustani.

1. (ff. 1–17v). A treatise on architecture, in Hindustani, incomplete. The title of the work and the name of the author are not mentioned. Beg.

حمد بیحد اور ثنای بیعد سزاوار درگاہ الخ

2. (ff. 19–35v). Nafsiyya (as it is called in the colophon, f. 35v). A work in bombastic ornate prose, in Sufic strain, attributed to the authorship of 'Urfī (cf. above, No. 256), to which is prefixed a long flowery preface, eulogising 'Urfī and other poets. It was 'arranged' by the editor in 1137/1724–1725 (cf. f. 26, where the chronogram is given as ترتیب داد نادانی) the name of the compiler does not appear. Beg.

حمدی کہ نخستین پایہ اش معراج دانشمندان الخ

Beg. of the original treatise (f. 26v):

حمدی کہ از نہایت شایستگی منزہ الخ

Dated the 26th February 1891, copied by Kansāla'l (?).

3. (ff. 36–37v). A short mathnawī, with the heading Shugūn-i-zāgh-u dūrāj, in Hindustani, and a fragment, apparently from the famous counsels of Luqmān, cf. above, No. 655, 2.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

4. (ff. 38–43). Risāla-i-mu'ammā. A treatise on logogriphs, ascribed to the authorship of Galen (!). Beg.

بدانکه معما مشتق از تعمیه است و تعمیه الخ

5. (ff. 147–171v). A fragment of a large treatise on divination by jafr and on the cabbalistic meaning of letters. It is divided into several qisms.

6. (ff. 172–178v). A fragment dealing with the Hindu system of astronomy.

7. (ff. 179–187v). Apparently a continuation of the treatise on jafr, 5 in this note.

Copied in the xiii/xix c.

* Ff. 1–43 and 147–187; S 11,5 × 6,75; 9 × 4,25; ll ab. 17, no jadwals. Or. and Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good.

8. Parody.

676. (لغت ملا دو پیازه)

(Lughat-i-Mullā Dūpiyāza). II 137.

The well-known parody on Arabic dictionaries, dealing with common words, satirically explained, by Mullā Dūpiyāza, famous humorist of Akbar's time. Cf. R 256 and IvASB 935, 9. Beg.

Copied in the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 5; S 6,5 × 4; 4,25 × 2,5; ll 10, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good.

9. Translations from Sanskrit and Indian vernaculars.

677. ترجمهٔ مها بهارته

Tarjuma-i-Mahābhārata. II 161.

A translation of the Mahābhārata, different from the well-known version prepared in Akbar's time (cf. IvASB 1695, where references to different catalogues are given). This translation was probably prepared by a Hindu, judging from the epithets of respect added after the names of Hindu deities. There is no indication whatever as to the name of the translator or the date of composition. It seems that the beginning as given in the MS. is not genuine, and the greater part of the preface has been lost. Of the 18 parbas into which the work is divided, the first begins apparently on f. 2, but there is no special heading; II on f. 137v; III on f. 168v; IV on f. 263v; V on f. 288v; VI on f. 336v; VII on f. 377v; VIII on f. 422v; IX on f. 457v; X on f. 476v; XI on f. 481v; XII on f. 489v; XIII on f. 531v; XIV on f. 534;

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

XV on f. 641v; XVI on f. 657v; XVII on f. 667v; XVIII on f. 670v. Beg.

آبرو بخش چشمهٔ سار سخن، آشنای محیط بی سر و بن،

Beg. of the translation (f. 2, l. 12):

بیت خوانان کلیسای دانش بدینکونه الخ

The only colophon which is dated in this volume is found on f. 262, and gives 1908 of the Samwat era, or approximately 1851, as the date of copying.

Ff. 673; S 15×7,75; 9×5,25; ll 20, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. More than a dozen bad illustrations in gaudy colours, of no artistic value at all.

678.

سر اکبر

Sirr-i-akbar. II 154.

The well-known translation of the Upanishads by Dārā-Shikūh, who started it in Kashmir in 1050/1640–1641 and completed it at Dihlī on the 6th Ram. 1067/the 18th June 1657 (cf. f. 380v). See IvASB 1708 where references to other catalogues are given. The present copy contains apparently the full version, and the number of Upanishads translated here is 52, according to the colophon. Beg. as usual:

حمد ذاتي را که نقطهٔ باء بسم الله در جميع کتب سماوي الخ

Dated 1926 of the Samwat era, i.e. approximately 1869 A.D.

Ff. 381; S 14×8,5; 9,25×4,25; ll 15, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Very bad double page initial vignette.

679.

The same. II 153.

A fragment of the same work, see No. 678, containing only a small part of the beginning of the book, in an abbreviated version. A badly written copy, beg. as usual, see the preceding No. A list of Upanishads with incidental notes is given on ff. 1–2 (here marked 2 and 3).

Copied in the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 120; S 8,5×5,75; 6,75×4,25; ll 14, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Bad Ind. nast. and shikasta, often without diacritical dots. Cond. tol. good, but rather bad in the beg. Traces of moisture. Notes on the margins.

ترجمهٔ جوک بششت

Tarjuma-i-Jūg-bashisht. II 158

A translation of Yogavāsishṭha, prepared under orders of Dārā Shikūh, the same as described in EIO 1972–1974, Br 35, 2.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Pr 1021, and IvASB 1700 (the copy described there is incomplete at the beg., which corresponds to f. 2, l. 5 of the present one). It was written in 1066/1656. Beg. as usual :

ستایش تمام نیایش نثار حضرتست که ذرات اکوان الخ

Dated the 23rd Ram. 1180/the 22nd Febr. 1767, in a town called Amīnārgarh (امینار کرہ ؟). The first half of the volume is written by different hands.

Ff. 132 ; S 8 × 4,25 ; 6,5 × 3 ; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. shikasta, different hands. Cond. tol. good, except in the beginning. A portion of f. 1 has been torn away.

681.

مجمع البحرین

Majma'u'l-baḥrayn. III 180.

A treatise on Hindu theosophy, compared with Muhammadan Sufism, chiefly explaining different technical terms. The author is the same Muḥammad Dārā Shikūh ; he completed it in 1065/1654–1655 (f. 20). See R 828, 841, Aum 140. Beg.

بنام آنکه او نامي ندارد ، ... حمد موفور یگانۂ را که الخ

At the end (ff. 20v–34v) there are several extracts from translations of different Upanishads and other Sanskrit works.

One of the extracts, mentioned just above (see f. 24) is dated the 18th Nov. 1871. The volume is written throughout by the same hand.

Ff. 34 ; S 9,75 × 6,75 ; 7,25 × 4,25 ; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad Ind. nast. and shikasta. Cond. good. A few notes on the margins, some of them in Gurmukhi characters.

682.

ترجمۂ رامایں

Tarjuma-i-Rāmāyan. III 81.

A translation of the Rāmāyana, by Gopal, son of Srī Govind (کوپال بن سری کوبند), who completed it in 1092/1681 or 1097/1685–1686, as given in the chronogram on f. 119v : کلام جان فزای رام اوتار ، although the other two copies give رامہ اوتار. See Bl 222, Aum 140, cf. EIO 1963, where a bibliography of European works on and editions of the original is given. Beg.

همه اغازها در اندک ایام ، بنام رام مي یابد سرانجام ، حمد و ثنای بیحد سزاوار آنکه جمیع ذرات الخ

Dated the 16th Shawwāl 1184 (the twelfth year of Shāh 'Ālam's reign), i.e. the 2nd Febr. 1771, at Allahabad, copied by one پر پهاکر کول کشمیري.

Ff. 119 ; S 7,75 × 5,25 ; 5,5 × 3,5 ; ll 14, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. rather bad. Worm-eaten, repaired, traces of moisture. A few glosses on the margins.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

683.

The same. II 155.

Another copy of the same translation, see No. 682. Beg. as in that transcript.

Dated Kashmīr, 1927 of the Bikramī era, i.e. approximately 1870 A.D. The same appearance as of Nos. 678, 689.

Ff. 130; S 14,25 × 9; 10 × 5,25; ll 13, with an additional column on the margins; double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Bad vignette.

684.

The same. II 159.

Another copy of the same work. Beg. as in No. 682. This transcript seems to be the most complete of the three.

Dated 1945 of the Bikrami era, i.e. ca. 1888 A.D.

Ff. 263; S 9 × 6,5; 6,75 × 4; ll 15, no jadwals. Greyish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good.

685. مفرح القلوب

Mufarriḥu'l-qulūb. II 408.

The well-known Persian rendering of the Hitopadesa, compiled by Tāj Muḥammad Muftī al-Malikī (f. 2v, top), and dedicated to some local prince or nobleman, Shaykh Bahā'u'd-Dīn Nadīmu'l-lah (f. 2). The date of composition is not known. See IvASB 1709, where references to other catalogues are given (add RsBr 198). Beg. as usual:

حمد و سپاس بیقیاس مر حضرت شاهي را که از جمله بندکان الخ

Dated the 12th Ṣafar 1240/the 6th Oct. 1824.

Ff. 133; S 8 × 5,25; 6,5 × 3,5; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Vulgar Ind. nast. Cond. good.

686. (ترجمهٔ کوک شستر)

(Tarjuma-i-Kūk-shastar). Ia 233.

A versified paraphrase of the well-known Koka-shastra, on sexual intercourse. Cf. IvASB 1703–1705 where references to other versions are given. The beginning is apparently lost, and although there are bismillas on ff. 1 and 3, these are not real beginnings of original sections. The greater part of the text has an interlinear Hindustani translation. On f. 21 begins a prose work, on the same subject, partly in Persian and partly in Hindustani, apparently consisting chiefly of also extracts from the Koka-shastra. Beg. of the versified treatise:

زنی بدمنـــي خوی اهو بود، شش انکشت کلبرک از وی نهان،

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Beg. of the Hindustani portion :

روزی مهتر سلیمان بر تخت شاهی الخ

Copied in the end of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 31 ; S 11 × 7,5 ; 9 × 5,5 ; ll 8, no jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast., rather immature. Cond. rather bad.

687. ترجمهٔ خلاصهٔ دهرم شاستر

Tarjuma-i-khulāṣa-i-D'harm-shāstar. II 160.

A condensed paraphrase of some Hindu book on customs and rites, similar in contents to the famous laws of Manu (cf. Pr 1029, where a Persian paraphrase of that book is described), with which, however, it apparently is not identical. There is no preface of the translator, and his name, the date of composition, etc., do not appear. The work is divided into several bābs, of which only the beginnings of the II (f. 6), and III (f. 14) are marked :

باب دوم ، در مذاهب هر چهار طایفه بصورت مختلف ؛

باب سیوم ، در ذکر اطوار و اوضاع عورت و اقسام زن و مرد و فرزند ،

Beg. of the work :

این ترجمه خلاصه دهرم شاستر است که مطالعه اش باهل هند از همه بهتر است موجب اکاهی دهرم و رضای ناراین برتر ، راویان اخبار هندوستان چنین روایت الخ

Copied in the end of the xii/xviii c.

Ff. 32 ; S 8,25 × 6 ; 7 × 4,5 ; ll 21, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. and shikasta. Cond. tol. good. Traces of moisture. A few marginal glosses.

688. ترجمهٔ بهاکوت پران

Tarjuma-i-Bhāgawat-purān. III 99.

An abbreviated paraphrase of nine skandhas (out of the original twelve) of the Bhāgavata purāna, apparently the same one as described in EIO 1953, where it is attributed to the authorship of Fayḍī, and is treated as a translation of only the tenth skandha. The name of the translator is not mentioned. Beg.

ای هژده هزار عالم از شوق تو مست ، ... راویان اخبار هندوستان که پوران عالم الله نشان الخ

Dated the 9th Dhī Qa'da of the 21st year of 'Ālam Shāh's reign, or 1193/the 18th Nov. 1779.

* Ff. 1v–106v ; S 8,25 × 5,5 ; 7 × 4 ; ll 20, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Very bad Ind. nast. and shikasta, often without dots. Cond. tol. good. Stray notes and quotations on fly-leaves.

689.

ترجمهٔ بهاگوت پران

Tarjuma-i-Bhāgawat-purān. II 163.

A translation of the Bhāgavata purāna, different from No. 688 here and from EIO 1954. It seems not to be abbreviated, and contains all 12 skandhas. The name of the translator is not mentioned. Beg. of the introduction:

این پوران فیض ترجمان شری مها بهاگوت نام الخ

Beg. of the translation (f. 5v):

آغاز پرتهم اسکند در بیان مفصل ساختن بیاس منیشر الخ

Dated 1927 of the Samwat era, or ca. 1870 AD. The style of the MS. is exactly the same as that of Nos. 678, 683, 690.

Ff. 417; S 14×8,5; 9,25×4,25; ll 15, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Bad double page frontispiece.

690.

ترجمهٔ وشنه پوران

Tarjuma-i-Wishna-pūrān. II 162.

A Persian paraphrase of the Vishnu purāna; the name of the translator and the date of compilation are not given. It is apparently the same version as described in EIO 1956, EB 1318–1319, etc. The translation is supposed to be literal (cf. f. 2). In the present MS. there is an introduction, containing a fihrist of the ḥikāyats, not given in the India Office copy, beg.

حمد ذاتي که ذات و صفاتش از ادراک عقول و اوهام الخ

Beg. of the translation (f. 2v, bottom, marginal column):

پراشر بمیتري آغاز کرد که ای میتري آنچه الخ

Dated (see f. 154) 1927 of the Samwat era, i.e. ca. 1870 AD., in Kashmir. The same appearance as of No. 678, 683, 689.

Ff. 154; S 14×9; 10,25×5; ll 13, and an additional column on the margins; double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Bad vignette.

691.

The same. III 156.

Another copy of the same translation, beg. as in the preceding transcript, No. 690.

Dated the 25th Nov. 1874 (or 1931 of the Samwat era), copied by Kāshī Rām.

Ff. 147; S 9,75×6,75; 7,5×4,25; ll 15, within jadwals. Or. pap. Bad Ind. nast. and shikasta. Cond. good.

692.

ترجمهٔ کرم بیاک

Tarjuma-i-Karm-bibāk. III 99.

A condensed paraphrase of the Karma-vipāka, dealing with retributions of sins and rewards of virtues after rebirth, in the form of a dialogue between Bharat and Bhṛgu Rishi (here بهرک رکهي). The name of the compiler is not mentioned. Beg.

در ترجمه کرم بیاک، چنین اورده اند که روزی بهرت از بهرک رکهي النخ

Dated the 27th Rajab 1188 (the 17th of Shāh 'Ālam's reign), i.e. the 3rd Oct. 1774; an extremely bad copy.

*Ff. 107–122; S 8,25×5,5; 7×3,75; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad careless Ind. shikasta. Cond. tol. good. A few glosses on the margins. Stray notes on the last leaf.

693.

بهکت اوربسي

Bhakt-Urbasī. II 157.

A Persian paraphrase of the Bhākt-Mālā, by Lāl-Jī, composed in 1162/1749 (f. 4v, bottom), by one of the disciples of the former, Lāl-jīw-dās. Cf. G. Grierson, The modern vernacular literature of Hindustan, 1889, p. 87. It is a translation from Hindī, with explanations of difficult passages. The work is subdivided into minor sections, containing different legends, but apparently there is no regular original division. Beg.

دهن دهن شي (سري) لالجيصاحب دهن دبال النخ

Dated the 21st Dhī Ḥijja of the 41st(?) year of Shāh 'Ālam's reign, i.e. 1213/ the 26th May 1799, copied by Rāy-Sing'h son of Kriyārām (?).

Ff. 155; S 9×6; 7,25×4,5; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad Ind. shikasta. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten and repaired. A few marginal glosses. Notes on f. 1 and at the end.

694.

The same. III 165.

Another copy of the same work, more modern, but more clearly written. Before the beginning as in the preceding copy there is a line :

منکاهر جرن پوتهي بهگت آور بسي کرت لالجي داس صاحب جيو،

Dated 1891 of the Samwat era, or 1834 AD.

Ff. 328; S 10,25×6; 7,25×3,75; ll 17, no jadwals. Brown Or. pap. Ind. coarse nast. Cond. good.

APPENDIX.

Works which for various reasons have not been described in their proper places.

1. History.

695. صبح صادق

Ṣubḥ-i-Ṣādiq. III 114.

The first volume of a large work on general history, by Muḥammad Ṣādiq b. Muḥammad Ṣāliḥ al-Iṣfahānī al-Āzādānī, who begun his work in 1041/1631–1632, and finished it in 1048/1638–1639 (cf. f. 2, bottom). For his biography see R 775; another copy of the same first vol. is described in EB 102; extracts from the third vol. are mentioned in R 889; another copy in Bk 471–475; cf. also Elliot, Hist. of India, vol. VI, p. 453. The present copy is incomplete at the end, and out of the eight maṭla's, into which it is originally divided, it contains only five: I, the prophets (f. 4v); II, the Persian kings (f. 142); III, sages (f. 194); IV, the life of Muḥammad (f. 241); V, his immediate successors (f. 319). In this transcript there is a general preface, in Arabic, which is apparently not found in the Bodleian copy. Beg. of this preface:

الحمد لله خالق الارواح فالق الاصباح ... و بعد، فيقول العبد الخ

Beg. of the first vol. (f. 3):

اول نامه نام بادشاهي شايد ... و بعد، چنين كويد سر كشته الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 326; S 12×9; 9,25×5,5; ll 16, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. coarse nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten and repaired.

696. آئين اكبرى

Ā'īn-i-Akbarī. III 181.

The well-known description of India under Akbar, by Abū'l-Faḍl 'Allāmī, see IvASB 127. Beg. as usual:

اى همه در پرده نهان راز تو الخ

Dated the 19th Dhī'l-Qa'da of the 45th year of Shāh 'Ālam, or 1217, i.e. the 13th March 1803.

Ff. 479; S 13,75×9,25; 10,5×6; ll 21, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good. Worm-eaten.

697.

(محاربهٔ جسونت سنگه)

(Muḥāriba-i-Jaswant Sing'h). III 32.

A short extract from some large work on Indian history dealing with the story of Aurangzīb's expeditions against the rebellious Jaswant Sing'h, in the beg. of 1069/1658; cf. Elliot, Hist. of India, VII, pp. 216–237. The title of the original work from which the extract has been taken, is not mentioned. Beg.

ذکر محاربهٔ عساکر اقبال با راجه جسونت سنگه بد سکال الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c. (in the colophon the date is given as 1099/1687-1688, which is impossible).

Ff. 28; S 10 × 6,25; 6,75 × 3,5; ll 16, no jadwals. Or. pap., new margins of Europ. pap. Bad Ind. shikasta. Cond. not good. Traces of moisture. Stray notes on the last folio.

698.

واقعات عالمگیری

Wāqi'āt-i-'Ālamgīrī. III 138.

A history of the first five years of Aurangzīb's reign, the same as IvASB 159. The name of the author is not mentioned here, and it is not otherwise known for certain. Beg. as usual:

ابو المظفر محی الدین محمد اورنگ زیب بهادر الخ

Dated Lucknow, Muharram 1327/Febr. 1909. Transcribed from a copy dated Ramaḍān 1171/May 1758, by Muḥammad 'Ārif Ṣiddīqī.

Ff. 59; S 13 × 8,25; 10 × 5,5: ll 15, no jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good.

699.

(عبرتنامه)

('Ibrat-nāma). III 143.

Memoirs dealing with the events which took place between the death of Aurangzīb and the death of Farrukh-siyar (1118–1131/1707–1719). The work is apparently identical as to its subject with EIO 392, but most probably has undergone some alterations at the hands of the editor. At the beginning there is no preface, only a few lines which probably have been added by the scribe, and the narrative begins with the events of 1118/1707:

چون مرزا محمد بن معتمد خان بن دیانت خان در ضمن روز نامچه و تذکره احوال خود تقریبا مختصری از وقایع عهد سلاطین عظام از روز وفات حضرت عالمگیر تا روز شهادت حضرت فرخ سیر مرقوم ساخته بودند بنده راقم واقعات مذکور را ازان کتاب علیحده مینویسد تا بر جویندگان اخبار سلاطین بلا تلاش و تردد واضح و لایح شود، وقایع سال یکهزار و یکصد و هژده هجری الخ

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Mīrzā Muḥammad b. Mu'tamad Khān b. Diyānat Khān is also the author of a larger work on Indian history, the Ta'rīkh-i-Muḥammadī, completed in 1190/1776, cf. R 895.

Copied in the middle of the xiii/xix c. (apparently by Gurū Hārilāl, who transcribed Nos. 34 and 47, above, as the handwriting is identical).

Ff. 131; S 8,25×5; 6×3,25; ll 12, no jadwals. Or. pap. Bad, stumbling Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten.

700.

(رساله در تاريخ هندوستان)

(Risāla dar ta'rīkh-i-Hindūstān). III 53*a*.

A brief note on the struggle which followed the death of Aurangzīb in 1118/1707. It may be an extract from a larger work on the history of India, but here no reference to it is given. A flowery and bombastic preface contains no indication as to the name of the author. The beginning is illegible.

A bad, almost entirely mutilated copy, dating from the beg. of the xiii/xix c. The upper part of the folios is damaged by moisture and repairs.

Ff. 8; S 9,25×6; 7,5×3,5; ll 19, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. bad.

701.

تيمور نامه

Tīmūr-nāma. III 148.

An incomplete copy of a simplified version of the famous Ẓafar-nāma of Sharafu'd-Dīn 'Alī Yazdī (see above, No. 17). The abbreviator does not mention his own name or the date of compilation. There is no division into chapters, or years; the text is full of misspellings of the proper names, etc. On many pages a line or more is left blank and marked with تصوير كي جگه هى, apparently because there were illustrations in the original copy. The transcript is incomplete at the end. Beg.

بموجب حكم جهانمطاع مسود اوراق جز شرح احوال الخ

The text of the history begins abruptly, without any heading, on f. 2.

Copied probably some ten years ago.

Ff. 176; S 13×8; 9,25×5,25; ll 15, within jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good A few marginal notes. Ugly title-page and vignette.

2. Biography: (a) Poets.

702.

حدايق الشعراء

Ḥadā'iqu'sh-shu'arā'. III 122.

An alphabetical tadhkira of Persian poets and a bulky anthology of poetical extracts, compiled by Mīrzā Amīr Beg

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Banārasī, who used the takhallus Amīr (he does not mention his name in the usual places, but refers to himself in the list of poets, f. 22v). He was an employee of Sa'ādat 'Alī Khān, ruler of Lucknow (1212–1229/1797–1814) and continued in this service till the time of Muḥammad Amjad 'Alī Shāh (1258–1263/1842–1847), who is abundantly eulogised here (f. 2v, etc.). The present work was begun as early as 1211/1796–1797 (f. 4v), at the request of Ẓafaru'd-Daula Fatḥ 'Alī Khān Kaptān (ff. 4v, 22v), and completed (cf. ff. 6v, 853) the 7th Sha'bān 1262/the 31st July 1846. Several princes are eulogised on ff. 3–4v. The author also refers to the poets whom he met at Lucknow: Muḥammad Ḥusayn Qatīl (cf. above, p. 68, 18); Inshā'a'l-lah Khān, with the takhallus Inshā; Muḥammad Ḥayāt Bītāb; Ghulām Muḥammad Fā'iq (cf. above, No. 182); Ghulām Hamadānī Maṣḥafī (cf. Spr 182–183, d. 1243/1827–1828); Muḥammad Fākhir Makīn (cf. above, p. 67, bottom); Mushrif Ṣuḥbatī. On ff. 5–6v he gives a list of his authorities which may be interesting from the bibliographical point of view, although there are a number of obvious errors:

1. Ātashkada, by 'Abdu'l-lah 'Abbāsī (?), with the takhallus Ādhar (well-known; the name of the author is usually given as Luṭf 'Alī Beg, d. ca. 1200/1786).

2. Tadhkira-i-Āṣaf-khānī, by Yamīnu'd-Daula Mirzā Muḥammad Ja'far Āṣaf Khān, with the takhallus Ja'far, a wazīr of Jahāngīr (d. 1021/1612–1613, cf. R 117–119, and IvASB 41).

3. Anfās-i-Masīḥī, by Muḥammad Kāẓim Qumī, with the takhallus Ṣāḥib, or Masīḥu'l-bayān (apparently an Indian poet of the end of xi/xvii c., cf. above, p. 55, No. 2017).

4. Tadhkira-i-Amīr Shāhī, of Mīr 'Alī Shīr Nawā'ī (apparently his famous Majālisu'n-nafā'is, comp. in 896/1491).

5. Bihāristān-i-sukhan, by Muḥammad Salīm Tūnī, with the takhallus Bihār (apparently different from another tadhkira with a similar title, which was completed in 1194/1780, by 'Abdu'l-Ḥayy Khān, but was originally composed by 'Abdu'r-Razzāq, cf. R 1025).

6. Bayāḍu'sh-shu'arā', an album of poetical quotations compiled by Dārā-Shikūh.

7. Another bayāḍ, by Ḥazīn.

8. Tadhkira-i-ta'līfu'lī-ash'ār, by Jānjānān, or Maẓhar, d. 1195/1781, cf. IvASB 875.

9. Tuḥfa-i-Sāmī, by Sām-Mīrzā, the well-known work, see RS 103.

10. Tuḥfatu'l-aḥbāb, by Abū'l-Ḥasan Khān, with the takhallus Āgahī.

11. Tuḥfatu'l-arbāb, by Sirāju'd-Dīn 'Alī Khān Ārzū (the authorship of Ārzū seems rather doubtful; perhaps the title of the work is wrongly given).

12. Tuḥfa-i-Rashīdī, by 'Abdu'r-Rashīd Ḥusaynī al-Madanī, with the takhallus Rashīdī, d. after 1069/1658–1659, the author of the famous Farhang-i-Rashīdī (cf. above, No. 543).

13. Tuḥfa-i-Yūsufī, by Muḥammad Yūsuf, with the takhallus Bīrang, who compiled it for Ibrāhīm 'Ādil Shāh (987–1035/1579–1626).

14. Tadhkiratu'l-aḥibbā', by Muḥammad Maḥmūd, with the takhallus Ḍamīrī (cf. above, p. 69, No. 19).

15. Tasḫīru'l-faṣīḥī, by Faṣīḥu'd-Dīn Anṣārī, with the takhallus Faṣīḥī (d. 1046/1636–1637), cf. IvASB 735.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

16. Tadhkira-i-Naṣīrā'ī, by Muḥammad Naṣīru'd-Dīn, with the takhallus Naṣīr.

17. Tadhkiratu'l-mu'āṣirīn, by Ṣā'ib (d. 1088/1677–1678), apparently an anthology, compiled by him at the request of Shāhjahān.

18. Jawāhiru'l-asrār, by Jalālu'd-Dīn al-Bayhaqī al-Hāshimī, with the takhallus Ādharī, see above, No. 429.

19. Ḥadīqatu'sh-shu'arā', by Mirzā Ḥasan Nawwāb Ẓafaru'd-Daula Ẓafaru'l-lah Khān, a wazīr to prince Dāniyāl, son of Akbar (d. 1013/1604–1605).

20. Khulāṣatu'n-ni'mat, by Mullā Ni'matu'l-lah Kashmīrī, with the takhallus Ni'mat.

21. Tadhkira-i-Dawlat-Shāhī, by Nawwāb Dawlat Khān Qāqshālī, with the takhallus Dawlat, son of Bakht-Shāh Samarqandī (apparently the well-known tadhkira of Dawlat-Shāh, cf. above, No. 49).

22. Rauḍatu'sh-shu'arā', by Sharafu'd-Dīn 'Alā'u'l-Mulk Birlās Jaghatā'ī, with the takhallus Sharaf, the wazīr of Sultān Īqā-Khān (probably Abaqā-Khān, the Mongol, who ruled in 663–680/1265–1282).

23. Rauḍatu'l-aḥbāb, by 'Alī Taqī, with the takhallus Naqī.

24. Rauḍatu'l-arbāb, by Kamālu'd-Dīn Maḥmūd Kirmānī, with the takhallus Khwājū (highly doubtful, perhaps it is his Rauḍatu'l-anwār, IvASB 576, 3).

25. Riyāḍu'sh-su'arā', by 'Alī Qulī 'Abbāsī, with the takhallus Wālih (see above, No. 57).

26. Riyāḍu'l-'āshiqīn, by Badru'd-Dīn Hilālī (doubtful; perhaps this is an anthology called Riyāḍu'l-'ushshāq, by Muḥammad Ṣādiq Kūhgilū'ī, see R 737).

27. Tadhkira-i-'Ālam Khānī, by Nawwāb Khān 'Ālam Khān.

28. 'Arafātu'sh-shu'arā', by Taqiyyu'd-Dīn Muḥammad Ḥusaynī (Auḥadī), with the takhallus Taqī, cf. IvASB 733 and Spr 95.

29. Faṣāḥatu'l-arbāb, by Sa'du'd-Dīn, with the takhallus Sa'd.

30. Ka'ba-i-'irfān, another tadhkira by the same Taqī Auḥadī, see 28.

31. Kalimātu'sh-shu'arā', by Muḥammad Afḍal Sarkhūsh (see IvASB 221).

32. Kalimātu'sh-shu'arā' (? the last word is illegible), by Sayyid Muḥammad, with the takhallus Shu'la, who compiled it at the request of Bābur.

33. Gulzār-i-Fiṭrat, by Mu'izzu'd-Dīn Mūsawī Khān Fiṭrat, cf. IvASB 806.

34. Majālisu'l-'ushshāq, by Mullā 'Abdu'l-Khāliq, with the takhallus Samandar.

35. Majālisu'l-arbāb, by Sayyid Mubārak-'Alī Khān, with the takhallus Mad'hūsh (cf. above, p. 45, No. 1218).

36. Majma'u'l-baḥrayn, by Amānu'l-lah Khān, with the takhallus Amān, Amānī, or Amānu'l-lah (d. 1047/1637–1648).

37. Majma'u'sh-shu'arā', by 'Imādu'd-Daula Ṭāhir Khān Waḥīd (d. ca. 1120/1708–1709).

38. Majma'u'n-nafā'is, by Mullā Muḥammad, with the takhallus Asīrī.

55. Riyāḍu'l-'āshiqīn, by Riyāḍu'd-Dīn, with the takhallus Riyāḍī.

56. Zubdatu'l-ash'ār, by Muḥammad Hāshim, with the takhallus Hāshimī, son of 'Iṣmatu'l-lah Bukhārī.

57. Taḥā'ifu'sh-shu'arā', by Mīrzā Yaḥyā Khān, with the takhallus Yaḥyā (apparently the same as mentioned on p. 62, No. 2514, who died in 1160/1747).

The majority of these works are apparently merely albums of poetical quotations, not real biographical treatises, and their attribution to early authors like Nāṣir-i-Khusraw or Khwājū, etc., is fictitious or conjectural. The most remarkable feature of this list is the absence of mention of many well-known modern tadhkiras. Some titles, given above, excite doubts as to their correctness. One work, mentioned on the margins of f. 5v was omitted in the list above because its title is illegible.

The work is divided into several sections, as follows :

1. An alphabetical list of the names of 2609 poets, with very few biographical details and quotations from their poetry (ff. 8–166v). It is divided into 31 ḥadīqa, each corresponding to one of the letters of the alphabet. The first poet is Ābrū, the last Yūnus (Muḥammad Yūnus Khān Abharī).

2. On the correct forms of the titles and surnames of kings and poets, in 30 shajaras (ff. 166v–183), in alphabetical order. The heading is :

سي شجرة در صحت القاب و اقوام بادشاهان و شاعران'

3. On the correct forms of geographical names (ff. 183–217), divided into 31 dauḥa, each corresponding to a letter of the alphabet. The heading appears as :

سي و يک دوحه در صحت اسمای بلاد و مواضع و قصبات و قراء و دهات هفت اقليم'

4. On names of kings, in two thamara, the first on ante-Islamic kings of Persia, the second on Muḥammadan dynasties, chronologically arranged (ff. 217–229v). The heading :

دو ثمره در اسمای پادشاهان'

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

5. On seven dialects of Persian (ff. 229v–230), in seven nakhlas: Harawī, Sagzī, Zāwulī, Sughdī, Darī, Pahlawī, Fārsī, containing nothing beyond the usual legendary definitions. The heading: هفت نخله در بیان هفت زبان فارسي ،

6. The largest portion of the volume, ff. 230v–853, is occupied by a huge anthology, from a great number of poets. The quotations are arranged in the same style as in the dīwāns, according to the alphabetical order of the final letters of the rhyming syllable. The names of the authors are added against each verse, on the margins. The anthology is divided into 30 natījas, each corresponding to one letter of the alphabet. In the beginning of every natīja an index of rhymes is given.

Beg. of the preface of the work:

الحمد لله الذي نور قلوبنا باشراق شارق العلوم الخ

An incomplete copy of the same work, in the Imperial Library at Calcutta, is described at the end of the Arabic catalogue of the Būhār collection, pp. 529–530.

At the end of the present volume, ff. 853v–859, there is added, apparently written by the same author, the text with explanations of the well-known ornate qaṣīda by Qiwāmī (VI/XIIc.), translated by E. G. Browne, in the second volume of his Lit. Hist. of Persia, pp. 47–76. The heading:

قصیده در مدح سلطان قزل ارسلان تصنیف ملا قوام الدین صمکاني المشتهر ملا قوامي مطرزی (نطنزی ؟) الخ

Beg. as usual:

ای فلک را هوای قدر تو یار ، وی ملک را ثنای صدر تو کار ،

The copy is apparently an autograph, with many emendations, additions, etc., in the text and on the margins. Most probably the date, mentioned above, the 7th Sha'bān 1262/ the 31st July 1846, is also the date of MS. itself. A fihrist, on nine folios, is added at the beginning. Further there is a vocabulary of rarer words, Persian and Arabic, continued on the margins of ff. 1v–5.

II 194.

Biographies, with some details of their teachings, of several Sufic shaykhs who lived in Khorasan in the IX and X/XV and XVI centuries, together with a long account of ancient prophets, Muḥammad, etc. The title as given above, appears on the fly-leaf; the author's name is given there also as Mu'īnu'd-Dīn Minbarī (?). In the text apparently neither the title nor the name of the author are mentioned. The work must have been composed towards the end of the X/XVIc., because the author calls himself a pupil of Muḥammad Balkhī, a local saint, who died the 10th Rab. I 979/the 2nd Aug. 1571 (cf. f. 141v).

In this volume the first portion (f. 1v–45) deals with the ancient prophets, and begins:

الحمد لله ... اما بعد، علمای احادیث و خبر از مستحضران و مستخبران الخ

There are no direct indications whether it does or does not form a part of the main work; no information whatever is given as to the title, the name of the author, etc.

The second part (f. 45v) begins:

حمد بیغایت و شکر بی نهایت مر آن پادشاهی را که الخ

It opens with a long laudatory narrative concerning Muḥammad, the first khalifs, early Sufis, etc. Gradually the author comes to the Persian mediaeval Sufic shaykhs, but unfortunately exactly this most interesting section is very summary. The principal shaykhs who are referred to here, are:

Raḍiyyu'd-Dīn 'Alī Lālā, d. 642/1244–1245 (f. 109).

Aḥmad Jūrfānī, d. 669/1270–1271 (f. 109).

Nūru'd-Dīn 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān Isfarā'inī Kisraqī (vii/xiii c.) (f. 110).

Burhānu'd-Dīn Sāgharchī (vii/xiii c.) (f. 110v).

Ruknu'd-Dīn 'Alā'u'd-Dawla Samnānī, d. the 22nd Rajab 736/ the 6th March 1336 (f. 114v).

Maḥmūd Mazdaqānī (f. 115).

Sayyid 'Alī b. Shihābi'd-Dīn Hamadānī, d. at the end of 786 or beg. of 787/1385 (f. 115v).

Isḥāq b. 'Alīshāh Bayyān (?) Khuttalānī (executed at Balkh in 826/1423) (f. 118v).

Muḥammad Nūrbakhsh Sulṭān Kashmīrī, d. 869/1464–1465 (f. 119v).

'Abdu'l-lah b. 'Abdi'l-Ḥayy b. 'Alī Shustarī Barzishābādī (Ṭūsī), of the ix/xv c. (f. 120).

Nūru'd-Dīn 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān Baghdādī Kisraqī Isfarā'inī (also the same time) (f. 120v).

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

Rashīdu'd-Dīn Muḥammad b. Shaykh-i-'ulamā al-Isfarā'inī al-Bīdāwāzī (the author of the Miṣbāḥ, cf. IvASB 602, comp. in 852/1448–1449; also of a Sharḥ-i-Gulshan-i-rāz, Kitāb-i-Dawā'ir, etc.), d. in the end of the ix/xv c. (f. 123v).

Shāh 'Alī b. Muḥammad Isfarā'inī Bīdāwāzī (a pupil of the preceding one) (f. 124v).

Muḥammad b. Jalāli'd-Dīn Yūsuf al-Manṣūrānī al-Khabūshānī, d. at Khwārizm in 937/1530–1531 (f. 127).

Muḥammad az-Zāhid al-Jāmī al-Balkhī b. Abī Bakr b. Muḥammad b. Abī Sa'īd b. Khalīli'l-lah al-Jāmī, born in 899/1493–1494, d. the 10th Rab. I 979/the 2nd Aug. 1571 (f. 132v). His life in Balkh and Badakhshān, his spiritual progress and teachings, are narrated in detail, up to his death (f. 141v, where several chronograms are given). His poetry is discussed, with many specimens (ff. 142–152v and 156–164v, with the takhallus Muḥammad); the remaining part is occupied with different Sufic topics.

Many Sufic works are quoted or referred to, especially the Faṣlu'l-khiṭāb of Muḥammad Pārsā (cf. IvASB 1218); Anīsu'l-'āshiqīn of Mīr Sayyid 'Abdu'l-lah Barzishābādī; Sharḥ-i-Shamā'ilu'l-ḥadīqa; Asrāru'n-nuqṭa (f. 122), by Sayyid 'Alī Hamadānī; a commentary on it, by the same 'Abdu'l-lah Barzishābādī, also his Mu'nisu'l-'ushshāq, and many others.

All these shaykhs had intimate connections with the Naqshbandīs of Turkistan, and many of them flourished in the provinces now forming the north-western corner of Afghanistan.

705. رساله در فضیلت علم و علما

Risāla dar faḍīlat-i-'ilm wa 'ulamā. I 93.

A short treatise, by Muḥammad Muqīm al-Ḥusaynī al-Astrābādī (cf. f. 19), dealing with the spiritual advantages of (theological) learning; eulogies of some famous Shi'ite divines, and especially a eulogical biography of Muḥammad Bāqir Dāmād, who died ca. 1046/1636–1637. The work has most probably been compiled after 1052/1642, as Shāh Ṣafī (f. 21v) is referred to as already dead. Beg. (f. 14):

الحمد لله ... اما بعد، بدان ایدک الله تعالی که علم الخ

At the beg. (ff. 8–14), there is a fragment of Sufic and psychological contents, without a proper title or the name of the author.

At the end, on ff. 22–23, there is a short letter of Sufic contents, ascribed to Afḍal Kāshī (cf. above, No. 419), beg.

A collection of anecdotes, by Ways Beg Fiṭrat (f. 2), who compiled it in 1039/1629–1630 (cf. f. 2, where a chronogram is given as 'کتاب دلگشای بزم آرا'). Its chief object is probably to provide facetious reading, but occasionally there are also didactic stories. It is divided into ten faṣls:

۱ (f. 2 bis) در بیان ادب و مروت و معدلت پادشاهان و امیران،
۲ (f. 30) در بیان بعضی از حکایات فرج بعد از شدت،
۳ (f. 62) در بیان حکایات متفرقه که از هر کتاب انتخاب نموده و از هر کس شنیده الخ

708. مظهر الاعجاز

Maẓharu'l-i'jāz. III 129.

An interesting collection of anecdotes with a didactic and especially religious tendency, in a strongly Shi'ite spirit. They are taken from real life in Persia and India, in the second half of the XI/XVIIc. The author, Mahdī, with the takhalluṣ Wāṣif, narrates many events from his own experience, or from what he heard from others, in which the Divine Will, or help through intercession of the Imams, were manifested. The value of these anecdotes consists in the circumstantial descriptions of life in Persia (Balkh, Iṣfahān, etc.), or in India (chiefly Bījāpūr), about the years 1090–1097/1679–1686, to which the reminiscences of the author chiefly refer. The style is rather inflated, with many poetical passages, ghazals and mathnawīs in praise of the Imams.

As stated on f. 7v, the book is divided into a fātiḥa, two maẓhars, and a khātima, but in fact only the fātiḥa is properly marked (f. 8). The other sections have no special headings, and it is not clear whether the work is complete in this copy, or not. Beg.

'Ajā'ib wa ġharā'ib. Ia 180.

A large collection of models of descriptive ornate prose, or specimens of bombastic style extracted from different histories. The author does not mention his own name in the preface; in the colophon he is called Siyālkūtī Mal; he wrote in 1171/1757–1758 (f. 3). The title is given, as above, in the colophon (cf. R 1025, XIX). This work has also another title, Ṣifāt-i-kā'ināt. See R 1006, 1089, etc. It is divided into a great number of ṣifats, each dealing with a special subject and consisting of extracts from various works in ornate prose; a fihrist is given on ff. 4–8v. Gulshan-i-ḥusn. III 94.

Allegorical love stories, in an exceptionally tedious bombastic style, being a paraphrase of a Hindi story composed by Kabīr (?) Sing'h, a Rajput, of Benares. The translator does apparently not mention his own name, but states (f. 20) that he has finished the work in 1181/1767–1768. There is a very lengthy preface, and the story itself begins on f. 20v. Beg. of the preface:

718.

صحت الفاظ

Ṣiḥḥat-i-alfāẓ. II 368.

A manual of Persian grammar, stylistics, epistolography, and numerous additional matters, such as brief sketches of geography, history, eras, prominent poets, names of animals, etc., etc. The author, Faḍl-Imām b. Muḥammad Arshad Khayrābādī, wrote it to give little-educated people a chance to acquire learning in a short time. The work has apparently been composed about 1223/1808–1809, as this year is several times referred to (ff. 36v, 115),

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

in terms which imply its being still current at the time of composition. The work has apparently been divided into a number of bābs, but here the headings of only the fourth (f. 65v) and fifth (f. 72) are given. Much space has been reserved, apparently to be filled up in red ink, but remains blank. Ff. 159v-160 are also left blank. Beg.

سپاس بیقیاس مبدعي را جلت قدرته که آدمي را بدانش الخ

Dated June 1835, at Shāhjahānpūr.

Ff. 182; S 8,5×5,75; 6,25×4,75; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good. Worm-eaten and repaired.

719.

وجیز الانشاء

Wajīzu'l-inshā'.

III 134.

A collection of epistolary models, by Lachhī-rām (cf. f. 2). The book had not been finally arranged at the time of his death, in 1233/1817–1818; this has been done by one of his disciples, Dyānd'hān (? دیاندهان) (f. 58v), who completed it shortly afterwards (he gives a chronogram for 1233/1817–1818, یافت از لطف حق وجیز اتمام). It consists of specimens of private epistles, written in highly bombastic style. Beg.

دست یابی یکه تازان معرکه سخن داني الخ

Dated the 29th Shawwal of the 23rd year of Muḥammad Akbar's reign or 1245, i.e. the 23rd April 1830, copied by Rām Narāyan.

Ff. 59; S 10,75×6,5; 8×4,5; ll 15, within double jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. bad. Worm-eaten and repaired. Stray notes and quotations on fly-leaves at the beginning and end.

720.

مرصعکار

Muraṣṣa'-kār.

III 168.

A small collection of epistolary forms, composed in 1234/1818–1819 (cf. f. 8, where a chronogram is given as گل گلزار سخنوری), by Qāsim-'Alī b. Ṭāli'mand (f. 7v, top). The title as above appears on f. 7. The work is divided into two bābs: the first (f. 8) deals with letters addressed to the representatives of different professions. The second (f. 37v) gives reports of accidents, accounts of journeys, and miscellaneous minor communications. Beg.

انشای رنگارنگ و املای هوش و فرهنگ الخ

Copied in 1905 of the Samwat era, or approximately 1848 AD.

Ff. 88; S 8×5; 5,5×3,25; ll 9, within double jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Bad vignette.

721.

(مجموعهٔ در انشا)

(Majmūʻa dar inshā). III 155.

Two works on epistolography, both of modern origin:

1. (ff. 1v–60v). Muraṣṣaʻ-kār. The same work as described above, No. 720, slightly incomplete at the end. Beginning as in the former copy.

2. (ff. 61v–174v). (Inshā-i-Siyālkūtī). A collection of epistolary forms, containing no references to any particular person or any date, by Andarphān (اندر پهان), surnamed Siyālkūtī. The exact title of the work and the date of its completion are not given. Beg. abruptly:

اکثر اوقات یاران معني رس سخن آشنا الخ

3. (ff. 174v–201v). Epistolary specimens, apparently extracted from different works, the titles of which are not given. Several folios have been left partly or entirely blank.

Copied towards the end of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 201; S 9×6; 6,75×3,25; ll 11, no jadwals. Brownish Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Marginal notes and glosses.

722.

انشای منظومه

Inshā-i-manẓūma. III 166.

A collection of versified epistolary forms, composed in 1247/1831–1832 (cf. ff. 91–91v, where several chronograms are given for this date, the first being منظومهٔ بدر). The name of the compiler is not explicitly mentioned; perhaps it cannot be found simply because the copy is illegible in many places. The title as above is given on f. 3v, bottom. Beg.

بنام دبیری جهان بیمثال ، که شد دفتر دهر زو ... الخ

Copied towards the end of the xiii/xix c., with sticky ink, so that the whole of the copy has become illegible due to folios having stuck together.

Ff. 99; S 8,5×6,75; 6,5×4,75; ll 10, no jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. hopelessly bad. Occasional additions on the margins.

723.

(مجموعهٔ منشئات)

(Majmūʻa-i-munshaʼāt). II 308.

Two short works in ornate prose and a collection of poems:

1. (ff. 1v–13) Bihār-i-ʻaẓīm. Another copy of the same treatise as No. 166,1. Beg. as in that transcript.

2. (ff. 13v–21v). Bihār-i-aʻẓam. Another copy of the same work as the one described in No. 166, 2. Beg. as in that transcript.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

3. (ff. 25–31v). Ash'ār-i-Shams. A short collection of ghazals by one Shams, who may be identical with the author of the Bihār-i-a'ẓam. The poems are in Persian and Hindustani, not arranged in the usual alphabetical sequence. Beg.

محمد رونق آئینهٔ دل ، جمال حق ز رویش کشت حاصل ،

Many alterations, by the same hand. The copy may be an autograph.

Transcribed (the first two items, see f. 21v) in 1269/1852–1853.

Ff. 31 (ff. 22–24 are blank); S 7,5×6; 5,5×3,25; ll 13, no jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good.

724.

Bihār-i-ma'nī.

بهار معني

III 160.

A collection of epistolary models, in highly bombastic ornate prose, by Andarjīt D'hīr (اندر جیت دهیر, f. 4v), of Makudr (مکودر ?),[1] who composed it in Lucknow (f. 5). There are apparently no dates or references to historical persons. The letters are almost all private, there are no documents. Judging from the style, the end of the XII/XVIIIc. may be suggested as the period to which the work belongs. Beg.

جوهر تیغ زبانهای نغمه پردازان انجمن صورت الخ

Transcribed by Bahā'u'd-Dīn, in 1900 of the Samwat era, or approximately 1843 AD.

Ff. 133; S 5,75×4; 4,75×2,75; ll 9, within jadwals. Or. brownish pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good.

726.

Iskandar-nāma. اسكندر نامه III 172.

The second part of the famous poem of Niẓāmī, see above, No. 201. Beg. as usual. Slightly incomplete at the end.

Copied in the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 88; S 7 × 4; 5,75 × 2,75; ll 16, within jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Traces of moisture.

727.

Muntakhabu'sh-shurūḥ-i-Sikandar-nāma. منتخب الشروح سكندر نامه III 106.

A modern commentary on Niẓāmī's Sikandar-nāma (cf. above, No. 200), compiled by Badr-'Alī 'Aẓīmābādī and Mīr Ḥusayn 'Alī Jaunpūrī, apparently in the beg. of the last century. The work has been lithographed in Calcutta in 1812 (and reprinted several times since). It explains every verse: there is no preface and the work begins:

الحمد لله ... خدايا جهان پادشائي تراست ... لفظ خداى الخ

Transcribed apparently from a lithographed copy, and dated the 25th Ṣafar 1259/the 27th March 1843.

Ff. 263; S 11 × 7,25; 8,75 × 4,5; ll 16, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A few marginal notes.

728.

Miftāḥu'l-ma'ānī. مفتاح المعاني I 969.

A commentary on the Mathnawī of Jalālu'd-Dīn Rūmī, comp. in the middle of the XI/XVIIc., by 'Abdu'l-Fattāḥ al-Ḥusaynī al-'Askarī, see IvASB 508. The first daftar begins on f. 2v; the second on f. 55; the third on f. 91; the fourth on f. 126; the fifth on f. 163; the sixth on f. 209. Beg. as usual:

743. (اشعار مظهر علي)

(Ash'ār-i-Maẓhar-'Alī). III 100.

Poems of Maẓhar 'Alī 'Alā'ī Bihārī, a disciple of 'Alā'u'd-Dīn Chishtī Sandīlī (cf. ff. 39, 57). There are no dates or references to historical personages. The name of the author is given only in the colophons; his takhalluṣ does not appear in the text. The present copy contains:

1. (ff. 1–49v). (Mathnawī). A small imitation of Rūmī's famous poem, consisting of short dāstāns and ḥikāyats, in Sufic strain, beg.

ای علاوالدین شیرین داستان، باز گو زان بینشان با من نشان،

2. (ff. 50–54v). Tarjī'band, also in Sufic strain, beg.

ای دیده به بین که حضرت یار، بر داشت نقاب را ز رخسار،

3. (ff. 54v–60v). A few short mathnawīs, rubā'īs, and qaṣīdas. At the end there is (ff. 61–62) a letter from Ḥakīm Ni'matu'l-lah to the author, and the latter's reply to it.

Dated (cf. ff. 49v, 54v) Shawwāl and Dhī'l-Qa'da 1219/Jan.-Febr. 1805; copied by Bakhshish 'Alī.

Ff. 62; S 8 × 4,5; 6,5 × 3; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. A few marginal additions and emendations.

744.

(مجموعه)

(Majmū'a). III 121.

A collection of commentaries by Muḥammad Sa'd, who flourished towards the end of the XI/XVIIc., on several famous poetical compositions; there are also some other works.

1. (ff. 1v–37). Sharḥ-i-Yūsuf-Zulaykhā. A brief commentary on Jāmī's famous poem dealing with the story of Joseph, cf. IvASB 612, 21. The author calls himself simply Sa'd (f. 1v), without any surnames. Beg.

الحمد لله ... اما بعده فقير سعد ملتمس سخن سنجان النخ

2. (ff. 40v–157). Basātīnu'l-lughat. Another copy of the same farhang to the Mukātabāt of Abū'l-Faḍl, as described in No. 712. The date of composition is here given as 1080/1669–1670 (cf. f. 157 where the chronogram appears in the form of فرهنكيست نادر written فرهنك كيست نادر). Beg. as in No. 712.

3. (ff. 160v–255v). Sharḥ-i-Dīwān-i-Ḥāfiẓ. A commentary on the dīwān of Ḥāfiẓ, cf. above, No. 229, by Muḥammad Sa'd, who composed it in 1100/1688–1689 (cf. f. 255v, where a chronogram is given as بيان غزل). Beg.

بعد زا ادای ثناء حضرت دادار بی همال ... اما بعد، محمد سعد مشهود ضمایر سنجان النخ

4. (ff. 261v–286). Farhang-i-Dīwān-i-Badr-i-Chāchī (cf. above, No. 226), by the same Muḥammad Sa'd. Beg.

حمد بیحد و مدح بیعد صانعي را كه غرايب اشعار را ... بعد هذا مسود اين اجزا محمد سعد كويد النخ

5. (ff. 292v–386). Gulistān. Another copy, see above, Nos. 212, 213, 730–732. Beg. as usual.

6. (ff. 387v–397). Farhang-i-Gulistān. A brief farhang to the Gulistān, without the author's name. It is apparently the same as the one described in IvASB 932, 2. Beg.

رضا خوشنودي، جزا پاداش، استسقا طلب نوشيدن النخ

The first four items have been copied by Faydu'l-lah of Chachra (چچرہ), who wrote in 1174/1760–1761 (cf. f. 157); the second part was written by Muḥammad 'Āshiq b. Dīdār Muḥammad, of Raṭhī; on f. 386 he gives the date as the 16th Rab. II 1199/the 26th Febr. 1785.

Ff. 397; S 8,75×6; 7×3; ll 15, no jadwals (on some folios the lines are written diagonally). Or. pap. Ind. nast. and shikasta. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. Stray notes on the margins and fly-leaves. Several folios are left blank between each item.

(Majmū'a-i-ash'ār). III 152.

Extracts from different poets, in Persian and Hindustani.

1. (ff. 31v–49v). Several poems of Niẓām, mostly of religious contents, with Shi'ite tendencies. There were many poets who used this takhalluṣ; the present extracts contain no chronograms or references to historical persons. There are: a tarjī'band in praise of 'Alī; a short mathnawī of religious contents, and several qaṣīdas and other poems. Beg. of the first poem:

ای تو بر صدر خلافت مصطفی جانشین، الخ

2. (f. 50). A short extract from the Nawṭarz-i-muraṣṣa', by Mīr 'Aṭā Ḥusayn Khān (end of the XII/XVIIIc.).

3. (ff. 50v–69). Scrappy poetical quotations, in Hindustani, from different authors, apparently intended to illustrate some rules of poetics.

4. (ff. 69v–76). Muntakhab-i-dīwān-i-Maẓhar. A number of ghazals by Maẓhar, who is probably different from the one referred to in IvASB 702. The poems are not arranged alphabetically and there are apparently no references to any historical persons. Beg.

بپای رفتن باران از این جهان رفتم، برنگ سایه به تحریک دیگران رفتم

One of the entries (f. 67) is dated 1193/1779. Other parts date probably from the same time.

*Ff. 31v–76; S 8×6; 7×3,5; ll 23, irregular; no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Many marginal additions and notes.

Pashtu poetry.

746.

دیوان رحمان

Dīwān-i-Raḥmān. I 392.

One of the numerous versions of the dīwān of 'Abdu'r-Raḥmān, a Mahmand of the Ghoriya Khel, with the takhalluṣ Raḥmān, who died in 1123/1711–1712. See Bl 1076–1077. There are in the beginning several ghazals in praise of God, the Prophet, etc. All others are Sufico-lyric poems, without any dates, dedications, etc. They are arranged in the usual alphabetical order. Beg.

گورهٔ هـــس کردگار دی رب ځما، چه صاحب د کل اختیار دی رب ځما

Copied by Muḥammad 'Ālim Wilāyatī, in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

7. Theology.

747.

مطلع الانوار

Maṭla'u'l-anwār. I 950.

The well-known history of Muḥammad and his early successors, entirely based on tradition, also dealing with the legends about the foundation of the Ka'ba, and with eschatology, etc. The author, 'Afīf b. Nūr Kāshānī, wrote in the X/XVIc. See IvASB 62, where references to other catalogues are given. The work is divided into 21 faṣls. Beg. as usual:

الحمد لله ... ضعيف ترين بندكان حضرت رباني الخ

Dated the 19th Dhī'l-Ḥijja 1186/the 13th March 1773; copied by Ḥāmid b. 'Abdi'l-Majīd.

Ff. 171; S 8,25×5,5; 6,25×3,25; ll 13, no jadwals. Or. brown pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not good. Worm-eaten. Notes on the margins, and on the fly-leaves at the beginning and end.

748.

عجائب القصص

'Ajā'ibu'l-qiṣaṣ. III 97.

A collection of legends concerning the prophets, from Adam to Muḥammad. The author calls himself (f. 2v) 'Abdu'l-Wāḥid b. Muḥammad al-Muftī, but does not mention the date of composition. The work cannot have been compiled earlier than the X/XVIc., as in the list of authorities (ff. 2v–3) there occur many works of the IX/XVc., and the latest of them seems to be the Mawāhib-i-'Aliyya of Kāshifī (cf. IvASB 959), which was completed in 899/1493–1494. See EIO 597, where the headings of the 20 bābs, into which it is divided, are given. Beg.

الحمد لله الذي بعث النبيين مبشرين و منذرين الخ

Dated the 18th Rab. II 1197 (the 24th year of Shāh 'Ālam's reign), i.e. the 23rd March 1783.

Ff. 366; S 8,5×5,75; 7×4; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Slightly worm-eaten.

749.

مناقب مرتضوی

Manāqib-i-Murtaḍawī. III 96.

The well-known biography of 'Alī b. Abī Ṭālib, based on the familiar legends, by Muḥammad Ṣāliḥ al-Ḥasanī (or Ḥusaynī) at-Tarmidhī, with the takhalluṣ Kashfī, who d. in 1061/1651 (f. 1v), see above, No. 375. The present copy is slightly incomplete at the beg. and end; it opens with f. 2, l. 7 of No. 375, and ends apparently on f. 413 of that copy.

Copied in the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 310; S 9,75 × 6; 7,5 × 3,5; ll 17, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Slightly worm-eaten. Towards the end of the volume the left upper corners of the folios are torn away.

750. شرح كافي

Sharḥ-i-Kāfī. III 95.

A Persian paraphrase of and commentary on the famous Shi'ite theological work, Al-Kāfī fī 'ilmi'd-dīn, by Muḥammad b. Ya'qūb b. Isḥāq al-Kulaynī (or Kalīnī), who d. in 328/939 (cf. Brock. I, 187). The present copy contains only a portion of the section on faith, كتاب الايمان و الكفر, beg. with the end of the 91st bāb. The commentator gives his name in the colophon as Khalīl b. al-Ghāzī al-Qazwīnī (wrote ca. 1070/1659). The date of completion of the work is given as the 1st Jum. II 1068/the 6th March 1658. For another portion of the same work see Ahlwardt, 1858. Beg. abruptly:

... پس استاذ بر سر ما ساعتي تا كوش كند الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 252; S 9,25 × 7; 7 × 4,5; ll 20, no jadwals. Or. grey pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. Slightly worm-eaten.

751. ترجمهٔ مكارم الاخلاق

Tarjuma-i-Makārimu'l-akhlāq. III 74.

A Persian translation of the Arabic treatise on the style of life suitable for a true Shi'ite, as based on the example of the Prophet and the Imams. In the beginning of the translation the author of the original is called Abū Naṣr Ḥasan b. Abī 'Alī Ṭabarsī, (f. 3), but in the preface of the translator (f. 2) his name is given as Raḍiyyu'd-Dīn Abū Naṣr b. Abī 'Alī Faḍl Ṭabarsī. It cannot be determined whether these two are identical. For Raḍiyyu'd-Dīn Ṭabarsī, the well-known Shi'ite divine, d. 548/1153, see Brockelmann, I, 405. This work is referred to in the Kashfu'l-ḥujub (p. 548, No. 3086); the author is there also identified with Raḍiyyu'd-Dīn Ṭabarsī, on the authority of Majlisī. The Persian paraphrase has been written for Mīr 'Alī Shīr b. Sayyid 'Abdi'l-lah b. Mīr 'Abdi'l-Karīm al-Māzandarānī (f. 2), and was completed the 8th Sha'bān 1061/the 27th July 1651 (cf. ff. 351v, 352, where a chronogram is given as بر كرفتم چو سرز جيب فكر' شد عيان از مكارم اخلاق). The translator is ʻAlī b. Ṭayfūr al-Bisṭāmī (cf. above, No. 442 and IvASB 1108, 1115). Beg. of the preface:

ای نام تو عنوان کتاب اخلاق، ... اما بعد، چنین گوید بندهٔ خاکسار و ذرهٔ بیمقدار الخ

Beg. of the translation (f. 2v):

سپاس بیقیاس مر معبودیرا که یکتاست در ذات الخ

At the end there are some notes of religious contents, dealing with some ḥadīths.

Dated the 17th Safar 1076/the 29th Aug. 1665.

Ff. 352; S 9 × 5,25; 6,5 × 3; ll 22, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. tol. good. Worm-eaten, traces of moisture. Marginal notes and additions.

752.

(رسائل علي حزين)

(Rasā'il-i-ʻAlī Ḥazīn). I 93.

Several short treatises of religious contents, by Muḥammad ʻAlī Ḥazīn (see above, Nos. 55, 298, 299), in Persian and in Arabic:

1. (ff. 150v–161). Taḥqīq-i-maʻād-i-rauḥānī, on the theological and mystical meaning of the doctrine of resurrection, based on appropriate ḥadīths, etc., cf. Bk 407 (p. 233). Beg.

وله الحمد في الآخرة ... و بعد، در اشارت بلذات و الم الخ

2. (ff. 161–167). Jawāb-i-su'ālāt-i-sā'il, apparently by the same Ḥazīn, although the name of the author is not explicitly given. It is a series of replies to different questions concerning the application of the rules of the Shiʻite fiqh to local conditions of life in India. Beg.

سوال، چه میفرمایند علمای فرقه محقه امامیه الخ

3. (ff. 357–359). Shajaratu't-Ṭūr fī sharḥ āyati'n-Nūr. A commentary, in Arabic, on the Coranic verse XXIV, 35, by the same Ḥazīn, at Mashhad, in 1140/1727–1728 (cf. f. 359). Beg.

نحمدک یا نور النور و نور افوق کل نور الخ

4. (f. 359v). Al-lamaʻat mir'āti'l-lah fī sharḥ āyat Shahada'l-lah. A brief note by the same Ḥazīn on the meaning of the verse III, 16, of the Coran, also in Arabic, beg.

الحمد لله اللهم الحمد و الشكر لواهب الشكر الخ

It was composed at Ardabīl, prior to starting on his journey to Khorasān, in 1136/1723–1724.

Digitization by Arya Samaj Charitable Foundation, Chennai

5. (ff. 360–363v). Sharḥ-i-ba'ḍ-i-āyāt. A short treatise explaining the meaning of the Coranic verse V, 8, as well as some others, in brief, apparently by the same Ḥazīn, beg.

الحمد لله و سلام علي عباده الذين اصطفى الخ

6. (ff. 364–364v). Several short letters (ruq'as).

Copied in the end of the xii/xviii c.

* Ff. 150–167 and 357–364v; for measurements, etc., see No. 416.

753.

Sirāju'l-qulūb.

سراج القلوب

I 964.

One of the numerous versions of the questions concerning different points connected with the story of creation, the legendary ages, eschatology, etc. Here the author of the replies is 'Alī, the Imām, and the contents are arranged in 44 bābs. The name of the real compiler is not given. Cf. IvASB 1008–1012 and 1770 where references to other catalogues are given. Beg. abruptly:

از امير المومنين علي عليه السلام و ديكر اصحاب سوال كردند ايشان از حضرت رسول صلعم شنيده بودند جواب دادند و اين كتاب را سراج القلوب نام نهاده شد الخ

Copied in the beg. of the xiii/xix c.

* Ff. 155–217; S 11 × 6,25; 8 × 3,75; ll 15, no jadwals. Or. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. good. A few marginal notes.

مکتوبات احمد منیری

Maktūbāt-i-Aḥmad Munyarī. III 105.

The famous collection of Sufic epistles of Sharafu'd-Dīn Aḥmad b. Yaḥyā Munyarī (d. 782/1380–1381). This is the so-called first collection, compiled by a disciple of the saint, Zayn Badr 'Arabī, in 747/1346–1347. See EIO 1843, where the headings of all the letters are given. Cf. IvASB 1205–1208, and above, No. 425. Originally the collection contained 100 letters, but the present copy is incomplete at the end and breaks off with the 79th epistle. Beg. as usual:

سپاس بی پایان و ستایش فراوان مر حضرت پاک خداوندیرا الخ

Copied in the xiii/xix c.

Ff. 278; S 8,75×5,75; 6×2,75; ll 16, no jadwals. Europ. pap. Ind. nast. Cond. not quite good. Worm-eaten. Traces of moisture. Marginal glosses and emendations.
